SMALL STARTING VALENTINO TESTS

Edward Small launches an extensive testing program on Aug. 17 in his search for an actor for the title role in his forthcoming "The Life of Rudolf Valentino." Within the two years that have elapsed since Small announced that he would do the screen Valentino biography, he has received communications from no less than 50,000 men who feel that they are in some way endowed to play the role of the Great Lover.

Despite the large number, Small has ordered that every candidate selected for a test be given every encouragement and every advantage of coaching, direction, make-up, and photography.

AMONG THE CASUALTIES OF WAR—1946

January 4: Four Negro veterans killed in Birmingham, Ala.
February 5: Two Negro veterans killed in Freeport, L. I.
February 13: Negro veteran's eyes gouged out by Aiken, South Carolina policeman.
February 25: Two Negroes, one a veteran, killed in Columbia, Tennessee jail.
July 17: Macio Snipes, veteran, only Negro to vote in his district, murdered in Taylor County, Georgia.
July 22: Leon McTatie whipped to death near Lexington, Miss.
July 24: Four Negroes—two men and two women — lynched by mob in Walton County, Georgia.

STOP THIS SLAUGHTER!

A. Wire President Harry Truman urging defense of the Constitution and fulfillment of our Atlantic Charter obligations. Ask him, by a personal plea to the nation, to reassure the world that America is determined to preserve her democracy.

B. Wire Attorney General Tom Clark, Washington, D. C., demanding protection for Negro citizens and restoration of law. Commend him for his seven-state investigation of the KKK.

C. Wire Senator Sheridan Downey, Senate Office Bldg., Washington, D. C., urging him to move for the immediate creation of a United States Senate Committee to investigate denial of civil liberties and police protection to the Negro people.

D. Wire all Washington representatives urging passage by Congress of a Federal Anti-Lynch Law which has been pending for the last fifteen years.

E. Unite with the Hollywood Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions and all other progressive organizations, to undertake a campaign of education and protest.

IT'S OUR PROBLEM

This reign of terror against the Negro people represents a breakdown of the Constitutional process and a serious breach of our pledges to the United Nations. The peoples of the world—three-quarters of whom are colored—will form conclusive opinions based upon the rigor with which we act against this outbreak of racism and mob rule.

Each violation of human and civil rights—including the simple right to live—invites a grosser violation. No man is truly free so long as his neighbor lives in fear. No man is innocent of crime who does not act against it.

KFAC GIVEN OKAY TO OPERATE ON 5000 WATTS

KFAC has received license and final approval from Federal Communications Commission to operate with 5,000 watts on 1330 kilocycles. Cal Smith, manager, reports station probably will be utilizing new boost by mid-September and no later than end of September. New RCA transmitter is expected to be delivered this month.

FCC, after some re-deliberation, granted station use of 5,000 watts without reservation, reversing its previous stand that imposed some conditions and limitations. Station objected and has now been okayed, following receipt of construction permit few weeks ago, to switch on its own conditions as filed.

Commish wanted station's antenna controlled in direction of downtown Los Angeles, and also was concerned with interference KFAC might cause in Portland, Ore., and Wichita, Kan., both on same band. However, station's objections to limitations of antenna pattern were heeded and station is ready to go.

Blumberg Says United World, U Execs Will Stay in Merge

New York, Aug. 5.—Nate Blumberg, arriving from the London conference that brought about the merger of International and Universal, had good cheer for all Universal and United World execs. He said he was positive that when the merged setup was completed, Cliff Work, William Heineman and Monroe Greenthal would remain. He added that he believes all other executives would be retained in some capacity.

Blumberg arrived over weekend and has held some huddles with Matty Fox. He leaves tomorrow night for the Coast. He had intended to spend several weeks in New York, but now believes that he will await the arrival of John C. Cowdin, Leo Spitz and latter's aide, Bob Goldstein, on the West Coast to settle the many problems brought up by the merger.

Cowdin is in Stockholm. Spitz and Goldstein sail Wednesday for New York on the Queen Mary. All are headed for Hollywood.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

THERE are more angles to newspaper work than appear on the surface and getting along in one of these big chain publishing organizations is an art, trade and mystery in itself. As was evidenced recently when a certain managing editor deleted producer's name from puffs for a picture because the producer, forsooth, was also under contract writing for another paper. Whereupon the producer got the m.e. on the telephone and wanted to know "Who the (blah-blah—long speech ending in expletive) do you think you are? We both work for the same boss. Do I have to appeal to him?" Producer's name was left in the copy thereafter.

HOPED for speedy negotiation of Radio Directors Guild's demands on networks appears now to be heading for slow motion handling. Top net execs are unexcited about demands and CBS, particularly, due to its already existing agreement effected through takeover of contract formerly held by American Federation of Radio Artists, see no "immediate pressure." Don Thornburgh, v-p of CBS, leaves this week on vacation, and Sid Strotz, NBC v-p, is also scheduled for trip out of town. Matter will, therefore dangle for at least a week and may possibly extend for month before even nibbled at.

SOL Lesser's studio staff, recalling his youthful enthusiasm over the scene of previous vacation trips, is all ready for him when he returns from his current holiday in Alaska. He went to Hawaii and came back insisting on making a Hawaiian picture. He went to Paris and came back with a yen to do a Paris film. When he gets back this time he'll find a complete set of material on Alaska, including several thousand feet of film, all assembled for him before he can even suggest making an Alaska picture.

ONE of pop-platteries which have been floating stock should be floating some of those 250,000 discs it has stacked in warehouse here. Reports are that outfit in selling shares, points up sales chatter with receipted bills showing how many platters have been pressed by indie plants here. Waxery keeps on paying to have its discs punched out, even though some have lain in warehouse so long any timeliness they might have possessed long since has been lost.

THE Big Four pop-platteries, Capitol, Columbia, Decca and Victor, are growing increasingly annoyed at the film studio flacks who ferret out which outfit is waxing what tunes from picture scores and with whom—for wide-spreading to the trade press. Waxeries bend efforts to keep these facts a secret from each other, and though they never are really successful (can it be musicians talk?), each of the Big Four likes to think it is.

FIFTY thousand-watt station in tiny Santa Ana is the ambition of Carroll Houser and Oscar Kelly, now on application with Federal Communications Commission for a five kilowatt station there. Notion, predicated on the anticipated break-down of existing clear channels, is that new outlet would serve a vast agricultural area and would therefore, be warranted. Event would put station on par with NBC's outlet, KFI, and other networker, KNX.

As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The inside story on Molotov's sustained and bitter fight for a two-third vote in the Paris conference is explained in that he agreed to calling the conference only after Jimmy Byrnes promised he'd back the two-third vote. This is undoubtedly the "compromise" that Byrnes stressed in his radio report after the Big Four conference, and that he dwelt upon so mysteriously when he took off for Paris. None of the agreements reached at Paris appeared to be a compromise worthy of so much attention. After he made the promise, Byrnes was probably worried about the way he had sold out our prestige among the small nations, and so, at Paris, he's been trying to make amends, even offering to modify the two-third rule, while trying to hold to it for substantive issues. That has alarmed and exasperated Molotov who says Britain and the United States, if they do not back the two-third idea, may not back the agreements of the Big Four on the treaties. He wants the letter of the law, to hold to the bond, and he wants to make sure that the Big Four will stick together. Otherwise his one-third veto protection will not work. He has nine votes, one more than necessary, counting the Soviet satellites, if the Big Four stick together, and he considers that essential.

TWO FILMS BOOST FIRST RUN TAKE TO $390,000

Overall grosses in Los Angeles first runs are perking up this week, due to two strong new bills which are offsetting lightness of others. Smash business going to "Night and Day," musical, and "A Night in Casablanca," comedy, point the way for total gross of near $390,000 in 28 first run and move-over theatres.

The Warners musical is heading for better than $90,000 on the basis of first three days' receipts, which would give the three Warner houses a new high. "Night in Casablanca," at the four Music Halls, socked through to estimated $46,000 for its first week closed last night.

"The Searching Wind" is not up to hopes at the two Paramounts, and looks like near average $38,000 for the first frame. "Heartbeat" at the Pantages and Hillstreet theatres is below average at estimated $37,000. "Runaround" and "She Wrote the Book" was dull on single week at the Guild, Ritz and United Artists, closing last night with estimated $25,500.

"Anna and the King of Siam" continues to lead holdovers, and is sighting estimated $47,000 for its third week at the State, Chinese and Uptown theatres. "The Green Years" is not up to hopes at the Los Angeles, Belmont, Egyptian and Wilshire, closing second week last night with $51,500. "Bride Wore Boots" wound up two-week stay at the El Rey, Orpheum and Vogue last night with very dull $19,500 estimate.

Republic yesterday assigned "Down Tahiti Way" to producer William J. O'Sullivan. Sidney Picker will produce "Outlaws of Sioux City," westerns to follow "Oregon Trail next in studio's series of Red Ryder Scouts."

Alan Hale Chored

Alan Hale has been assigned featured role in United States' "Pursued." Film rolls this week with Robert Mitchum and Teresa Wright in star spots.

LEGIT OPENING

NEW MOON

Last night's bow of "New Moon" at the Greek theatre was notable only in the respect that it introduced two great new voices to the local operetta scene. Marion Bell and Joe Sullivan are the newcomers and brilliant leads of the Romberg show. Miss Bell has a sparkling soprano and Sullivan delivers a tenor of glorious proportions. It is not only worth hearing but he rates femme plaudits for his appearance.

Pinky Lee holds up the comedy end of the show with an air of corn on one side and old chestnut on the other. He keeps the audience laughing with his well-sold stock humor through what might be arid comic stretches. Vera Marshe aids Lee in the comedy vein. One other credit goes to John Shaffer for his stalwart baritone.

Rest of the production was pretty much on the standard side with only occasional sparkles of chorus vocalizing.

Disney Resumes Work; 94 Returned To Jobs

Production on three pictures resumed at Walt Disney studio yesterday as company and Screen Cartoonists Guild came to a compromise settlement of layoff dispute that threatened to close the studio entirely. Resumption of work on the pictures will enable Disney to have one shortly in release with others to follow.

Filming are "Song of the South," which will be the first to be released, "Fun and Fancy Free" and "How Dear to My Heart." Live-action company of latter film is now locationing at Lancaster and will finish there today, returning to the studio Wednesday.

Under terms of the compromise settlement, details of which neither side would release, Disney will return to work 94 of the 215 members of SCG who had been caught in the general layoff of 450 employes All men returning to work will be used on the pictures now nearing completion. Men will continue to work an eight-hour day at the new wage scale.

Provision also was made to pay two weeks severance pay to any story man not re-employed within 90 days. There were about 22 story men laid off last Thursday night. Severance pay deal also will cover approximately 14 other SCG members.

Disney and Cartoonists Guild will immediately resume negotiations on a basic contract, probably opening huddles Thursday.

Broadcasters Board Meet to Form Radio's Academy

Announcement of actual formation of long-planned Academy of Radio Arts and Sciences, and modus operandi of such a group, is expected as result of meeting of board of National Association of Broadcasters, at Estes Park, Colo., which starts today.

William B. Ryan, chairman of the Academy Committee of NAB, left early yesterday a.m. to attend sessions, and will lay recommendations before board for final approval and action. His report was compiled from work of himself and other committeemen, including Martin B. Campbell, WFAA, Dallas; John E. Fetzer, WKZO, Kalamazoo, Mich.; William B. Smullin, KIEN, Eureka, Calif., and Hugh B. Terry, KLZ, Denver.

Positive recommendation will be made for creation of an Academy paralleling in purpose the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, virtually assuring step. Board will then act on it and set up machinery within radio industry. After it's rolling NAB will step out as bellwether and remain participant.

Publicists Deplore Action of Pressure Groups at MGM

Blast against "pressure groups" entering into the dispute between Screen Publicists Guild and Metro over discharge notices given six press agents was taken yesterday by Herbert Sorrell, prexy of Conference of Studio Unions, and Milton Gottlieb, business agent for SPG.

In a joint statement, Sorrell and Gottlieb said: "It is unfortunate that unrepresentative pressure groups have injected themselves into a routine labor-management dispute where there is no basis in fact for their participation." Rebuke was believed aimed at American Veterans Committee and other veteran organizations which had displayed active interest in dismissal notices given the Metro flacks, five of whom are veterans.

Joint statement also said: "No settlement has been made in the dispute between MGM and Screen Publicists Guild over the discharge of six publicists," and declared that "the question of these discharges will be settled in accordance with standard procedure in such cases."

Flacks, who had been given notice effective Aug. 3, were still on payroll yesterday. One, Bill McGrath, is currently taking two-week vacation due him.

PREVIEWED at Samuel Goldwyn studios, Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 5, 1946. Running time: 130 MINS.

Gabriel Pascal captured much of the charm and humor of George Bernard Shaw's original play in his British-made color production of "Caesar and Cleopatra." Magnificently mounted and extravagantly produced, film is most ambitious ever to come out of England, but for American audiences feature is far overlength and long passages should well have been deleted. Claude Rains and Vivien Leigh, in title roles, contribute top performances, with balance of cast stacking up comparatively.

This is the story of Caesar and his legions arriving in Egypt and how he puts Cleopatra on the throne of the land of the Nile, a frightened, tempestuous child who soon learns what it is to rule. Most of the action unfolds in the palace at Alexandria, after Caesar has deposed Cleopatra's younger brother, Ptolemy, and siege is being laid to the palace, while Caesar awaits arrival of more legions.

Against this background of spectacle is told a humorous, intimate tale of a human Caesar, and a queen who regards Caesar as an old man. Caesar teaches Cleopatra how to be a queen, and in so doing there are numerous delightful scenes between the two, the Roman conqueror treating the queen more like a spoiled little girl than a majestic figure. It is in these passages that the picture particularly appeals, these moments between the two overshadowing the bizarre and spectacular scenes which frequently crop up throughout the long piece.

Rains has never been better as the Roman, shading his characterization with rare humor and a slyness which gives him precedence even over the fragile beauty of Miss Leigh. For her part, the actress delivers fascinatingly, only a shade removed from her Scarlett O'Hara in point of character delineation. Topping supporting cast are Stewart Granger, Flora Robson, Basil Sydney and Francis L. Sullivan, all first-flight, with Cecil Parker, Raymond Lovell and Anthony Harvey standouts also.

As producer-director, Gabriel Pascal has done a notable job with this tinter, beautifully photographed by battery of cameramen. Settings are superb, as conceived by John Bryan, and costumes by Oliver Messel flamboyant. Technical credits universally are of top quality. Shaw scripted from his own play.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY DEPT.: Just 175,315 hours ago (counting daylight saving time and leap years) one Sam Warner was struggling into his dress suit. His brothers Harry, Jack and Albert were likewise submitting to boiled shirts. And an hour later they were on their way to the old Warner theatre at 57th and Broadway in New York to see whether their new gimmick—Vitaphone—would mean rule or ruin.

Besides Vitaphone, the chips were down on John Barrymore in and as "Don Juan," the first musically scored film, with Estelle Taylor, Helene Costello, Mary Astor and Warner Oland. In the preview audience that night Miss Taylor and her husband, Jack Dempsey, were the biggest names. (Less than six weeks later Mr. Dempsey lost his heavyweight championship title to Mr. Gene Tunney in Philadelphia—but this had nothing to do with Vitaphone.)

The first night program announced that Georgie Jessel would play the top role in the coming Vitaphone production of "The Jazz Singer." Jessel never made it. When he found out he was expected to sing, he wanted his salary doubled. So they got Al Jolson, who sang a few tunes, spoke less than 300 words of dialogue and carved his name on a milestone in motion picture history.

Hollywood was only the fifth town in the U.S. to be wired for sound, as it followed New York, Atlantic City, Chicago and St. Louis. Vitaphone came to the Egyptian Oct. 27, 1926. When the equipment arrived at the freightyards, Gordon Hollingshead, Bill Guthrie and Sid Grauman rode shotgun guard on the precious gadgets and stood watch until they were installed at the Egyptian.

Other echoes from those days of summer, 1926 . . . Rin-Tin-Tin, a Warners star, was knocking off $3000 a week in vaudeville. Theda Bara had just retired after making 40 starrers in four years and three months. Clara Bow tried to persuade her studio to let her make a sound film "because the public would pay just once to hear how I talk," but the bosses said she was a silent film actress and would stay that way. William Boyd (now Hopalong Cassidy) was kept on the set for 22 hours and 10 minutes because the late Owen Moore couldn't help fluffing his last line, which was: "I have one can of extra fine split pea soup." (Try it yourself, wise guy.) Jack Mulhall became the first guy to talk to himself on the screen. He played the twin sons of a policeman in "Dark Streets"—one a goodie, the other a baddie. After jabbering at himself in the sound films' first dual role, he wound up by shooting himself. More than one film industry figure considered the same, during the panic of reconversion from silents to sound. That was summer, 1926.

THE GRAPEVINE: Since this column already looks like something that should be packed into a time capsule for Operation Cornerstone, we'd better make a few notes on the contemporary scene as of Aug. 6, 1946. For instance, the bigwigs in Washington solemnly announced yesterday that ceiling prices were now removed from twist tobacco, crepes suzette and octopus for eating purposes. A great day for sybarites! . . . A case of pre-war Scotch is being offered by Nils T. Granlund, Walter E. Smith, David Siegel and Harry Joe Brown—who have formed a production company to make "Rhythm Ranch" and several other films—for the best name suggested for their new company . . . Yipe! June Allyson will play Lana Turner's sister in "Green Dolphin Street" . . . Despite offers to appear in French and British films, Lilli Palmer will stay in Hollywood at least until 1947. United States Pictures and Warners are raving over her performance in "Cloak and Dagger."

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: It was 110 degrees at the RKO ranch while they were shooting "Trail Street" scenes. Three husky young men collapsed from the heat. But Gabby Hayes was spry as a grasshopper in a marijuana patch. Under all those whiskers, too. He revealed his secret of keeping cool. Before stepping before the cameras and out of the shade, he sprinkled water in his tonsorial brush, which provided a simple but effective air conditioning . . . Harry Von Zell leaves next week on a ten-day fishing cruise . . . Tito Guizar and wife American Airlined to NY yesterday . . . OFF THE LOTS: Gloria Stuart and Arthur Sheekman, Bruce Cabot and Natalie Thompson at Ciro's. The Mark Hellingers and Humphrey Bogarts at The Kings. Anita Ellis is recovering after almost passing out during the Tommy Riggs airer with a 103 fever.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: It was an old Army gripe that a good cook in civilian life would inevitably become a tank driver and a good mechanic would be assigned to counting socks for the quartermaster. In at least one case, however, the brasshats failed to snafu. Maurice McLaughlin, known as The Great Navarre and a professional fire-eater now playing in Paramount's "Paris in the Spring," was atached to an Army flame-thrower outfit . . . There was no contract settlement between Sol Siegel and Paramount. Although producer's pact ran until April, 1947, he was released as of last Saturday . . . Jeanette MacDonald returned to New York from London without signing any British film commitments, but the deal is still hot for her to appear in "Die Fledermaus" on the London stage next summer . . . Diana Lynn and Sonny Tufts will be re-teamed in a sequel to "Easy Come, Easy Go" . . . Metro execs are raving over Frank Sinatra's musical numbers in "It Happened in Brooklyn." They were filmed on the Brooklyn Bridge by dance director Jack Donohue . . . Warners is aiming at another Academy Award nomination in the short subjects field again. They're giving the Technicolor treatment and a hypoed budget to the O. Henry Memorial Award story, "The Trial in Tom Belcher's Store" . . . William Boyd says it rained so much at Lone Pine while the Hopalong Cassidy company was shooting "Dangerous Venture" that he's thinking of changing the title to "Duel with the Sun."—D.D.T.

'HARVEY' AUDIENC CHEERS WHEELER IN FAY'S SPOT

New York, Aug. 5.—Bert Wheeler stepped into "Harvey" tonigh taking over the star part for one month while Frank Fay is on vacation. Wheeler, who is excellent as the most amiable screwball stooge Broadway has had in a decade, is the third comedian to enact a lovable barfly whose constant companion is a six-foot rabbit.

Joe E. Brown heads company that opened in Chicago tonight and is likely to stay there through new season. If a third "Harvey" company is sent out Wheeler fully qualifies. Audience remained seated after play ended, sure that he would make speech, which he did. It's possible that Wheeler will be chosen for London company in fall.

Chi Censors Tag 5 Films 'Adults Only'

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Two of five pix tagged "for adults only" by the Chicago motion picture police censor board in their July reviewing stints were domestic films—Warners' "Of Human Bondage" and United Artists' "Dead of Night." The other three were Mexican pix—"Canaima" and "Lagerilan," Azteca, and "La Pajarere," Clasa. Board made no rejections.

WILLIAMS TALKS OVER TRUST SUIT

Washington, Aug. 5.—Paul Williams, prexy of the Southern California Theatre Owners' Association, today conferred with Robert Wright, of the film department of the Department of Justice, regarding the pending "Big Five" suit. Williams, who is accompanied by Cecil Vinnicof, a fellow SCTOA member, declined to give any details regarding the huddle. True confession...

WE do have an emulsion with higher resolving power than Ansco Supreme Negative film.

We have another that is faster than Supreme.

And a third that has finer grain than Supreme.

But we believe that Supreme Negative offers you the best combination of resolving power, speed and fineness of grain for professional motion picture photography. Supreme also gives you a long, smooth gradation scale and accurate, sensitive panchromatic response.

In competent hands, this excellent film will produce negatives of outstanding printing quality. Ask for Ansco Supreme Negative on your next assignment!

Trigger's Tail Gets Clipped

By IMOGENE PATRICK

TRIGGER, palomino movie star, made a crestfallen entry into Hereford Heaven Saturday night and his pal, Roy Rogers, was about ready to pack up his shootin' irons and head for Prescott, Ariz.

There was something missing in the reunion of Trigger and Rogers, who flew on ahead Thursday to begin filming "Home in Oklahoma" —namely, a good-sized chunk out of Trigger's long, flowing tail.

Trigger left his San Fernando valley home Tuesday night in his own trailer. Thursday he stopped to rest at Prescott and retired in the fairgrounds stables.

During the night, an unidentified admirer crept into the stall and [illegible] himself to a lock of Trigger's blond tresses. He applied the shears to the left side of Trigger's tail, a few inches below the rump.

For a while it looked as if production were off. Trigger could face the camera all right. It was the rear views that worried him.

Rogers took one look and wired Hollywood. Now a make-up artist is speeding toward Oklahoma to see if he can design a new coiffure which will cover the bare spots in Trigger's crowning glory.

A spokesman for Rogers figured that by shooting only the right side of his horse, Trigger would be able to gallop before the cameras without losing face or fans.

Rogers had nothing to say. He was "too sick to talk."

There is nothing more potent or satisfying than clarity and simplicity yet producers will resort to every trick in the bag to try to make a new show sound different. That from an agency head on the prowl for a director for one of the higher budgeted new fall shows. What he's after is a producer who isn't the "nudging type" and doesn't fall back on a musical bridge every three pages. The nudgers, as he calls them, are those who overwork every element and contribute nothing to the format in the way of new ideas. They strive for tricky devices which tend only to confuse and play down the simple things so important to the enactment of a dramatic piece. In a variety or musical show the temptation to go overboard is not too "nudging," he holds, but there's still room for improvement in the over-all presentation. No, he isn't looking for a genius or superman but a director with a fresh approach. Surely there must be such craftsmen around and when he does come up with his man we'll comment on the selection in the light of these few remarks. We know where the choice lies and his compass is pointed in the right direction.

RADIO SHOWS FLEE CHI, EXECS BLAME SCUTTLEBUTT

Chicago, Aug. 5. — Scuttlebutt among Chicago radio actors is blamed by a top agency exec as being responsible for the exodus of radio shows to the Coast, with "Those Websters" the latest to join the westward trek in the wake of the four General Mills programs. This exec told Variety that when rumors about this and that show leaving here started reaching official ears the agency decided to make a canvass of the cast and production staff as to where they preferred to have the shows originate — Chicago, Hollywood or New York. Returns favored Hollywood by 90 per cent.

"However, the old guard actors around here who have pulled out aren't the complete answer to the casting problem," he said. "There are a lot of other actors around who haven't hit the top and they'll certainly benefit by all the moves."

Two other locally-originated network shows meanwhile are already off or leaving, with Cudahy Packing Co. dropping sponsorship of "Tena and Tim" and "Bachelors Children" quitting Sept. 27 after the show's lead, Hugh Studebaker, leaves for Hollywood. Sponsor, Continental Baking, will still be in the radio picture this fall and is contemplating another show via CBS. Joe Ainley, who is leaving to direct "Websters" on Mutual from the Coast, also will do "Woman in White" from there.

Russell Takes 'Ruth' From Lanfield

William Russell succeeds Sidney Lanfield as director of Paramount's "Dear Ruth." Latter is suffering from impacted teeth and was relieved of assignment so he could undergo extensive dental treatment.

DOWNEY LAUDS WB IN SENATE

Washington, Aug. 5.—U. S. Senator Sheridan Downey (D., Calif.), devoted a floor speech last Friday to a eulogy of the four Warner brothers and their production of the first sound film feature, 20 years ago. The senator at length described the technical efforts of such men as Theodore Case and E. I. Sponable, who pioneered in the development of talking pictures. Downey also asked other senators to tout the 20th anni of sound in their home states this summer, stating, "American motion picture producers have consistently maintained their unquestioned leadership in producing the finest motion pictures in the world."

HOLLYWOOD RUNAROUND

By RADIE HARRIS

Ty Power is postponing his South American trip a week to greet Annabella when she arrives home from the east next Wednesday. The fact that he is leaving for two months so soon after her arrival, will start all the rumors buzzing, but Ty's answer to all that is the same one Rhett Butler gave to Scarlett O'Hara, "Darling, I don't give a damn!" "You see," he explained over our Sunday brunch, "after you've been away from Hollywood as I've been during the past four years, you'll realize how stupid it is to let Hollywood gossip bother you. No matter what you do, you usually wind up behind the eight-ball so the only philosophy to adopt is to go about your own business in the way that you know is right and then no outside influences can upset you." If only all movie stars could have Ty's sense of values, sincerity, and capacity for deep-rooted friendship "criticism wouldn't be what you get when you have everything else!"

Before taking off, Ty and his traveling companion, "Butch" Romero, have been trying to think up a tag for the plane that will take them "To Quito and Back" and yesterday Butch came up with this suggestion, "Tondelayo Schwartzkophf!"

SCOOPING AROUND: If Life Mag had waited until next week to do that spread on the Cape Playhouse in Dennis, they would have caught Faye Emerson in her "straw-hat" debut, "Here Today," with the most interested spectator in the S.R.O. attendance, a lady who is used to being candid camera-ed by the lens lads—Mrs. F.D.R . . . Dean Jagger must certainly know the Right People at T.W.A. He flew out here on a four-hour notice in answer to an S.O.S. from Milton Sperling for one of the top leads in "Pursued" . . . Cecil Beaton, who designed the sets and costumes for "Lady Windemere's Fan," also will debut as an actor. Bet David O. Selznick doesn't sign him up! . . . Shepard Traube, who turned talent scout while he was in the Army, has been patiently waiting for the release of Lt. Raymond Parker who he claims is a cross between Humphrey Bogart and Alan Ladd (not a bad cross to bear either!). Now, after five years of overseas duty, Parker is a civilian again and arrives here August 10 to check in on the Columbia lot . . . Before pulling out for New York, Dick Krakeur sold his Glenn Langlen contract to Doc Schurr. Incidentally, as a side-line to his show biz activities, Dick has just come across a product which he anticipates will be the biggest thing to hit the market in years. It is a cellophane ice cube—non-meltable that you can carry around in your pocket where it will ice your drink, your aching head or what you will. Rexall has already placed a two million order so you can hardly blame Dick if he soon gives up skating on the thin ice of the theatre!

INSULT TO INJURY: At the gala preem of "Night and Day" at Warners' Hollywood the other p.m., the biggest hand went to a Paramount star—Alan Ladd. Lana Turner, her platinum locks toned down to a brownette shade, went completely unrecognized by the clawtograph hounds. Mike Curtiz, who only directed the picture, was heard to exclaim afterward, "I have been at Warners since they made the first silent picture with sound. My wife, Bess, she has written some of the biggest pictures, so when we arrive, what happens? We are ignored because the loudspeaker and the cameras are making so beezy with a big Warner star . . . Angela Greene! (to be read with the same inflection as the Joe Cotten radio announcement of Sonny Tufts.)

SONJA'S SUCCESSFUL SOIREE: Sonja Henie can now take her place at the diplomatic courts of the world. At her Crillon dinner party for 150 of the top drawer Names of Hollywood, she tackled the ticklish job of arranging each place-card herself, and succeeded in making everybody happy. As in all of Sonja's parties, the four ingredients for a bang-up affair were all there—good food, good liquor, good band and a good crowd. Charlie Morrison outdid himself in the menu dept. (and the perfect service)—there was no rationing in anyone's liquid diet (ask a certain w.k. star—if she still remembers she was there!)—and the band was as indefatigable as Greer Garson and Richard Ney, who kept pace with Lana Turner, who kept pace with the entire stag line. As for the crowd, all I could think of as I saw L. B. Mayer, Darryl Zanuck, Walter Wanger and Bill Goetz—directors George Cukor, Anatol Litvak, Mervyn Leroy and Irving Rapper—agents Jules Stein, Fefe Ferry, Wynn Rocamora and Charlie Feldman—and stars, Cary Grant, Joan Crawford, Claudette Colbert, Ty Power, Gary Cooper, Danny Kaye, Roz Russell, Ida Lupino, Van Johnson, Gene Tierney, Rex Harrison, Joan Bennett and Doug Fairbanks, Jr., what a biz deal could have been transacted had anyone wanted to talk shop (perish the thought dept.!). And if I hadn't flunked math and could count that high, I might be able to report the aggregate salaries represented in that small room. But I doubt whether even Joel Kupperman could count that high!

DISA AND DATA: Geraldine Brooks, who makes her screen debut in "Cry Wolf," will replace Joan Chandler in "Possessed" (Warners) and her sister, Gloria Stroock, signs with Paramount this week on a two-picture deal. Wonder how soon their father, Jimmy Stroock, will retire from Brooks Costume Co.? . . . The Howard Reinheimers are hosting their Hollywood pals at a Bev-Hills cocktail shindig on Friday. There will be three faces missing this summer, who were at their last gathering: Jerome Kern, Charlie Butterworth and Bob Benchley . . . If you can corner Jessie Royce Landis during her brief stop-over here, get her to do her impersonation of Lenore Ulric. It's priceless! . . . Susan Douglas has just received word that she is the winner of the Donaldson Award for the best debut performance on B'way last season . . . Too bad that in Warners' 20th anniversary of sound, they omitted the saddest sound of all—the drag of Leslie Howard's club foot in "Of Human Bondage" —and Monty Woolley's belch in "Life Begins at 8:40!"

WRITERS OF NEW KISS SONG OFFER CUT ON COIN

Songwriters Dave Franklin and Irving Taylor, whose most recent tune, "Everybody Kiss Your Sweetheart," this week has been issued by Feist, Inc., have notified publisher that they are willing to cut in on royalties a trio of writers who put out a song of somewhat similar title in 1936. Franklin and Taylor took their ditty to NY several weeks ago and immediately after placing it with Feist learned that team of Dick Sanford, John Redmond and Frank Weldon had raised a squawk that item was too much like "Everybody Kiss Your Partner" which Miller Music published for trio decade ago. A slice-in on the profits of the Franklin-Taylor tune was asked.

Matter of legal recourse was not broached, it is understood, and probably arrangements will be worked out quietly, since Feist and Miller are associated, both being subsids of Metro. The writers of "Sweetheart" last night stated they had informed Harry Link, general professional manager of Feist's NY office, that they would be agreeable to any percentage of royalties he wishes to make over to the "Partner" writers.

16 DANCERY TOPS MEET HERE ON BAND PRICE CUT

Meeting at Los Angeles Athletic Club this afternoon of 16 Far West ballroom operators will be biggest get-together of dancery magnates ever held this side of the Rockies. In addition to all local ops, visitors include Jerry Jones, of Salt Lake's Rendezvous ballroom, Walter Stutz of San Diego's Pacific Square, and Larry Finley, who flew in from east to speak for his Mission Beach terpery. A. V. Bamford, who has 16 upstate spots, will moderate the meet.

In addition to mapping joint campaign to induce name bands to accept less coin in view of battering ballrooms generally have been taking at their box offices, the ops also will hold discussion on post-war problems. Too, it is known that the local sites will plan a concerted effort to get Musicians' Local 47 to lower its terpalace scale, which is now $92 for traveling musician and $70 for relief-ork member of a purely local crew. Ops last night were stating union will be asked to reduce scale at least 15 per cent. All those attending will be asked to aid an all-out campaign to force American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers to cut license fees. Argument aimed at ASCAP will be that with spots now playing to fewer customers than during war years, Society's fee should be reduced proportionately.

Showmanship Biz Keystone Zanuck Warns Theatre Tops

Warning that the "honeymoon is over" in the picture business and "there is every portent that leaner years are ahead" was stressed by Darryl Zanuck in a speech to theatre operators and managers at a dinner at the 20th-Fox Cafe de Paris last night. Other speakers at the dinner, which climaxed the annual convention of the managers of National Theatres, were Joseph M. Schenck, Spyros Skouras, Charles Skouras, Tom Connors and George Jessel.

"If there is going to continue to be a picture business as we know it," Zanuck said, "it will be up to you theatre managers and operators to keep grosses up . . . We've got to go back to the old days when showmanship was the keystone of our industry."

Zanuck also called on the theatre men to help develop and popularize new players, advocated extended playing time through more effective advertising, more original exploitation ideas and greater enterprise and ingenuity.

Earlier, at the theatre district managers conference it was announced that there will be no admission increases in houses of the National Theatres circuit. Theatre chain also will retain special servicemen's admission scale as well as junior prices.

Decision to continue present price scales, despite increased operating costs, was one of the prominent matters on yesterday's agenda. Other subjects under general discussion were foreign language films, operating policies as applied to name bands, stage shows, all-night operation, and day-and-date first run engagements. These subjects will be gone into further at later sessions for establishment of policy.

In announcing retention of present price level, circuit declared admissions are equitable to the public, the theatre chain and the film companies. NT started servicemen's admission scale at start of the war, and established junior admissions some six years ago.

Charles P. Skouras presided over the meeting, held at circuit's home office here. Attending were approximately 85 circuit delegates, headed by division presidents F. H. "Ric" Ricketson, Fox Inter-mountain; Elmer Rhoden, Fox Midwest; H. J. Fitzgerald, Fox Wisconsin; Frank Newman, Fox Evergreen; George Bowser and Dick Spier, Fox West Coast Theatres, as well as film buyers and district managers from all divisions and home office department heads.

Sindlinger had joined Sayers the past three weeks in series of conferences with studio-clients in connection with research on the new "auction" selling and distribution format. Latter development necessitated expansion of local offices, which have been moved to the Postal Union Life Building at 6305 Yucca Street.

adult life in the theatrical trade paper field. He started his career with Billboard about 25 years ago covering vaudeville. Shortly after that he switched to the motion picture department and ultimately became editor of the department. He left that post to join Variety. It was during his tenure with Variety that he became a recognized authority on the exhibition and distribution phases of the industry. He was the only newspaperman ever invited to join the Motion Picture Associates, trade group of film execs and distributors.

Surviving are his widow, Carol; mother, three sisters, four brothers and a stepdaughter. He was born in Clay Center, Kan. Funeral services will be announced later.

Montez, Aumont to Co-Star in 'Feather'

Charles R. Rogers yesterday set "The Scarlet Feather," instead of "Queen of Hearts," as first picture to co-star Maria Montez and Pierre Aumont. Miss Montez will go on loanout from Universal, Aumont from Metro. "Feather," original by McKinlay Brewster, which is story of New Orleans in mid 19th Century, will be in Technicolor and directed by Alexis Thurn-Taxis, also set to direct "Hearts."

Pal Pulls Punch

In the belief that some faction might misinterpret the film to their own political ends, George Pal yesterday withdrew from his Puppetoon schedule a projected subject, "Jasper in Washington," which was to have kidded the national law-making scene.

marked for advertising and exploitation of the picture after release.

Selznick's biggest previous advertising nut was $250,000 for "Gone With the Wind." Latter picture boxed $32,000,000. So if it was just a matter of arithmetic if you get $32,000,000 for $250,000 in ballyhoo dough, for $2,000,000 you should get . . . BUT you won't.

YEAR'S CAMPAIGN NOW

Pre-release campaign for "Duel" will have been on for approximately a year by time the pic opens—which is the longest pre-release bally ever scheduled for a motion picture.

It covers all important media, including national mags, newspapers, radio, billboards and special events. Roughly the money for the pre-release pitch has been spent as follows—$300,000 for national magazine advertising, $200,000 for newspaper advertising, $200,000 for radio and the remainder for special events.

THAT SECOND MILLION

Second million for after-release exploitation will go largely for newspapers, billboards and radio. The bill posting starts in the state of Texas where the pic gets its first release dates, and will spread through the 100 principal cities of the country. Flackery is holding back lot of "secret" ideas for the final smash of the campaign.

Final phase of the pre-release advertising will use Ripley "Believe It Or Not" drawings to stress size of the production.

WB Big Gamble Brings Sound

BROTHER SAM INSPIRES REVOLUTION IN FILMS

Just twenty years ago, Aug. 6, 1926, four brothers exploded what amounted to an atom bomb under the film business. Within two years when the clouds of doubt and misapprehension aroused by the explosion had been dissipated, the motion picture business had been revolutionized.

That was the day that the screen got its gift of gab—the day that flickers graduated into the big business category and became one of the potent factors in influencing worldwide opinion.

The brothers were the four Warner boys, Sam, now dead, Harry M., Jack L. and Albert. To misquote slightly they had made a "heap of all their resources and risked it on one turn of pitch and toss."

The "pitch and toss" was the first public showing of sound pictures. Inspired by brother Sam, the Warners had been experimenting for some time with musical recordings on film and even dialogue. And the night of that day 20 years ago was to be the big test. It was to determine whether they were right or whether other top figures of filmdom who openly opposed and ridiculed the idea of a picture talking were to be sustained and motion pictures remain mute.

John Barrymore was taking second billing that night at the old Warner theatre, at Fifty-Seventy Street and New York's Broadway. No actor was rated above Barrymore. But a small mechanical voice called vitaphone was.

MUSIC FOR DON JUAN

The picture was "Don Juan". Included was a rather elaborate synchronized musical score. Otherwise the film was silent. No effort was made at dialogue in the featured film. But included on the history making program were six shorts. Like the feature—with one exception—the sound in the shorts was confined to music. But the exception was heroic. In it, Will Hays made a speech introducing the new medium and congratulating the Warners. That was the first time a picture ever talked.

Tremendous applause followed the eerie performance of a flickering picture making a speech. That applause was not only for Warner Brothers but for the achievements of many people and institutions about which the audience knew nothing. The picture makers had six co-sponsors. They were the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Bell Telephone, RCA-Victor, Thomas A. Edison, Inc. and the Society of Motion Picture Engineers.

Sound had arrived. But it still was crude. Many refinements were needed to bring it to the level of today's performances on some 17,000 screens in the United States. Sound pictures were not entirely new in 1926. Two leaders in scientific research had been experimenting with films that talk for more than a decade. As far back as 1913 Thomas A. Edison had tried.The results were dismal. Dr. Lee de Forest was busily engaged on his audition tube, an amplification device which stepped up the recording volume of sound.

It was Col. Nathan Levinson of the Western Electric Co. who started the Warners in pursuit of successful sound. It was Brother Sam, the technical, dreamy-minded one of the quartet, that Levinson approached. He was convinced by the demonstration and wired brother Harry to go to Western Electric and see "the greatest thing in the world" That was in April 1925.

GREATEST THING IN THE WORLD

Successful as "Don Juan's" bow had been, the Warners realized that something more than musical scores was needed to make sound pictures a big success. There must be dialog also. The day of the silent picture was over.

The Warners gamble had won. A demand had been created for the spoken drama on the screen. To meet this the brothers rushed the "Jazz Singer", the tremendous song and patter hit of 1927 into production. Although there were only about 300 feet of dialog in the picture, the "mammy song" feature generally is recognized as the first talkie.

It got this reputation because, spurred by the "Don Juan" audition and recognizing that the film revolution was on, theatre owners in various sections of the country made their houses available for showing sound.

The "Jazz Singer" was a huge success. Jolson followed immediately with another "The Singing Fool" which hit the theatres in 1928. This one clicked as nothing before. The big tune of the show was "Sonny Boy". So great was the reception of the picture that till this day "Sonny Boy" enjoys one of the all-time high sales for sheet music. And the film itself retains the high gross record in some 400 theatres.

The first real all talker feature was an accident. Warners had assigned Bryan Foy, Murray Roth and Hugh Herbert to make one reel talking shorts.

HUGH HERBERT'S ENTHUSIASM

It was Herbert's enthusiasm that gave it its length. He overwrote the script and when it was shot, it amounted to a reel and a half. In an effort to bring the product to some usable length, Herbert wrote some more and the thing became three reels long.

Warners had bought a script called "The Terror" which they planned to make their first all talkie. While they were planning this production, the trio with the misfit short took their troubles to the brothers. The three reels were run. The brothers liked "Lights". "The Terror" was taken out of the starting gate and Foy, Herbert and Roth ordered to swell their overgrown short another four spools. Thus was born the first all talking feature.

"Lights of New York" is remembered for its famous barber shop scene in which Eugene Pallette shaved Wheeler Oakman, a dead gangster, in his barber chair to hide him from the police. But rigor mortis set in. The mobster skidded from under the apron onto the floor and that was that. A print of the historic film has just been presented to the Smithsonian Institute by Major Albert Warner.

Following the showing of "Don Juan" and "The Jazz Singer", other studios followed Warners to sound. Fox came up with Movietone, six months after the brothers made their big gamble. RCA responded with Photophone.

RECONVERSION OF INDUSTRY

The sound engineer became king over night. Even though the acting might louse up a picture it would be rescued if the recorded voice was perfect. Actors who had gotten by on mugging for years had to learn to talk. The flowery wordage of the silent's titles was gone forever.

Gone also were the days of shooting off the cuff with just a bit of script or none at all. The writers came into their own. The directors instead of shooting whatever inspired them as they went along had to follow the story line. Pictures had graduated from a happy-go-lucky game to big business.

And as this 20th anniversary is celebrated at the Warners Hollywood theatre as a tribute to brother Sam, there will be dreamers in the audience who will think they hear the rumblings of a new revolution, the perfection of television which may see films moved from the deluxe theatres to fireside showings to beslippered stay-at-homes.

The great experiment. Hedda Hopper (yes, without a hat) and John Barrymore from a scene of "Don Juan" on which Warner Bros. gambled their future and that of the picture biz with both winning.

The Corpse slips out—Famous barber shop scene in first all talking picture, "The Lights of New York." In this Eugene Pallette tried to shave Wheeler Oakman, the dead man, to hide him from the police. But the corpse skidded out of the chair and the cops Tom McGuire and Robert Elliot did their duty.

Levinson Tells of Revolution

PIX COST UP 300% WITH SOUND

The birth of sound motion pictures was second only to the invention of photography itself in its widespread effect upon the motion picture industry.

Virtually every motion picture production method has undergone extensive modification since that time 20 years ago when the first commercially successful sound film was shown. Between the years 1926 and 1931, the industry mushroomed into one of the world's greatest businesses. The increase in the number of studio employees due to the advent of sound has been estimated at from 100 to 150 per cent, with the cost of production climbing 300 to 400 per cent.

CONQUEST OF NOISES

One of the first problems to be faced by producers with the introduction of sound was the elimination of the troublesome extraneous noises of the motion picture set. This involved, first of all, the silencing of the camera itself. This was a long and involved technical process solved through the talent and perseverance of the technicians of the industry.

After years of laboratory and experimental work, the modern professional motion picture camera is so quiet in operation that it can be used on any inside set without the aid of auxilliary soundproof enclosures which were one of the first, however inadequate, steps in eliminating camera noise.

LIGHTING CHANGES

Sound recording forced revolutionary changes in the techniques and equipment employed for motion picture set lighting. These changes were continuing ones between 1926 and 1942 when a suitable compact filter was developed at Warner Bros. Studios which efficiently and completely eliminated all commutator ripple noise from arc lamps in service.

During one period of 60 days, more than 300 cinematographers assisted in experiments and attended demonstrations leading to the development of incandescent set lighting.

In the construction of sets, sound films made it necessary to consider the acoustic qualities of materials employed and to avoid set structures of such shape that they would produce resonances and reverberation effects. Deep window recesses, vaulted and beamed ceiling, for example, were found to be enemies of acoustically perfect sound recording.

It may be surprising to many to learn that the Story Department, as is exists today, was unknown in the industry before sound was developed. Silent films often were made with incomplete scripts—or with no scripts at all,—depending upon the talent of the director and photographer to skeletons of stories were prepared in advance.

IMPORTANCE OF DIALOGUE

The dialogue, of course, was without importance. Titles were used to convey such information as could not be understood from the action on the screen. But with sound the dialogue became of great importance and it was necessary to prepare scripts complete to the smallest detail. This brought about the Story Department which now employs a staff of experts who keep in close touch with the literary output of the world and the assignment of screen writing was entrusted to writers of high reputation.

Even after noting the tremendous changes brought about in the motion picture industry with the introduction of sound, it is still as uncertain to try to predict the developments of sound films in the next 20 years as it was when sound was first introduced, just 20 years ago.

Good Talker

Switch from straight acting to talking pictures was not funny for Wally Beery, even though he has been a funny man in a good many since. "My first talker was 'Chinatown Nights'," he said, "and Paramount fired me as soon as I finished it." He talked Metro into giving him another chance, and they're still giving it to him after 19 years.

Nathan Levinson—Warners Sound Topper from Start till Present Day.

THE SPHINX, TOO

Frank Fay, in the late '20s, had a gag at the expense of the struggling talkies.

"It's a fake," he would say confidentially to his audiences. "They've got Coolidge talking—and loud, too!"

VOICE PUSHES LOOK OUT

Twenty years ago, the men in studio sign shops were in for a rush of business.

All studios were littered with signs at odd places admonishing all the actors and directors:

'Say it with props!' Warner Bros. put and end to that. From now on, everything would be word of mouth. No longer would an actor have to gaze fondly into the eyes of the leading lady, clasp his hands for ecstasy, point to his ring finger, and then absorb her in a clinch when she got the idea. The day had come for the actor to tell the girl, and get his answer. Once it was the look, now it was the voice.

So, the studio paintshops got out brushes, and a few set of signs went up at all the studios as the microphone marched in. The new placards read:

'Every WORD must be HEARD!'

Talking Icons No Go

One place sound pictures failed to penetrate was the Balkan back country. Warners' manager in Bucharest, Armand Paucker, reported to Jack L. Warner that peasants coming to town "they don't go for icons that move along the wall, they take out their pengoes on pubs."

JOLSON IN AD LIBBING PROPHECY

Everybody knows Al Jolson for an entertainer, but few know him as a prophet.

Through all the years since he became a part of the introduction and successful presentation of early talking pictures, legend has been bandied about in books and columns that the first words he spoke in "The "Jazz Singer," to electrify the world, were:

"Come on, Ma, listen to this!"

But some of the long-memoried veterans on the Warner Bros. lot felt sure that Jolson had said something different. So they had a screening of the oldie, and they were right.

The scene was in the second reel, and Jolson had just been given a big ovation for his song, "Dirty Hands, Dirty Face" which was sung in Coffee Dan's cafe.

The line, ad-libbed and prophetic, was:

"Wait a minute, wait a minute, you ain't heard nothin' yet!"

Directors Hit By Coming of Sound

Columbia producer Wally MacDonald, leading man in some of the early talkers, recalls that players weren't the only ones who were hard hit when the mike moved into Hollywood. "Take a check of the directors," he said, "and of the 50 who were getting along well in silents, only about 15 are active today. They were all pantomime-minded, Couldn't take gestures out of their actors and substitute gab for it."

Actors Practiced On Will Rogers

The late Will Rogers probably realized more fully the impact of talking movies than any other bigtimer. He had been away from Hollywood in the current 'Follies' for Flo Ziegfeld, and came back to Beverly Hills for the summer break.

"I couldn't get a word in edgeways," he said. "People kept practicing on me, showing off how they could talk. An actor or a girl I might have passed with a nod in the old days would buttonhole me and start chattering. Weather, politics, Babe Ruth—it didn't matter, everybody being so anxious to prove he could talk for pictures."

Cohan Sits It Out

Robert Armstrong recalls a conversation with George M. Cohan, who was not inclined to be impressed with anything in the motion picture line, least of all in sound 20 years ago. "Give me $5," he said, "and it'll keep me in spending money until this talkie fad passes."

Sound, the Story of 4 Brothers

BROTHER HARRY TELLS HOW BROTHER SAM STARTED THEM TOWARD TALKING PICTURES

By HARRY M. WARNER

It started with a wire from Sam Warner. That was in April, 1925, and the telegram said: "GO TO THE WESTERN ELECTRIC COMPANY AND SEE WHAT I CONSIDER THE GREATEST THING IN THE WORLD."

I went, and I saw a brief film in which a 12-piece orchestra played, with the music in perfect synchronization with the movement. Two months later, on June 25, Warner Bros. Pictures committed its resources and its future to the development and introduction of talking pictures.

The possibility of bringing the great music of the world to motion picture audiences appealed strongly to us as showmen and the educational possibilities of the talking picture excited our imagination. It was these things which really enabled us to see the tremendous entertainment and commercial possibilities.

Our brother Sam, who tragically did not live to see the complete fulfillment of his dream, was the technical-minded member who watched scientific progress in allied fields. After seeing the laboratory demonstration in the spring of 1925, he believed that it was time to go ahead.

He, in turn, had been first interested in that project by Col. (then Major) Nathan Levinson, an engineer at Western Electric. Colonel Levinson joined our company during the early days of sound experimentation, and he heads the sound department at the studio today.

Talking pictures, when previously attempted, had had no very gratifying results. In our early discussions of talking pictures we had thought of them as just that — the spoken drama. However, it occurred to me that it might be a good deal safer if we were to attempt at first to use sound in meeting a genuine need of motion picture theatres. The silent screen was, in general, prospering. Practically speaking, it did not need voices as much as it needed good musical scoring.

Theatre in the bigger cities were engaging large orchestras and live entertainment to enhance programs. This put small theaters and the smaller cities and towns at a disadvantage. Such exhibitors could not possibly afford symphony orchestras or expensive vaudeville. So it seemed to me that we held the answer to the small exhibitor's problem. Vitaphone, by means of sychronized scores played by fine orchestras, and with singing and dancing short subjects, could give the nation's small theaters an even break with the metropolitan cinema palaces.

It seemed likely that if this policy were followed, the public ultimately would ask for pictures with dialog. And so it proved.

Our first Vitaphone program, offered to the New York public at the Warner Theater on August 6, 1926, was evidence of our faith in the mechanism. I am proud to recall that the scoring of "Don Juan" was done by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, and that the short films on the same program featured such splendid artists as Giovanni Martinelli, Marion Talley, Mischa Elman and Effram Zimbalist. There also was an address from the screen by Will H. Hays, and that was the first talking picture.

In the months that followed, while our company prepared "The Jazz Singer"—the picture starring Al Jolson which was to make secure the victory of sound over the silent screen — we offered the public a succession of famous artists.

Did You Ever Dream of a Picture Talking? They Did

BROTHER JACK TELLS DREAM OF ARTISTIC REVOLUTION AND AID TO CIVILIZATION

By JACK L. WARNER

During 1926, before the August 6 premiere of Vitaphone, some of us who were associated in the development of sound-from-the-screen ventured a few predictions about the future of talking pictures. Although intended to be conservative our prophesies generally were regarded as the sort of fanciful notions which might be expected from proud parent and fond godfathers.

Looking back now to those exhausting weeks in New York while the "Don Juan" and short subject scoring was being done, and Vitaphone equipment was being installed in the old Warner Theatre, I can better understand the skepticism of those who used to look in on us with what might be called sympathetic misunderstanding.

We Warner brothers, on the other hand, were sustained by a vision that swept far beyond mechanical details. We were thinking in terms of an artistic revolution.

We had staked all our resources in this attempt to give practical reality to the talking screen. Since the invention of motion pictures in 1849, and especially after Edison's Kinetophone demonstrations in 1913, scientists had tried and failed to make, talking pictures more than a laboratory novelty.

Although aware of the hazards involved, we were completely reassured by the confidence of our brother Sam. Bits of scientific progress, nearly all outside the world of entertainment, seemed to offer the key to success if they could be fitted together. Sam Warner was the man for the job. He had faith, enthusiasm and ability. That is why, from the time of our dicision made in June, 1925, we had no real misgivings about the technical practicability of Vitaphone.

For us, the problem had represented far more than matters of synchronization, amplification and acoustics. We certainly had no wish to gamble our future on a mere amusement novelty. We knew our venture would fail if it did not bring about a complete artistic revolution, with such public approval that all theatres and production companies would participate.

Through 20 years of film showmanship, we had watched the industry grow from a mere amusement device to an adult art. However, the very rarity of truly distinguished silent pictures was strong evidence that the screen was fast reaching—if it had not already reached—the limits of development in its existing form.

Another factor in our decision was the conviction that sound pictures could become extremely important not only culturally but informatively, for the benefit of all civilization.

We knew that even the silent screen could serve in the causes of truth and justice, and in carrying to large numbers of people a warning of dangers ahead. Our picture, "My Four Years in Germany" made in 1918 from the book by Ambassador Gerard, had been acclaimed as a valuable instrument for the awakening of America to the devilish designs of militaristic Germany.

Thus it can be understood that we were not much concerned about a mere technical revolution within the industry, because the progression to the new medium seemed to justify any risk or cost.

One stunning sacrifice which we could not calculate was the death, just before the "Jazz Singer" premiere in 1927, of our brother Sam. He had exhausted himself in the final effort for the decisive establishment of talking pictures. He would have done it anyway, I am sure, had he known the price he would pay for his great part in the fulfillment of the manifest destiny of the screen.

THIS IS EVERY EXHIBITOR'S ANNIVERSARY

WE'RE mighty grateful for all the tributes that are being heaped on Warners these Anniversary days. But there are others within the industry who have earned the right to consider it their Anniversary, too.

To the exhibitors, large and small, Warners and "talking pictures" owe very much. It was through their far-sightedness, their support and their showmanship that progress was possible in those first struggling "See and Hear" days. We acknowledge their important contribution with gratitude most sincere; and we look forward to the continued progress that must result from this ever-growing bond between us.

And now, fully realizing the meaning of this occasion to every exhibitor on the globe, we here present our Celebration attractions.

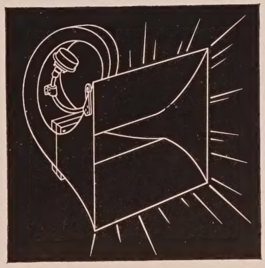
John Barrymore was the star they saw

Here's the unseen star they HEARD!



The smashing success of that night just 20 years ago—the world premiere of Warner Brothers' "Don Juan"—could not have been achieved without this loudspeaker and its adjuncts in the Western Electric Sound System. For the first time it was possible to fill a theatre with quality sound, accurately synchronized with a motion picture.

The loudspeaker—the vacuum tube amplifiers which provided the necessary volume—the microphones which picked up the sound for recording—the electrically driven recorder—the synchronizing system that tied together sound and scene—were five basic contributions to the new art. All five were made by Western Electric.

Many years of research in the field of sound-transmission went into the development of these elements and of the recording and reproducing equipment built around them.

Since 1926, Western Electric has made many more contributions—such as Noiseless Recording, Wide Range Sound and, more recently, the basic development of Stereophonic Sound. Microphones, amplifiers, recorders and loudspeakers, have been steadily improved.

Producers, too, have studied and advanced the techniques for using the equipment.

Continuing research by Bell Telephone Laboratories, by the Electrical Research Products Division of Western Electric and by the sound technicians of the nation's studios, assures still finer sound in the pictures of tomorrow!

out of vast silence - a voice

"...wait a minute - you ain't heard nothin' yet!

Nothing could have been more startling, more astounding. When people heard it they cheered, they applauded without restraint; and they wept.

The year was 1927; the voice, that of Al Jolson, America's greatest entertainer; the event, the first talking feature picture. With the audibility of his voice Jolson has opened wide the doorway of a new motion picture dimension.

The emotional thrill of this and other memorable entertainment events has been vividly recreated by Columbia in its forthcoming Technicolor production, "The Jolson Story".

To Warner Bros., for their courageous pioneering in the realm of sound, Columbia acknowledges a common and grateful industry appreciation, on this, the 20th Anniversary of sound.

To Al Jolson the world will forever be indebted for his contribution . . . the gift of entertainment.

NEGRO Musicians' local 767 is conducting a determined campaign to stamp out the practice of some of its members "jamming" in after-hour spots. These musikers have been wont to gather in small groups in public places and give out on their instruments, or else show singly somewhere and go into a routine—frequently in places which do not employ musicians. The local automatically bends offenders over the barrel because they are offering entertainment sans any emolument. Fines varying between $25 and $50 are meted out, according to degree of flagrancy of the violation of union rule. Three fines have been slapped on this week.

FIRST disc jockey ever to air over a coast-to-coast network hookup will be Barry Gray, of WOR, NY, who this autumn will get coverage over a skein of 20 Mutual stations, including KHJ here. His sponsors largely will be local and on some of the outlets transcriptions will be used. To ease around the regulations governing platter-spinning over a web, each station will actually twirl its own turntable, on a cue-in arrangement which will be worked out and wired outlets in advance of each program. Gray will do all the spieling from NY, and then on signal stations will start spinning the discs simultaneously.

CHARLES Einfeld is leading the bidding for the latest, unpublished novel by Charles Jackson, author of "The Lost Weekend." Tagged "Fall of Valor," Paramount and Metro are giving Enterprise a run for the story property, with the price now in the six figure class. Einfeld wants the property, it was learned yesterday, for Ginger Rogers. Film would follow "Maggi July" and "Wild Calendar" on femme star's schedule.

SOME recording companies reported to be asking double barreled contracts of artists and talent, seeking to tie them to transcription rights as well as wax work. Belief is that majority do not intend expansion into actual production of transcriptions but are seeking protection against dual companies with both interests, i.e. Capitol and possibly others that may later expand and who would doubly influence talent.

THROUGH a confusion of captions, Dolores Costello was listed in some copies of Daily Variety yesterday as a member of the cast of "Don Juan," the first sound picture. This error was detected and corrected in a large part of the edition. Miss Costello was not in "Don Juan," although she played in other pictures of that era with John Barrymore.

FCC KILLS CBS DEAL FOR KQW

C. Wakefield objected to the majority finding, claiming no evidence has been introduced to show that Columbia's purchase of KQW would constitute a threat of monopoly. Fact that 11 other stations now serve the city and the obvious benefits of CBS sustaining and net originations out of Frisco were also overlooked in the majority decision, they declared. CBS is expected to appeal the finding in court since the FCC ruling, in effect, bars the chain from acquiring additional stations anywhere in the country.

Elliott Bids For Drama Stardom

Republic's "In Old Sacramento," William Elliott - Constance Moore starrer, were set yesterday to open in the Paramount Hollywood and Downtown Theatres August 15 with "My Pal Trigger," Roy Rogers special, as other half of double bill. Wurtzel's first four productions include "Rendezvous 24" and "Deadline for Murder," already released; "Strange Journey," now awaiting release; and "Dangerous Millions," currently in editing stage.

Your thespian bold
In the days of old
Set out on his private yacht
And sailed the seas
In a spanking breeze
To a tropical island spot.

He roves no more
Where wild winds roar
On the perilous Spanish Main,
For he owns a hunk
Of a gambling junk
Attached to an anchor chain.

He finds romance
In a ship of chance
On a stationary cruise
Where the eager rubes
Roll speckled cubes
And warble the snake-eye blues.

The man at the wheel
Has nerves of steel
And spins with a right good will
He steers with zeal
On an even keel
While the ship is standing still.

So it's Yo-Heave-Ho
And a bale of dough
And never a storm to mar
On a gambling ship
Where the clippers clip
And the dollars cross the bar.

G. I. War Brides

(Comedy-Drama)

REPUBLIC RELEASE. Associate producer, Armand Schaefer. Director, George Blair. Original screenplay, John K. Butler. Photography, Alfred Keller. Art direction, Hilyard Brown. Set decorations, John McCarthy, Jr., Earl B. Wooden. Musical director, Morton Scott. Music score, Joseph Dubin. Editor, Tony Martinelli. Sound, Fred Stahl. Special effects, Howard and Theodore Lydecker.

CAST — Co-stars Anna Lee and James Ellison. Features Harry Davenport, William Henry, Stephanie Bachelor, Doris Lloyd, Robert Armstrong, Joseph Sawyer. Supporting players, Mary McLeod, Carol Savage, Pax Walker, Helen Gerald, Pat O'Moore, Maxine Jennings, Russell Hicks, Francis Pierlot, Pierre Watkin, Eugene Lay, Lois Austin, Virginia Carroll.

PREVIEWED in Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 6, 1946. Running time: 69 MINS.

Republic has a money exploitation picture in "G. I. War Brides," first film to deal with this seasonal topic. Subject has been treated with a light touch, and an entertaining story fashioned around a plot which is entirely plausible, simultaneously providing strong romantic note.

Anna Lee and James Ellison co-star in this Armand Schaefer production, but interest rests primarily with Miss Lee, due to her excess footage on screen. Hers is a charming performance, as the English girl who impersonates a British war bride, taking the place of another, so she can get to this country and marry her American fiance. Action unfolds both aboard the bride ship and in Los Angeles.

George Blair has drained humorous possibilities from John K. Butler's original screenplay, in his direction. He has combined English girl's pathetic plight with good deal of well-timed comedy, and gains audience sympathy from story's take-off. Film is told partially in flashback, later as straight-forward narrative.

Miss Lee, photographed beautifully by Alfred Keller, has capable star mate in Ellison, who doesn't appear until film is nearly half finished. Ellison plays part for comedy, and turns in job well done.

Topping supporting cast are Harry Davenport, as Ellison's grandfather; William Henry, American officer femme star takes trip to meet; Doris Lloyd, who helps Miss Lee in her impersonation; Robert Armstrong, reporter who becomes suspicious and tips off immigration authorities of deception. Balance of large cast are okay, as are all technical credits.

Warners Throws Switch on Poor Man's Newssheet

With full panoply of kliegs, bleachers and outdoor show Warners turned the switch on KFWB's illuminews around the four corners of Hollywood and Vine last night. It was the creme de la preem and a fast moving show that Harry Maizlish and crew framed for the famous freres as ballyhoo for their broadcasts, their pictures and, incidentally, the presentation of news a la Times Square to an inaugural crowd of 25,000.

With kleigs spotlighting him, nervous announcer Lou Marcelle, steadied by guy wires and anxious friends, literally shouted Warner wares from housetops for opening. From perch atop cornice of the news-be-ribboned Taft Building, gabber introed show that starred visiting Gov. Earl C. Warren and Mayor Fletcher Bowron, and featured host of theatrical personalities including Leo Carrillo, Tommy Dorsey's band, Earl Carroll and company of cuties, Hedda Hopper, Tom Breneman, Slim Gaillard, John Kingsley and Alexis Smith, who unveiled the ionic incandescents.

While traffic snarled for blocks around, and KFWB blared for set-sitters who took it diluted as straight sound, and three sets of bleachers groaned under citizenry, the show showed and perhaps set a pattern for premieres. Show was a model of brevity considering numbers involved, none of whom got more than a three-minute take in two-hour event that also presented Ken Murray, Marie Wilson, Jack McElroy, Dale Evans, George Fisher, Bob Graham and Frances Scully.

At 9 p.m., at conclusion of show, initial message was lettered across sign which Warners shares with Gruen Company's two clocks. About half of sign space is taken up with permanent commercials between which come words, "with freedom of news comes light and understanding." Three minutes of news followed and was succeeded by brief Hollywood history written by Judge Harlan Palmer, publisher of the Citizen News. Regular news took over from 9:25 until 11 p.m. when the newscast finales nightly.

AFRA Eyes Platter Profits, Plans Disc Performer Code

A code and pay scale for radio actors working in dramatic recordings is being considered by bigwigs of American Federation of Radio Artists. Advent of the dramatic disc, growing ever popular, caught union with its rate card down. But at forthcoming convention here, Aug. 23 to 26, the matter will be placed high on the agenda.

Union figures that since such solo platters and albums are bringing fancy prices, actors working them should get commensurate coin. To date they have been working for whatever they personally bargain from producers. Union wants to eliminate the soft touch and substitute set standards per disc of via hourly pay rate, as per musicians, and as it (AFRA) has with transcription companies.

Singers with recording dance bands would also be included in deal, along with sound effects persons, thesps and announcers. If failing to set up national code at convention, it's possible may be left in hands of each local to handle for themselves. However, latter is unlikely.

Rothschild Family Enters Pic Biz, Inks UA Contract

New York, Aug. 6.—Rothschild banking family breaks into motion picture business in a deal whereby a scion of the family would make pictures in Paris for worldwide distribution by United Artists. Deal was okayed by UA board of directors Friday. Agreement with Elie de Rothschild is for three years, calling for a minimum of one and maximum of three pix per year.

Board also discussed deal pending with Edward Small for distribution of pictures of quartet of producers he heads. Other three are Howard Hawks, Sidney Buchman and Hal Horne-Armand Deutsch's Story Productions.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Now that all the tumult and the shouting have died down over in Paris, the peace conference settles down to considering peace treaties. There are several points we have to keep in mind about this conference, so that we will not be too carried away by the lines and the action. One is that the nations outside the Big Four cannot do anything more at Paris than "recommend" changes in the treaties. That's been true from the beginning, but we're liable to forget it. Another point to be remembered is that Molotov temperamentally gets excited about almost every issue. He opposes almost everything proposed by the United States or Great Britain, and in his attack, he shouts so vehemently that the temperatures of everybody else rises, too. Even Byrnes, of the cool Southern temperament, forgot yesterday that he'd said the day before that some people are making a big fuss out of an unimportant issue. One thing is certain. The Paris show, with Molotov in the cast, is certain not to be dull.

For action, thrills, suspense and dramatic punch "The Killers" shapes up as the top straightaway detective story film of the year to date. The picture is fortunately cast, directed with a sure touch and produced with keen showmanship. It is a good example of the too-much neglected method of selecting cast and materials to tell a dramatic story rather than tailoring a story to fit highly exploited personalities. Owing to the absence of marquee names "The Killers" may be a slow starter at the box office, but once the word gets around there won't be any dull moments for the help in the ticket booths.

The audience is jolted to the edge of the seat with a murder by two professional killers in the first few feet of film. It is kept there from then on till the action ends in a spectacular gun battle. Contributing to the thrills and excitement are a big pay-roll robbery, a lot of assorted gunplay, some highly absorbing and realistic detective work, convincing shots of underworld and prison life and a prize fight sequence that is the sort of thing the yucks hoped to see when they laid down their dough for Louis-Conn ringside seats.

The prize fight, incidentally, is one of the highlights of a good performance by Burt Lancaster, making his film debut in this picture. Lancaster gathers plenty kudos in the role of "Swede" Lund, prize fighter who is lured into a robbery gang and thoroughly doublecrossed by a gal who runs more to looks than scruples. Same can be said of Ava Gardner who brings lot of sultry sex to the part of the girl. Edmond O'Brien also scores with smooth, hard realism as the doggedly persistent insurance detective who is the leading figure of the story. Sam Levene, as a police detective, William Conrad and Charles McGraw, as the hired killers, and Albert Dekker as the head villain, do distinctive work. Rest of the supporting cast match up excellently with principals in their work.

Picture is first independent production by Mark Hellinger, lately of Warners, and he gets off to an auspicious start. Robert Siodmak's direction gets high drama out of Anthony Veiller's successful scripting of the Ernest Hemingway story.

Camera work of Woody Bredell is closely keyed to the mood of the yarn and is made effective factor in the development of the drama and suspense.

RKO QUARTERLY NET REACHES $3,205,398

and subsids earned a net profit of $3,205,398 for second quarter of 1946, almost triple the $1,280,734 figure for the comparative period in 1945, company announced last night. Net profits for the first half of 1946 totaled $6,881,352 as against the $2,421,778 net earnings for first half of 1945.

RKO's tremendous advance and Warner Bros.' reported $14,749,000 for first nine months of current year, more than double latter company's $6,564,000 profit for the same nine month period in 1945, bolsters a Daily Variety forecast that this year's net profits for the film industry would exceed $100,000,000. A recent Standard and Poor analysis predicted more than double of 1945's $65,000,000 earnings for the industry. Sales chiefs for various companies believe the upward trend will continue for the remainder of the year because early b.o. hot weather dip in business has leveled off and grosses have rallied substantially.

RKO's second quarter earnings is equivalent to 84 cents per share on the 3,818,422 shares of common stock outstanding at end of that quarter as against 38 cents per share in 1945 on 2,873,053 shares outstanding. Company's first half of 1946 earnings is equivalent to approximately $1.80 per share as against 72 cents in 1945.

RKO on June 29, 1946 had a net working capital of $39,030,000 plus $24,400,000 in cash and United States Government securities. Figure compares with a net working capital of $22,725,000 and $15,400,000 in cash and government securities on hand June 30, 1945. Refinancing program completed last February together with company's profitable operations, it was indicated by company toppers, were the contributing factors in company's substantially improved net working capital and cash positions.

THE GRAPEVINE: The downtown publishers may be standing side by side in the matter of faith and hope but they don't see eye to eye anymore on sweet charity. For several years there's been an agreement among the four metropolitan papers on the subject boosting certain amusements and sharing a cut of the receipts for the private charities of the sheets. But this is no more. The Times, through publisher Norman Chandler, is serving notice on the other three gazettes that hereafter it will go its own way in the matter of collecting charity coin. Its two chief sources of revenue will be its Golden Gloves tournament and the annual professional football game it conducts. A spokesman for Chandler emphasized that there was no split in the publishers' ranks but that the Times decided it would be a bit more selective in the charities it sponsors. Real story behind the move is said to be the rebuff a pompous publisher's representative was given some months ago when he demanded a split of the Sonja Henie show receipts, if that event were to be given any publicity. Times won't participate in the charity exuded by the Ice Capades, which in the estimation of L.A. sports editors had come to rank alongside the Kentucky Derby and World Series as a sports event. But as to the generous helping of the parimutuel of the local racetracks—Santa Anita kicked in $88,000 one year to newspaper funds—and even the Times is not ready to sacrifice that. Times spokesman allowed as how a public accounting of various charity funds might be in order and pointed out that the Chandler sheet was building in the near future a $300,000 clubhouse for boys in Lincoln Park from its charity coin.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Only spot in town where you can get kosher rye bread is Shanty Healey's, operated by a couple of Irishmen . . . Clad in 18th Century lace and breeches, Gary Cooper dashed from the set of "Unconquered" at Paramount to witness the award of a Navy Cross to Lieut. Michael Burke at Warners. They became friends while working on "Cloak and Dagger" . . . Hail and farewell was given Johnny Flinn on his departure from the Warner flackery at a party tossed by his colleagues at Falcon's Lair, Rudolph Valentino. They made an A production out of it because Johnny rated it on all counts . . . New kind of personal appearances is planned by Enterprise. They'll have masks made of the six leading players in "Arch of Triumph" and send them on a coast-to-coast tour. Probably under tutelage of a mask of Bill Blowitz, the Enterprise publicity head . . . C. B. DeMille will celebrate his 65th birthday, and his 34th year as a film director, on Aug. 12 . . . Beautiful young lady being seen around town with Eddie Bruzzell is his niece, Gloria, who's vacationing here this summer. She was offered screen tests but turned them down . . . Attention Senator Claghorn: Paramount has cast George Kirby and Leonard Carey to portray Mason and Dixon in "Unconquered"—the guys who drew that line between North and South . . . Our legit expert, a jaundiced young man indeed on most subjects, was enthusing over "The Fortune Teller," claiming it "creates the Nineties atmosphere so well you leave the theatre looking for Delmonico's and a hot bird and cold bottle."

CALL SHEET: JOHN WARBURTON is probably the unluckiest actor in Hollywood today. He loses the girl in Metro's "Life's for the Loving," high winds blew the roof off his barn in Palm Springs and scattered 30 tons of hay, and yesterday a doctor diagnosed his eye condition as a cyst which will necessitate surgery . . . PATRICIA STEVENS left for San Francisco yesterday to establish her ninth link in a chain of model schools and agencies . . . JAY RICHARD KENNEDY is an example of the inelegant philosophy, "them that has, gets." He's a prominent industrialist who took up writing late in life and now is functioning in a three-way capacity at Columbia. He wrote the original on "Assignment to Treasury," is working on the screen treatment and will act as associate producer to Sidney Buchman . . . LOIS COLLIER will take over the role originally set for Dona Drake in "Flame of Tripoli" at Universal. Dona is suffering from yellow jaundice, which popped up just as she was getting her film career well under way again . . . HEDY LAMARR was awarded a testimonial by 52 members of the production crew on "Dishonored Lady" for her "good sportsmanship and good fellowship" during making of the picture.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Gad, what did the Warners ever do to Henry Luce? That Life Magazine layout on "Night and Day" was a hatchet job plus, with a dirty dig in every sentence. It was less a film review than a denunciation . . . Mary Pickford's niece, Gwynne, arrived from the east for a visit of several months while her husband, George Ornstein, goes to South America for United Artists. He is in the UA sales department and the trek southward is part of his indoctrination . . . Ernest Haycox has been hornswoggled into his first job of screenplay writing. Al Rogell went to the Portland home of the writer, who's sold many stories to the films but never wrote directly for them, and took him on a fishing trip. When they came back, Haycox had agreed to script "Heaven Only Knows" for Seymour Nebenzal. Rogell will direct . . . Danny Kaye and Eve Arden will toss a party for the Goldwyn Girls at Ciro's tonight . . . Abbott and Costello will open their new Strip offices Aug. 21 . . . Aaron Gonzales will celebrate his tenth anniversary as ork leader at the Beverly Hills hotel shortly . . . Three local pop-platteries are waiting to spring at Charlie Barnet, contracts in hand, when the bandleader arrives here to begin his share of the soundtrack for "The Fabulous Dorseys" . . . Dean and Guy Stockwell, the kid actors, staged a terrific fight scene for "The Mighty McGurk" at Metro. It was a short-pants version of the famous "The Spoilers" battle. Their mother, accepting congratulations on the sidelines, explained: "The fight ought to have been good. They practice often enough at home!"—D.D.T.

VALENTINE SIGNED FOR 'POSSESSED' CAMERA CHORE

Joe Valentine was signed yesterday by Warners on loan-out from Skirball - Manning Productions as cameraman on "Possessed." He will replace Sid Hickox and starts work at the Warner lot Aug. 14, on completion of his current chore on Skirball - Manning's "The Magnificent Doll."

Change in cameramen is said to have been made at the insistence of Joan Crawford, starring in "Possessed." Shooting of the picture was halted last Friday when Miss Crawford was taken ill with strep throat.

DEAD OF NIGHT

An Unusual Motion Picture...
Comes to Hollywood!

Of the hundreds of movies that come out of the motion picture studios of the world each year, some are good... others, great... a few, startlingly different in kind and quality.

A striking example of this latter type is "DEAD OF NIGHT," a picture so different from the ordinary run of films, so unique in its strange, unearthly theme, its daringly unusual treatment, that it is literally unlike any other motion picture ever filmed.

It is for this reason that the everyday phrases and superlatives of ballyhoo and advertising are completely inadequate to capture the mood, the depth, the excitement of this oddly stirring drama.

Thus, without flags or fanfare... but with a deep sense of pride.. Universal brings J. Arthur Rank's "DEAD OF NIGHT" to the FOUR STAR THEATRE. Brilliantly acted, boldly directed, magnificently produced... and excitingly different from the usual pictures seen in Hollywood.

SHELVEY OPENS BOND DRIVE ON NIGHTERIES

Matt Shelvey, national director of the American Guild of Variety Artists, who arrived from NY headquarters this week to negotiate new contracts with local niteries, commenced his campaign to obtain cash bonds covering floorshow salaries by last night opening talks with operators of Slapsy Maxie's and Florentine Gardens. Two spots are first of list of ten top sites here which have been opposing union's efforts.

AGVA has moderated its demands from those originally made a month ago, when six-day work-weeks were asked, plus cash covering two-week salaries for performers. Last night Shelvey opened his negotiations by stating only one-week bond was asked and no restrictions would be placed on number of days a spot might stay lighted. The union chieftain also revealed a total of 18 niteries in this area already have signed new contracts and posted bonds. Shelvey states that nationally the union has collected $500,000 in bonds since January 1, and since that time also has paid out $168,000 to performers who found themselves working spots which defaulted on salaries.

Light 'n' Airy

by JACK HELLMAN

Are radio's pre-war babies—the auto makers—tiring of the kilocycle medium for whetting buyer interest (when and if they roll off the assembly lines) and casting longing glances toward the visual phase of consumer come-on? There are many reasons for such thinking, notably the the decision of one of the leaders —Ford—to put only one show on the air next fall and allot the rest of the ad dollar to magazines, newspapers and billboards. A thin slice has also been pared for television, with contracts signed last week for the underwriting of all Madison Square Garden events, except the fights, under the Ford aegis.

Before the war the automotive industry was one of radio's best customers even though the Detroit ad chiefs rated the wireless as the fourth media in the order of its effectiveness in stimulating car sales. Motormen have long contended that autos can best be sold by art work rather than lip service. You've got to show them what they'd like to buy, they theorize, and that's where the flash colored magazine page or billboard carries a distinct advantage. Television, when it flowers full bloom, should be a natural for the auto makers and the Ford entry into video marks a definite trend. Radio has little to worry about if the defection takes an alarming or concentrated turn as there are enough commodities to keep the lines forming for preferred time. The networks rolled up record billing during the war years when the auto makers shunned radio—for the good and sufficient reason they had nothing to sell. Yes, we know all about spending tax money but time would still have been premiumed without the war babies.

At Last! The Inside Story of

JULES STEIN

and MCA

Even its vice presidents don't know the full extent of MCA's dealings. Headed by one of the richest men in America (although he shuns publicity and you won't find him in "Who's Who"), this huge, ruthlessly efficient organization handles an astonishingly large number of the top stars of the movies, stage, radio and night clubs. Here at last is the story of the Music Corporation of America, biggest talent agency in the world—and of Jules Stein, who has been threatened, cursed, and sometimes sued, but still remains a mystery. The first of four articles appears in today's issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

NATIONAL THEATRE TOPS HUDDLE ON BONUS DRIVES

National Theatres' district managers go into huddle together to discuss individual problems of operation and procedure for handling forthcoming bonus drives staged by the circuit. Delegates to the NT convention here will be guests of Louis B. Mayer at Metro today for luncheon and will be hosted tonight by Charles P. Skouras, circuit prexy, at a dinner at the Club in Beverly Hills.

Yesterday's session was given over to detailed discussion on forthcoming product, advertising trends, newspaper rationing, outdoor advertising, radio and exploitation. Circuit still considers newspapers as its number one outlet for advertising and exploiting new programs. Radio and billboards follow in that order. Day finished with party at Earl Carroll's in Hollywood for all delegates.

Tomorrow morning group goes to Long Beach for inspection tour of the new prefabricated theatres, the Crest, and the Loyola. Meeting and luncheon follows at the Ambassador hotel, at which bonuses from last drive will be distributed.

Burkett Purchases 'The Highwayman'

James S. Burkett, indie producer, has purchased "The Highwayman," poem by Alfred Noyes, who will receive scripting credit with Jack DeWitt and Renault Duncan on piece. Producer will negotiate with majors for release of film, slated as high budgeter.

Warshauer Chore

WASHINGTON HULLABALOO

By FLORENCE S. LOWE

Washington, Aug. 6.—Bill passed the other day setting a new price on silver has taken the heat off the raw film manufacturers. The bill upped the price of silver from 71.11 cents to 90.5 cents per ounce. That part is not important; what counts is that silver becomes available again.

It is used in film coating and there was a genuine threat to production for several months while Congress hashed out the issue. The people who had silver to sell held back, waiting for the price increase. What made it tough was that Congress had restricted the sale of the government's hoard of the stuff.

Every once in a while comes one of those nightmares that makes you say: "It Shouldn't happen to Hitler." It happened to Warner Bros. here the other day.

The D.C. celebration, commemorating the 20th anniversary of sound was topped off with a fancy luncheon and brass hat invitation screening of the anniversary film, "Night and Day." The luncheon at the Statler hotel went fine and then the guests moved into another room for the screening.

The show teed off with the anniversary short "Okay for Sound" and —you guessed it—something went wrong with the apparatus and part of the short ran through soundless. The rattled company officials clenched their teeth, got a grip on themselves, and then with appropriate fanfare gave the signal to begin "Night and Day."

On the darkened screen there flashed the new remake of "Of Human Bondage."

Yep, somebody had put the wrong reels in the film cans labeled "Night and Day." The lights went on, there was a hurried huddle, everybody was told to please relax, and 15 minutes later, the proper print arrived.

You could see black hair turning gray wherever there was a Warner official.

The same sort of gruesome nightmare happened to 20th-Fox a few months ago when top government officials were invited to a special screening of "Dragonwyck." That time the power went sour and the film kept flickering on and off.

Only a week or so ago, at another invitation party here, it was the Museum of Modern Art which shipped the wrong film from New York and left the audience squirming through a highly technical, scientific pic.

It has been suggested that someone make "Margin for Error" for a special Washington showing.

Major Albert Warner, by the way, is the proud possessor of a recording of the speech he delivered recently when he presented the first all-sound film to the Library of Congress and early sound apparatus to the Smithsonian Institution.

The recording was made without his knowledge and then presented to him by the Library and Smithsonian officials. Understand he played it this past weekend for the brothers.

Howard Smith, playing the lead in the legit smash "Dear Ruth," currently at the National theatre, traveled out to one of the nabes to get his first look at "Her Kind of Man," in which he has a part . . . Joan Winninger, niece of Charles Winninger, also in the play as the juve . . . March of Time ran a quiet screening of "Atom Power" in town, inviting the scientists who participated in the development of the bomb . . . The group had a chance to see itself on the screen, and commented that the short was an able presentation of the subject . . . Beverly Ann Cort, Detroit bobbysoxer, who made the headlines with her "Salome" dance in high school, is now offering to dance free for Washington benefits, according to her p.a. . . . Lichtman Theatre Circuit, operator of a large chain of Negro theatres here and in Virginia, has changed its name to District Theatre Corp . . . Washington MPTO is changing its name to Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Metropolitan D.C., to please its Virginia and Maryland members . . . Capt. Ernest McNeill Eller, USN, is the new director of Navy Public Relations, succeeding Rear Admiral Harold B. Miller . . . The National Symphony orchestra has wound up its season here with a $10,000 deficit.

British camera crew is now in Switzerland, shooting exteriors for "The White Cradle," starring Madeleine Carroll. We seem to recall that an Anglo-American crew will make exteriors there later this year for "The White Tower" . . . Extremists in a Dublin film house hooted through a screening of London's "Victory Parade" recently. And one man threw a fire bucket at the screen . . . Incidentally, Britain's threatened nationwide strike of film theatre employes has been settled by pay increases, two weeks paid vacation and a 48-hour week. The union is the National Association of Kine and Theatrical Employes . . . Picture production in Chile is on the upgrade. One feature is the new Chilean-Argentine film production company which has been shooting interiors at the San Miguel studio in Buenos Aires and exteriors in Chile. New live theatre, which opened in Santiago in January, switched over to a pix policy a few months later.

RKO showcase Keith's will be the first midtown theatre here to terminate the wartime policy of reduced rates for servicemen. New policy goes in Aug. 7, with other theatre people watching it carefully. If there is no repercussion, other houses in town are expected to follow suit. Nabe exhibitors may eliminate the reduced rate Sept. 1.

In addition to everything else, some vets have been showing up at the boxoffices wearing their service tunics and demanding the low servicemen's rates. New policy will not affect the Annie Oakleys and other special treatment given to disabled veterans from the big service hospitals in this area.

Local Tent of the Variety Club holds an amateur boxing carnival in town Aug. 16, with Joe Louis featured as referee. Proceeds go to aid boys' clubs . . . John M. Begg, chief of International Motion Picture Division (cultural) of the State Department, will have visited the following spots before he rounds out his current European trip: London, Copenhagen, Oslo, Stockholm, Berlin, Warsaw, Prague, Paris, Brussels, and the Hague . . . D.C. exhibitors are shaping up a fancy campaign to stave off a proposed 10 per cent local admissions tax on top of the 20 per cent Federal bite.

$10 MILLION GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

Washington, Aug. 7.—Hollywood's net share of film rentals in Europe will approach the $120,000,000 mark this year, it was estimated yesterday by the Department of Commerce. Take is a healthy increase over the 1945 figure of $110,000,000, received from the exhibition of U.S. pictures abroad.

An official for the Department's division of international trade attributed the bulk of the increase to release of royalty payments for U.S. product, which had been blocked during the war years. Figures represent the net balances due U.S. producers after payment of all expenses incident to exhibition of the American product overseas.

LATEST twist put to the "ol' payola," which habitually pops up in the music business, is the touch applied by a small time publisher who this week approached both Capitol and Musicraft platteries with so odiferous a proposition, both offices were liberally dosed with iodoform after the pub had been given the heave-ho. Proposition put up to waxeries was that pub would underwrite complete costs of recording two of his unknown songs if platteries would bring tunes out, using some of better talent on their rosters. When each recording firm nixed suggestion, pub offered to help underwrite platter-production costs, too.

FOR first time in 15 years retail price of sheet music is nudging upwards. Following meeting of outlets in San Francisco last week, all music stores agreed to hike from 35c level to 40c. Artie Schwartz, operator of Pacific Music Sales, largest jobber in west, relayed news to two largest outlets here, Preeman's and Schirmer's, and they agreed to tilt likewise. As yet none of the five big rack-order chains have indicated any upping in sheet copy price, and until they do tilt will never become truly national, for the rack-retailing quintet habitually dispose of more than half of all sheet copies of songs reaching public.

ADDED scenes on "My Brother Who Talked to Horses" were made after Louis B. Mayer, Metro head, had first ruled against adds. Mayer, after seeing film, announced it should go out for release as it stood. Following production huddles, M. J. Mayer finally okayed idea and scenes now are being incorporated.

LIGHT bill at Warner Bros. went astronomical yesterday when director Mike Curtiz called on the electrical department to deliver him 5,000,000 watts of power to feed 274 arc lights and 144 gas jets for "Life with Father" to illuminate a department store scene. Juice was the heaviest for any set in history of the Burbank lot, and it was all for a walk-through for Irene Dunne and Jimmy Lydon, which will make less than two minutes of film.

As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The announcement that we're going to end UNRRA and begin the feeding of the world through world trade channels is good news. Relief will continue in Europe until the end of 1946, and into next spring in the Far East. By that time, Europe will be half through the winter, and the Far East will have a full winter of aid, so that the hope is in the crops of next year. There's indication of the changed situation in the concurrent announcement that we plan to reduce our food shipments to Japan beginning right now, because the crop prospects are good there. Part of the reason for progress in Japan is that we have had virtually complete charge there, and the country, unlike Germany, is not cut into isolated segments, with the food producing regions cut off from the manufacturing.

TRADESHOWN at RKO Studios, Holly-ood, Cal., Aug. 1, 1946. Running time: 2 MINS.

"Criminal Court" is one of those ictures with modest budget and high ntertainment value. Story is tightly lotted, well-acted crime melodrama at moves swiftly and suspensefully a hot climax. Film will add box ffice strength to any bill.

Story starts with Tom Conway, as criminal lawyer with reputation for pectacular and effective courtroom actics, running for district attorney. He is opposed by underworld inter-ests, typified for purposes of the icture by Robert Armstrong in the ole of racketeering night club pro-prietor. Conway plans to give a showing of motion pictures taken of Armstrong's brother (Steve Brodie) and other hoods paying off to coun-ty officials. He puts on pictures in spite of warning from Armstrong, but while they are showing slips out unobserved for a showdown conference with the racketeer. Ensuing quarrel climaxes in the accidental shooting of Armstrong. His songstress sweetheart, working in the joint against his advice, finds the body and gets herself on the spot as the most likely suspect.

True story of the shooting as told by Conway doesn't go down with the police. The girl (Martha O'Driscoll) goes on trial for murder and Conway's best defense isn't good enough. There's the matter of an eye witness that Armstrong's henchmen offer to produce if Conway will retire from the district attorney race. It all adds up to a dramatic trial scene in which Conway manages to produce the witness, his own double-crossing secretary, at the last moment, and save both the girl and his campaign for election.

Conway makes a convincing attorney and Miss O'Driscoll puts on a good performance in the femme lead as does June Clayworth as the erring secretary. Work of the supporting cast is uniformly good and Armstrong scores as the heavy.

The Lawrence Kimble script and Robert Wise's direction make bright and fresh a yarn that could easily lapse into corn. Production has been handled by Martin Mooney to get best possible value out of the materials and the show does credit to him and to Sid Rogell, executive producer. Camera work of Frank Redman is top quality.

Harry Joe Brown Inks Geo. Waggner

Russ Writer Says H'w'd Cans Pix Like Chi Cans Pig Squeals

Ilya Ehrenburg, the junketing journalist from Russia, drew a bead on Hollywood yesterday and declared its film industry had attained "complete mastery over the American mind" and its censors stamped out "any semblance of free thought."

In the Moscow daily Isvestia, Ehrenburg asserted that American producers "turn out films as fast as Chicago meat packers canned meat and provided a convenient set of morals and thoughts for American people." He sideswiped the Johnston Office, claiming it "pitilessly deletes from the films everything which seems like free thinking." Nevertheless, the Soviet hatchetman declared, Hollywood is still regarded with suspicion by the "Quaker religionists" who are "abashed by its morals."

The Ehrenburg diatribe, which singed American newspapermen as "vigorous people but not too well educated," included reference to Charlie Chaplin —"even he has learned what it means to go up against the world of money."

In Washington, Joyce O'Hara, Eric Johnston's aide, said he did not believe Ehrenburg's statement should be dignified with an answer but commented he had better be careful because the party line might shift and "Ehrenburg might be compelled tomorrow to praise American films." He added:

"I wonder what would happen to him if he went to Stalin and demanded free thinking on the Russian screen."

Rendezvous With Annie

(Comedy)

REPUBLIC RELEASE. Associate producer and director, Allan Dwan. Screenplay, Mary Loos and Richard Sale. Based on magazine story by Mary Loos and Richard Sale. Photography, Reggie Lanning. Art direction, Hilyard Brown. Set decorations, John McCarthy, Jr. and George Milo. Musical director, Cy Feuer. Music by Joseph Dubin. Sound, Richard Tyler and Howard Wilson. Costumes, Adele Palmer. Special effects, Howard and Theodore Lydecker. Dance direction, Fanchon. Makeup, Bob Mark. Film editor, Arthur Roberts.

CAST — Eddie Albert, Faye Marlowe, Gail Patrick, Philip Reed, Sir C. Aubrey Smith, Raymond Walburn, William Frawley, James Millican, Wallace Ford, Will Wright, Lucien Littlefield, Edwin Rand, Mary Field, Richard Sale, Bob Foy.

PREVIEWED at RCA Studios, Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 7, 1946. Running time: 89 MINS.

"Rendezvous With Annie" is smooth and glittering farce comedy with a smattering of belly laughs, a steady succession of chuckles and a lot of hearty human interest. It even has a novel gimmick to make the plot go around and, all-in-all, it looks like sure fire box office.

Attempt of Eddie Albert, as a returned G. I. to prove himself father of his wife's baby is a new basis for farce complications. Subject is one of those that could have been made thoroughly risque, but isn't. It is worked exclusively for laughter and the homey touch with Albert making a successful bid for audience sympathy and Faye Marlowe, as his wife, gets heart throbs out of her role.

Albert's dilemma develops when, stationed in London, he makes a trip home to New Jersey to see his wife on a three-day pass. Jaunt is promoted and made possible by two ATC pilots, played by Philip Reed and James Milligan. They persuade him it will be a cinch to sneak him on and off the plane, get him to the home town and back to London without a hitch.

They do just that, although there are some difficulties involving a traveling general picked up in Newfoundland, a banker from Albert's home town met in a New York night club, and a few minor brushes with the military police. Albert spends his night at home, but has to keep it a secret because he is technically A.-W.O.L.

The real trouble comes when he is discharged from the Army and gets home to find his wife has just given birth to a son. The villagers, with a memory for dates, suspect the worst. So does the family lawyer in the matter of $500,000 left by a deceased uncle of Albert's for the latter's first son. Albert can't disclose the irregular plane trip without getting his flying pals into trouble. He can't prove parenthood without admitting the plane trip and the baby can't get the $500,000.

It is worked out eventually in high comedy involving Gail Patrick, as a night club singer, Sir C. Aubrey Smith, as an English diplomat and air-raid shelter companion of Albert's in London, Wally Ford as a New York reporter, and Raymond Walburn as the village banker.

They all handle their parts to top effect for comedy.

Picture is Allan Dwan's first production for Republic and he has done a top job in his dual capacity as producer and director. The picture is well mounted and photography of Reggie Lanning is notably good.

17,504 THEATRES PLAY WB FILMS ON SOUND ANNI

Atlantic City, Aug. 7.—As tribute to Warners 20th Anniversary of Sound Week, 17,504 theatres throughout country played Warners product, Norman H. Moray, captain of company's 1946 sales drive, announced today at final session of three-day international sales convention at Hotel Ambassador.

Of this number, 980 houses were in Greater New York area, setting an all-time high mark in complete booking coverage and amount of playing time.

TALKIES' BIG FUTURE

In addressing wind-up flight of confab, Harry M. Warner, prexy of company, declared that the career of talking pictures has only begun, and the next 20 years will see new advancements surpassing what has been done in past.

"The next broad phase in the use of the talking screen will be as a leading force for world betterment through the spread of enlightenment and combatting evil influences," Warner said.

"By use of modern equipment and 16m projection, motion pictures soon will be brought to the world's remote places and as a result education of peoples and promotion of world understanding will be greatly increased."

Paying tribute to men who did scientific, technical and engineering groundwork for sound, as well as those who helped commercialize it, company head declared so many have played a part in the success of talking pictures that it would be unfair for anyone to take all the credit. Besides, he added, there is credit and glory enough for all.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY CARDS

One of highlights of day was presentation to Harry Warner by Stephen Q. Shannon, director of Greeting Card Institute, of sheaf of birthday cards, signed and sent individually by the governors of the 48 states, conveying their respective felicitations to company on its 20th anniversary of talking pictures.

Feature product to be released up to end of year was announced by Ben Kalmenson, who presided over meet. These will include "The Big Sleep," "Cloak and Dagger," "Nobody Lives Forever," "Deception," "The Man I Love," "Never Say Goodbye" and "The Time, the Place and the Girl."

Among other speakers on closing date were Mort Blumenstock, Roy Haines, Jules Lapidus, Norman Ayers, Ed Hinsky and Haskell. Division and district managers held group confabs of their men during afternoon.

J. L. Warner also spoke to delegates, asserting that company is in best position in its history. "We have 20 major features either completed or before the cameras, 40 stories in preparation, and an additional pool of 60 properties from which to select productions for the coming year," he said.

THE GRAPEVINE: Anti-American feeling is running high in Tiajuana with the authorities taking delight in pushing American citizens around. Mexican police arrest Americans on the slightest pretexts and give them their choice—night in a louse-infested jail or $200 bail. Most take the latter alternative and haven't time to stick around for the trial. So the cops pocket the $200 bail. U.S. Customs officers say Americans have no protection below the border . . . Case in point was the invitation of a Tiajuana nightclub operator to a group of Hollywoodites—including Bert Gordon, Lyle Talbot, Huntz Hall, Sidney Logan, Shelley Winters and Jeanne LaBlanc—to attend the opening of his joint. He promised all accommodations would be provided. When the party arrived they found only four hotel rooms available and most of the guests slept in the lobby or walked the streets. At the nightclub where they were presumably guests of honor they were heckled and insulted by other patrons. When one member of the party expressed his dislike of Tiajuana, a local gendarme beat him up . . . Dorothy McGuire is giving the RKO publicity department in New York the clam treatment. CONSENT DECREE SEEN IN SCOPHONY TELE PATENT CASE

Washington, August 7. — Provision against any future "exclusive licenses" on improved Scophony patents in television is expected to be spelled out in a consent decree winding up the Department of Justice's anti-trust suit against Scophony, Paramount Pictures, Inc., and the General Precision Instrument Co.

A Department of Justice spokesman said today that provisions governing open licensing of any future Scophony processes in television would be subject of another conference this month with attorneys of the picture-tele companies. Without specific language in a decree, it was explained, nothing could prevent Scophony from entering into similar arrangements restricting the sale of a process which may be perfected at some later time.

Neither the Skiatron tube, nor the large screen video viewer has been successfully applied to commercial tele up to the present time, according to statements made by the Paramount official, Paul Raibourn.

LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

Comedy writers and the avid consumers of their output who skim the borderline of good taste in their boarding house reach for laughs will have to contain their temptation for the soiled socko come the new season on pain of having their knuckles gently but firmly rapped. Busy-bodies and blue noses, turning from the war to greener fields for their pet aversions, are expected to turn their guns and sprays on radio, their targets as of yore being the funny fellows who parade their contaminated gags across the living room. A canvass of the networks would indicate that a more stringent policy governing comedy scripts will be enforced to discourage the crusaders against smut, real or fancied. NBC's Sid Strotz, for one, makes it nose-plain that his network will countenance no overt acts of scripting or ad lib double entendre and that the reins will be drawn tighter than ever before. The other nets have been more liberal in the interpretation of their tenets on good taste but the general feeling is one of closer supervision by continuity acceptance, which is the net's term for censor or monitor. The tempting urge will be sharpened considerably next season due to the great number of shows of that genre and the distressing thought that jokes are used up faster than they can be invented. The upsurge of situation comedy shows also makes the reaching a little more palatable to the dream boys at the type foundries. So keep it clean, kids, and the nets will give you a good conduct medal.

Chicago radio has been reeling under some stiff body blows of late but the sockdolager that will take what's left of the wind in its sails is this latest bit of misfortune to blow down boul Mich. That 14-year veteran of the Chicago airways, the National Barn Dance, has been yanked by Alka Seltzer and its successor, to add insult to injury, is a Hollywood show. It's an Art Rush package built around Roy Rogers, Dale Evans and Sons of the Pioneers. After first spinning of audition platter, top man of Miles Lab ordered contracts drawn up and another Chicago radio institution groveled in the dust. Why the change, you may ask, when it has done so well over the years? It's the old story of a saturated audience, the striking off in a new direction for converts to Alka Seltzer.

Chain breaks . . . That perpetual juvenile, George Fisher, moves over to KNX with his cinema chit chat for Karl's footwear as soon as he can detach himself from Bernie Weinberg and Thrifty. He'll air five times a week at 4:45 . . . A pair of solid performers will be back on the big time if deals now simmering reach the boiling point. We mean, of course, Al Jolson and Milton Berle. If Eversharps move along the dotted line they'll both work for the same agency . . . That radio can do a bangup exploitation job once it sets it hand to it was amply proven by KFWB's ballyhoopla at the unveiling of the station's Flashcast. It was a Harry Maizlish super production and dwarfed any previous radio stunt using media other than radio . . . If product shortages force Lambert Pharmaceutical to trim its budget and turn Billie Burke adrift, MCA will have little trouble lining up another client. There's already outside interest, no doubt inspired by a 10-rating in season for a Saturday a.m. show costing around $3,000 . . . Inglewood Park's weekly musicals on KNX reaches the 1,000-mark Aug 20 . . . California's Newspaper Centennial Aug. 15 will be marked by a broadcast over Don Lee from Monterey, where the state's first sheet was published . . . Norman Blackburn will pass his vacation at Colorado Springs with the missus . . . Bobby Dolan taps the beat for Dinah Shore on the Ford opus . . . Second show on the new Lux season will be "Vines Have Tender Grapes" with Margaret O'Brien starred. Opener, a biggie, is being cleared.

Radio Writers Guild is very much interested in Paul Warwick's recording enterprise whereby he'll make albums of funny sayings and situations by the kilocycle's top zanies. What intrigues their curiosity is the payoff, if any, to the men who put the words into the mouths of the top drawer clowns. If material from broadcasts are used, no matter how carefully edited, the Guild will move in on behalf of its members and demand a share of the mechanical rights. Announcement by Warwick fails to make clear this point and Guild officers will hold their fire until he has had a chance to explain the workings of his partnership with the recording stars.

Hitch hikes . . . Lest we be remiss in our reportorial vigilance, here goes for a fast run-down on the Crosby situash. Hank Booraem of the Hutchins agency is still romancing Everett Crosby on the Philco wax deal, Bing takes his golf outings with Vic Hunter, who's dying hard for General Motors, and MCA is growing impatient at the stall given Skitch Henderson, who is wanted by Bob Hope as music director. Meanwhile, Philco is stymied in its plan for a two-hour wax strip on ABC, vainly hoping that Bing will be signed as the lead platter. Should that fall through the whole project collapses . . . Frank Sinatra has made a fabulous offer to Carroll Carroll to write his show next season . . . Tony Stanford, veteran radio producer, has gone on staff at Young & Rubicam and assigned to the Ed Gardner show . . . Bill Bacher returns to radio, but briefly, to produce the all-star show on the City Hall steps Tuesday commemorating the 100th anni of the state's flag raising. Meredith Willson conducts the music and ABC carries . . . Producer Dick Mack, back from NY, needs only a band to round out the Joan Davis show for its Sept. 30 takeoff. Wally Brown straights for the star, Shirley Mitchell and Verna Felton have supporting leads, group singers replace the vocalist, and writing staff will be composed of Joe Quillen, Bobby O'Brien and Matt Linden. George Gruskin stands by in the wings.

COAST PLUGGERS UNION AUTONOMY NIX MAY HOLD

Coast chapter of the Music Publishers' Contract Employes (songpluggers' union) has been nixed on its bid for autonomy, according to word received from national prexy Bob Miller. Local board of governors some time ago made request for measure of authority in handling membership applications, holding trials for regulation infractions, etc. Miller, in his thumbs-down decision, merely stated that organization holds but single charter in American Federation of Labor and that is national in scope.

As consequence it is certain a motion will be made at mass-meeting of pluggers here Friday to break from national body, ask AFL to revoke charter and issue three separate ones, NY, Chicago and Coast. However, it is improbable such a motion will be carried since majority of local pluggers are employed by NY-headquartered publishers, all of whom are tied to union in its present state and the local reps will be in fear of incurring home office disfavor if they openly embrace such a proposition. However, last night both Coast regional director Nat Winecoff and secretary Mac Green stated that another, and more strongly worded bid for autonomy will be made to Miller following Friday's get-together.

It was pointed out that nearly one-third of national organization is centered here, with local body having no vote at any time, since only the prez and exec council of 12 members can hand down final decisions on any matter and none but NY pluggers ever seem to catch appointments to these posts.

Two months ago Miller told Coast chapter it might hold benefit show here this autumn with net proceeds earmarked for needy ex-members or unemployed dues-depositers. Localities have fluffed off idea, however, since net would go into national treasury and NY would dispense funds, whereas Coastmen aver they would hold show only in event money remained here with local board handling it for local needy.

East's Radio Men Okay Cain Plan

prised of members of Screen Writers Guild, Dramatists Guild, Authors Guild and its own (RWG) be appointed to investigate fully Cain plan.

Chicago, Aug. 7. — Midwestern Radio Writers Guild council today came out hands down for Cain's American Authors Authority plan. Endorsement will be referred to general membership meeting Aug. 15 for further action.

Action, according to Herb Futran, RWG prexy, is based on fact that midwestern scribes now have opportunity to protect rights to their material. He declared RWG has been kicked around by American Association of Advertising Agencies on negotiations, and that fulfillment of plan is much more important here than to Now York or Coast writers because mid-western group is smaller and members are less "important" than those elsewhere.

"Ownership rights have been rejected and violated all over country, but especially in the midwest, where number of top ranking writers who aren't in position to demand desirable contracts are greatly in minority," he said. "We, therefore, welcome move by screen writers, and also the opportunity to move toward establishment of this principle with them."

Council of Guild in Hollywood indorsed the Cain plan last Monday.

Feld, Goetz Fight Ends 'Bloomer Girl' at Int

Battle over control of production plans on "Bloomer Girl" between producer Milton Feld and William Goetz precipitated International's decision yesterday to drop the projected $2,500,000 production from its slate. Although John C. Wilson and Nat Goldstone owned the property, Feld had control of the motion picture rights sewed up.

At the time the production deal was made with International, it is asserted that Feld reserved rights to make decisions on production procedure. It wasn't long after that disagreements of various types began popping up between Feld and the William Goetz-Leo Spitz combo.

Parties concerned couldn't get together on original script written by

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

TREND is growing among orks switching their record label affiliations to repeat discings of their most popular tunes of years back. Artie Shaw, in his Musicraft album of Cole Porter ditties, which will be released next week, repeats, with new arrangement, his top hit of all time, "Begin the Beguine," with which he first scored for Victor in 1938. Larry Clinton, now prepping platters for Cosmo, is re-doing items he did originally for Victor in pre-war period. Duke Ellington, when he commences pact with Musicraft in November, definitely will disc again his best stuff of past. Jimmie Lunceford, under terms of his recently signed deal with Majestic, will again cut songs he did six years or more ago for Decca. Angle on bands being able to re-cut same ditties is that standard recording contracts stipulate that a specific tune may not be waxed again for five years. As long as leaders leap that span of time in reaching back to refurbish their top hits, and use different arrangements, former employers are powerless to interfere, although it is known that Victor, for instance, is none too pleased at Shaw cutting "Beguine" for rival, since the 1938 version still is a stout seller.

NEW gimmick which is said to be the last word in simulating gunfire flashes is being used by cameraman James Wong Howe in U.S. Pictures' "Pursued," now going at Warner Bros. Seventy small photographic flashbulbs are set on the perimeter of a circular wooden base, fixed to revolve on a pinion. Base is then wired, and the frequency and speed of the flashes is governed by how fast the base whirls over a contact point. Flashes can be controlled to a point of being accurately six-shooter, pump-gun, or tommy speeds.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Molotov's jumping up in the Conference of Paris and insisting all over again on the two-third vote is not out of character. This is typical Soviet procedure. One instance that is easiest recalled was at San Francisco. There, the question of admitting Argentina into the United Nations, was presumably settled in committee, after bitter and long opposition from Russia. Since that committee had decided, as a trade to seal the deal, to admit the Ukraine and White Russia, it was supposed that bringing up the question in the plenary session would be routine. But after the Ukraine and White Russia were voted in, Molotov was up arguing against Argentina all over again. It's Russian tactics to argue every major issue through every stage possible, even creating the threat of a crisis each time. And even though we've seen the performance before, it goes over with the audience every time.

You know who is the honest guy, in spite of this or that—
He rides a palomino and he wears a big white hat.

While the diplomats over in Paris are discussing the possibilities of the atomic age, Joe Public is still horse minded. A bomb may be exploded in yonder mine shaft in the town of Rimrock, Arizona, but the explosion is only one of those things. The climax comes when Hopalong Rogers tosses away his six-gun and slugs Albemarle Westchester into innocuous desuetude beside yonder overhanging rock in San Fernando Valley, although the scene is North Dakota. There is something fascinating about a guy who leaps aboard a hoss and gallops along the highway so fast that the rustlers' bullets can't keep up with him. A gent who drops an atomic bomb simply drops it and gets the hell out of there before anybody can take his picture. Science has done a lot for war and drama, but a scientist will never take the place of a buckaroo and an atom bomb will never take the place of a six-gun. Or when and if it does, there won't be any Hitching Post theatres, or any film business, or anybody.

NT CUTTING UP BONUS OF $124,915

Total of $124,915.46 will be distributed to district and theatre managers of National Theatres as a result of increased business during the fourth Charles Skouras Showmanship Campaign. Bonus is the largest sum ever given in a showmanship campaign and was turned over yesterday to division presidents by Charles P. Skouras for distribution to their managers.

Skouras' presentation of the bonus coin climaxed four-day convention of NT district managers, film buyers and executives, which had been under way at the home office here since Monday. Coin payoff was for the incentive campaign in which managers shared in the percentage business was increased at theatres. During the drive business reached a new high for the circuit, meaning greater bonus reward for managerial initiative and ability.

FALL DRIVE PLANNED

Completion of details for a fall drive resulted from huddle yesterday afternoon and details will be announced later to theatre managers at individual division meetings. A summary of the convention and talk on highlights of the business discussions was given by Skouras. He urged delegates to watch carelessness and guard against extravagance in operations. He made a particular point of the fact that theatre business is menaced by municipal and state taxation and asked every manager to help protect the business against heavy and unfair taxes.

(Western)

MONOGRAM RELEASE. Producer, Scott R. Dunlap. Director, Lambert Hillyer. Photography, James S. Brown. Sound, John Myers. Screenplay, Jess Bowers. Film editor, Fred Maguire.

CAST—Johnny Mack Brown, Raymond Hatton, Jan Bryant, Reed Marshall, James Hilliard, Jack Lambert, Oscar Wharton.

REVIEWED at Hitching Post theatre, Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 8, 1946. Running time: 59 MINS.

You don't know who is who in this picture until you see Johnny Mack Brown hoisting a leg on a Palomino in the evening shades and galloping hither and yon into the hills, with a dumb sheriff on his trail. The first time you see the sheriff you know that he is an honest gee but you know that he is going to fall for the two lawyers.

Any time you see a lawyer with a Stetson hat on the screen, you know he is a louse. He sits behind his desk and has something on the District Attorney, who is trying to be a regular guy but can't, on account of he once indulged in a bit of banditry, way back in the good old days when banditry was okay if you could get away with it.

Johnny Mack Brown and Raymond Hatton try to make a picture out of a lot of incidents in which they are both suspected of wrongdoing, although even the kids in the house never suspected it. They even knew that Jan Bryant wasn't as dumb as she pretended to be, although she suspected everybody but the wrong guy.

She was an honest gal and her old man was done to death but she suspected Johnny, which caused a lot of unnecessary galloping and shooting, this time with a lot of extras curling up and dying right in the middle of Main Street.

The two guys you suspected in the first place wound up in jail. They wore 10-gallon hats and long-tailed coats like the boys who carry corpses out of undertaking parlors. Whenever you see a guy who looks like an undertaker in a western film, you know he is a baddie.

Anyway Johnny Mack Brown and his old pal, Raymond Hatton, who is still a good actor, gallop through a lot of hurdles erected in so many words by the scripters. They do a pretty good job in spite of the script.

The Unknown

(Melodrama)

COLUMBIA RELEASE. Producer, Wallace MacDonald. Director, Henry Levin. Screenplay, Malcolm Stuart Boylan and Julian Harmon. Adaptation, Charles O'Neal and Dwight Babcock, from radio script "I Love A Mystery" by Carlton E. Morse. Photography, Henry Freulich. Editor, Arthur Seid. Art, George Brooks. Musical director, Mischa Bakaleinikoff. Sets, George Montgomery. Sound, George Cooper. Assistant director, Carl Hiecke.

CAST—Karen Morley, Jim Bannon, Jeff Donnell, Robert Scott, Robert Wilcox, Barton Yarborough, James Bell, Wilton Graff, Helen Freeman, J. Louis Johnson, Boyd Davis.

REVIEWED at Pantages theatre, Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 8, 1946. Running time: 70 MINS.

The fate of this entry won't be as mysterious as its title; pic will be consigned to nether side of dual billings and will need stout support. In the round, it is another instance of what possibly seemed passable as a radio script failing to come off cinematically.

Story of neurotically warped lives of family of Kentucky gentry lacks credulity for the most part, and that factor consistently reduces any intensity of attention audience might lend. A more carefully and craftily constructed script might have lifted plot from the morass into which it meandered; more clearly delineated characters might have infused more plausibility into the roles and sympathy for them.

Yarn is of iron-willed matron who dominates her brood, destroys their lives for all practical purposes, and just before her death repents—without the film presenting any actual motivation for her acts, or reasonable explanations for her children knuckling under. She drives off daughter's secret husband and following her own husband's accidental killing consigns the group to a walled-up existence within ancestral manse. About 20 years later the lid is blown when the daughter's now-grown child, long-gone husband and pair of detectives march in.

Top performance is registered by Karen Morley as long-suffering daughter, but she is hard put to inject much sense into a basically flaccid character. Jeff Donnell seemed a bit at sea trying to fathom what was expected of her as Miss Morley's daughter. James Bell and Wilton Graff didn't seem too happy in the bedeviled brothers' roles, while Helen Freeman was severely unyielding as the whip-cracking matron. As the detectives, Jim Bannon and Barton Yarborough appeared to realize their parts wern't quite credible. As an ancient Negro family retainer, J. Louis Johnson had the only part which made much sense.

Wallace MacDonald's production was adequate. Director Henry Levin should have enlivened the emoting and a slight leavening of humor would have helped. At least ten minutes should have been edited out and a good half of the sequences were poorly lighted. Mischa Bakaleinikoff's music did enhance much of the footage.

Wild Beauty

(Outdoor Drama)

UNIVERSAL RELEASE. Producer-director, Wallace W. Fox. Original screenplay, Adele Buffington. Photography, Maury Gertsman. Editor, D. Patrick Kelley. Musical director, Paul Sawtell. Art direction, Jack Otterson, Abraham Grossman. Set decorations, Russell A. Gausman, Leigh Smith. Sound, Bernard B. Brown, Jess Moulin. Gowns, Rosemary Odell.

PREVIEWED at studio, Aug. 8, 1946. Running time: 61 MINS.

Story of an Indian boy and a horse, "Wild Beauty" should do okay as family picture in nabe situations. Wild horse scenes are spectacular in closing reels, camera catching in graphic detail one of largest herds ever glimpsed on screen, and there's sufficient action to maintain general interest.

Robert "Buzzy" Henry, whizz on a hoss, portrays redskin lad easily, and makes him a fairly believable character, apart from his perfect English. Narrative follows his efforts to befriend an injured wild colt which he nurses back to health, and names Wild Beauty. Story unfolds on an Indian reservation in Arizona, with Lois Collier, school teacher from the east, supplying romantic note.

Climax is reached when Wild Beauty, now full-grown, rescues herd of several thousand horses from being slaughtered for their hides, by leading band out of a box canyon back to the reservation and safety, after knocking down fence penning them in.

Dialog is against picture, too flowery use of the pen cutting down credibility of several characters. This applies particularly to Miss Collier, who otherwise makes nice impression. As her companion, Jacqueline de Wit turns in her customary smooth performance. Don Porter, in role of reservation doctor who believes in the Indians, enacts leading male role, opposite Miss Collier. George Cleveland is in for old dog slice and Dick Curtis and Robert Wilcox are heavies.

Wallace W. Fox handled dual chore of producer-director and got good results. Maury Gertsman's photography is always above average. Original screenplay was written by Adele Buffington.

Picture will be based on series of stories entitled "The Glicket Cat" by Anita Raie.

NAZI FILM, RADIO PATENTS THROWN OPEN TO ALLIES

Washington, Aug. 8.—Hundreds of German patents in the film and radio fields were thrown open today to nationals of Great Britain, France and the Netherlands by the Alien Property Custodian. Patents are among the 19,000 German patents now licensed to U.S. citizens.

James Markham, Custodian, announced he was throwing open patents to citizens of all countries signatory to the recent patent accord in Paris.

Over 100,000 patents are affected, with the U.S. to gain access to German-owned patents vested in these countries abroad. Action means that use of German "stereophone" system of recording sound on film and the German exposure meter will be opened to film companies in England, France and Holland. It does not affect the so-called captive patents on the AGFA color film process held by Ansco. In this case, the APC seized the company but not the color film patent itself.

The mutual sharing of German patents is expected to encourage production both in the U.S.-affiliated companies abroad and in foreign-held corporations in this country.

Owners of the building occupied by "Prince" Mike Romanoff's restaurant are trying to get him out. Eviction suit filed yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Woolard and Mrs. Henry C. Gerke, of Santa Monica, charges that Romanoff altered the structure without getting their permission.

Play Review

THE GOOD FAIRY

"The Good Fairy," which opened at the Phoenix Westwood last night is one of those cute Molnar plays that oozes whimsy from every side. After a deadly dull first act the pace was not only quickened, but the laughs were pointed up by the advent of star Hugo Haas. Thanks to Haas the evening was not a total failure for through his brilliant playing he sparked the other performers into some semblance of lively strawhatting. The only other performer was Peggy Noonan who seemed a bit enchanted with the fact she was re-creating a Helen Hayes role. Cole Burnford's direction seemed to have little understanding for comedy. Marcia Powell's sets were adequate.

' JUST FOR VARIETY '

THE GRAPEVINE: RKO wants Robert Siodmak, who did a swell job on "The Spiral Staircase," to direct "Build My Gallows High." Dick Powell will play the lead after he finishes "Johnny O'Clock." Should be another topflight thriller with Geoffrey Homes adapting his own best-selling novel to the screen. Homes' stock is due for an even bigger boom, if producers and story editors would thumb through some of his earlier books. "Gallows" is his biggest click in book sales but he wrote half a dozen others almost as good. Only trouble was, Homes (real name: Danny Mainwaring) was working as a publicity man in the studios, and the big brains therefore decided that he couldn't write. Some day a genius is going to arise from the ranks of the flacks and amaze everyone—especially us . . . Hal Wallis is a daily visitor on the Columbia lot. He catches the rushes on the scenes with Lizabeth Scott, on loanout there . . . Most of the wishful thinkers at Metro are betting that Clark Gable will play in "The Hucksters" as his next picture. Our money is still on "Christian of the Bounty," about which Gable is more enthusiastic than he is about most literary matters . . . At Hollywood Park they take saliva tests only of the winner in each race (to see whether he's been hypoed into an extra-effort). So a lot of smart money was won on place horses that paid big money . . . There's a wide open split coming in the ranks of the Hollywood Independent Citizens Committee of Arts, Sciences and Professions. Liberals are going to walk out and leave the premises to the redder ilk.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: The Great Compromise has been reached in the case of the Thin Man. Metro wanted William Powell to put on his gumshoes again on completion of "Life with Father." Powell said he wanted a long, long rest. Finally he agreed to make "Song of the Thin Man" with Myrna Loy after a three-month vacation . . . Frank Fay arrived in town on his four-week vacation from "Harvey" on Broadway. First and nicest gesture was his appearance at Charlie Foy's spot in the Valley to help out his ailing pal. Foy has returned home from the hospital but lost so much weight he looks like a dehydrated elf . . . With his latest book "70,000 to One" on the best-seller lists, Quentin Reynolds says he's writing another one as well as a series of magazine articles. He's now in Hollywood to play a role in "Golden Earrings" at Paramount . . . Sydney Chaplin, son of Charlie, is back in town after a stretch with the occupation troops in Germany . . . Reason it took so long for "Caesar and Cleopatra" to hit American screens was that the U.S. Censorship board quibbled over two reels in the film . . . Herman Hover says his Ciro's will be brighter than ever even if the Board of Equalization is closing a couple other spots, especially with Charles Trenet opening Aug. 23 . . . This is really inside stuff. Aside from legal fribblings, Tony Cornero's biggest headache in putting the Bunker Hill into action was the marine law that reads there must be one "head" per 18 passengers. He had to get 147 units of plumbing before he could open. Such facilities, incidentally, are offered without cost aboard the gambling ship—and well might they be.

CALL SHEET: JIMMIE STEWART is trying to master the fundamentals of basketball for his role in Robert Riskin's "Magic Town," so he's cavorting daily on the U.C.L.A. basketball court under supervision of Wilbur Johns, basketball coach at the school . . . WILLIAM BOYD will be guest of honor at the boys' sports carnival in Long Beach today . . . FORTUNIO BONANOVA has bought a turtle ranch near Mexico City . . . JERRY HOPPER is making his debut as a director on a Paramount short subject but he isn't exactly a tyro. He directed 36 Army films, one of them being "Appointment in Tokyo" . . . PAUL WURTZEL spotted this sign in the window of a Sunset boulevard barber shop: "We need your heads in our business" . . . FRANK BORZAGE'S "I've Always Loved You" will get a record advertising budget at Republic . . . DICK HAYMES heads for New York and Boston, doing p.a.'s at latter city, Sunday night via American Airlines . . . DESI ARNAZ and his crew may take over the musical department of the Bob Hope show . . . HOOT GIBSON, now owner of a dude ranch near Las Vegas, is writing his biography in collaboration with N. J. Hartford . . . DIANA LYNN'S picture "There's Magic in Music," made by Paramount in 1940, is now a hit in Berlin, studio has been advised.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Marlene Dietrich's appearance in the Paramount commissary drew a reception yesterday noon . . . Columbia's deal for the Winter Garden as New York showcase for "The Jolson Story" has been called off. Radio City Music Hall notified studio it is exercising its option and wants the Jolson picture to follow "Notorious." This ends Columbia's plan to lease a theatre for film's New York run . . . Bette Davis has hung two watercolors by her husband, William Sherry, in her trailer at the studio . . . OFF THE LOTS: Henry Willson tosses a birthday party for Rory Calhoun at Ciro's. Bogart and Bacall, Sonny Tufts and wife, Audrey Totter and Merrill Pye at The Kings. Lois Andrews and Harry Karl at Henri's. Bonita Granville and Jack Wrather at Beverly Tropics. Tom Drake and Marilyn Maxwell at California Cabana Club. Leonard Sues and Virginia Weidler at Biltmore Bowl. Hal Derwin celebrated his birthday with a party at Breneman's. Brian Aherne and bride will spend the weekend at Catalina aboard the Phil Bergs' yacht . . . Half of the Universal roster hangs out in the air-conditioned bungalow newly acquired by Mike Fessier and Ernie Pagano . . . Bing Crosby dropped in on the set of "My Favorite Brunette" for a visit with Bob Hope. He suggested a gag for one of Hope's scenes. "Didn't you use a similar line in one of the 'Road' pictures?" asked Director Elliott Nugent. "He wouldn't," Hope said. "He just counts the songs."—D.D.T.

METRO WILL HAVE BRITISH STUDIOS BUILT FOR 1947

Metro's British studios are nearing completion and will have four sound stages with a total of 180,000 square feet, making it the largest plant in the Isles. Suffering heavily during the war, studio is being stripped and rebuilt after government turned it back to the company.

Plant is being fitted with finest up-to-date equipment under supervision of technical experts especially sent to England from Culver City lot. It is planned to have enough reconstruction completed so that camera work can begin on the first film by January 1, 1947, with entire plant going into full production later in the year.

FOUR NETS BARRING 'STONE COLD DEAD'

All four networks have banned the calypso song, "Stone Cold Dead in the Market," although many a disc jockey continues to spin the Decca record of the tune, rendered by Ella Fitzgerald and Louis Jordan. The platter is a rare and clear beat in its field, now nearing a sales level of 500,000 copies and to date no other plattery has been able to get a version of the Wilmouth Houdini novelty before the public.

Webs have thumbed down ditty because lyrics recount tale of a gal who bashed her husband's head in and feels no regret. When song originally came to attention of Decca's prexy, Jack Kapp, he grabbed item for his subsid, Northern Music Corp., then arranged to distribute it through the Metro subsid, Miller Music, because of exploitation power of latter.

Kapp also quietly prepared the Decca platter version and swept the country with it before rivals even were aware of song. To date only one other waxery, Victor, has a version prepped and hasn't hit the market with it yet.

More times than it has a right to happen, the weight thrown around by the so-called big shots has fallen full force on the little guy—who else? Such incidents are common daily occurrences and pass unnoticed because the little guy's voice is a mere pip squeak in a bedlam of noise and who would listen to him anyway? The curtain is soon to go up on another season and those in high places would do well to inventory their own small importance and better still look beyond the first few cycles. If reminded they must be, THE WHEEL TURNS.

Check over the list of successful producers, directors and writers, men who stay in the forefront year in and out, and you'll find the high regard in which they have been held had diminished not one iota. We could name a dozen at least, and conversely, we know of many more who dropped by the wayside because of a greedy desire for power regardless of the consequences or who was hurt in their mad climb. The vets who are still on top place high in the category of tolerance and understanding; the others, too big for their britches, were whittled down to their own size. Walter Winchell pegged it so accurately when he axiomed, "Be good to them on the way up because you're going to meet them coming down." How true but the little shots will never learn. There'll be no name-dropping here but those who have been around since radio became big time can call them off as well as we can. It's the little guy that makes the big guy and success was never achieved by beating down those who supply the straw for the bricks.

Chain breaks . . . "Suspense" took a long stride forward in topping the Thursday Hooper list, pulling up at 10.3 on a spiraling 2.6. Not so fortunate was "Phone Again Finnegan," which tapered off 2.7 to rest at 3.7. Other ratings: Dick Haymes 4.9, up .5; Lum and Abner 2.5, up .8; Meredith Willson 4.5 (no change); Kraft 7.4, up 1.7 . . . Both the Academy and Squibb expressed their satisfaction at the Academy Award Theatre and contracts were renewed. It was at the pleasure of either to cancel after 26 weeks. Those who have brought the show along past the first option are Dee Engelbach, producer; Frank Wilson, scripter, and Leith Stevens, music director . . . Ludens bought Hoagy Carmichael for a 15-minute Sunday spot on CBS starting in early November. Ed Cashman produces the musical vignette with only Hoagy and the 88's.

Hitch hikes . . . Louie Quinn has quit the Hutchins agency after writing Philco's Hall of Fame for 65 weeks to set up his typewriter here . . . David Owen gave up his chair as professor of speech at U of Michigan to head up radio for Dancer, Fitzgerald & Sample. He was onetime radio director for General Mills . . . Bob Gillham due in Monday on J. Walter Thompson biz . . . Carlton Alsop had his appendix snatched at St. John's in Santa Monica . . . Joanell James signed for the singing spot on the Don Ameche-Drene series . . . Eddie Cantor gets back to town Sunday.

By RADIE HARRIS

ALL ALONE BY THE TELEPHONE: Charlie Morrison from Mocambo: So glad your option was taken up at the Bev-Hills for another ten days. Now you can join the out-"pour" to my party in the Terrace Room Sunday aft. for my favorite two Jimmies—Walker and Roosevelt . . . DOUG FAIRBANKS, JR., from Pacific Palisades: too bad that David Niven's name was included in the guest list at Sonja Henie's party. If that columnist had bothered to check, he would have known that David is still far too grieved to be in a party mood and the only invitations he accepts are to dine quietly with his closest friends. Besides, he wasn't even in town the night of the festivities —he's spending three weeks with old friends at Watch Hill, Naragansett and Newport, urged by his pals here that the change of scenery might do him some good. Unfortunately, readers only believe what they see in print, and their reaction to David's stepping-out so soon after his tragedy may prove unkind to him—and so unfair . . . JACK KAPP, from Bungalow 18: Just got back from San Francisco, where Hildegarde is the biggest attraction that ever hit the Top of the Mark. No wonder she can afford to by-pass Hollywood. She's opening at the Roxy next at $17,000 a week plus a percentage of the gross. Hildegarde spells her success in two words—Anna Sosenko.

BILL DOLL from Del Mar: wish you had been here for the opening of the track. You might have dropped some dough on the nags, but you would have got your money's worth later at the Jockey Club. Al Jolson dropped in on the sports writers' party and entertained for forty minutes. You would have really thought he was Larry Parks! Even tho' it was in the middle of the week, there was quite a large Hollywood turnout including Harry James with his bride, George Raft, D. A. Doran, Phil Silvers, Pat O'Brien, Lou Costello, Howard Bay, Mrs. Frank Morgan and Harry Axst. And who should turn up as maitre de at the Jockey Club but Jack Neeland, who used to be Joe Rogers' captain at the World's Fair. He made Mike (Todd) feel more at home than the nags did! . . . EVIE WYNN from North Saltair: I had to cancel out Marlene Dietrich as my house guest because my sister is arriving from Fla. It's a break for Marlene. Can you imagine her wardrobe in my ONE guest closet! She's your neighbor at the Bev-Hills, Bungalow 13 . . . BEN WASHER from the Rossmore Manor: Have now been switched here for a few days, and seeing Lew Calhern around makes me feel right back at Sardi's. Lynn (Farnol) is at the Ambassador. How about lunching with two NY exiles? . . . ED DUKOFF from the Danny Kaye set: Thought you'd be amused to know that when Danny left court yesterday after contesting Mrs. Maxie Rosenbloom's suit, a fan handed him a note which read, "Don't you think you ought to change the title of your favorite song to "Muriel, the Moocher!"

DAVID SMART, ESQUIRE: hope you aren't forgetting our cocktails shindig in the Terrace Room this p.m. to meet the new Esquire Girl and her creators, Joe de Mers and Fritz Willis . . . FRANK ROSENBERG from Columbia: Guess you aren't too surprised that we signed up Betsy Blair. You told us about it in your column of July 23 . . . BILLY BAKEWELL from the Polo BAR: If you were still out here in Oct. you'd see a very nervous groom marching down the aisle with Jennifer Holt. The ceremony is going to be at Lew Ayres', who will also be the best man. Gosh, how we'll miss our other pal from the "All Quiet on the Western Front" days—Russ Gleason . . . CARY GRANT from Bellagio Drive: as soon as I finish "Bachelor and the Bobby-Soxer" I'm off to London again. No, I can't tell you what script I'm going to do because it's still just an idea and if I tell it, somebody is liable to crib it before we get started. No, I'm not forming my own independent company. I don't know how that rumor got started. As a matter of fact, I'm the guy who has neither my own outfit or a Town and Country runabout—which makes me a unique character in Hollywood!

CLAIRE TREVOR from Palm Drive: A million thanks, darling, for that swell send-off to Elliott Nugent. He's sent me the script to read and I'm discussing it with him and Bob Montgomery tonight . . . JOHN EMERY from Metro: Well, I've just signed to do the part I swore I wouldn't do—the ham actor in "Merton of the Movies," but I got coaxed into it because green is such a restful color, if you know what I mean—and I think you do! . . . JEAN DALRYMPLE, long distance from NY: wish you could get my script "Love and Obey" to Katharine Hepburn. It's a perfect vehicle for her. And will you please check and see if Norma Shearer would be interested in making her Broadway debut? . . . VAN JOHNSON from the Bel-Air: I think they're going to use Beverly Tyler as the ingenue lead in my next picture, but if she isn't set, how about making a test of that cute kid sister of yours? . . . BUFFIE COBB from Laguna: I haven't signed any contract yet, but I'm going to NY in two weeks to see Tallulah Bankhead about her new show, "The First Hundred Years"—she says there's a very good part in it for me, I Hope!

OPERATOR 131 from the EAVESDROPPING BUREAU of Information: What studio is burning at a certain ten percenter for turning down a script for his client and their star without even letting her read it? And what studio is equally burned at another agent for advising a 20-year-old, with little previous experience to thumb down a $1000-a-week offer. It took the producer who wanted her for a certain part 18 years to make that kind of dough! . . . What glamour puss, who used all her femme wiles on a susceptible male star, has him in a tizzy, but his wife calm because she knows it won't last any longer than the others? . . . Radio Row would be amazed if it knew the figure that lured Parke Levey as head writer on the Abbott-Costello fall etherizer . . . What w.k star, who is costing her studio thousands of dollars a day by reporting sick, spent all day Sunday entertaining a group of swooning fans?

ELLINGTON ORK ELLINGTON ORK WEST OF CHI

With returns totted up yesterday, it became evident that the $11,200 grossed by Duke Ellington ork at Shrine auditorium Wednesday night is biggest take any jazz concert ever drew west of Chicago. At a top of $3.60 the band lured 5,150 into the 6,700-seat aud.

joy as well as enlightenment to a tired, confused rld, no one can say.

It is not surprising, concerned as the industry has n with stories, treatments, finished scripts, casting, nera angles, sound tracks and distribution, that it left one important department of its craft back the gas-lit era.

Speaking as we are to an industry that has gone far in so little time, we broach this subject with a ch of reticence. But it is our conviction that it is gh time to send the advertising of your pictures ck to the cutting room. It's time for some new writing, some new directing, some new "casting" to bring the advertising up to the level of the pictures. It's time for someone to match craftsmanship in advertising with the craftsmanship of the producer, director, writer, actor and cameraman.

It's time for some motion picture man to entrust his advertising to a group who can tell the public just how good the pictures are. It's time someone realized that whether it's love, adventure, mystery or comedy —whether it's taking the pictures or taking direction—writing a script or writing an advertisement, a good title to work to is "To Each His Own."

Down Mexico Way

By LUISA MARIA ALVAREZ

Mexico City, Aug. 8. — American capital invested in our motion picture studios has caused quite a lot of discussion as to how beneficial it may be to the Mexican industry and national economy for the Hollywood companies to produce pictures in local studios, which they will increasingly do as time goes on.

Cantinflas recently stated that, in his opinion, the more foreign companies making films in this country, the better.

Said our most popular star:

"The Hollywood open door policy which drew to that city not only the foremost artists of the world, but also business men, is one of the conditions which helped the Hollywood industry to become what it is today.

When a foreign company makes a picture in Mexico, that company contracts local technicians, pays salaries to hundreds of workmen and taxes to our government. Let all foreigners who want to do so come and make pictures in our studios, now that we have about the best in the world."

First Ramex film has gone into production. Cast includes Malu Gatica, David Silva, Andres Soler and newcomer Marion Inclan. Alejandro Galindo is directing.

Also first Julio Bracho production at Churubusco lot. Two well known comedians Joaquin Pardave and Manuel Medel share stellar honors. Title is "Don Simon de Lira."

"La Nacion" weekly edited by Catholic Party of Mexico has been carrying on campaign for stricter censorship of films, being especially concerned with pictures shown to children. Government Censorship department should not allow exhibitors to advertise films as "suitable for children," when these are definitely not so, says La Nacion, and advises producers to make special pictures for the youngsters.

Two Raul de Anda productions, "Juan Colorado," directed by Rolando Aguilar, and "It Happened in Jalisco," directed by producer, are now in cutting rooms. Also in cutting room "The Divine Sinner," the story of Mary Magdalene produced by Contreras Torres with Medea de Novara and Luis Alcoriza in leading roles.

"The Blue Angel" made years ago starring Marlene Dietrich and Emil Jannings, will be produced here with Maria Felix in stellar role. That Julio Bracho will direct and Fernando Soler be given part so brilliantly acted by Emil Jannings, are so far, just rumors.

PALLADIUM, AFRA DEAL SNAGGED AS REP FORGETS CARD

Meeting between Maury Cohen, of Palladium, and Claude McCue, executive secretary of American Federation of Radio Artists, to set up pay standard for announcers on remote musical broadcasts resulted in stalemate over technicality. AFRA was set to pattern for industry agreement via discussion with Palladium head. However, when AFRA rep failed to have authorizing letter from union and announcer concerned, Bill Ewing, Cohen balked. Matter will be resumed in couple of days when McCue equips himself with formal papers.

Due to latest situation, and general antipathy and indifference demonstrated by ballroom and cafe operators, union is torn between amicable agreement or issuance of an arbitrary ruling and pay rate. Contractual agreement is more desirable and would insure employment of AFRA members, whereas other procedure presents danger of non-union employment for which union would have no recourse. If setting deals with Palladium and Earl Carroll's, union would have those same deals prevail for others who failed to attend meetings it called to negotiate matter.

Selznick office girls on the Pathe lot are currently all decked out in black sweaters decorated with "Duel in the Sun" stickers. And Jerry Hoffman is heartbroken because the Sol Lesser outfit on the same lot won't let him doll up his flackery girls with stickers reading "No Trespassing." 'All I want," complains Hoffman, "is to use three stickers for each gal."

CAL BROADCASTERS SET MEET TO EYE FINANCE SETUP

Financing of proposed program of expansion for Southern California Broadcasters Association will be proposed to membership Aug. 15. Ticklish money phase of long-planned move will highlight meeting location of which will be announced later in week.

Executive board has met and agreed to propositions that would be included in plan to greatly increase activities and responsibilities of the organization. However, entire notion is dependent on outcome of the fund-raising which would probably come from pro rated assessments or membership dues increases. Opposition to added investment is already indicated and event may evolve into stiff selling proposition before any other facets of plan are presented or accepted.

Program briefly calls for employment of permanent and salaried full-time representative and opening of Hollywood headquarters. Latter would be expected to do over-all public and industrial relations job for SCBA, including liaison with National Association of Broadcasters, representation of local radio industry in all civic, business, cultural, social, religious and other affairs, plus close relations with ad agencies.

FELD, GOETZ FIGHT ENDS INT INTEREST IN 'BLOOMER GIRL'

Leonard Spiegelgass. Chester Erskine and Fred Finklehoffe were then set to write a new screenplay. Disagreement on phases of latter script also arose between Feld and Goetz. In the meantime, company had gone ahead with ambitious casting plans. Charles Coburn was initial name signed. In addition, loan-out deal was consummated with Metro for services of S. Sylvan Simon to direct.

Bickering over script, together with controversy over casting and other production deals brought the matter to a head last Monday, at which time, it is reported, Goetz served notice on Feld he couldn't continue in capacity of producer. With Feld having control of the film rights, International could not proceed without him.

It was learned that strenuous efforts were made up until yesterday noon to revive the deal. International, however, was reluctant to chunk the $2,500,000 into a picture over which producer Feld reserved rights to major decisions and the projected production was officially dropped.

P-T Shearing 5

Pine-Thomas currently has five films in the cutting rooms at Paramount. Pictures undergoing shearing are "Danger Street," "Seven Were Saved," "I Cover Big Town," "Fear in the Night" and "Jungle Flight."

BLACK AND WHITE EDDIE DEAN FILMS

PRC hereafter will use its Cinecolor commitment in production only of higher budget pictures. Move, consequently, reduces company's Eddie Dean series of westerns to black-and-white, after first four in series, in addition to one Dean special musical, had been filmed as tinters.

Popular response to color in Dean saddlers, and "The Enchanted Forest," led to decision to drop color in westerns and concentrate its use in top feature product. Robert Tansey, producer-directing Dean series, will make six in black-and-white this year, as well as take over two specials this year in Cinecolor.

eastern execs for continued parleys. Due for huddles with Cohn are Jack Cohn, executive veepee; Abe Montague, sales chief; Abe Schneider, treasurer; and Nate Spingold, who helps set policies.

Comedy producer has been holding off making any releasing commitment until completion of three pictures, in his program of 12 this year. First two, "Curley" and "Here Comes Trouble," already are completed, with third, "The Fabulous Joe," halfway through filming. He believes that with three finished feature comedies he will be able to make better deal than through announced program only.

Part of proposed deal now under discussion is understood to include an additional 10 dramatic features, to augment Roach's present program of dozen feature comedies annually.

the first quarter, makes the half year net $21,792,000, a record smasher for any full year. The earnings include $4,140,000 of undistributed earnings of partially owned subsidiaries as against $8,487,000 from the same source last year.

(At the turn of the year Daily Variety on the basis of statistics it gathered, estimated Paramount's earnings for the present year at between thirty and thirty five millions. The figure was so large that there was some hesitancy in publishing them.)

The big earnings for the second quarter compare with $4,480,000 for the like period of 1945.

The profits for the second quarter on the basis of the 7,504,272 shares of common stock outstanding after the 2 to 1 split of July 8 were at the rate of $1.36 a share compared with 60c for the 1945 period. The half year net per share is $2.90. Last year it was $1.13.

A dividend of 40 cents a share on the new stock payable Sept. 27 to holders of Sept. 6. This is at the rate of $3.20 on the old stock as against the $2.00 handed out on that stock.

THOMAS TO NY ON COLOR PROCESS IN TELEVISH SETS

Richard Thomas left for New York yesterday to close deals with television set manufacturers for use of his Thomascolor process in video receivers. He will also make arrangements with optical firms in Rochester and glass makers in Corning to insure mass production of lens units necessary to color system.

Free licenses will be granted set makers using process and Thomascolor will collect royalty on sets made using the three-color separation filter process. System, which employs Thomas-patented units in both cameras and receivers, is being ballyed as permitting television in natural color.

Among telecasters to be contacted in New York is Mutual, according to Thomas, with latter slated to confer with Mutual brass on use of his process. On return here Thomas plans press demonstration of instantaneous action in color on local video station, probably Don Lee's W6XAO.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

APPROXIMATELY 11,000 musicians and members of their families today are expected to attend annual picnic of Musicians' Local 47 at the Valley Park Country Club. Personnel from about 40 different orks will be on hand; among name batoneers who have promised to show are Ray Baduc, Woody Herman, Spade Cooley, Russ Morgan, Lawrence Welk and Boyd Raeburn. The local has a cache of 830 cases of beer to pour off for free and sandwiches also will be on the union. New feature to bob up is in Alcoholics Anonymous booth, at which soft drinks will be dispensed. This angle points up fact that many local musikers have become ardent AA members; but many more will be up to old stunt of stashing hard-stuff in their cars. For a fillip, Spike Wallace, John Te Groen and C. L. Bagley, who are handling the picnic for the local, have hired an elephant to entertain the tots.

CASE of Faye Marlowe is case in point of prevalent Hollywood custom, how one studio will fail to take advantage of talents of a player while another studio borrows this player and does big things with her. After languishing around 20th-Fox for more than two years, during which she appeared in only one lead, ''Hangover Square,'' and then in a part which did nothing for her, Miss Marlowe went on loanout to Allan Dwan at Republic for title role in ''Rendezvous with Annie'' and turned in a performance which drew rave notices from reviewers. Picture, however, wasn't previewed until after actress had requested, and secured, her release from 20th-Fox contract and left for New York, to try her luck on Broadway stage.

NEW sound editing machine which will supplement the movieola for film editors has been developed by Col. Nathan Levinson at Warner Bros. sound dept. Light and small, it's used by the editor to throw in extra sound without touching the original film in the movieola. Gadget is able to localize sound and can be stopped to such a fine degree, a word can be cut into syllables. Device was first used on ''Deception,'' Bette Davis starrer, being especially useful in musical sequences, cutter being able to halt on a given note, where standard appliances take a full 30 to 50 frames of the film to come to a halt, which calls for a rewind.

COLOR work in these parts is jammed up to the point where, even with the lab working to capacity, Technicolor is being forced to set delivery dates on prints months away from now. In fact, in several instances studios will have prints months away from now. In fact, in several instances studios will have to wait months for prints for release on pictures that finished shooting within the past few months. One producer who wound up shooting a tinter last month was told he couldn't have prints before next February.

ONE of the headaches of the Mark Hellinger staff at Universal right now is thinking up titles for his forthcoming production, ''Swell Guy.'' Good, sound, American slang, ''swell guy'' is meaningless in the foreign market—or worse yet, means something else again. Right now the research boys are trying to find Portuguese and Spanish slang equivalents for ''swell guy.'' In England the title may end up as ''A Fine Chap'' and there's talk of using ''The Evil that Men Do'' in Canada and Australia.

METRO has set up permanent symphony orchestra for scoring of its big and important pictures, same group to orchestrate films rather than studio calling whatever musicians may be available for purpose. First feature to be scored by this new orchestra will be ''The Yearling,'' with Herbert Stothard directing. Ork will get special title credit on whatever pictures it scores.

FEMME star, who has been having a series of beefs with her studio, is now in the middle of a new one. It seems that she was dissatisfied with lenser on her current picture and insisted on one on assignment elsewhere. Other lenser still has several days work to do before he is available. In the meantime, star has been cooling her heels and waiting.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Senator Butler says he wants to know why our Marines are still in China. Someone should tell him, and a lot of other people that although the original excuse was repatriation of the Japanese troops, the real reason has been, and is—Russia. That's one of those things we can't admit officially, but which is nevertheless true. And Russia knows it. That's one of the reasons the Chinese communists have been demanding we leave, one of the reasons we have been aiding Chiang Kai Shek even though he's no angel, no paragon of Democratic virtue. It's the reason Madame Sun Yat Sen, who has spent most of her recent years in Moscow, demands our troops leave, the reason the communist party of the United States adopted, as one of its principal planks the other day, agitation for removal of United States troops from China. Once we moved out, Russia would move in. The excuse would be the maintenance of order across her borders, with the excuse handy because the Communist-Kuomintang fight, now in progress for 20 years, won't end tomorrow.

PREVIEWED at Forum Theatre, Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 9, 1946. Running time: 80 MINS.

"The Time of Their Lives" is a ghost story worked for laughs instead of shivers. It gets the laughs, all right—partly from the novel idea of giving the ghosts the shivers. The Abbott and Costello fans will provide initial box office draw and the picture is plenty good enough to keep them coming on its own thereafter. The yarn has more chuckles than belly laughs, but the hilarity is booked up with lively plot interest that doesn't let the customers down at any point.

The above-mentioned Abbott and Costello fans, while they'll probably get as much entertainment from the duo as previously won't get quite the same kind. Instead of the broadly slapstick pair of whosonfirst, Abbott is virtually an all straight man and Costello shows up as a wistful comic with a touch of pathos. Latter includes enough of his pratfall technique in his role as a ghost, however, to be easily recognizable.

Marjorie Reynolds, as Costello's companion ghost in haunting a restored Colonial mansion and the great grandson of Abbott (who helped get them into the ghost spot in the first place back in Revolutionary War days) is very easy on the eyes and puts on a spirited performance as a spirit. Early scenes of the story are set in 1780 and show Costello, as a wandering tinker with a letter of recommendation from George Washington, and Miss Reynolds being mistaken for Tories and shot by Revolutionary soldiers. One of the patriots puts traitor's cure on them that binds them to the estate where the shooting takes place until the "crack of doom" or until they can prove their innocence of treason.

There is a document that proves this hidden in an old clock. Most of the comedy complications involve the attempt of the ghosts to locate this paper which will free them from their earthbound state. In the course of the search the live inmates of the house get plenty scared by the ghosts and the ghosts get panicked by such modernisms as electric lights and fans.

Abbott keeps up his end of the team work, first as a rascally butler in Colonial days and as the butler's psychiatrist great grandson in the modern sequences. Gale Sondergaard is impressive as the mediumistic housekeeper who communicates with the ghosts. John Shelton, Lynne Baggett and Binnie Barnes give good account of themselves in exacting roles and balance of supporting cast does excellent work.

Production details have been effectively handled by Producer Val Burton and Executive Producer Joe Gershenson and Charles Barton gets credit for directing the show to bring out full comedy values. Camera work of Charles Van Enger is tops. Special photography of D. S. Horsley and Jerome Ash and the ingenuity of the props department are responsible for convincing tirckery in the spectacular features of the ghostly hauntings.

The Last Crooked Mile

(Melodrama)

REPUBLIC RELEASE. Associate producer, Rudolph E. Abel. Director, Philip Ford. Screenplay, Jerry Sackheim. Additional dialog, Jerry Gruskin. Based on radio play by Robert L. Richards. Photography, Alfred Keller. Art direction, Frank Hotaling. Set decorations, John McCarthy, Jr., George Milo. Musical director, Richard Cherwin. Editor, William P. Thompson. Sound, Victor Appel. Costumes, Adele Palmer. Special effects, Howard and Theodore Lydecker.

CAST—Co-stars Donald Barry and Ann Savage. Supporting players, Adele Mara, Tom Powers, Sheldon Leonard, Nestor Paiva, Harry Shannon, Ben Welden, John Miljan, Charles D. Brown, John Dehner, Anthoy Caruso.

PREVIEWED in Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 9, 1946. Running time: 67 MINS.

"The Last Crooked Mile" is a whodunit with plenty of bugs in plot but which should stack up for average grosses as a supporting feature. There's sufficient action to keep spectator mildly interested, if he isn't too insistent upon consistency and logical explanation. Windup leaves audience in a maze of uncertainty.

Donald Barry plays role of a private detective who undertakes to locate a $300,000 bank snatch for 10 per cent of gross. In attempt, he becomes involved in several murders and many complications before he puts finger on guilty party in surprise finale.

In unraveling story thread, Philip Ford, handling direction, permits Barry to go overboard in coyness as snappy dick. Otherwise, his helming makes most of a script not too well done. Film is slowed down to a walk in several instances while Ann Savage, who co-stars with Barry, warbles "The One I Love Belongs to Somebody Else" twice and Adele Mara engages in a senseless comedy routine with Tom Dugan.

Most of action centers around amusement pier in a California beach town, after opening showing bank holdup and later chase by pair of motor cops, which results in car with trio of stickup artists plunging over cliff to their death. Barry finds money in a hiding-place on pier cops couldn't ferret out, then loses it when he's knocked out in his hotel room by someone whose identity is never disclosed. Sleuth then proceeds to solve and clean up mystery in a manner which may have been clear to script writer but certainly not to audience.

Barry, apart from deadly breeziness, does well enough with his role, and Miss Savage makes nice impression as nitery singer who is near-victim of number of murder tries. Adele Mara stands out in small but effective role, and Sheldon Leonard proffers suppressed performance in gangster impersonation, which clicks. Balance of supporting cast are okay.

Rudolph E. Abel is listed as associate producer, and script was written by Jerry Sackheim, based on radio play by Robert L. Richards. Technical departments generally rate soundly.

WB DINES 'FATHER' TECHS AND CAST; STARS VACATION

Delmonico set of "Life With Father" had one last fling over the weekend when Howard Lindsay, Russel Crouse and Mrs. Clarence Day hosted cast and technicians to a farewell spread as the Warner Bros. top-budgeted film wound after 103 days of shooting. Trio gifted 180 silver dollar clips to those associated with the production.

Other companies on the lot heaved sighs of relief because they can now return to schedule which will not necessitate shooting around "Life" on big days when latter film was demanding a 5,000,000 watt power lead. • JUST FOR VARIETY •

THE GRAPEVINE: Half of the town's actresses are yearning for a shot at the lead in "Unfaithful" at Warners. It's an anti-divorce story to be produced by Jerry Wald, whose "Mildred Cain" won an Academy Award for Joan Crawford . . . Helen Deutsch is a member of Harry Cohn's yachting party. He's trying to talk her into a Columbia writing contract . . . Vince Barnett, always a comic until now, is winning new kudos as the stir-simple old thief in Mark Hellinger's "The Killers." Incidentally that melodrama is causing more talk around town than any picture in a long time . . . What's happened to Lester Cowan and "Bryant Hall"? Sometime ago he announced he would produce the film in association with Harpo Marx and Ben Hecht. The other day the latter two stated they would produce "Bryant Hall" but failed to mention Cowan. Call to Cowan's office brought the response from his brother Robert that "Lester's slate is so cluttered that he decided not to do it" . . . Joe Louis is in town and will probably play the lead in a Republic picture . . . Bogart and Bacall are keeping the address of their new home a secret from one and all . . . Wayne Morris and Earl Muntz broke up a hen party when they had a friendly cop handcuff them and drag them into the all-femme gathering for identification as Skid Road derelicts . . . Jimmie Garland, sister of Judy, is singing in "Summer Night" at the El Patio theatre.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Bad luck flew with Hurd Hatfield to Paris and back. When the Metro actor arrived in France on loanout for "Torrents of Spring" he stalled around for five weeks while the producers tried to raise production money. Couple of weeks ago he was ordered to return to Hollywood without a camera turning. He went to his apartment on arrival and found it was hot and airless from being locked up during his absence. But that wasn't all. His dog had left a few families of fleas in the apartment and they had multiplied like crazy. Millions of 'em all hopping around and looking for a free ride. Hatfield fled to a hotel and issued a call for fumigators . . . Bette Davis' face will decorate a forthcoming Liberty mag cover . . . Buff Cobb is confined with an eye infection which has attacked her tear ducts. If penicillin fails to end the infection she will have to undergo an operation . . . Rain is holding up the second unit of David O. Selznick's "The Paradine Case," now on location in London under direction of Fred Ahearn. Troupe has been in London nearly two months but still has shots to pick up. Main difficulty is twilight scenes. Most of the day weather is fine but at twilight the downpour begins . . . Lyle Talbot occasionally takes over clerking duties behind the counter of the Valley drug store in which he is a partner. The other night a lady patron caught sight of him waiting on the trade and remarked it was too bad Talbot couldn't get film work any more and had had to take a clerk's job.

CALL SHEET: WILLIAM WYLER admits it—he's a rotten egg. Four months ago he started production on "The Best Years of Our Lives" for Samuel Goldwyn, same day that Frank Capra started "It's a Wonderful World" rolling. Wyler wired Capra: "Last one in is a rotten egg." Capra wound up his picture a week ago, while "Best Years" is still shooting . . . BARBARA WHITING will play the kid sister role in "Dear Ruth" in its Laguna Beach strawhat presentation . . . SIR LANCELOT, the Calypso singer, has finally forsaken Harlem and is now in Hollywood . . . BILL DEMAREST got a record catch of 18 albacore off Catalina the other day . . . FLORENCE BATES' work in "The Brasher Doubloon" aroused Producer Robert Bassler's enthusiasm. He wants her for "Party Line," next on his production schedule at 20th-Fox, but Miss Bates' four prior commitments will have to be adjusted first . . . REED HADLEY is teaching his four-year-old son how to play golf with specially built clubs . . . DIANA LYNN planes in from NY via American Airlines tomorrow . . . SPENCER TRACY made a long speech before the assembled cast and crew praising Elia Kazan's work as director on "Sea of Grass." He gave it a gag finish—"And the studio is so pleased with your work that next time they're going to let you shoot a picture with film in the camera!"

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Estelle Taylor was unhappy over the dialogue handed her in the legiter "Legend of Lou" and bowed out of the show over the weekend. Producers are shagging around for a replacement, with the play scheduled to open next month in Detroit . . . Irene Hervey lunched at the Beverly Hills Club yesterday with Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse before leaving for San Diego, where she will open in the lead of their Coast company version of "State of the Union" . . . Jackie Searle, formerly a boy heavy on the screen, is now operating a malt shop adjoining the Monica theatre on Santa Monica boulevard . . . OFF THE LOTS: Maxine Lewis entertained her mother and daughter at House of Murphy. Tony Martin and Rita Hayworth at Beverly Tropics. Blake Garner and Jane Withers at Henri's. Cathy Downs and Kurt Krueger, Louanne Hogan and David Rose, Russell Arms and Arlene Dahl, Celeste Holm and Schuyler Dunning, at The Kings . . . Sol Lesser is sending his Hollywood friends cans of salmon he caught during his Alaska vacation. That is, he caught the salmon and then had them canned . . . Johnny Miles, who recently received his release at 20th-Fox, is playing in "Fabulous Joe" at Hal Roach's . . . Jimmy and Mildred Mulcay were discussing an actress with her ex-husband, who was a ne'er-do-well and had been content to let his wife take the bows and support him. The ex-husband agreed with Mulcay that the star was a wonderful woman. "In all the years we were together she never gave me a bum check," he said wistfully.—D.D.T.

tiating committee, that postponemen of any action was recommended until after tomorrow's pow-wow. Thi recommendation immediately wa taken.

Yesterday, however, the Local' preparation committee, consisting o one rep from each of the ten majo studios, was at work preparing placards and arm bands for pickets. This was being done per order of the Designers' exec board, following Friday conference. Consequently there was some feeling that by continuing strike preparations regardless of impending negotiations, the pin on a walkout can be pulled Wednesday if tomorrow's talks break down.

Gordon Inked for 'Happy Birthday'

Initial Coast inking for the Hammerstein-Rodgers production of "Happy Birthday" came over the weekend, when Charles Gordon was set for the Helen Hayes starrer. Gordon is the first of several performers auditioned and signed by Leighton Brill for H-R productions and will leave for the east shortly where "Birthday" starts rehearsals Sept. 9 in New York. Show opens in Boston Oct. 7.

Randolph Scott Set For 'Albuquerque'

Randolph Scott has been signed for starring chore in Pine-Thomas' "Albuquerque." Film, earmarked for Paramount release, marks the unit's entry into top bracket production. Slated to roll next January, film will be shot in color on location and carries a top-budget allocation.

Alperson NY's

Edward L. Alperson left for New York over the weekend. He will confer there with 20th-Fox home office execs regarding New York engagement of "Black Beauty." Film opens there at the Victoria theatre on Labor Day.

'Vendetta' at Goldwyn's

Preston Sturges' "Vendetta" rolls today at the Samuel Goldwyn studios. Max Ophuls handles directorial chore for the Nigel Bruce starrer.

CAL SMITH WILL CHALLENGE NAB LAISSEZ FAIRE

Labor relations bombshell will be dropped in lap of the National Association of Broadcasters today in Washington, D. C., with arrival of Cal Smith, g.m. of KFAC here. Smith left Saturday to attend Labor Relations Committee meetings of NAB in capital and is planning either to stimulate greater activity within group of which he is a member or resign, basing his stand on assertion that they "haven't done a thing." Meeting is scheduled for 12th and 13th.

Particular reference will be made to union activities recently concluded here in which indie stations took it on the chin from both American Federation of Radio Artists and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Smith states that in both cases the NAB offered little and certainly no valuable assistance as stations struggled through tough negotiations and swallowed bitter pills in form of very substantial increases in pay, etc.

There's a growing feeling among indies there, and possibly other broadcasting interests elsewhere, that the NAB is top-heavy with high-priced self-appointed authorities and experts—who do not perform or otherwise live up to reputations and positions. Attempt, therefore, may be made to force appointment of one all-powerful labor chieftain, with full authority, to enliven and equip NAB to position comparable to that of unions that possess full information of employers, battle strategies, etc.

Labor Relations Committee meeting was formerly called for July 11 but was postponed. There was some objection to postponement which brings it along after Estes Park NAB Board meeting, now just concluding, but objections were over-ruled. Eight members of Labor Committee will converge on Washington today. Smith expects to return here on Thursday.

By JACK HELLMAN

To many producers, especially those who toil on Friday shows, the night before the weekend is no rating holiday. They would have you believe they have to fight for every point they get. True, perhaps, but the Hooper advance on Friday shows would belie such reasoning. Of the 16 shows listed gains were rolled up by 11. Fattest pickup was made by "Supper Club," climbing to 7.8 on a 3.4 spiral. Others rose and fell thusly: "Sam Spade" 4.2, up .6; "Break the Bank" 5.9, up 2.8; Tommy Riggs 3.2, off .9; Orson Welles 3.8, off .8. Topper for the night is "Aldrich Family" at 7.9, up 2.2. In the Sunday set Tommy Dorsey leaped 3.2 to 7.3 and the rest fared in this fashion: "Blondie" 7.7, up 2.6; "Corliss Archer" 4.7, off .2; Frank Morgan 6.5, up .5; Ford Festival 1.9, off .8; Gene Autry 4.4; Jimmy Fidler 4.7, off .8; Louella Parsons 3.9, off 1.7; "Rogues Gallery" 5.2, off 1; Silver Theatre 4.7, up .7. Saturday ratings: Billie Burke 5.7, up 1.4; Ed McConnell 2.3, up .2; Stars Over Hollywood 5.9, up 1.2; Hollywood Star Time 4.2, up .4.

High man on the coast Hooperating is "Mr. D.A." at 14.3, followed by Aldrich Family with 13.5 and "The Whistler" 13.2. The others making up the First 15 trail along in this order: "Mr. and Mrs. North," Michael Shayne, Frank Morgan, "Blondie," "People Are Funny," Bob Hawk, Phil Baker, Screen Guild Players, "Man Called X," "The Falcon" and "Count of Monte Cristo."

Chain breaks . . . Milton Biow and Rudy Vallee are facing each other across the bargaining counter and if negotiations ever reach the dotted line there'll be a new show on the air in the fall for Philip Morris . . . Cousin Ray Sinatra waves the wand for Frankie come the new season, with Axel Stordahl moving over to another podium . . . It's an eight-pound girl for the Art Linkletters which now evens off the family score at two each . . . Odd that LT, which is low as you can get in the Hooperatings, are also the initials of a film star who rates that nadirly with certain dramatic producers . . . Radio won't see much of Bert Parks after his spectacular performance as Al Jolson in the Sidney Skolsky picture, which you'll hear plenty about. And if "Joley" is singing as well as his voice comes off in the film, some sponsor is passing up a terrific bet . . . Wib Eickelberg's firm has been chosen by Chicago's WGN as Coast reps . . . Don Bernard is searching for a cross between Alan Ladd and Humphrey Bogart to head up a show he'll soon platter.

Herb Sanford resting up at Del Monte before making any fall commitments . . . Hal Kanter turns out the comedy material on the Don Ameche show, with Jean Holloway adapting the dramatic spots for the guestars. Phil Cole will help keep the laughs rolling . . . Larry and Jack Keating took their yawl out for a cruise from Frisco and nine days later pulled up at Pismo Beach. Pony Express made it in two days . . . Artie Phillips tops a writing staff of three for "Maisie" now that Sam Taylor has withdrawn to the Maine wilds. Selection of Russell Beggs leaves one to fill . . . Just now it's a tossup between Spike Jones and Meredith Willson for the Canada Dry plum. It should be settled later in the week when John Bates of the Mathes agency puts in town.

Just to keep you posted on where the Crosby matter now stands, it is of moment and record that the contracts for the disc deal now repose on the desk of the Philco brass, placed there last week by James Carmine, high exec of the Philly outfit. By now Carmine has been joined by Pierson Mapes and Hank Booraem of the Hutchins agency for a grand, full-scale assault on the Philco moneybags. Terms of the contract are those imposed by The Groaner and his board of strategy and it's up to Philco to take it or leave it. If contracts are signed, Philco will be billed at $30,000 a week for weekly half hour of records to be turned out by Jack Kapp's Decca auxiliary, World Broadcasting. Bing would preside over the platters for 39 weeks and for the summer cycle there would be standby artists. Should the deal go the way of others there's a good chance that General Motors may again be approached but the word is around that the automakers are pretty well fed up as was Texaco and some of the other interested parties. Glenn Wheaton has dropped out of the package and Bill Morrow will go it alone on the scripting. All of this is as boring to Bing as it is to you, perhaps, but we started with it and must see it through, even by the laborious step-by-step stage.

Hitch hikes . . . Colgate is dropping "Theatre of Romance" and turns over the CBS time to the Mel Blanc show, created and packaged by Joe Rines, who produces in coupling with the Judy Canova comedy piece. Takeoff is slated for Sept. 3 . . . Ben Benjamin now handling the radio list for Mike Levee . . . Young & Rubicam's Hollywood office was 10 years old yesterday . . . Another psychological chiller, "Danger, Dr. Danfield," has been bought by the Knox Co., for airing over ABC beginning Sept. 8. Michael Dunn, a Paramount stocker, has the lead and Wally Ramsey produces from script by Bob Wilkinson . . . Would it interest you to know that Gordon Jenkins has never drank coffee in his lifetime? Or that Norris Goff hauled in 300 pounds of salmon from the Rogue River up north and had the catch immediately canned for distribution to his friends? Or that Bert Praeger is getting out a magazine to be called Suspense and using material from the radio series?

Al Capstaff is audience- testing new comics following the next five broadcasts of the Tony Martin show. Roger Price, the writer who wants to be a comic, leads off . . . Bernard Dudley and Norman Runions, recently out of Armed Forces Radio Service, have set up quarters for the packaging of live and transcribed shows . . . Hay McClinton due in Thursday to install Glenhall Taylor as Coast radio head of the Ayer agency . . . Publishing house of Doubleday-Doran has commissioned Art Linkletter to do a tome on his 13 years of ad libbing.

FOUR-HOUR OPERA B'CASTS SOUGHT BY SAFEWAY

Precedental airing of full operas over a new "elastic" network is being proposed by the Safeway Stores. Foote, Cone & Belding Agency is master-minding deal with aid of United Pacific Network, remnant of defunct Associated Broadcasting System, which involves San Francisco Opera Co.

Plan is to present 10 full operas over a five-week period, starting Sept. 19. For first time in broadcasting, it would mean broadcasting of series of entire operas, lasting approximately four hours. Last year Mutual Broadcasting System carried one-hour portions of operas, usually one act, or last hour of operas, starting at 10 p.m.

Sponsor is desirous of expanding this year and has commissioned agency to set up special network of indie stations which would be served through semi-permanent leased wire facilities of United. Agency and United are now working out various plans embracing different sets of stations up and down Coast, including KXLA, KMPC and KLAC here.

Variety Clubs Honor Writers of Par Pix

General William McCraw, national executive director of the Variety Clubs of America, has announced that honorary associate memberships in the theatrical philanthropic organization will be awarded to the three Paramount writers currently completing the script of "Variety Girl." The writers are Robert Welch, Edmund Hartmann and Frank Tashlin. Studio has added five more writers to prepare special sequences for the musical, in which every star and featured player on the lot will appear. These are Jerry Seelen, Al Lewis, Snag Werris and the team of Thornton Hee and William Cottrell. Film will go before the cameras shortly with George Marshall directing and Daniel Dare producing.

Wackie After Ideas

A Brief Statement of Fact About the Current Studio

STRIKE THREAT

"A membership meeting of Screen Set Designers, Illustrators and Decorators, Local 1421, on Aug. 8 reviewed and rejected the producers' contract draft of Aug. 6.

"Our negotiating committee and the 1421 membership found the counter-proposal unacceptable because (1) the wage proposals are inadequate, (2) except for two or three minor points the union's demands for conditions are denied, (3) the counter-proposal denies new classifications requested by the union and makes some very objectionable changes which never were discussed.

"In the light of these facts the producers have not carried out the terms of the interim agreement and the union has authorized this committee to call a strike if necessary to enforce the agreement and get a contract.

"The president of the Conference of Studio Unions has just notified us that a meeting is arranged for our committee with the producers on Tuesday, Aug. 13, and at his request we will withhold action pending the outcome."

—Excerpts from letter of 1421 negotiating committee to producers Aug. 9.

Local 1421 members are not willing to endure more evasion and procrastination. They are not willing to accept a brushoff on their inequities and conditions of work. The union wants every other union and every employee in the industry to know exactly its demands.

The conditions asked are simple union demands, most of them now enjoyed by other studio unions:

Physical conditions — light, ventilation, uncrowded work space.

A six hour day—(for about half of the members who are hourly employees.)

A premium rate for flat salary workers on distant location.

Proportional increase for overscale employees.

A ratio of one junior to five seniors and annual advancement for the junior and assistant grades.

A premium rate for assistant department heads.

Sick leave and use of the union label.

Decorators to have time for research and preparation and a limit to the number of productions handled at one time.

New top classifications for set designers, illustrators, model builders and costume illustrators to give recognition to work requiring special talent or responsibility.

ALL OF THESE PROPOSALS WERE IGNORED IN THE PRODUCERS' COUNTER OFFER.

The wage demands are equally direct and proper. Here are reasons why the interim wage doesn't fill the bill. Here are the arguments we presented to producers in claiming inequities:

1) There is a long-standing disproportion between the pay of our members and that of the other creative art groups in the industry. Our artists are men and women of wide background and experience. Four years of college training in architecture or its equivalent is required for one year to qualify as an assistant in our lowest wage group.

In spite of this these workers receive:

29% of a Cameraman's pay.

45% of an Art Director's pay.

74% of a Scenic Artist's pay.

The situation is most serious within the Art Department. Here the Society of Motion Picture Art Directors, a non-AFL society, last year was granted a 50% raise while our members had great difficulty securing a 5% raise for the 1944-45 period. We are happy to see the Art Directors get this raise. But we also point out that it accentuates the inequity in the department and that such disproportionate bargaining is calculated by the Producers to disparage and discourage AFL membership and activity.

2) Outside wage rates have drawn away from the major studios a large proportion of their most talented and most experienced designers. In the independent studios and in the architectural offices today these men earn 15 to 40% above the new major studio scale. We showed why the studios need these designers, why their attempt to solve the problem by hiring greater numbers of less qualified and less experienced men is costly and inefficient. The correction of this inequity with outside wage rates is necessary to hold the remaining experienced designers and to attract some of the top men back.

The Producers are fond of quoting top rates and building their case on high wages. Many of our members are having the same take-home wage problems as those of other studio workers in the low wage brackets. We have taken a cut in living standards like the rest and while living costs skyrocket and studio profits soar to ever high levels.

The Interim wage doesn't fill the bill for many unions. Our representatives recognized this at the "Treaty of Beverly Hills" meeting. Local 1421 stands ready to cooperate with all the unions in the industry to secure proper union contracts now.

EXCLUSIVE RECORDS PLANS TO MARKET DISCS IN ENGLAND

Exclusive Records is planning to invade England with its discs. Highest scorer of the four operettas presented during the season was "Bloomer Girl," which took in $204,400 for four weeks' playing time, longest stand of any of the shows.

Second highest mark was that of "Vagabond King," which opened the season and snared $135,500 for three weeks. "Roberta" was close behind with $133,300 for an equal amount of playing time. mendations placed before the Justice Department by exhibitor and distributor groups, in an effort to work out machinery for policing of the court order.

Under the court order, the Department of Justice would exercise "enforcement power" and it was asserted that department attorneys are making a serious stydy of industry suggestions to see that an "equitable policing" system is worked out.

On the other hand, speculation is that majors will make provision for federal policing in their proposed decree. They are reported as having industry-appointed boards to do the policing.

Terrific volume of protests and recommendations placed before the Justice Department shows almost unanimous opposition to manner of handling single-picture rentals. Only favorable reactions, of course, are from distributor groups. Breakdown of beefs show that exhibitor groups are far and away most upset of any industry segment by New York court action.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

FOREIGN newspaper recap isn't in hand yet at Warner Bros. on the recent 5-month-long campaign to girdle the globe with reminders that this was the 20th year of talkers, pioneered by the Burbank brothers, but domestic count is an avalanche of clippings from every newspaper, fan mag, national mag, and feature section, plus plugs on 102 network radio shows. Warner flackery, with Alex Evelove at the helm, did the entire campaign. Impact of the pause for the Warner Bros. to take stock in their 20 years with the medium they brought to the screen in 1926 has been felt in every country where the films of the company are sold. The Warners in doing this anniversary commemoration, were prompted by a desire to memorialize their dead brother, Sam, but through the widespread publicity given the event have allowed the industry to inventory itself before the public.

Director stated he felt if the American film industry would unbend to the extent of making available for French films that number of houses, there would be less of the obstacles now being thrown in the way of exhibition of American films in France. His statements were given a wide airing in the French press, which is taking full advantage of the American delegation in Paris for the peace parley to present all trade and commerce cases to public view.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Your morning newspapers will probably tell of new outbreaks of violence in Palestine and in the harbor of Haifa. As this was written, the wires said that the transfer of the refugees off Haifa from their ships to transports, for internment on Cyprus, had begun. That can hardly be effected peacefully. The ships are miserable, sun-parched, odorous with vastly inadequate and makeshift sanitary facilities, and becoming disease-ridden. A young woman on board one the other day says: "I know they won't go back. They will never leave the harbor. They are desperate. When you ask how they're able to withstand their trials, all say: 'Look, we can already see Palestine. We are but half a mile away!' " This attitude, on the ships, echoed in Palestine, means trouble. That's the reason for the cruiser and two destroyers in the harbor, the tanks and the barber wire on shore . . . Add now to the explosive situation in the Middle East—the Russian demand for revision of the Montreux Convention to give her control of the Dardanelles . . . The Conference of Paris may recommend against the internationalization of Trieste, decide to delay its status, with the Italian colonies, for a year. Neither Yugoslavia nor Italy like the internationalization proposal, for they know that neither, under such circumstances, will want to restore the port, undertake economic development behind it, nor feed it with business. Internationalized, it's neither fish nor fowl, and unpalatable to both.

DESIGNERS PRESS FOR PACT TODAY

Screen Set Designers, Local 1421 negotiating committee, headed by prexy John Raymond, meets with producers' labor committee at 2:30 this afternoon in the offices of the Motion Picture Association to press demand for new contract. Union last week unanimously rejected the major film studios' counter proposal of a 25 per cent wage increase retroactive to January 1. Today's parley, called to avert a threatened strike by the union, was arranged by Herbert K. Sorrell, prexy of the Conference of Studio Unions and Pat Casey and Eddie Mannix, representing the producers.

"The Screen Set Designers, having been without a contract for three years, are determined to get one at this time," prexy Raymond stated last night. "And while every hope is held for tomorrow's meeting proving successful, preparations are being pressed for a full-scale strike in the event of further producer evasion and delay."

The producers' labor committee, participating in today's meet with the union, includes Chairman B. B. Kahane of Columbia, Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount; Eddie Mannix, Metro; Cliff Work, Universal; Herb Freston, Warner Bros.; Leon Goldberg, RKO; Marvin Ezzell, Samuel Goldwyn; H. McDonnell, Republic; Warren Doane, Hal Roach, and Fred Myers, 20th-Fox. Pat Casey, Fred Pelton and Byron Price of the MPA also will attend the meeting. Herbert K. Sorrell, CSU prexy, will be with the set designers negotiating committee.

Sorrell last night called for a special meeting of the CSU membership for tonight at Carpenters Hall. Meet will hear a full report of this afternoon's union-producers peace parley. Further action, Sorrell indicated, will depend upon results of afternoon's negotiations.

The Big Sleep

(Mystery Melodrama)

WARNERS RELEASE. Producer-director, Howard Hawks. Screenplay, William Faulkner, Leigh Brackett and Jules Furthman. From novel by Raymond Chandler. Photography, Sid Hickox. Art director, Carl Jules Weyl. Film editor, Christian Nyby. Sound, Robert B. Lee. Set decorations, Fred M. MacLean. Special effects, E. Roy Davidson, Warren E. Lynch. Wardrobe, Leah Rhodes. Music, Max Steiner. Musical director, Leo F. Forbstein. Assistant director, Chuck Hansen.

TRADESHOWN at Warner Bros. studios, Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 9, 1946. Running time: 113 MINS.

"The Big Sleep" follows the Raymond Chandler formula. Mix one private eye, hard-skulled and honest, with a police blotter full of murder and mayhem, chiselers, treacherous females, gunfire, assault and battery, sordid motives and sexual by-play. It comes up as boxoffice, especially with Humphrey Bogart as Philip Marlowe and Lauren Bacall as his slinky sparring partner. The Bogart-Bacall team gives off the same kind of sparks that ignited "To Have and Have Not," which Howard Hawks also produced and directed for Warners.

Rumors around Hollywood had it that "The Big Sleep" needed a lot of patching via retakes and cutting, but it comes off as first-rate melodrama. After a rather slow-paced and talky start, the film builds up tension as the stack of corpses grows higher, and ends with a big wallop.

This time out, Philip Marlowe is summoned by an aging general whose two daughters are running wild. Vivian (played by Lauren Bacall) is more sedate, being addicted only to high-stake gambling and drinking highballs at noon, than her kid sister Carmen, who is a coy cuddling psycopath. The general is being blackmailed for the antics of the latter and wants Marlowe to put a stop to it.

Marlowe tracks down the blackmailer but latter is shot and Carmen is planted on the scene, plastered to the hairline and photographed by another blackmailer, Joe Brody (Louis Jean Heydt). Marlowe manages to bluff Brody out of the photograph a few minutes before he is knocked off by a confederate of Blackmailer No. 1. Trail leads to a gambler friend of Vivian's who has more bodyguards and torpedoes than a South American president. Marlowe spars with Vivian, kicks his way through a platoon of assassins and solves the case in a hail of .45 ammunition.

Bogart gives his usual tight-lipped and sardonic touches to Philip Marlowe and should make audiences believe he's as good as the script says he is. Lauren Bacall redeems herself from the memory of "Confidential Agent," and, opposite Bogart again, gives a provocative edge to her playgirl portrayal. Martha Vickers injects a suggestion of baby-faced evil into her role of the psycho sister. Charles Waldron is excellent as the aged general. Bob Steele, Louis Jean Heydt and Elisha Cook, Jr., give a lot of punch to the supporting cast, and John Ridgely gets into the heavy class for a change as the suave gambler. Dorothy Malone and Peggy Knudsen show considerable promise in brief appearances. Same goes for Joy Barlowe as a bright-eyed taxi driver.

Howard Hawks' technique gets the most out of the script provided by William Faulkner, Leigh Brackett and Jules Furthman which closely follows the Chandler story line. Sid Hickox's photography catches the murky mood of same. All other technical credits are keyed into the production of a Class A mystery film. "The Big Sleep" is an excellent mixture of interesting characters, action-packed melodrama and the maneuvers of Bogart and Bacall.

The Show-Off

(Comedy)

METRO RELEASE. Producer, Albert Lewis. Director, Harry Beaumont. Screenplay by George Wells. From the play by George Kelly. Photography, Robert Planck. Art direction, Cedric Gibbons and Preston Ames. Set decorations, Edwin B. Willis and Ralph S. Hurst. Musical score, David Snell. Sound, Douglas Shearer. Costumes, Irene and Howard Shoup. Film editor, Douglass Biggs.

CAST—Red Skelton, Marilyn Maxwell, Marjorie Main, Virginia O'Brien, Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, George Cleveland, Leon Ames, Marshall Thompson, Jacqueline White, Wilson Wood, Lila Leeds, Emory Parnell.

TRADESHOWN at Westwood Village Theatre, Westwood, Calif., Aug. 7, 1946. Running time: 90 MINS.

"The Show Off" is the old George Kelly stage play, modernized and adapted to the screen as a vehicle for Red Skelton. Neither the modernization nor Skelton adds anything to the reputation of the comedy, which was a top stage hit in its day. It comes out in the films as just another mildly amusing show. The Skelton name on the marquee, together with Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, will benefit the box office and the picture produces enough laughs to keep the audience from feeling cheated.

Skelton works hard as the irrepressible braggart of the title role, whose boasting and unjustified self-assurance furnish the motivation for the comedy sequences. But the part doesn't fit him too well, though he makes it come up with a fair share of laughs.

Marjorie Main and George Cleveland carry off a good portion of the acting honors with their portrayals of the chief character roles of the show. Marilyn Maxwell as Skelton's loving and loyal wife works her part successfully for both charm and pathos.

Rochester's role is just a bit, which is barely enough to justify use of his name for possible exploitation. Virginia O'Brien, Marshall Thompson, Jacqueline White, Leon Ames and Wilson Wood all contribute smooth and convincing performances. Lila Leeds and Emory Parnell show up well in minor parts.

Albert Lewis has given the production top values so far as material and technical elements are concerned. Direction of Harry Beaumont is competent and keeps the action fluent. Robert Planck does a good job on the photography.

Gottlieb Handed 'Another Day'

Alex Gottlieb yesterday was handed production chore on Warner Bros.' "Tomorrow Is Another Day," based on the W. R. Burnett horse racing yarn. Lester Fuller and Edward Rolfe are doing polish job on screenplay.

BO COLD CASH MELTS UNDER L.A. WEATHER

Torrid temperatures are keeping Los Angeles film boxoffices pretty well spider-webbed in a dull $310,875 week. Most managers were pleased to see holdovers taking even moderate coin for subsequent weeks that normally might have been fat pickings. "Heartbeat" sees $28,500 in two spots at the Pantages and RKO Hillstreet for its second frame, while "Anna and the King of Siam" holds up well to cop $25,371 for four days of the fourth week in the Chinese, Uptown and Loew's State and the move-over spot at Carthay Circle.

"Night in Casablanca" looms at $32,000 for the second stretch at the four Music Hall houses. "Suspense," which bowed into the El Rey, Orpheum and Vogue should take out $37,650 for its commencement frame. "Searching Wind" is good for $27,500 at the two Paramounts on the second inning.

"Lover Come Back," playing at the Ritz, United Artists and Guild is pleasant at $24,900. "Night and Day" took a slash in some spots but still grabbed $58,500 for the week at the Downtown, Hollywood and Wiltern Warners houses.

Stan Kenton's band was the hefty drawer at the Million Dollar and walked out with a gross of $21,000 for the stand of one week. "The Green Years" maintained a good pace at the Belmont, Egyptian, Los Angeles and Wilshire with $39,750 for third frame. "Henry V" at Laurel kept up niftily to pull $9,000 on the ninth week.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Sensational to good is the word for three new Loop bills, "Two Sisters from Boston," with Tex Beneke-Glenn Miller orch on stage being the topper at the Oriental with the smasheroo $75,000. "Falcon's Alibi" dualer at the Palace also cleaning up with $37,000 and "Janie Gets Married" is doing okay at $15,000 at the small-seater Garrick.

"Henry V," in second stretch, and a full schedule this time, is getting near-capacity $15,000 on two-a-day basis, and other H.O.'s in solid groove are "Bride Wore Boots," with Ritz Bros. on stage, Chicago, $62,000; "Stolen Life," Roosevelt, $28,000; and "Of Human Bondage," Apollo, $16,000. Or, how neo-Variety can you get? . . . Lois Wilson is vacationing in Hollywood but leaves soon for strawhat engagements on Cape Cod . . . Incidentally, the talent on display in eastern summer theatres has been a disappointment to film talent scouts. Only a few possibilities have been tabbed. Plays being tried out are even less promising . . . Mrs. Jack LaRue won't believe in weighing machines' fortune-telling cards any more. She got a card saying, "Be extremely careful of the men you are with," and on the other side was a picture of her husband . . . Louella Parsons will resume writing her column in two weeks and her airshow Sept. 1. Bing Crosby will appear on the latter . . . Larry Adler became a father over the weekend for the third time. DANNY KAYE says he overheard one quickie producer tearing another apart with the statement, "The only thing he can keep in his head for more than a day is a cold" . . . ELIA KAZAN'S first attempt at film direction occurred in 1934. He and a friend filmed "Pie in the Sky" on the Long Island City dumps at a cost of $7. The Czechoslovakian actor will pick up his immigration quota number and proceed with his citizenship plans . . . FRANK SINATRA signified his intention of staying in good standing with local songpluggers' union by paying his dues for another year.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Femme star who changes her secretaries with every passing whim got loused up on a big party she threw recently. Her secretary walked out on her, and the star tossed the job of checking the invitation list into the lap of her hairdresser. Some of the "right" people failed to receive invitations, others didn't know where the party was to be held—and the gatecrashers had a wonderful time . . . Metro had quite an engineering problem in "This Time for Keeps." They had to build a tandem bicycle to be operated by Jimmy Durante, who is short of leg, and Lauritz Melchior, who is broad of beam . . . OFF THE LOTS: Humphrey Bogart, John Cromwell and writer Steve Fisher lunching at Billingsley's. Jack Dempsey and Mary Ainslee, Ken Murray and Marie Wilson, Allan Jones and Irene Hervey at the Bar of Music. Rena Borzage and Jeffrey Gill at Charley Foy's. "Who do you think I am—Powderewski?"—D.D.T.

By RADIE HARRIS

Phil Silvers and Rags Ragland will be the star attractions to open the bank of Monte Proser at the Copa, preeming Sept. 2nd. Their convulsive act will include a parody on "They Say It's Wonderful" and when they reach the lyric, "they say that eating at the Stork is wonderful," a neon light will illuminate their shirt fronts advertising Toots Shorr! . . . Now that Patsy Ruth Miller has written "finis" to her marriage to John Lee Mahin, she is also closing the chapter to Hollywood, where she has lived most of her life. Accompanied by her young son, Timothy, she "Stratoliners" to NY on Sunday to settle in the east permanently and continue her writing career in a Conn. retreat . . . Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., sincere in his search to find a newcomer to play opposite him in "The Exile," is testing Susan Douglas this week . . . Raymond Massey, having a quiet dinner with his family the other p.m., was slightly bewildered to hear a radio commentator's misplaced sense of humor announce that he was in a local hospital being X-rayed for a surfboard accident. Ray says that as far as he knows, the only thing that hit him was a wave! . . . Harry Ommerle of the Arthur Lyons NY emporium will be transferred to Camden Dr. to replace the late Walter Johnson—and Hollywood couldn't get a nicer guy.

SOMETHING NEW HAS BEEN ADDED: Julie Epstein, gagging his way through the dinner hour at Dave Chasen's (on his jokes-not the food!), was telling of a w.k. playwright he had just met, who yak-ing away about his recent trip to Paris, kept referring to the various places he had visited—the Place Pigale, the Rue de la Paix, the Bois du Mont Martre, etc., etc.

"I know hundreds of name droppers," Julie cracked, "but this was the first time I had ever run across a street dropper!"

MARVELOUS PAHTY—AGAIN! When Hollywood's most popular boniface hosts Hollywood's most popular visitor, the result is bound to be as huge a success as Charlie Morrison's cocktail soiree for Jimmy Walker at the Bev-Hills on Sunday. Champagne flowed on the balcony . . . Sonja Henie and Stu Barthelmess glowed on the dance floor . . . and Jimmy Durante "nosed" his way through the mob on the terrace, where contemplating Lana Turner (in a jeweled chapeau that had all the other femmes drooling in envy, but without Lana's face to go under it (and who has?), a quoi bon: L. B. Mayer, Eddie Goulding, Paul and Daisy Lukas, Marie MacDonald, Greg Bautzer (actually stagging it), Lorena Danker, Bob Hutton, Jimmie McHugh, with his favorite (and so lovely and talented) blonde, Mary Meade, Jock McLain, Quent Reynolds, Harry Joe Brown, Bob Josephy, Norman Siegel, Doc Shurr, Joe Schenck, the Eddie Welches, Johnny Meyer, Martha Vickers and gobs more, Jimmy exclaimed, "Everybody wants to get into the act!" And anyone who didn't was cuh-razy, especially when there was no one to check the door—as Hollywood's biggest gate crasher quickly discovered!

SCOOPING AROUND: The important role of "Katie" in "Arch of Triumph" is as yet uncast, but Claire Trevor is testing today, which should put an end to the frantic search for just the right actress for this small, but difficult part. Incidentally, if Claire plays her, she'll be the only one in the all-star lineup playing her own nationality—viz: Charles Boyer, a Frenchman, is impersonating an Austrian; the Swedish Bergman, an Italian; the American Louis Calhern, a Russian; and the Russian Checkov, a German. But this is one "league of all nations" that is hitting it off famously, thanks to their Russian director, Lewis Ratoff Milestone! . . . Leona Maricle, in the Coast company of "State of the Union" and Louis Jean Heydt, her groom of many years, are Calling it a Day. Heydt, however, won't be back in circulation long. His next bride will be Greta Mossheim, as soon as she unties the knot from millionaire Howard Gould . . . That beautiful pink bonnet with the purple plume that won all the oohs and ahs at Josephi's Bel-Air showing the other p.m. is tagged, "Up in Central Park," where Mike Todd hopes all the femmes will wear it at the Hollywood Bowl next month . . . Hurd Hatfield is back in town without making "Torrents of Spring" for John Sutro, but he got a round trip Clipper ride across the Atlantic and zoomed through Paris, London and Biarritz on a holiday spree—all on the cuff, so if Hurd isn't complaining about being yanked back by Metro, I think he's got something there! . . . Tommy Cook, wonder boy of the ether waves, gets his best screen break in "Home Stretch" (20th-Fox) . . . Georgia Gibbs was THAT surprised when she arrived home after her Satdee nite broadcast to find Gene Kelly, Betsy Blair, Erin O'Brien Moore, Dean Harens, Nancy Walker, Harry Ellerbe, Betty Lee Hunt, Stanley Roberts, Mary Foran, Hal Block, the Sid Zelinkas and some twenty other pals, waiting in the darkened living room to shriek, "Happy irthday" at her. In her 21 years plus, this was the first surprise party she had ever had, and she was so overwhelmed, she could hardly speak. Where "her nibs" is concerned, I'll settle for a song anytime! . . . Bramwell Fletcher will altar again with Jacqueline Stix, who was his second bride, Diana Barrymore'e understudy in "Rebecca" . . . I love the title of Dorothy Dey and Dean Murphy's intimate tome—but will the censors? It's tagged "A Day in a Murphv Bed!"

PASSING PARADE: Edna Best, proudly admitting that her nine-month-old grandson is her houseguest, and "China" Marin with her beautiful grey hair, proving the art of growing old gracefully at the Howard Reinheimer's Sand and Pool party . . . The Esquire cocktail shindig a few feet away in the Terrace Room brought out an entirely different clique that included cutie-pie Peggy Cummins, David Street, Buffie Cobb, Oliver Thorndike, Kurt Krueger, Cathy Downs, Dorothy Miles, plus some of the Reinheimer overflow—the Lester Cowans, Charlie Beahan and Sig Herzig.

INDIES PRESS STILL PHOTOG UNION TO GIVE MORE CARDS

Need for more union cards or working permits for still photographers is being stressed by indie producers who are currently embarrassed by shortage of still men. Union is tight organization, reluctant to increase membership and it is understood several still cameramen have been working on permits for two years or more and still are waiting for union cards.

Situation is especially tough on the indies as most of the good still men have preferred to work on contract with the majors, for scale or slightly over, being assured of steady work.

The boys who work the independent field, however, are doing all right. Some of them are reported averaging double the scale or better and with few idle weeks during the year. Indies not only go for good dough for still work but pay rental for photog's own equipment.

'Henry' Music For Academy Night

Music from "Henry V" film production, composed by William Walton, will be featured at the Second Annual Academy Night at Hollywood Bowl Saturday. Other film scores to be presented will be "The Fabulous Dorseys," "The Bandit of Sherwood Forest," "Hangover Square," "Suspense" and "Spellbound."

'Brave' At Playhouse

"Home of the Brave" opens at Las Palmas Playhouse tonight as an Actors' Laboratory production. Phil Brown is directing the Arthur Laurents play, which opened on Broadway early this year.

Light 'n' Airy
(on the ½ shell)
by JACK HELLMAN

Don Lee policy of gagging announcers handling band remotes, inaugurated by Charlie Bulotti, has found sympathetic understanding beyond our own borders to the south. From Bermuda where he is on respite from huckstering, Jack Van Nostrand sends along the following editorial comment from the island's Mid-Ocean News: "We have long suspected that many of those who design broadcasts for the rest of us spend their own free time curled up with a good book safely removed from all radio receivers; that if they had to listen to their own work they would not thrust upon a patient and long-suffering public so much that is inane and puerile and simply dull. The experience of Mr. Bulotti seems to confirm this view—perhaps some radio officials elsewhere might follow his example usefully." Charlie, take a bow, and the others, take heed.

Chain breaks . . . Bob Burns-Shirley Ross show goes under the production aegis of Sullivan, Stauffer, Colwell & Bayles next season. American Home Products moved the Anacin account from Ruthrauff & Ryan. New agency recently acquired another Hollywood program, Noxema's "Mayor of the Town." Joe Thompson directs the Burns-Ross stanza . . . Lux opens its 13th season Aug. 26 with Claudette Colbert as star of "Without Reservation." Then follows "Vines Had Tender Grapes" and for Sept. 16 Thompson agency has booked "Madame Curie" with Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon . . . Small station spot announcer listed O. O. McIntyre in a group of notables drooling over the vittles at The Kings. McIntyre left this vale of tears many years ago . . . Mike Connolly, who scoops up radio news, in Chicago for Variety, passing his vacation here . . . We stand corrected; Axel Stordahl will be back as Frank Sinatra's music director when Old Golds light up again . . . Writes Phil Cohan from Banff, Canada: "This place is all it's touted to be and so quiet you can even hear those Hoopers dropping".

Hitch hikes . . . Deal negotiated with Miles Laboratories for the Roy Rogers show is for five years and new series gets under way Oct. 5 on NBC. Flanking Rogers on the program will be Dale Evans, Gabby Hayes, Pat Buttram and Country Washburn's orchestra . . . When all other means failed, Sherman & Marquette in NY sent out a police pickup on Mel Blanc somewhere in Colorado where he is vacationing. Agency wanted to tell him about the starting date of his new Colgate show so that he would hustle back to Hollywood and get busy with Producer Joe Rines and his writers. Gendarmes flagged him down from a description of the car he was driving . . . Ed James, one of the better situation comedy writers before the war, weighing several offers . . . Ben Brady has been set by Young & Rubicam to produce the Ginny Simms show . . . Eddie Cantor, back from two months of entertaining hospitalized GI's, has started casting his new Pabst program, which tees up Sept. 26.

NAB Board Asks Practice Standards be Stiffened

Washington, Aug. 12.—A drastic overhauling of the NAB "standards of practice" which advises radio stations on their program policies was recommended by a militant NAB board of directors meeting in Estes Park, Colo., last week. NAB directors voted for strongly reinforced code with some enforcement powers which observers say they hope to use as a sort of industry "blue book" to take the wind out of FCC's so-called "blue book" on public service responsibilities of broadcasters a broad program of industry self-regulation.

SPUR OVERALL ACTIVITIES

NAB board also wanted much closer NAB-station relations and extension of NAB activities all up and down the line. However they gave only lukewarm support to idea of a radio academy of talent, refusing to give funds to the radio "Oscars" and adopting a strict "hands off" policy. Industry should not participate in the awards either, NAB ruled.

ENDORSE ANNOUNCEMENT RULE

Board with exception of NBC and CBS reps endorsed FCC's new rule eliminating identifying announcements on recorded programs except where necessary to let the audience know a show is not live.

Directors also upped Robert C. Coleson, NAB western rep since January, to post of assistant to the president. Coleson will continue to headquarter in Hollywood.

today's law books as the only acceptable method of sales.

Raftery said United Artists is "The greatest stronghold for independent producers in the world." He pointed out that 29 producers are now under contract to the company, with an investment of $50,000,000 in product during 1946-47.

Raftery added that the 36 features and 59 shorts scheduled for release this year is the largest in the company's history and predicted that UA's take will exceed all other years in gross receipts. SALES INTEREST IN HAWAII CATCHES EYE OF MAJORS

Western sales divisions of majors are indicating renewed interest in Territory of Hawaii. Thought to be too long neglected anyhow, and particularly spiced by prospect of revised sales policies under government action, local exchanges are beginning to look westward for a sales look-see of the islands.

Territory, serviced by local exchanges as portion of their beat, has been let function without sales stimulus for many years. War made trip an impossibility. However, due to service-made prosperity little thought was given to extra servicing of booming business. Now, with war over and conditions gradually settling to more normal pace, reps are eyeing Territory as green field for missionary work and pepping of Consolidated, Ramisch and indie theatres.

MARTIN BLOCK TO JOIN KFWB AS DISC JOCKEY

and KFWB marks all time high in coin outlay for personality by any western station, and is exceeded only by New York.

Move involves some of most grandiose plans yet seen in radio industry. Block has reported guarantee of $1,500 weekly from Warners—whether or not three-hour platter show he'll pilot has single sponsor. He's currently getting $2,500 at WNEW.

Because of Chesterfield show on National Broadcasting Co., Columbia Records program on Columbia Broadcasting System, publishing and other activities, his personal take after taxes is considerably less than it would appear. Already a millionaire, he figures to be working one month per year for himself—and the remainder for the government, in taxes. Under California laws, he expects, despite actually making less, to net more, in addition to favoring clime, etc., here. He recently purchased a home at 4700 Libbitt Boulevard, Encino.

Bill Anson, current disc marathoneer for KFWB, will be released. His one year contract will be up around time Block is prepared to come West. Latter's wife is due here in October to take over new home, and he will follow within two or three months. His contract with WNEW is not up until Dec. 31, 1947, but he's worked out a deal whereby he'll transcribe his commercials, patter, etc., here and forward to WNEW on weekly basis for continuance until expiration of contract. WNEW would then continue Block local show in New York using his transcribed messages and remote platter selections.

Block will conduct his activities here from his home. A special studio is being built there to accommodate, and from it he will feature all the great and aspirants of the musical world as guests, adding intimate touch. Maurice Hart, now conducting Chesterfield program on KFWB, and formerly an assistant of Block's in New York, will resume same status with Block when latter gets here.

ANN RICHARDS, IN FROM AUSTRALIA

Ann Richards yesterday returned from two-month trip to her native Australia, and was immediately set for star role opposite Dennis Morgan in Eagle-Lion's "His Wedding Day." She goes on loanout from Hal Wallis, to whom she is under term contract, and for whom she made hop to Antipodes for personal appearances in conjunction with his production, "The Searching Wind."

Actress upon her arrival declared Australian film industry is undergoing complete rejuvenation. First of post-war films put out by country Down Under is picture tagged "Smithy," based on exploits of Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, which, she asserted, far outstrips any previous Australian film efforts.

Picture was shot with only 12 lights, all that were available, and with two antiquated cameras literally tied together with wire, according to actress. Technical crew was composed entirely of ex-servicemen and Ken Hall directed.

$8.50 MINIMUM FOR EXTRAS IN NEW SCALE

and those with good street clothes, $14. The rest will be hired at the new "atmosphere" rate of $8.50. Latter minimum figure represents a little over 50 per cent pay hike over current minimum of $5.50.

It was further learned that the 300-mile limit on hiring extra players will remain in the new pact. Latter clause affords producers opportunity of hiring non-guild players at location sites situated beyond that limitation. Terms of the new agreement also will permit producers to recommend for membership in the SEG players they may desire for extra work. The new contract is expected to be submitted shortly to SEG membership for vote by mail ballot.

Some of the major provisions of the new pact were assailed yesterday by Don Wayson, former secretary of the Screen Players' Union. Stating he was acting for himself and other guildsmen, Wayson called upon the SEG board of directors to call a mass meeting of the membership and open discussion on the contract before balloting.

Armstrong Coming To Seek Band Names

Louis Armstrong pulls in next week from New York, for appearance in Jules Levey's "New Orleans." Immediately he arrives, band leader will start recruiting as many of the original big-time jazz boys as he can find still living, to make up a Dixieland band for picture.

1ST E-L VEHICLE FOR CORDOVA

"Son of Casanova" yesterday was set by Eagle-Lion as first feature for Arturo de Cordova, under his three-picture deal with company. Film, swashbuckling story of Naples in 16th Century, will be produced by Albert J. Cohen, with Irving Rogers writing original screenplay.

"Casanova" will be filmed in Cinecolor, first tinter for company. E-L has been granted commitment for three films by color firm, with company trying to get promise for additional tinters. Film is now slated to go before cameras in late October or early November, depending when actor winds up in Jules Levey's "New Orleans." De Cordova previously was announced to star first in "Love From A Stranger," which now will be his second appearance for E-L.

New set-up on the Universal lot resulting from Universal-International merger was announced yesterday. At the same time it was learned that at least five of the toppers under the old regime, some of them veteran employes of years standing, are being released.

Under the new alignment John Beck, Jr., who was with International before that organization came to the Universal lot, is vice president and general manager for Universal-International Productions. Rufus Le Maire, brought a short time back to International from 20th-Fox, continues as production aide. Organization is headed by Leo Spitz, chairman of the board, and William Goetz, president and in charge of production. William Dozier is vice president and associate head of production. Cliff Work, as announced previously, is a senior studio executive.

Crosby, Philco Deal Set With Groaner Loophole

Bing Crosby and Philco have reached an agreement on their record deal, according to reports from the east, but the contract reputedly signed leaves The Groaner an out if he decides to change his mind. Deal has been placed in escrow for 10 days and if at the expiration of that period Crosby is still compatible to the arrangement, the contracts become binding on both parties.

Understood that Philco will spot the platter series on Wednesday at 9 p.m. over ABC, pitting him against Frank Sinatra and Ed Gardner. U.S. Steel-Theatre Guild show would be moved to follow Crosby from 9:30 to 10:30. Because of the escrow angle both Philco and Crosby's negotiators are dummying up on the deal but talk in the trade persists that it's a deal with Crosby setting up his own package production operation with his own show for Philco as the initial venture.

New York, Aug. 13.—Conference of Independent Exhibitor Associations is planning to throw full weight of member-units behind recommendations for changes in the anti-trust decision. Outfit is seeking a unanimous report for its Washnigton meet, slated for last week of September. A number of theatre units, however, have expressed divergent views on the decree. Jesse E. Eddie Mannix was the only member of the producers top labor committee reported at the peace parley called to avert a threatened strike.

Although the two groups indicated a spirit of compromise on various demands put forth by producers and the union, it was learned that issue of wage inequities claimed by the union proved insurmountable at yesterday's meet. The union flatly declared that the 25 per cent increase did not make

CAST—Constance Moore, William Mar- all, Bill Goodwin, Johnny Coy, Vera gue, Edward Everett Horton, Hillary ooke, Dorothy Babb, Robert Homans.

PREVIEWED at RCA Studios, Holly- od, Cal., Aug. 13, 1946. Running time: MINS.

''Earl Carroll Sketchbook'' is mill- n musical that is entertaining in ots but doesn't quite click as a hole. On the comedy side there are me good belly laughs, but they are o far apart. In the matter of girls nd music the show is adequately quipped, Johnny Coy and Dorothy abb are something of a sensation in dance number, and the stand-out une of the piece, ''I've Never For- otten,'' gets heavy selling in pro- uction numbers. But the customary tory of back-stage trials and tri- mphs drags along without pointing p the goodies of the piece.

Constance Moore in the femme ead handles her singing and acting hores well, and is good to look at. illiam Marshall carries the male omantic interest. Bill Goodwin puts n a good performance as an Earl Carroll show producer with a soft spot in his heart for Miss Moore and gets across well in song number with he latter.

Comedy honors go to Edward Ev- erett Horton and Vera Vague. They make the most out of dialogue and situations that are spottily good and mediocre and the show could have taken more of them.

Producer Robert North has mounted the show fairly well and had evidently made the most of materials that are a little short of top value for spectacular musical comedy.

Direction by Al Rogell allows the action to drag in places but is fortunately handled in comedy sequences. Musical numbers have been nicely staged by Nick Castle and Jack Marta has made the photography effective.

Gordon Quits RKO

William Gordon yesterday tendered his resignation as RKO censorship department head, after five years in post, and will set up his own office as public relations consultant.

PAR, INDIE ARTISTS IN TITLE CLASH

Independent Artists, new Fred Brisson-Rosalind Russell indie company, yesterday received communication from Paramount legal department protesting use of title ''Happiness of Pursuit,'' slated as company's first picture, to star Miss Russell. Complaint hinged on fact public would become confused and mix up film with Paramount's ''Pursuit of Happiness,'' produced some years ago as Joan Bennett-Francis Lederer co-starrer. Legal heads of new firm immediately dispatched reply in which it was stated use of title did not constitute unfair competition, since essential meanings were different.

Helen Deutsch Slated as Col Producer-Writer

Columbia yesterday announced that it had secured Helen Deutsch's signature to a producer-writer contract, but at late hour last night Miss Deutsch stated she had not yet signed any contract. She reported that she and Harry Cohn, Columbia head, were to have further huddles today, at which time it was likely she would go to Columbia in two-capacity post.

Miss Deutsch swings over from Metro, where she just wound up script on ''Robinson Crusoe.'' Two years ago, while on six-week leave from Metro writing contract, she turned out original story, ''As You Want Me,'' which Metro purchased for $96,400, then an all-time high for original at Culver City lot. She also did scripts for studio's ''National Velvet'' and ''The Seventh Cross,'' and recently did screenplay for Paramount's ''Golden Earrings.'' Addition of Miss Deutsch to Columbia roster will give studio three femme producers, Virginia Van Upp and Frances Manson being others.

MPA Tops to Berlin in Bid to Crack German Pic Mart

New York, Aug. 13.—In a strong bid for the post-war German film market, the Motion Picture Association has sent two top execs to Berlin in an effort to crack attitude of non-cooperation by the American Military Government, which has been preventing importation of new American films into Germany. Francis Harmon, MPA veepee, and Gerald Mayer, international department exec, are currently in Berlin conferring on the situation with General Joseph McNarney, boss of the American section.

Understood American film companies are pressing for a wider screening of their product as well as clearance on new pictures primarily for future market purposes. In latter respect, Hollywood faces strong competition from England and, to a great extent, also from France and Russia.

In line with its projected distribution program for Germany, it was learned that the MPA is requesting use of available laboratory facilities for dubbing and titling in German. In addition, the MPA reps will ask for release of raw stock for prints and limited German personnel to handle the work in that country.

Record UA Ad Budget Seen From Auction Bidding Plan

New York, Aug. 13.—Ad budgets will reach new all time highs under auction-bidding plan decreed by U.S. Court, according to Paul N. Lazarus, Jr., publicity-advertising head of United Artists. Statement was made to delegates to company's convention here and was added to with report that UA had already appropriated $8,000,000, an unprecedented sum, due to demands it imposes.

Out of total for forthcoming season, $3,000,000 will be spent between now and Jan. 1.

International convention, first since 1942, started Monday and continues through Thursday. J. J. Unger, general sales manager, expects to clarify UA's new sales policy under the decree in session tomorrow.

'Can't Make American Films in Britain,' Says Gilliat

You can't make American pictures in England and there's no reason to try, according to Sidney Gilliat, one of top British producers releasing through J. Arthur Rank organization. ''British producers should not attempt to ape American films in turning out pictures for American release,'' he said. Barring necessary changes in dialogue dictated by differences in meaning of words and phrases special treatment of films made in England for the American market is not advisable, he said.

Gilliat is partner with Frank Launder in Individual Pictures, Ltd. and the two co-produced ''The Rake's Progress,'' which is being released in this country as ''The Notorious Gentleman.'' He was at Universal yesterday for a press conference and is touring this country and Canada.

Rep May Drop 'B' Films If Exhibs Spurn Low Budgeters

New York, Aug. 13.—Unless exhibs show willingness to buy more low-budget films than in recent past, Republic may discontinue ''B'' picture production, William Saal, aide to Republic prexy Herbert J. Yates, told Variety. According to Saal, Republic will continue production of ''B's'' as test through coming year. Company, however, is uncertain it can come out profitably under new single-picture, auction selling plan. At end of next season, Saal declared, Republic may be forced to follow Universal in dropping low-budgeters. In latter event, company would re-organize setup and make ''A'' product exclusively.

Shadow of a Woman

(Melodrama)

WARNERS RELEASE. Producer, William Jacobs. Director, Joseph Santley. Screenplay, Whitman Chambers, Graham Baker. From novel by Virginia Perdue. Photography, Bert Glennon. Special effects, Edwin DuPar. Art direction, Hugh Reticker. Set decorations, Clarence Steensen. Montages, James Leicester. Sound, Charles Lang. Wardrobe, Milo Anderson. Music, Adolph Deutsch. CAST—Co-stars Helmut Dantine and Andrea King. Features Don McGuire, Dick Erdman, John Alvin, William Prince. Supporting players, Becky Brown, Peggy Knudsen, Lisa Golm, Larry Geiger, Monte Blue, Paul Stanton.

Jack Smart, Leah Baird, Lottie Williams,

TRADESHOWN at studio, Aug. 7, 1946. Running time: 76 MINS.

''Shadow of a Woman'' starts out with a good premise which somehow is lost sight of before the plot has progressed very far, with the result picture ambles aimlessly and misses out on most scores of entertainment. Acting is too theatric to evoke more than a modicum of audience response, characters through over-direction and plotting failing to lend any note of conviction in parts that never ring true. Where there should have been suspense, there is merely dragging moments, and picture at best rates no more than secondary billing.

Helmut Dantine and Andrea King co-star, Dantine as a quack doctor and Miss King as his bride who tries to believe in him but is faced with the proof of his misdeeds. Narrative is presented in oldfashioned flashback form, and neither star has a chance in sombre roles with absolutely nothing to relieve them.

Film opens with Miss King telling her story to chief of homicide of San Francisco, how she married Dantine after knowing him less than a week and events leading up to his death within a period of a few weeks. In this recital is recounted how Dantine was near-murder victim on two occasions during their honeymoon on Monterey Peninsula, how he took her to his depressing San Francisco home overlooking the Bay and how the force of his quackery began to be driven home upon her consciousness. Her story ends with Dantine's death, after he had tried to kill both her and his nephew who came to her rescue.

Picture as it unfolds has no highlights, nothing to lighten its rather grim and artificial aspects. Certain mood is achieved in the routine of the old house, but this is scarcely diverting, certainly does not arrest interest. William Jacobs as producer has given film satisfactory physical production values, but passed up plot and suspense, and direction by Joseph Santley definitely does not surmount obstacles of screenplay. Low-key photography by Bert Glennon makes most of Hugh Reticker's atmospheric art direction, with other technical credits standard.

Of supporting cast, John Alvin and William Prince stand out, former as Dantine's nephew, latter as attorney who tries to take quack's young son away from him so he may be restored to his mother, doctor's first wife.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

WHEN Martin Block returns to Coast broadcasting over KFWB at end of year he will be in direct opposition to his mentor, Al Jarvis. Block started with Jarvis over dozen years ago and then migrated to New York, where after starting at WNEW for $35 weekly as staff gabber, he rose to prominence as nation's top disc jockey—uncontestedly employing Jarvis' "Make Believe Ballroom" title. Possibility of clash here over title on his return is eliminated since Block will air with "Martin Block Presents." However many interesting asides are anticipated as two erstwhile co-workers, regarded as toppers in their field, go into competition. When here last on visit Block talked of eagerness to work in locale that "needs livening up" and "where I would be opposition to Jarvis."

IN what is considered revolutionary move, General Artists Corporation has opened its main legit division on the Coast, with department functioning in New York under Hollywood supervision. Milton Krasny, vice-prexy, heads the operation with Jules Zeigler, formerly with Louis Shurr agency, moving into Gotham setup but under Krasny's supervision. Agency's move into the legit field is a new one and plan is to build stage personalities, rather than purchase contracts from other agents. Zeigler will keep his eye on eastern talent, while Krasny will ogle Coast performers and writers, both with an eye to swapping pactees . . . Zeigler sending stage talent Coastwards for film chores, while Krasny looks over possible personalities here for buildup via Broadway.

WITH major companies backing away from "B" product, bonanza to smaller film companies, who can keep overhead costs to minimum, is anticipated. Development results from new single picture auction selling plan imposed by court decision. It is also expected that a flood of indie producers will enter the market to fill gap left by absence of major company product for lower end of double bills. As exemplified by Universal's recent decision to quit low-budget productions, companies with high studio overhead are unable to afford making pictures that won't draw top terms with exhibs.

ARA resumed production of records yesterday after close-down of several weeks, and simultaneously Mark Leff, prexy, issued statement that ARA has not been sold, most particularly not to Cosmo Records ("and never will be for sale to Cosmo"). "ARA has always been for sale, in sense that almost every company is for sale if anyone wants to offer enough money. However, no offers have been accepted to date." Production is being rushed to wipe out backlog of half-million records with aid of Olympic Corp. plant and other outside help.

TIME, Life and all other Loose publications unto the Architectural Forum are "personna no grata" at Warners. In less diplomatic language, their representatives henceforth barred from the lot, it was learned last night. Time's story on Warners' 20th Anniversary of Sound was regarded as more of an attack than a tribute. And the Life review layout on "Night and Day" last week was regarded as more of a denunciation than a critical appraisal. These are believed to have led to the studio's action.

FOLLOWING extensive survey among theatre-goers in Los Angeles' Wilshire-Vermont district, Frank Whitbeck, Metro studio ad chief, today inaugurates a direct mail campaign to acquaint residents in this area of coming attractions at Fox-Belmont theatre, newest member of Metro's first-run showcase group. Initial mailing piece is a four-page mag containing news stories of players and films, and art on leading stars. Plan calls for monthly distribution.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Today, a year after the end of the war, you're going to read a lot of editorials and hear a lot of talks about how far we've strayed from the winning of the peace since the surrender of Japan. One of my correspondents suggests that it would be more constructive to look ahead instead of back, to concentrate our efforts in the next twelve months to building the peace. She recognizes that this is too indefinite, and therefore makes some pertinent suggestions. How can we grow in understanding? "Each week," she says, "talk with, listen to someone whose religious, racial, or national background is not yours; to someone not of your political party, economic group, to someone who has lived in a different part of the United States, of the world. Read four articles in four different types of magazines a month. Listen to four news commentators whose views are different." (I can see where this may result in occasional new antagonisms, but the aftermath in most cases will, whether you realize it or not, be more understanding. It's like an argument with your wife; you won't give in during the argument, but afterward may realize she was right.) How can we grow more hopeful? "Investigate the progress that has been made in international organization, the countless cultural, humanitarian, religious, educational, and commercial organizations which function successfully on the international level. Find out what they are, how they work. Each week read or hear a report on United Nations activities and talk them over with families or friends" . . . I recommend this prescription for what ails us.

In the realm of picture making
When the costs run high,
While the stars are picture taking,
Sits an unknown guy.
He's a technical adviser
Hired to make directors wiser,
And he wonders why,
Wondering in accents grim
Whythehell they hired him.

Once upon a time a poet pulled a line about the night having a thousand eyes and the day but one. That was before radio, at seven o'clock when a private eye barges in between commercials and tells you who bumped off whom before somebody else tells you how to clean your teeth by chewing a chunk of charcoal. Along about 8:30 comes a deep voice known as the "Fat Man." One of those voices that carries authority. When you hear the Fat Man on the job you know he is going to knock off the criminal at the appointed moment, and it's all so damned simple. Sometimes you wonder why the tax payers pay taxes to support the police, who are always pinching the wrong guy and dragging them into the iron house, only to be sprung when a private eye ogles his private way into the proceedings after the second murder. In the old police reporter days, one good murder was enough for one day's story. Generally the police rounded the guy up and sent him away without any psychology or psychiatry. That was in the old days when newspapermen were reporters. Now you don't get interested in a murder story until the third victim is bumped off. In these days of quantity production the boys with the gats have to rub out three, including the femme fatale, before you get interested.

HAL ROACH SLATES $6 MILLION FOR 12 COMEDIES

Budget of $6,000,000 has been allocated for production of 12 feature comedies to be made for 1946-47 release, it was announced yesterday by Hal Roach, Jr. Announcement was forthcoming after two days of studio confabs between the two Roaches, father and son, and department heads.

Figure marks highest ever spent clared, and far exceeds any annual clared, and fa rexceeds any annual budget set for production before the war, when Roach studio was in full operation. Roach organization now tops in number and talent anything in past, with five directors and eight writers under term contract.

Two comedies, "Curley" and "Here Comes Trouble," already have been completed, with third, "The Fabulous Joe," now before cameras, on year's slate. Fourth to go will be "Who Killed 'Doc' Robin," scheduled to roll early in September under direction of Bernard Carr, and, like others on program, to be filmed in Cinecolor.

Drake, Bendix To Co-Star With Durbin

Tom Drake and William Bendix will co-star with Deanna Durbin in "I'll Be Yours" at Universal lot. Drake moves over on loanout from Metro. Film will be first to start lensing under the new Universal-International setup.

Dare Takes 'Brunette'

Daniel Dare has taken over director reins on "My Favorite Brunette" at Paramount for the next few days. Director Elliott Nugent has been stricken with severe strep throat and is expected to be ill for some time.

Col Tags Dowling

Constance Dowling has been signed by Columbia for the femme heavy in "Boston Blackie and the Law." Actress starts today on loanout from Eagle-Lion.

105 MILES SOUTH OF LOS ANGELES — HIGHWAY 101

• JUST FOR VARIETY •

THE GRAPEVINE: Metro is trying a new tack in public relations, according to report. One of its flacks was dispatched to the sedate offices of the Los Angeles Times to inquire why a picture was not used in the Sunday section. Flack got into a row with the Sunday editor. Scrimmage followed in which the editor was conked and laid out. It will be interesting to note whether the physical approach to public relations works out. A good left hook may be more valuable to the flack of the future than a line of mullarkey . . . Paulette Goddard returned to "Unconquered" after a day's sick leave. She explained that she had suffered from hives—"one of them was in the middle of my forehead, big as a half dollar. I looked like a unicorn" . . . Henry de Rochemont wants to test Eddie Albert for his forthcoming production of "Boomerang" at 20th-Fox. Albert's stock is shooting up after his slick appearance in the Republic sleeper, "Rendezvous with Annie," which is drawing almost as many raves around town as Mark Hellinger's "The Killers" . . . Maury Amsterdam (who discovered "Rum and Coca Cola" in the Calypso precincts and former husband of Mabel Todd) is in town for a few days with his bride . . . Brian Donlevy's Paramount contract expires in a few months and he has four free lance deals lined up . . . The Academy Award trio of "Mildred Pierce"—got it right that time!— will be reunited for Warners' "Need for Each Other." Jerry Wald will produce, Joan Crawford will star on completion of "Possessed" and Mike Curtiz will direct when he finishes "Life with Father." Louis Sobol and Ernest Lehmann wrote the story . . . Sidney Skolsky is one guy who wouldn't fit in that "when a feller needs a friend" frame. Probably the only columnist in the U.S. without an enemy, he's garnering praise from all corners on "The Jolson Story" he produced for Columbia. And the picture's so good he doesn't need the boosts!

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Loan companies have hopped on the recent income tax rulings on indie producers and are passing the word around Hollywood that "help" is available—at the usual rates—for any producers hard hit by the new tax rate . . . No. 1 rumor around town yesterday was that Norma Shearer will return to the screen in a big musical . . . Steeped in propaganda for "The Egg and I," the Universal International office made a typo in listing "It's a Joke, Son," the Eagle-Lion production, as shooting on the U.I. backlot. They listed it as "It's a Yoke, Son" . . . Odd talent hunt has been launched by Dore Schary for a six-foot-six-inch lad of 18 to 20, an expert basketball player and a passable actor, to play in "The Bachelor and the Bobby Soxer." In the picture Cary Grant is wangled into a spot where he plays basketball with a mob of teen-agers, and draws the young giant as his opposition . . . Things are never dull for Sam Sacks of the William Morris legal department. Nor his wife. Yesterday Mrs. Sacks, awaiting their second child, heard the stork's wings flapping. She couldn't reach Sam, so she called for a taxi to take her to the hospital. Stork outraced the cabbie and latter officiated as midwife. The cabbie then took Mrs. Sacks, her baby girl and her other daughter to the Cedars. All are doing fine, except Sam. He's so nervous he forgot to pass out cigars.

CALL SHEET: BOB GUGGENHEIM, scion of the copper clan, has formed Wackie Pictures, Inc. Not a film company, but a concern to manufacture wall decorations . . . JOHN LUND and his wife quietly observed their fourth wedding anniversary yesterday. He gave her various trinkets and she gave him a watch . . . LEE HARRIS, Ascaptain, chided a young femme flack for being so squeamish about finding living quarters just because several landlords seemed to have wolfish proclivities. Punning atrociously, he added: "You should sell your berthright for a mess of cottage" . . . BRIAN AHERNE and his wife are losing their faith in the mechanical age. Recently they had three cooling machines installed in their Imperial valley ranchhouse. Yesterday, despite reports that Indio was sweltering, they decided to get away from the Hollywood heat by motoring down to their air-cooled ranchhouse. When they arrived they found the cooling system had broken down—so they returned to Hollywood several degrees limper . . . TEX WILLIAMS, it is announced, is adding a saloon with sawdust floor to his Palace dance barn . . . PAUL WURTZEL'S wife Shirley has learned to fly a plane before driving a car. She has received her private pilot's license but no motor vehicle permit.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: The three dog stars in Paramount's "The Emperor Waltz" monopolized most of the footage in yesterday's rushes. Bing Crosby turned to producer Brackett and director Wilder and remarked: "I think we better let the dogs see the rushes after this. Otherwise we'll be accused of discriminating against them" . . . Maria Montez and Jean Pierre Aumont get away on their Paris trip next week, planing from New York on Aug. 29. Maria says she'd like to stay in Paris and accept an offer for her and Aumont to co-star in "Venetian Wedding" for Leuise and Roland Tual, but commitments will bring them back to Hollywood by Oct. 15 . . . OFF THE LOTS: Peggy Ryan and Jimmy Cross at Beverly Tropics. Lew Ayres and Shirley O'Hara at Henri's. . Tom Drake and Marilyn Maxwell, Veloz and Yolanda at Ciro's. Jane Wyman and Ronald Reagan, Boots Mallory and Herbert Marshall, Merrill Pye and Audrey Totter at The Kings . . . Charley Foy is going to Coronado for a week's convalescence after his recent operation . . . Raoul Walsh celebrates his 32nd year in motion pictures today. He's directing "Pursued" for United States Pictures . . . Ruth Warrick was posing for a Nat Dallinger layout yesterday at the California Cabana Club, when the photog, lining up a tricky shot, fell into the pool. Ruth saved his camera but Dollinger took a dunking . . . This is for Charlie McCarthy's wooden little ears alone. Judy, the heroine of George Pal's Puppetoons, has been named "shapliest splinter on the screen" by the California Redwood Association.—D.D.T.

CIO SUIT VS. KGO LOOMS IN MURRAY BROADCAST ROW

Allegations of a union head that Philip Murray, CIO president, was "arbitrarily ruled off" KGO in Frisco Monday night were roundly denied yesterday by Don Searle, coast v.p. of the ABC network, which operates the Bay City station. It was pointed out by Searle that the contract for the broadcast had not been signed by the network nor did it come to his attention until day of the cancelled broadcast. It was reported last night from Frisco that CIO would sue the network for damages, claiming that it had spent $7,000 in advance promotion for the Murray talk. Donald Henderson, international prez of the offended CIO union, charged Searle with saying, "I do not propose to inflict Philip Murray on bay area listeners." This was stoutly denied by the network executive, who declared "a labor problem of the kind within a single industry was not of sufficient direct interest to the listening public to warrant the broadcast." The Murray talk had been waxed for the 70,000 cannery workers in the state in connection with a National Labor Relations Board election.

Summer crop of shows, withering on the vine under the scorching rays of Ol' Sol, are making their last desperate rally for continuing recognition. But it looks like a losing fight if the Hooper figures are to be the deciding factor. Not one program has risen above the general level in the matter of ratings and if any one were to be singled out it would have to be "Man Called X," which at the current quotations tops the Tuesday night board at 8.8. It's an old trick of "Mr. X" to show the way to the hot weather flock yet the winter buyers scorn its success. Strange are the ways of clients, who hire and fire by the rule of ratings.

Advances on other Tuesday entries follow: "The Falcon" 5.8, up .3; "Date with Judy" 5.8, up 4; Encore Theatre 7, off .9; Evening with Romberg 8, up .6; Lum and Abner 3.6, up .1. Sunday afternoon and Monday programs rose and fell thusly: Carmen Cavallaro 4.8, off .8; "Darts for Dough" 4.4, up .8; One Man's Family 6.2, off .6; Summer Electric Hour 2.3, off .2; Cliff Edwards 1.6; "Gregory Hood" 4, off 1; Screen Guild Players 8.8, off 1.7. Jack Haley show posted a 9.8 on a 2.6 rise for one of the high points of the summer season.

Chain breaks . . . Don't be too surprised if the NY ticker brings word of Campbell soup buying Hildegarde for the new season . . . Irving Miller has adopted the handle of Victor (his middle name) for the music direction of the Mel Blanc show . . . Tommy Dorsey may augment his band by another 25 or so as a gesture to brother Jimmie's guesting Sunday and to encore their Hollywood Bowl performance . . . Joe Rines will take up his frau's option Saturday for another 23 years of happily married life . . . David Frederick, former editor of Tide, has been named director of advertising and sales promotion by CBS, succeeding Paul Hollister. Bill Golden, ex-art director, moves up as associate . . . Tommy Cook, youthful triple-threater, is taking time out from his three radio shows to play a jockey in 20th's "Home Stretch" . . . Gantner swim suit outfit signed Joan Barton for its new NBC show.

Hitch hikes . . . If the Philco-Bing Crosby record deal goes through, as now seems probable, there can be expected a rash of stars on wax and a possible exodus of certain performers to networks that carry the canned programs. If not that then it may weaken the policy structure of NBC and CBS against transcribed repeats across the network. There's some talk that Al Jolson is getting radio-itchy but likes the Crosby idea of waxing a stack of platters in advance . . . Billie Burke airs her last Sept. 28 for Lusterine and the client turns back the time . . . Power breakdown forced KHJ off the air for three minutes yesterday . . . Al Capstaff and Nate Tufts are auditioning writers as well as comics in their after-broadcast test tube. Which isn't a bad idea considering the dearth of good comedy constructors . . . The Rudy Vallee-Philip Morris deal is closer to signing than you think.

WHO ARE THESE MEMBERS OF LOCAL 1421?

A good question. Everyone in the industry should know. Let's answer point by point.

1. They are some 400 set designers (parallel to architectural draftsmen and designers), illustrators (or sketch artists), decorators, model builders, costume illustrators (fashion designers and delineators), set estimators and controllers.

2. They form a local union of the Painters Brotherhood, AFL.

3. Most 1421 members are highly skilled people, creative artists, with a long professional background. White collar workers, yes. But white collar workers with a particular point of view.

4. That point of view is the firm conviction that white collar workers and professional people in big corporations have exactly the same need of a union as other employees.

5. So members of 1421 have built for themselves a union, a real union, run by the members and officered by people who work in studios. The union was born of needs experienced in a 20-year fight for recognition and real collective bargaining.

6. More than this, since 1937 these white collar and professional people have recognized their common interest with all other studio workers. In 1937 they struck for union demands along with painters, laborers, plumbers, make-up artists and others. Since that time they have lined up with the other unions in every studio fight for wages and conditions.

7. 1421, now as in the past, is working as a real union, as a real part of Hollywood labor. It seeks a proper union contract. It has rejected a producer offer.

BECAUSE the "25 per cent increase" offered was the same 25 per cent of the July 2 interim agreement, and corrects no inequities—

BECAUSE we must demand equity with members of a non-AFL organization who work beside us—

BECAUSE many of our proposals on conditions have been brushed aside for three years. They deserve adjustment now.

These are bona fide union demands. 1421 has stated these demands to the whole industry. It has officially notified all studio unions of its intention to fight for this contract and of its readiness to join in the fight for decent contracts for all studio unions. — Screen Set Designers, Illustrators and Decorators, Local 1421.

WASHINGTON HULLABALOO

By FLORENCE S. LOWE

Washington, Aug. 13. — The Motion Picture Association would do itself and the industry a lot of good by studying and copying the stunt run by the "London Daily Express" which has put on a "50 Years of Films" exhibition at Dorland Hall in London. There is beautiful good will promotion in this, and such an exhibition could be conducted in various major cities of the United States.

For instance, British schools sent their children to the exposition because of its educational value. The newspaper also dug up one James Styles whose job over 40 years ago was to serve as a soundtrack. He stood in front of screens reciting dialogue as the early flickers ground out. The show includes such original British productions as "Wages of Sin" and "Drink and Repentance." New developments in scenery and sets are also shown. If Hollywood is looking around for a new way to make friends, this sounds like something for serious consideration.

The French Government, on a hot seat with its film industry because of the treaty made with this country on the importation of pix into France, is explaining that the deal will help the Gallic motion picture industry to grow the way the British one has done.

It will be recalled that the treaty provides that French exhibitors must show the domestic product four weeks out of the 13 in each quarter and may buy anywhere for the remaining nine weeks. Here is how this is put in one official statement:

"At first glance, four weeks may seem a small proportion, but it must not be forgotten that this provides an incentive to French producers to turn out films of such excellence that exhibitors will give them priority during the remainder of the quarter.

"The British cinema industry set an extremely hopeful precedent in this respect. With a screen quota of first 10, then 20 per cent, (considerably lower than that fixed in the Franco - American agreement which is approximately 30 per cent), Britain succeeded from both the artistic and the industrial standpoint in creating one of the world's greatest motion picture industries."

The statement by the Secretary of Information indicates that the large loan to France made by this country has enabled larger credits to be extended to French producers and that more aid to the studios may be forthcoming.

"If a steadily growing public for French films is to be reached," continues the statement, "the motion picture industry will need to have large studios provided with the latest improvements. It should be equipped for color photography and organized for a big scale development of 16m film production for movie houses in rural districts and overseas territories. These are the main objectives toward which the reconstruction program must be directed."

Nevertheless, official observers in this country are expecting the fur to fly at the meeting of the French Constituent Assembly. While the film provisions of the treaty do not require ratification, the overall loan agreement does. State Department here expects no real trouble but does anticipate further efforts by the French Commies to embarrass the Government.

Some of the English film critics have jumped on "To Each His Own," starring Olivia de Havilland. Film features a late night wedding ceremony, and it is claimed that they don't get married in Britain after 6 p.m. We wouldn't know . . . Other Government agencies here are expected to follow the lead of the Housing Administration which has prepared a full fact sheet on its problems specifically angled for the motion picture media. Administration has been working closely with Arch Mercey of OWMR on this . . . Our Military Government is making increasing use of films and radio for educational purposes in the American zone of Korea . . . Government film circles here are considerably interested in the three-week seminar on visual education which wound up the other day at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga. One of the group leaders was Paul Heard of the Protestant Film Council, which, as you know, is interested not only in documentaries but in amusement films as well.

William Wells, UNRRA film chief, now in Geneva, in connection with the UNRRA Council meeting, has been invited to Britain by J. Arthur Rank to discuss the possibility of the Rank organization making one or more theatrical shorts to help the UNRRA food program . . . local exhibitors are up in arms over a proposal by Hans Kindler, conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra. Kindler thought it would be a good idea for a tax to be levied on filmeries to help finance his orchestra which is in the red . . . While this country is exporting only a handful of its terrific radio receiver production, the British have gotten the jump and are making a heavy drive for the world market in sets. In June, for example, Britain exported no less than 28,000 sets as compared with the average pre-war monthly export rate of 7000. There is nothing slow about our English cousins who are also out after the world market in pix .

Some interesting figures bob up in the Department of Commerce's latest survey of our export trade. The figures are for April, a month in which export of our pix abroad was generally very good.

However, they show us doing virtually no business with Russia. During that month we sold them only 45,000 feet of American feature film prints. During the same month, we shipped 293,000 feet of prints to Britain, plus another 114,000 feet of exposed negatives.

Not only don't the Russians not do business with us, but they also see to it that we don't get into their satellite countries. For example, we only got 3000 feet of prints into Poland; no features into either Roumania or Bulgaria, although we shipped substantial quantities of newsreels into both; and only some newsreels and shorts into Yugoslavia.

The French treaty had not yet been worked out but we nevertheless shipped 91,000 feet of exposed feature prints into that country, plus another 21,000 feet of newsreel prints.

UNIVERSAL-INT SHUFFLE LEAVES OUT 5 VETS

tional director of advertising and publicity for Universal, remains in that capacity with Les Kaufman, recently put in charge of International publicity, as his associate.

Goetz stated that the new organization is effective immediately.

On the list of Universal employes slated to go is Dan Kelly, who has been with Universal since 1930, first as casting director and then as assistant to Nate Blumberg, and member of the board. Others leaving are David S. Garber, manager of studio operations; James Geller, writer coordinator; Robert McIntyre, casting director, and Kenneth Thomson, studio executive.

'FRIENDLY LOT'

Garber has been on the lot for eight years under the present regime as manager of studio operations and prior to that had been in Universal employ five years. He was chiefly responsible for the operations, labor and personnel policies that gave Universal the name in the industry of the "friendly lot."

Geller, known as one of the top story men in the business, came to Universal from the William Morris Agency after having left Warners. He was handicapped at Universal by the type of production prevailing at the studio and had limited chance to exercise his abilities as story editor. Several properties that he recommended were turned down to be used successfully later by other companies. Thomson was also brought to the Universal lot recently from the William Morris outfit. McIntyre was formerly casting director and production manager for Samuel Goldwyn and had been signed by Universal comparatively recently.

How much effect the reorganization is going to have on employes in the lower brackets is still a matter of speculation. Indications were, however, that set-up will remain much the same.

Quick Sketch

Enterprise is wirephotoing set sketches for "Arch of Triumph" to Nate Watt in Paris via International Telephone and Telegraph. Necessity to correlate Watt's shooting in Paris with studio work being done here under Lewis Milestone. Initial attempt of this sort by a studio permits 30-minute transmission of sketches of work in progress.

Selznick Feels Out U.S. On 'Duel' Policy in Trust Setup

New York, Aug. 13.—Exploratory talks, concerning policy on exhibition of David O. Selznick's "Duel In The Sun," are currently being carried on between Neil Agnew, Selznick distribution chief, and Robert L. Wright, U.S. Attorney in charge of the anti-trust suit.

In view of the $5,000,000 production cost and an advertising-publicity campaign budget of over $1,500,000, Selznick is aiming at a sales policy similar to "Gone With The Wind." Producer is asking 70 per cent in nabe houses with upped admission prices. Both points appear impossible currently under the court decree.

Selznick originally planned roadshowing the film on continuous run basis, since roadshows are believed exempt from decree provisions. However, definition of roadshow, in trade parlance, is taken as a two-a-day reserved seat exhibition rather than a grind run. Definite policy on showing is expected before "Duel's" first date late in November.

Play Review

HOME OF THE BRAVE

The most powerful and moving theatrical piece to play Southern California in some time opened at the Las Palmas theatre last night under the production aegis of Actors Lab. "Home of the Brave" is the title of the play by Arthur Laurents and it meets anti-Semitism with about as forceful a punch as any literary attempt to solve the problem in recent times. Laurents' play seldom lets up its grim, sweaty, hard-rock story of a Jewish soldier and his right to recover from paralytic shock. How the boy was afflicted and the underlying causes behind his condition are the scene of the flashbacks showing the final stages of the war in the South Pacific.

Leo Penn has the role of the Jewish soldier, with Robert Karns, John Hanmer, Kenneth Patterson, Harlan Wade and Mack Williams completing the list of characters. No one member of the cast may be singled out because they all delivered smash performances. Phil Brown's direction gave every line of Laurents' play depth and understanding, proving Brown to be one of the finest young directors witnessed here so far. Gene Calinon's sets were as magnificent as the production, which puts Actors Lab once more in the winner field where it belongs.

This play is not entertainment or amusement, but it definitely is a command performance for anyone who wants to see something a little greater than mere pleasantry.

REP SLATES 26 OATERS FOR '46

Republic announced slate of 26 western releases yesterday for the 1946-47 schedule. Of that number 18 will be musical oaters, an all-time high for the Valley studio. Only one series, Red Ryder, will be songless. Increase of the oatuners is due to Gene Autry's return from service, giving studio four additional song and sage sagas, while two Trucolor films starring Monte Hale and Adrian Booth and another pair of Roy Rogers features will hypo total for eight over last year. Studio is planning to make 10 of the features in Trucolor and will increase the tinted output even more next year, Allen Wilson announced.

Abbott to Play King In Olivier 'Hamlet'

John Abbott has closed deal with Old Vic company, in London, to go to British capital in Spring to enact role of King in Laurence Olivier's star play, "Hamlet." Negotiations were carried on with Tyrone Guthrie, producer-director of company, and were finally set yesterday. Actor formerly was permanent member of Old Vic.

Majors Buying Into Foreign City Houses

New York, Aug. 13. — Trend wherein majors are rapidly acquiring theatres in key foreign cities is growing, according to Ben M. Cohn, general manager of Universal-International's overseas theatre department. Companies feel ownership of their own houses are necessary for top returns on pix and are rapidly buying what's available. He said that U-I is seeking its own houses in top foreign situations to insure ample playing time. Otherwise, he said, playing time will be cut to a minimum and grosses on product will be correspondingly hurt.

up the disparity in basic pay between the set designers and art director, scenic artists.

The four conditions gained by the union were reported to be: 1. Recognotion of two new classifications among model builders and designers. 2. Extension of union's jurisdiction to entire country instead of only California. 3. Producers agreed to strike out clause whereby they had a voice in fines and penalties levied by the unions. 4. Producers agreed to reword a clause whereby art directors could do some of Local 1421's work without coming under latter's jurisdiction.

The two conditions lost by the unions included demand for recognition of production illustrators and time allowance for research by decorators.

Full report of the meeting was given membership meet of CSU late last night by prexy Herbert K. Sorrell and Ed Gilbert, business agent for Local 1421. Further action was deferred until after Friday's producers-union meet.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

TWO towns were bidding yesterday for the preem of Sol Lesser's "No Trespassing." Town of Bridgeton, N.J., wants to show the picture October 10 in connection with its "Pathfinder Week" celebration, put on to make Bridgeton "the Main Street capital of the country." Reason for village interest in the Lesser film is that George Agnew Chamberlain, author of "The Red House" from which pic was made, was born in Bridgeton. Other community trying to get the "No Trespassing" opening is Sonora, Calif., where much of film was shot on location. Sonora, at the moment, seems to have best chance of getting it because scoring and cutting of pic probably will not be finished in time for Oct. 10 showing.

"THE Emperor Waltz" is all home work for Bing Crosby these days on account of he has the only available 1901 period tennis court around these parts. Syd Street, location chief for Paramount, looked widely for a tennis court that would fit the script and finally found it at The Groaner's Beverly Hills home. One side of the court fronts the Los Angeles Country Club and is screened by trees and shrubs instead of the high wire fence that made other courts impossible. Also the scenery includes terraces and a stone stairway and fits right into preceding scenes of the picture. Location is an important and complicated one, the call sheet for the trip to the studio to Beverly Hills yesterday covering two full pages.

MANY small western towns are competing keenly for location companies from the studios. When director Raoul Walsh had Warner Bros. "Cheyenne" on location near Flagstaff, Arizona, he happened to tell a local reporter that his next assignment would be "Pursued" for United States Pictures. Crossroads population centers throughout the southwest took up the campaign to get the film. Producer Milton Sperling, after Walsh's comments appeared in newspapers throughout the cow country, received 52 letters from as many communities before settling on site near Gallup, New Mexico.

NOTHING, outside of mebbe love, seems to hold public interest like "Abie's Irish Rose." Play, in one form or another, has been performed here and there throughout the world for 25 years since it first opened here at the old Morosco. But it still got an audience excited in picture form when the Bing Crosby Productions, Inc. film, produced and directed by Eddie Sutherland, was sneak-previewed at the San Francisco Orpheum last weekend. Demand for admissions was so great that theatre got special fire department permission to seat 600 extra persons in the 2400 seat house.

LISABETH Fielding, daughter of late Edward Fielding, is organizing Little Theatre group, to be composed of sons and daughters of well known professionals. Idea is to develop a repertory theatre. Group has been named The Edition Players, and charter members include, besides Miss Fielding, Edith Barrett, Bryan Kelloway, Lee Millar and Lloyd Corrigan. Large number of sponsors already have been recruited, encompassing such names as Mary Pickford, Vincent Price, Grant Mitchell, C. Aubrey Smith, Edna Best, Selena Royle, Constance Collier and Cecil Kelloway.

INDIES releasing through United Artists are sort of standing in line waiting for release because UA at the moment has more backlog than theatre accommodations. "Henry V," British sensation, has mostly been shown in small-seaters when it could easily pack them into larger houses. Among the indies trying to figure on release dates is Loew-Lewin whose "Bel Ami" can't possibly get on the screen until four months after delivery. Pic has a $250,000 ad budget and release uncertainty is making placing and timing of advance advertising a headache.

RUSSELL Metty, cameraman on Loew-Lewin's "Bel Ami," insists that he ought to get some kind of Academy Award, or something for the "toughest camera job of the year." He refers to the job of shooting love scenes between 6-foot-3 George Sanders and 5-foot Susan Douglas. Height difference makes the photography especially tricky in the close-ups.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The defeat of Senator LaFollette was more or less expected, but it is even so of potential significance. It means that the Republican Party and a young man named Joe McCarthy have overcome the prestige of a name, one that has meant much for many years. Those who know McCarthy say it means more than that, because this young Marine veteran is an able politician, a personality, and likable. It means also that the vote and candidacies of veterans is becoming more and more important. This may mean that many another political figure will give way . . . The Barkis-is-willin' attitude of Senator Pepper could mean a third party, with even California's Kenney mentioned with him in that connection, but it is more likely the beginning of a fight, either to liberalize the Democratic platform for the next national elections, or to replace Truman with someone like Wallace. Although a party traditionally elects a man as nominee when he came in to fill an unexpired term, we can be sure the Democratic convention of 1948 will be a scene of battle—one beginning now.

Many and many a year ago m good old uncle, John Lonergan reared apples on his Wisconsin farm They were russet apples and the had a lot of sweetness, and in the course of time they became hard cider. Now comes a huge film titled "The Arch of Triumph," in which the dunkers dunk in Calvados, or something like that, and somebody is going to propagate it into a popular drink, as if nobody had ever guzzled applejack in this country during the period known as the Noble Experiment.

My Uncle John was one of the early Democrats in Wisconsin and he had a portrait of William Jennings Bryan hanging over the brick fireplace on his 160-acre farm in Ozaukee County. Uncle John grew barley and hops for the Milwaukee breweries, and when William Jennings Bryan went dry, Uncle John took the portrait and tossed it into the northern reaches of the Milwaukee River.

George W. Peck was governor of Wisconsin at that time, and a right good governor he was, too. George walked the streets of Madison and Milwaukee with a silk tie and a pink carnation in his left buttonhole and shook hands with everybody and kissed babies, whether they were born in the third ward or the first. There was a social distinction between the third ward and the first in those days, but a governor couldn't make any distinction. George kissed the babies north and south of Wisconsin street until Grover Cleveland went out of office in Washington. So you never can tell what is going to happen in Wisconsin, where the LaFollettes, man and boy, since the state song was the whang of a sawmill, have been jiggling around with votes. Early in the morning, when you are walking to work, you hear the whang of the sawmill down near Santa Monica Blvd., and now and then, when the buzz saw bites into a knot, it reminds you of Slim Gaillard.

PREVIEWED at studio, Aug. 14, 1946. unning time: 69 MINS.

Third of Monogram's "Teen-Agrs" series, "High School Hero" caries a better story and more producion values than previous presentaions. Film should click solidly with uve audiences and spectators in subsequent houses, wealth of specialties providing potential draw, as does music of Freddie Slack and Jan Savitt orchestras. Freddie Stewart and June Preisser co-star, as in preceding pictures.

Action unfolds at Whitney High School, where football team is faced with prospect of losing again to its more powerful rival, the Fairview team. Whitney eleven finally wins its first game from Fairview, with gag dance routine, but events leading up to this monumental upset permits both song and band numbers as well as action which will appeal to juves.

Idea as worked out in script by Hal Collins and Arthur Dreifuss is refreshing and ups stock of this series. Dreifuss, who also directed, keeps ball continually moving, although for more sophisticated audiences film is just an also-ran. Highlighting reelage is burlesque number on a football game, with girls and boys on opposing sides. Music is melodic, Isabelita displaying a contagious charm with her offering, and Stewart, who warbles several numbers, a standout.

Same gang as in past films in series do some lively stepping, these including Noel Neill, Ann Rooney, Warren Mills, Jackie Moran and Frankie Darro. Milt Kibbee again is school principal and Belle Mitchell prissy teacher. Stewart and Miss Preisser, in star roles, stand up against bobby-sock cast.

Sam Katzman gave film good production with budget at his disposal, and Ira Morgan handled cameras effectively. Technical credits generally are acceptable.

PHILLY'S NEWEST HOUSE PREEMED

Philadelphia, Aug. 14.—The new Goldman, $1,000,000 deluxer built by William Goldman, opened tonight with a unique premiere of Paramount's "Monsieur Beaucaire." Instead of usual gathering of bigwigs and celebs, the audience consisted of laborers and artisans who built the house. The Goldman is the first new midtown theatre to be built in 20 years in Philly.

'Arch' Flack Says It Will be a $5 and $10 Roadshow

Enterprise yesterday was bidding for a spot in the big time ballyhoo brackets with the announcement that "Arch of Triumph" will be given key city preems at $5 and $10 a seat. Exact difference between the $5 seats and the $10 seats was not specified, but the flackery put out the additional info that the show will be three and one-half hours long.

Skeptical eyebrow-raising at the proposed admission prices brought the retort: "They paid $100 for ringside seats to the Louis-Conn fight, didn't they?"

Statement was to the effect that David Loew is leaving for New York next week to arrange for theatre for "Arch" opening and that similar special openings are to be given in various other cities. Picture, according to flackery, is to be roadshown, though how this is to be arranged under Enterprise releasing deal with Universal was not stated.

Anyway, it's quite a lot of calvados drinking for $10, at that.

Extras Claim Six Working Improvements in New Deal

Screen Extras Guild board of directors yesterday disclosed terms of new working contract offered extra players by major film producers. Scale of $8.50 minimum for mob scene extras up to a $20 top, confirms Daily Variety's exclusive disclosure Tuesday of terms of the pact.

H. O'Neill Shanks, SEG executive secretary, further confirmed the fact that only issue remaining is starting date of retroactive pay. Producers have offered retroactive pay dating from January 1, 1946. Latter condition is still in the negotiation stage between the union-producer group. Pact is the initial one negotiated by the SEG since the National Labor Relations Board designated it the exclusive bargaining agency for all extra players. The new contract will run until December 31, 1947.

PAY FOR 8 HOURS

Breakdown of wages for eight-hour day work shows current and new scales as follows: Riders, from $16.50 to $20; dancers, skaters and swimmers, from $13.75 to $20; dress extras, from $16.50 to $20; general extra players, from $10.50 to $14.00; stand-ins, from $8.25 to $12.50; mob scene extras, from $5.50 to $8.50.

SEG claimed six major improvements in working conditions. They are:

1. Minimum pay on "weather permitting" cancellations raised from quarter-check to half-check.

2. Wardrobe removal allowance of one-half hour's pay will be paid whenever extra has wardrobe to turn it, unless turn-in occurs on time for which he is otherwise compensated.

3. Allowance of one-quarter check for two hours' time will be paid for fittings on days prior to work call, and additional time at hourly rate computed in units of 30 minutes.

4. Ten per cent additional will be paid for night work, between the hours of 8 p.m. and 6 a.m. Previously, nothing additional had been paid for night work.

5. Double time will be paid for work on Sundays and holidays, instead of time-and-a-half paid heretofore.

6. An extra player required to get wet will be paid a wet allowance of $2.50 a day.

EXTRAS MASS MEETING

The SEG membership is to be called to a mass meeting shortly to discuss provisions of the new contract. The contract, however, will be submitted to the membership for ratification by mail referendum vote. The SEG negotiating committee consisted of chairman Larry Steers, Kenner Kemp, Mike Lally and Kermit Maynard. Atorney Laurence Beilenson served as special negotiator.

20th Will Use That $250G Tombstone Set for 'Creek'

Replica of Tombstone, built by 20th-Fox in Monument Valley, Ariz., at cost of $250,000 for "My Darling Clementine," goes into service again as setting for high budget western musical.

Studio economists found that set will do nicely for "The Ballad of Furnace Creek" which is to be produced by Oliver Morosco. So the village is being kept up pending start of production. "Ballad" script is being re-vamped to fit the readymade scenery.

Isolation of Monument Valley area from all railroad and airplane noises makes possible the outdoor filming of musical on the scene.

Spook Busters

(Comedy)

MONOGRAM RELEASE. Producer, Jan Grippo. Director, William Beaudine. Assistant director, Eddie Davis. Original screenplay, Edmond Seward, Tim Ryan. Photography, Harry Neumann. Editors, Richard Currier, William Austin. Sound, Tom Lambert. Musical director, Edward J. Kay.

PREVIEWED at studio, Aug. 14, 1946. Running time: 68 MINS.

The Bowery Boys become involved with a maniacal surgeon in a haunted house in this latest chapter of their misadventures, a film specifically tailored for the particular market of this series. General audiences will find little to engage them in picture, but for houses for which it is aimed film should do okay business. Leo Gorcey is starred, with Huntz Hall, Bobby Jordan, Gabriel Dell and Billy Benedict much in evidence.

This time, the Boys are set up as graduates of an insect exterminator school, with Gorcey as prexy and brains of the outfit. Their concern is called upon to service a deserted house. When they get there, they find more than ghosts they were led to believe haunted the place, a mad psychiatrist who wants to transplant a human brain into that of a gorilla. He intends to use Huntz Hall for his victim.

Incidents attendant upon such a premise unfold for audience consumption, with persons constantly disappearing and coming within camera range again. Corn is very much the order of the action, with Boys offering their customary brand of comedy.

Gorcey does well enough with his role and he finds capable support in others of the group. Douglass Dumbrille injects proper menace into character of surgeon, with Charles Middleton and Richard Axelander his accomplices. Tanis Chandler makes a pretty French bride of Gabriel Dell.

Film was produced by Jan Grippo for Monogram release, and William Beaudine handled direction. Edmond Seward and Tim Ryan collabed on original screenplay.

LEGIT OPENING

SUMMER NIGHT

"Summer Night," which opened at the refurbished El Patio theatre last night is a package of mixed blessings. Billed as a musical comedy on ice, show primarily is a freeze revue with a pathetic attempt at a book. George Arnold is starred but it actually is the music and lyrics of William Friml that steal the show. Son of Rudolf Friml has whipped up a fresh, lively score. Jack Cathcart conducted one of the best pit bands heard locally in some time. Aside from the musical credits, Arnold does okay on the ice along with several other young skaters with youthful enthusiasm. Bad acoustics in the theatre, painful dialogue and a certain haphazard quality in direction by Alfred Allegro take away from the Frank Arnold production, making it only a weak contender for any sort of a run.

REISSUE ACADEMIES EXTENDING DEALS TO ALL MAJORS

Success of Four Academies over first month of reissue policy have met with such success that dickers are now in progress covering virtually all major distributors. Latter would showcase-test gamble of reprinting old hits, following tilling of approximate $35,000 in first four weeks with Academies' 3,500-odd seats.

Exhibitors pool operating nabe Arlington, Vermont, Pickfair and Cinema theatres as Academies of Proven Pictures has already concluded deals with Paramount, Universal, RKO and Film Classics, and deals are in works with Metro, Fox and Columbia. Par deal was just signed and is effective Sept. 1, in conjunction celebration of Par's 34th year in business, running Sept. 1 to Oct. 30. Par sales drive will also run concurrent with celebration.

Deal gives Par virtual monopoly of indie Academy theatres for 13 weeks, with 26 newly printed reissues being made available to Academies. Par has made special new prints for occasion and will test national possibilities via result at Academies. Openers in Par deal are "Plainsman" and "Lady Eve."

Theatres, operating at 60c top ran up startling $11,000 in first week a month ago, with "Beau Geste" and "Shepherd of Hills," which Paramount hesitatingly released when other exchanges demurred. With holdover of former twain and past two week's take, group has coralled heartening $35,000 and stimulated distribs. "Dodsworth" and "Come and Get It," Goldwyn reissues of Film Classics take over this week, opening tomorrow. Universal goes in with "If I Had My Way" and "Shadow of Doubt," week of Aug. 23. Wholesale Par deal follows.

Quartet is making definite advertising pitch for trade outside neighborhoods where they are located. Though newspapers are pretty well tied up with previously arranged amusement ad space quotas, heft attempt is being made to get all possible space—and to good result. New ads are being worked up for new prints and distribs have worked share-the-cost deals. Arlington and Vermont are run by Southern California Amusement Co. (Vinnicoff, Berman and Edwards), Pickfair is run by Nicholson & Moritz, and Cinema is Jack Broder's, all in cooperative

ABC FLACKS READY FOR BING FLASH

ABC network execs are said to be so certain that the Bing Crosby-Philco deal will be finalized that the press departments in New York and Hollywood have been ordered to prepare releases for the press. Stories will be held back until contracts are actually signed, possibly before end of the business week. Understood that one of the kinks in the deal, since ironed out, concerned the show's Hooperating, with Crosby agreeing to go live if the recorded series fails to produce a 12 or better. Likely that the Groaner will usher in the stanza live and sandwich in other "in the flesh" broadcasts.

EASING OF BANS ON BUILDING OF THEATRES SEEN

Washington, Aug. 14. — Gradual elimination of barriers to commercial construction, including theatre building will begin around October 1, it was learned today. By November 15, CPA sources indicated that the agency might open the way for extensive repair and alteration work on theatres and possibly okay limited building of picture houses in certain localities.

However, relaxation will be far from complete, it was added, and some bars to full commercial building are due to stay on the books indefinitely. Prediction was made on the basis of field office reports reaching Washington.

AFL PLEDGES ITS FULL SUPPORT TO PETRILLO

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Full support of the American Federation of Labor was thrown behind James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, in Chicago Tuesday in Petrillo's fight to have the Lea Act declared unconstitutional.

Pledge was made by William Green, AFL prexy. In a speech before the Executive Council of the Federation meeting at the Drake hotel. Green said the Lea law "represents the lowest point in our history of national labor legislation." He continued by saying that the law is clearly unconstitutional because it violates the 13th Amendment, which prohibits involuntary servitude, by depriving the workers of their rights to strike in protest against unsatisfactory working conditions.

Criminal information filed by the government against Petrillo for calling a strike against station WAAF here last May 28 because it refused to hire three extra record librarians, is pending in U.S. District Court.

LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

Battle lines are being drawn for a showdown fight on the question of who owns the rights to material written for radio shows. Agencies, package owners and networks take the stand that where services are bought, and at a fancy fee, the output of writers, creative or otherwise, belongs to the employer much the same as it is in many another industry requiring sweat, toil and inventiveness. Ready to flail away at such reasoning are the members of Radio Writers Guild with full backing of the organization. One phase of the controversy advanced by the employers concerns the adaptation of screen plays, which is more or less of a rewrite job. Writers of these film dramas are paid as high as $1,250 per 30-minute script (with time out for commercials etc.) yet they contend the adaptation rights should revert to them after being broadcast. If that's a fair sample of what the shooting is all about it's difficult, in all fairness, to string along with the writers. Their remuneration for such a chore is far more munificent than comparable literary work in other fields and demand for ownership of the rights is pushing things just a little too far.

Top 15 in Mr. Hooper's select set are so closely bunched that a well directed blast from a shotgun would spray the entire field. From "Mr. D.A.'s" high perched 10.8 to Phil Baker's under-the-wire 7.7 the differential is the slimmest in many seasons. "Suspense" just missed the top rung by a half point and the others fall into line in close formation like this: Jack Haley 9.8; "Crime Doctor" 9.3; Hit Parade 9.2; Screen Guild Players 8.8; "Man Called X" 8.8; "Big Town" 8.3; Kay Kyser 8.2; "Dr. I.Q." 8.2; Evening with Romberg 8; "Dr. Christian" 8; Aldrich Family 7.9; Walter Winchell sub 7.8; "Blondie" 7.7; "We the People" 7.7; Phil Baker 7.7. Wednesday advances show no startling fluctuations and were caught thusly: Academy Award Theatre 6.8, up 1.5; "Holiday for Music" 3.7 (no change); Lum and Abner 3.6 (no change); "Sad Sack" 5.7, off .6. Tony Martin came in delayed at 3.9, up .2. Elmer Davis trails the commentators and newscasters at 1.4.

Chain breaks . . . Hoagy Carmichael closes out two years for Safeway Monday night and next season will have his own quarter hour show on CBS for Luden's. That is if all the contract kinks are ironed out in his confabs this week with John Bates of the Mathes agency. Ed Cashman, who'll continue as Hoagy's producer, goes east next week for a holiday look-around . . . Those stars who took marchandise orders in lieu of cash for their guesting on last season's Nash-Kelvinator show will be happy to know that deliveries are coming through on their cars and refrigerators . . . The Dorsey boys, in a playful mood, sneaked up on "Pops" Whiteman and denuded his upper lip of what for two years has passed as a mustache . . . Jim Doane, in one of his few serious moments, proposed that a radio holiday be declared for a week at summer's end so listeners will appreciate the big timers when they return in September . . . Johnny Parsons, western promotion manager for Philco, is assembling material for a book to be titled "Benzedrine and Hot Brandy." It will represent the clients viewpoint . . . Don Wilson subs for the vacationing Harlow Wilcox on the David Rose show for three weeks.

For a time we were beginning to believe that Hollywood had only one element of its glamorized life to offer radio until MCA and BBD&O came along to set up a star stock company for Schenley's Cresta Blanca vino. That line of thought was brought into sharp focus when an agency exec, failing to land a dramatic series of picture adaptations for a new client, turned tail for the east in the conviction that there was nothing else here worthy the effort. Mebbe the Schenley deal isn't altogether new but it's an innovational offshoot at least. The idea of grouping eight big names to be rotated in plays they did or liked smacks of an inventive twist and may catch on in a big way. Grouped for the series are Bette Davis, Paulette Goddard, Claudette Colbert, Joan Fontaine, Gregory Peck, John Garfield, Gene Kelly and possibly Joseph Cotten. Show is packaged around $14,000, which means there'll be no skimping on production. Working title of "Star Spangled Theatre" will be scuttled for one tying in more closely with the product. Series is pitted against "Fibber and Molly."

Hitch hikes . . . If the format of Rudy Vallee's program for Philip Morris is a carbon of last season's Procter & Gamble session it's because the client wants it that way. Billy House may be the replacement for Pinky Lee, who holds over on the Drene show, but otherwise the show will have a familiar ring when it goes to the barrier Sept. 3 . . . Sam Carter, who writes the framework for Lux Radio Theatre, became the pater of a seven-pound girl yesterday . . . Six International pictures in a row will be dramatized on the Camay series if a deal now in the works is consummated . . . The Ed Bergens and Ed Gardners chartered a yacht and are cruising Coast waters . . . Carl Wester trained in yesterday to make his permanent hdq here for production supervision of the four Irna Philips serials . . . Mel Ruick, set for a featured role in Brock Pemberton's Broadway play, "The Magnificent Heel," wants it known that he has not been type-cast for the title role . . . Edgar Bergen and Cary Grant guest with Harriet Parsons on her last two Woodbury airings . . . ABC is giving "Take It from There" full network play with Mike Roy as emcee and Harfield Weedin producing . . . A few columns ago daytime serial writers were taken to task for spreading discontent in homes by their fictional fancy. Irna Phillips was prevailed upon to defend her craft and promise she did but nothing came of it. Mebbe we were right, huh! . . . Irene Ryan will have a featured spot with Jack Carson when Campbell soup is poured again Oct. 2.

DESIGNERS ASK PROD REPS WHO CAN FIX PAY

Ed Gilbert, business agent for Screen Set Designers, Local 1421, last night sent a telegram to Pat Casey, asking that the producers' group, which meets tomorrow with union's negotiating committee, be granted authority to grant wage increases. Development, union asserted, is a result of a producers rep stating at Tuesday afternoon's meeting of the union-producer groups that the producers' committee at that time had no power to discuss wage question.

In a move to present their side of the controversy before other union locals, the set designers are sending speakers to various union meetings. Speakers were present at last night's regular membership meeting of the Carpenters Local 946. Two meetings slated to be contacted tonight are the Machinists Local 1185 and the Motion Picture Stewards Council.

PRODUCERS VIOLATE JULY 2nd STRIKE SETTLEMENT

Negotiators for this union were handed a bombshell when they met with producers last Tuesday.

They were told by Pat Casey, producer representative, that at the July 2nd strike settlement in Beverly Hills "Nobody thought the word inequities had anything to do with wages."

Indeed! The very first 19 words of that settlement, signed by Mr. Casey, read:

> "All of the above (a listing of crafts) to get a 25 per cent increase on base and negotiate some inequities in a few crafts."

Producers agreed to negotiate this particular union's inequities "in the next 30 days." They failed. They now declare "inequities" have nothing to do with wages. As if the word ever had other than a dollar-and-cents meaning.

The position just taken by producers should interest every union representative who was present at the July 2nd meeting and should electrify those many groups who, like ours, have looked forward to the correction of basic wage injustices suffered for years.

It should also interest those groups to know that, despite producer propaganda to the contrary, this union has received no more than the 25 per cent increase offered the entire industry July 2nd. This corrected no inequities.

Local 1421 will not accept such a flagrant violation of the producers' own terms for ending the recent strike. Nor will unions for whom the 25 per cent increase must be a floor, not a ceiling, for increases and who know the producers so promised.

Local 1421 is meeting with producers again Friday. From the beginning it has considered the interests of every other studio group. It is considering those interests again now in bringing this information to the entire industry, so all unions will be warned of this latest producer perfidy. It is also fully informing such groups as the Conference of Studio Unions and the Los Angeles Central Labor Council.

Meanwhile Local 1421 is preparing to strike, if necessary, to win the contract denied it the past three years.

20TH DECLARES EXTRA

U.S. MULLS SCOPHONY OFFER

New York, Aug. 15.—Joseph Borkin and Sigmund Timberg of the Justice Department's anti-trust division, arrived in New York today and are huddling with James Wilson, chief of the New York office, and Joseph Marker, special counsel, on joint offer of settlement by all defendants in government's suit against Scophony interests. Offer, if accepted, will result in consent decree.

Borkin and Timberg are slated to meet tomorrow with legal representatives of the defendants, who include Paramount and General Precision Equipment, of which 20th-Fox is largest single stockholder. HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

ALTHOUGH all music in Warner Bros.' "Time, Place and Girl" has been fully recorded by commercial firms, mechanical release will not be until late in October. Studio and Music Publishers Holding Corp., noting errors by other film companies who let go of musical scores too quickly and tire out their songs before the movie goes into release, made the move to hold the top tunes, "Rainy Night in Rio," "Gal in Calico," "But I Do," and "Through a Thousand Dreams," until two months prior to national release. Studio expects move to be popular with exhibs, many of whom beef when they feel studios abandon them for radio and jukeboxes.

Roach also has huddled with other releasing outfits, all showing high degree of interest in comedy producer's products.

The good old western formula is getting out of whack.
The cowboy used to ride away and never did come back.
He broke the jail in Rimrock Town amid a lot of slaughter
And saved the ranch belonging to the honest sheriff's daughter.
And when the cowboy's daily work in Rimrock Town was done
He rolled a pill and galloped out into the setting sun.
The kids enjoyed the riding and the shooting and the strife
But now the cowboy weds the gal and settles down for life.
And in the darkness of the house you hear a flock of groans
While youngsters snoot at western love in no uncertain tones.

You were that way, too, when you were reading Buffalo Bill and Diamond Dick as they drew their trusty rifles from behind their clenched teeth and caused a hundred Apaches to bite the dust. At that age you were against feminine interference in the process of galloping through life. At the Hitching Post yesterday the hero and the gal in "Thunder Town" wound up with a legitimate wedding, after much skullduggery, and the youthful response was a lot of groans. Western film fans, up to the age of 14, are hoss-and-pistol minded. Along about 64 they get that way again. In the intervening years they go for filmusicals.

Film Take in China is Up 200% Over Pre-War Days

Motion picture business is booming in all of China—and Orient in general—and opportunities there for exhibition of both 35 and 16m product are terrific. That's opinion of Alec Caplan, Warners manager in China, in for homeoffice confabs and latest industry arrival from Orient.

Caplan reports to studio heads today and will remain here three weeks before going to homeoffice in New York. A self-styled "man without a country," being a Russian expatriate who has spent his life in the Orient, Caplan was unmolested during war, because he had no national allegiance. It's his first visit to the U.S.

Regarding business in Shanghai, he says while admissions are up 100 per cent over pre-war prices—receipts are up 200 per cent, and business is booming. He adds there are absolutely no restrictions on product shown, no matter what the origin. U.S. pix continue to lead.

The Chinese are beginning to produce their own films again but no amount of them can adversely affect Yank product. Instead, Caplan sees growth of native industry stimulating general interest, creating new fans and, in consequence, new theatres. They'll grow together, says manager, who supervises offices in Hong Kong, Tientsin and Chungking.

After visiting his mother, a citizen of U.S., whom he hasn't seen in nine years, Caplan will trek east, and expects to return to Orient around end of September.

Heading West

(Western)

COLUMBIA RELEASE. Producer, Colbert Clark. Director, Ray Nazarro. Assistant director, William O'Connor. Original screenplay, Earl Ed Repp. Photography, George Meehan.

CO-STARS Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette. Supporting players, Doris Houck, Nolan Leary, Norman Willis, Bud Geary, Tommy Coats, Frank McCarroll, Fenton Reynolds, Matty Roubert, Stanley Price, Hal Taliaferro, Hank Penny, Harold Hensley, Noel Boggs, Sanford Williams, John Merton, Charles Soldani.

REVIEWED at Hitching Post Theatre, Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 15, 1946. Running time: 54 MINS.

The Durango Kid has his hands full in this latest of the series co-starring Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette. He breaks up an outlaw gang which has been holding up stages for gold shipments, saves an old man from mine foreclosure, simultaneously avenging the killing of an old friend. Film is packed with enough action to conform favorably with past offerings in series, but lacks good old-fashioned close-quarter gun fighting.

Starrett again takes on dual portrayal, that of Indian agent Steve Randall and the Durango Kid. This time, Starrett and Smiley go to Bonanza City to look into series of stage holdups, blamed on the Kid, and come upon scheme of a mining machine business operator to acquire all the mines in the neighborhood by his gang looting all the gold sent out by stagecoach.

Script as worked out by Earl Ed Repp is highlighted with some good moments, and there's the usual villainy of the heavy, Norman Willis. Chases, with wild shooting in which no one gets hurt, are a dime a dozen, but provide exciting action. Story, more than can always be said, is logically climaxed, with the Kid throwing down on heavy and his top henchman and laying them cold.

Starrett turns in his customary virile performance, Smiley contributing his usual brand of comedics. Latter warbles several song numbers which should get by, assisted by Hank Penny and his Plantation Boys. Doris Houck is pretty as daughter of Nolan Leary, mine owner whose property the Kid saves. Norman Willis is properly menacing and Bud Geary draws an acceptable characterization of an outlaw leader.

Ray Nazarro generally keeping action moving with direction and Colbert Clark handled producer reins. George Meehan's photography is up to par.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

President Truman, leaving on a vacation, may think he's going away for a rest—but that rest is liable to be disturbed. Among the many bubbling ferments, the most threatening is that of a new outburst of strikes. CIO's Murray has been persisting in his demands for a Labor Management Conference to deal with a situation in which wages continue frozen to the old OPA-bill situation, while prices have advanced considerably. He also thinks such a conference can work out some way to prevent what looks like another boom and bust cycle. AFL's Green argues that such a conference would be a waste of time, as the previous one was. But in any case, the threat of a new wave of strikes continues, threatening to burst upon the tranquility and peace of a shipping vessel off the coast of Maine . . . What Truman suggested to Attlee about the British partition plan for Palestine is subject only to conjecture. One point that may have been included is the status of Trans-Jordan, which was part of the original Palestine mandate, and which, continued as part of the country could admit of a Jordan Valley and other projects that would benefit both Arab and Jew, and which, properly presented, could not easily be opposed by the Arab leaders.

Thunder Town

(Western with Music)

PRC RELEASE. Producer, Arthur Alexander. Director, Harry Fraser. Oiginal screenplay, James Oliver. Musical director, Lee Zahler. Photography, Robert Cline. Sound engineer, Glen Glenn. Settings, E. H. Reif. Film editor, Roy Livingston. Assistant director, Seymour Roth.

CAST — Bob Steele, Syd Saylor, Ellen Hall, Bud Geary, Charles King, Edward Howard, Steve Clark, Bud Osborne and Jimmy Aubrey.

REVIEWED at the Hitching Post theatre, Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 15, 1946. Running time: 58 MINS.

This is a departure from the western formula. Bob Steele, the hard riding cowboy, doesn't ride out into the sunset in the final reel to hunt new adventures over yonder. He winds up by marrying Ellen Hall, a beauteous femme, who wears her wedding gown for a couple of reels on account of she don't know who is going to be her groom.

Ellen is a good gal, and in love with Bob, but she is tricked into a promise of marriage to a no-good so-and-so through the conniving of Bud Geary, a nasty villain, and Charles King and Edward Howard, two assistant villains who are still nastier.

It seems the boys have framed Bob in a murderous bank robbery and railroaded him to the stone house, from which he is released on parole. When he returns to the old diggings he is caught with his holsters empty and kidnaped by the gangsters, along with his trusty and comical pal, Syd Saylor.

The nefarious plot is to get control of the ranch by marrying Ellen to one of Geary's assistant baddies. The gal is told that Bob will be liquidated unless she marries the baddie, so she puts on her wedding gown, and promises to go through with the ceremony, on condition that Bob is permitted to gallop away from there, free. Bob gallops away, with the gangsters lurking at the crossroads to rub him out, but he fools them and rides thisaway instead of thataway and foils the murderous miscreants.

Bob gallops back to the hideout with a gun in his holster, just as the Justice of the Peace is about to unite Ellen and the baddie in the bonds of unholy wedlock. With the aid of Saylor he produces the fatal bullet, by which he was framed, and discovers the bank loot hidden under the kitchen sink. So Bob goes into a clinch with Ellen, who is still dressed in her wedding finery, and you know she ain't going to marry anybody else but him.

The kids didn't care so much about it. They wanted more shooting and less wedding bell stuff.

He said his automobile was recovered five days later.

20TH, MUSIC HALL BATTLING OVER 'ANNA' OUSTER

New York, Aug. 15.—There's a merry war brewing between 20th-Fox and Radio City Music Hall. And it's likely to be a prolonged conflict.

The fracas was started when the big film showcase house yanked 20th's "Anna and the King of Siam" in order to open RKO's "Notorious."

"Anna" had drawn the huge sum of $1,066,453 for eight weeks, and the reason for the war is that the eighth week of the picture's run put $123,204 in the Music Hall till. That is more than some pictures get there in their first week.

There was high resentment at the 20th home office yesterday over the yanking. A high 20th official made public the week-by-week draw of "Anna" as follows:

First week, $140,611; second, $139,690; third, $145,039; fourth, $135,519; fifth, $132,369; sixth, $124,581; seventh, $125,440, and eighth, $123,204.

According to 20th officials there was an understanding when "Anna" was sold to the theatre that it would be held for ten weeks or more if the attendance warranted. And, the 20th execs asked, if $123,204 in an eighth week doesn't warrant a holdover, what would?

THE GRAPEVINE: Metro is having its troubles casting "Green Dolphin Street." First Robert Walker turned down one of the male leads, which was then assigned to Richard Hart. Now one of the lot's top stars has rejected one of the two leading femme roles . . . The little people around the studios —no, we don't mean leprechauns—are giving a big hand to B. B. Kahane of Columbia, a top man in producers' councils. He's been fighting for raises for unorganized workers and also went to bat for the lower paid ranks such as janitors and publicists. Kahane's theory is "it costs a low-paid worker as much to buy a pound of butter as it does a $1000-a-week employe. So let's trim from the top! . . . Romance in rompers: Frankie Sinatra, Jr., 2, wooing the 19-month-old daughter of J. Richard Kennedy, his neighbor. Cradle-robber! . . . Radie Harris will be heading back to New York Sunday after her summer inspection of these precincts. She's so well liked that even rival columnists throw parties for her. Today, for instance, she lunches with Louella Parsons . . . Metro is rushing Harold Buchman out from NY to polish his own script of "The Rich Full Life." Studio is full of enthusiasm for the production and wants to get it before the cameras Nov. 1. Edwin Knopf will produce, Robert Leonard direct . . . For the record: Bob White, Sunday editor of the L.A. Times, denies that he was bopped by a Metro flack, as stated here a couple of columns ago.

CALL SHEET: REGINALD WHITLEY, known as the top boxoffice critic of England and motion picture editor of the London Daily Mirror, is headed for an eight-week visit here. He arrives in New York Aug. 14 and planes coastward from there Aug. 19 . . . LUCILLE BALL has thumbed an offer to play the lead in the London company of "Born yesterday" . . . EDDIE BUZZELL gave a lift to George Curtis, young actor who appeared in "Winged Victory," while driving along Sunset the other day. Metro director thinks Curtis has great possibilities and will direct his test Tuesday . . . EMERY KANARIK has been named story editor of Independent Artists and will have the purse strings loosened by Freddie Brisson for a flock of story buys . . . DAISY, the dog actor, had her birthday covered by all of the new photo services . . . JERRY WALD has named his new son Andrew . . . THEODORA LYNCH has been set for a Tulsa, Okla., concert for a benefit of the Boys' Home . . . FRANK FAY greeted a flock of his Hollywood pals at the Beverly Hills Club . . . HOWARD HAWKS' "River Is Red" will spend eight weeks on location in Tucson.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Blushing with pride, Metro announces that its new London headquarters will be at 57 St. James, "in the midst of famed clubland," and adds in clipped Sandhurst tones, "No. 57 was the secret nerve center of M.I. 5, British Military Intelligence." Out of our Sax Rohmer beclouded youth comes a vision of a London clubman looking out of his St. James club window and whispering, "Send for Sir Denis Nayland Smith, those Hollywood dacoits are swarming all over the bloody place!" . . . Harry Conover and his new bride, Candy Jones, American Airline in from NY early today. He'll discuss a picture commitment on his first Hollywood visit . . . Maureen O'Hara celebrates a birthday Saturday . . . After ten days of hectic living in some of Hollywood's best and worst hotels, Jeffrey Lynn has found an apartment. Just about a record these days . . . Tom D'Andrea, Warners writer-actor, has turned director for the Laguna strawhat theatre, staging "Front Page" . . . Incidentally, that Ben Hecht-Charlie MacArthur masterpiece, which inspired at least one generation of newspapermen to think they were uninhibited bravos, looks like a hit for the forthcoming Broadway season. None of its dialogue is dated and few playwrights have ever matched the pace and punch Hecht and MacArthur contrived for "Front Page" . . . Barney Ross, ex-fighter and ex-Marine hero, will become an account executive with the Blackstone Company in Chicago.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Hollywood tourist returning to France will be sorry to hear that the old cab fleet, some of which ferried troops to the Marne in the First World War and saved the Allied cause, is now extinct. But the new taxis have a charm of their own. Strictly Parisian touch is something called "Discretion Glass," which allows vision out but not in . . . No-not-that item: KMPC's new airshow for the Security First National Bank will be titled "Security Symphonia" . . . Irene Dunne, who spent much of her time on "Life with Father" riding around in horse and carriage, is allergic to horses. Prior to each take she had to have cotton stuffed in her nose . . . Governor Warren, reported to have his eyes on the presidential campaign of '48, may get some pointers from that doughty campaigner, Senator Claghorn. Eagle-Lion's "It's a Joke, Son" starring Claghorn (Kenny Delmar) moves today to location at Uplifters' ranch, where the governor is currently quartered . . . Off the lots: Eleanor Powell, Glenn Ford and Marc Platt a dinner threesome at Billingsley's. Peter Shaw and Evelyn Lane, lunch twosome, same place. The Gig Youngs and Dane Clarks at Sportsman Lodge. Mary Rogers and Walker Mullens at The Kings. Peggy Stack and Churchill Ross at Saddle and Sirloin. Bruce Cabot and Natalie Thompson at Beverly Tropics . . . The C. B. Light 'n' Airy

by JACK HELLMAN

If you're a day worker, which you undoubtedly are, you wouldn't be expected to manifest any interest in the long string of quarter hour daylight shows. But there's the little woman at home who does and her interest more than makes up for the lack of yours. In fact it's the motive power behind the steady outpouring of soap operas, newscasts, commentary and the such like that manage year in and out to keep the lanes warm and the sponsors happy. That there's a paying audience for the muchly maligned matinee shows is at once evident from the Hooper listing of the "strip" set, or those that are on a five-day week. The figures are there to prove it—to be exact, 68 commercial shows sound off on Monday and keep it up through Friday. The ratings, never whopperish, reflect only a small audience but it's more important that the gals are at the dials five days a week. Ergo, a soaper caught at 4.4 is entitled to at least half again that figure on the basis of computing night time shows even though the audience is practically the same day in and out. Instead of playing to four million listeners the program gets dialer attention from five times that figure, albeit largely repeaters.

It's always a hossrace with a photo finish for the 10 top positions in the multiple stakes. "When a Girl Marries" gets first call from Hooper at 6.9 and nine positions below stands "Woman in White" with 5.4, which figure, incidentally, is shared by five other serials. In that group is Tom Breneman although last report he was crowding the leader. Lose a few women listeners in this league and an obscuring dust settles on the track.

By RADIE HARRIS

When Jule Styne and Sammy Cahn were first called to Metro to write the words and music to "It Happened in Brooklyn," they said to producer Jack Cummings, "Let's not make the same mistake with this picture as they made here with 'Anchors Aweigh.' "

Cummings looked at the boys as if they had just escaped from the nearest asylum. "The same mistake? Don't you know that every day truckloads ride in the front gate to unload millions of dollars this picture is coining all over the country?"

"Oh, we approve of that kind of 'take'! (minus the mis). What we mean is, we don't want to make the mistake of having Frank Sinatra and Kathryn Grayson in the same picture and not have them sing at least one number together." Which explains why in "It Happened in Brooklyn," Sinatra and Grayson will duet an aria from "La Giovanni."

The other p.m. Styne and Cahn played and sang me the entire score for the picture, and in the words of Schnozzle himself, "It's collosial." It's a cinch you will be hearing "I Believe," "I'm So Lucky to Be Loved By You," and "I Love the Brooklyn Bridge" on the Hit Parade, but the one I got the biggest bang out of was the specialty number, "As Long as It Comes from the Heart," with which Jimmie and Frankie will tear down the house. As part of the patter, Jimmie asks Frank, "What makes Caruso the greatest singer of the day?"

"His voice?" asks Sinatra.

Whereupon Jimmie nods back, "It helped!"

SCOOPING AROUND: If I am filled with a proprietory pride over the exclusive that Claire Trevor will make her return bow to Broadway in Robert Montgomery and Elliott Nugent's production of "The Big Two," it is because I first suggested her to them when both were going slightly mad trying to cast this important star part, and had overlooked Claire as a sympathetic heroine because she has been so typed here in Hollywood as the Other Woman. Negotiations are now under way for Philip Dorn to play opposite her as the Russian newspaperman, with rehearsals ready to tee off October 1. Needless to say, I will be leading the cheering section opening nite—even if Bob and Elliott don't present me with a piece of the show! (Not that I'm hinting, boys!) In the meantime, don't be surprised to see another one of my Trevor scoops come true with the announcement that she lands the much discussed role of "Kate" in "Arch of Triumph," providing she can sandwich it in before she leaves . . . Kay Williams certainly isn't the practical gal Macoco accused her of. With a birthday last week and a first anniversary next month, she will celebrate both together at a formal buffet supper dance she and her groom, Adolph Spreckels, are hosting at their Roxbury Dr. manse Satdee nite . . . Charlie Beahan has just completed a play tagged "Whistler's Father" in which he will reveal that this unsung hero was quite a guy, while his muchly publicized wife was quite a shrew . . . Jerry Brandt has received permission from the Armed Forces Radio Service to include a sequence featuring AFRS "Command Performance" in his film saga of radio. Washington is placing all the scripts at Brandt's disposal, together with 30,000 feet of film taken in various overseas theatres of war showing the boys' reaction to this program. He also has the right to use the title as a tag for the picture . . . Frank Loesser, in association with Paramount, has just formed his own music publishing firm called "Susan, Inc." Of course the fact that his daughter's name is Susan is purely coincidental . . . Constance Collier perfecting Linda Darnell's English accent for "Amber" takes her to listen to "Henry V," where the only important femme part is played with a French accent! Seriously though, I agree with Constance that listening to the exquisite speech of this superlative cast is the best English teacher any young Hollywood star could have . . . Now that her divorce is behind her, Maria Manton is also forsaking her stage career to play the role of efficient business secretary to a foreign star, whose requirements she understands more than anyone else, because she happens to be her mother—Marlene Dietrich . . . Louis Jean Heydt, whose wife will sue for divorce, denies any new romance or second matrimonial plans are involved . . . Is it true that David O. Selznick is none too pleased about Shirley Temple's scenes in her last RKO picture and wants them reshot at a mere cost of $50,000? . . . Alex Gottlieb and Polly Rose have decided to get married here next month and hold a reception at the Bev Hills hotel, rather than go to New York where Billy Rose could be best man. They're afraid he'd want to stage it at Madison Square Garden!

SHE FELL FOR THEM: Evie Wynn's 16-year-old sister, Maxine Abbott, arrived this week from Florida for her first close up of Hollywood. Yesterday, Keenan invited Clark Gable and Gary Cooper over to the house to see his new midget auto racer. Evie arriving home after they had left wanted to know what happened when Maxine met them.

"Oh, nothing," answered Keenan. "They each shook her hand and then I picked her up!"

And so, with this column, I bid adieu to the Hollywood Runaround to return to the Broadway Runaround. Don't think it hasn't been wonderful fun—because it has!

FCC FAVORING DON LEE TESTS IN COLOR TELE

Washington, Aug. 15.—Favorable action is expected here on Don Lee application to undertake three year experiment of electronically combining color pictures and sound on one television carrier channel. Announcement followed receipt here of Lee application for permission to test the all-electronic system.

Lee bid is for new experimental transmitter in Hollywood, using 550-590 and 850-885 megacycle bands. Application stresses interest in use of electronic color rather than mechanical color system developed by Columbia Broadcasting System's Peter Goldmark, which is now widely copied. Present black and white system of video uses separate channels for transmission of image and audio.

Harry Lubcke, Don Lee video director and manager of W6XAO, in attached statement said he has been experimenting with tints since 1930 and proposes entirely new type operation making possible "aural-visual transmission on single carrier."

True confession...

WE do have an emulsion with higher resolving power than Ansco Supreme Negative film.

We have another that is faster than Supreme.

And a third that has finer grain than Supreme.

But we believe that Supreme Negative offers you the best combination of resolving power, speed and fineness of grain for professional motion picture photography. Supreme also gives you a long, smooth gradation scale and accurate, sensitive panchromatic response.

In competent hands, this excellent film will produce negatives of outstanding printing quality. Ask for Ansco Supreme Negative on your next assignment!

PETRILLO BRANDS LEA ACT WITH 4 VIOLATIONS

Chicago, Aug. 15.—A 109-page printed memorandum was filed in U.S. District Court today by attorneys for James C. Petrillo, AFM prexy, in support of a motion to dismiss a criminal information charging him with violation of the Lea Act.

Memorandum listed four major charges against the act.

1. The statute is "one-sided and discriminatory" because "the sponsors of the statute purposely and intentionally framed it so as to discriminate against the employes of licensees (radio stations) and to protect the profits of licensees."

2. The statute is contrary to the first amendment to the constitution because it abridges freedom of speech.

3. It imposes "involuntary servitude."

4. It violates the fifth amendment because it "defines a crime in excessively vague terms, because it abridges liberty of contract and because it denies equal protection of the law."

It was further stated that the only issue for the court to decide was the constitutionality of the act and described it as "emotional, vindictive, intensely hostile and a legislative monstrosity."

Criminal information was filed against Petrillo for calling a strike against station WAAF here last May 28 because it refused to hire three extra record librarians.

H'D COLORFILM BACK IN ACTION IN 60 DAYS

Hollywood Colorfilm Corp., which converted its facilities to war work after Pearl Harbor, will be entirely reconverted within 40 to 60 days. At this time, company will be in a position to start processing its own color process, Vita-color.

Vita-color, a two separation negative process, which imparts three dyes on film, currently is putting out about 1,000,000 feet of film monthly, under limited facilities which obtain during partial reconversion. During 1947, concern expects to process approximately 60,000,000 feet of film in Vita-color.

Two features and five shorts currently are being shot in Vita-color. Commitments for use of this color are booked solid through middle of next February, at which time company will be able to take on expanded program. During war years, Hollywood Colorfilm processed Gasparfilm for O.S.S. and Canadian government, as well as opened its lab to developing and printing of Ansco film.

New Picture

Canyon Passage (Walter Wanger-Universal). Feeling harried? Overworked? Jittery about the Bomb or the price of butter? Try Canyon Passage for quick, temporary relief. Unlike bridge, alcohol, the ponies and other popular forms of escape, this brilliantly engineered movie is non-habit-forming and has no nagging after-effects.

Back in pioneer Oregon of 1856—ah, those were the days!—life was chock-full of excitement: barroom brawling, gunplay, gold prospecting, gambling, whizzing tommyhawks and flaming arrows, sudden romance and sudden death. Canyon Passage has all this and more—plus better-than-average dialogue and competent players (Dana Andrews, Susan Hayward, Brian Donlevy, Britain's Patricia Roc). Gnome-faced Hoagy Carmichael wanders lazily through the busy plot, picking his mandolin and singing four catchy, near-frontier ballads that he composed for the occasion. Technicolor works pure magic with the fires, the fist fights, the Redmen, the pretty girls, the superb outdoor scenery.

Producer Walter Wanger and Director Jacques Tourneur have turned Ernest Haycox' slick, colorful, romantic Satevepost serial into a slick, colorful, romantic movie. If life in the old West was not really as much fun as this picture makes out, history is clearly at fault.

Owing to an oversight, Edward Cronjager, Director of Photography, was not given proper billing for his work on "CANYON PASSAGE". I wish to call the attention of the industry to this because of the superb and artistic work he did under very trying circumstances for which I am very grateful.

I am very happy that his photography is being recognized as outstanding throughout the country.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

CAMERAMAN Russell Metty has evolved new method of simultaneous filming of a telephone conversation between Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer in "Arch of Triumph," thereby avoiding use of a split screen, ordinarily practiced by lensers in photographing such scenes. Players' heads are sole portions of their bodies to be lighted and will be the only objects to appear on screen. This stems from occasional stage technique of focusing spotlights on two players only, leaving balance of stage dark. Split-screen process heretofore utilized, whereby each player was photographed separately, with both negatives reduced by half and superimposed on one duped negative, is thus eliminated, adding to quality, clarity and texture of photography. Simultaneously, there is considerable saving in production cost by eliminating one entire shooting sequence.

ESTELLE Taylor is doing a burn over printed and other rumors that she cuts in on the $100,000 which former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey is reported getting from Bryan Foy for his life story. It has been reported that Estelle is to get $35,000 and Jack's other former wife, Hannah Williams, $25,000, all clearances being Dampsey's to arrange and get, not Foy's. Estelle is said to have stated that she doesn't know about Hannah, but that she has never been approached by Dempsey, or anyone else about what it will take to get her to okay herself for characterization in the movie. She declares she is not interested in the color of any money, only in what color they give the Estelle Taylor portrayal in the script. If she comes off all right in the writing, that's all she says it will take to get her nod.

TUCSON is latest out-of-state locality to make bid for a Hollywood location ground. Two pictures already are lined up for lengthy stays there and a third has just about set country around Arizona city for partial location site. Howard Hawks will take his "River Is Red" troupe there for at least eight weeks and 20th-Fox will make most of "Chicken Every Sunday" right in the town, locale of story. Harry Joe Brown-Randolph Scott production, "Twin Sombreros," while making use of 20th-Fox's Monument Valley location site, will probably continue on to Tucson. Several other companies are understood to be considering this community for near-future location headquarters.

When Harvey mentioned fact he would be interested in film role, Miss Mason grabbed the phone and arranged an interview with Riskin. Comet is also talking to the youth about a future role.

REPORT that Cecil B. DeMille is exiting 16m indie production is denied by Ralph Jester, v-p with outfit. Rumor circulating probably stems from admission that firm is concentrating on religious films and has done little in educationals and industrials, first announced as included in plans. Since little profit has been shown by others in educationals to date, and with unsettled business conditions discouraging any great activity in commercial films, DeMille decided to stress scripture pix.

As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The general tendency is to blame Great Britain for leaving those poor refugees in Europe, and to say they are more interested in oil under the earth than men above it. But we have not thrown open our gates to them. True, the President has said he recommends that the Congress relax the immigration laws, but the Congress does not meet again until January unless summoned in special session, and there's slight chance of that before the November elections. Further some Congressmen have already said they're against any such idea. Further, let us not forget that we have almost half the oil reserves in the Middle East, 42 per cent of them, and that since we figure our reserves in this country will run short in twenty years, we're banking on that Middle East oil. Further, we, just as much as the British, are worried about Russian imperialist expansion into Iran, the Dardanelles, the rest of the Middle East. Pointing fingers and screaming sentences will not save refugees. (And winter is not far away.)

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

They built a film around a song, a ballad sweet to hear,
A lilting tune of boy and gal that charmed the eager ear.
Slow months went by, and when at last the picture came along
The jukebox and the radio had slain the lilting song.
And when Joe Public saw the show and heard the ballad sung
He thought it was an ancient film and muttered: "I've been stung."

ACADEMY NIGHT SHORT IN SPIRIT, ENTERTAINMENT

As a promotional tieup or prestige builder for either participant, Academy night at the Bowl nearer approaches an appendectomy — sans guts. Except for brief snatches of entertainment, event devolved into combination presentation of film music in classical form, in first half; and lighter cinematicleffing treatment, in second. None of first good enough for music lovers, and little of remainder—or residue—generally acceptable general public fare. And in such a mixed crowd, it was as obviously lacking as a premiere hereabouts without kleigs. For such as is committed in his name, "Oscar" must turn over in his annually refreshed grave.

Where fault lies that an event of such possibilities should be so weak is anyone's guess. Except for the presence of capable conductor-composers, Alfred Newman and Dr. Miklos Rozsa, plus some exhumed melodies of bygone days and glory, Academy Night could hardly be called representative of the giant and genius called the motion picture industry. In short, the Bowl was virtually full out front—where they pay—but pretty empty. Hollywood offers more, academically and otherwise; the Bowl should have insisted on more. Neither can subsist for long or cement substantial friendships on so little.

What stars proffered, or sacrificed, as it happened, had to do with Academy or more recent events therein, musical gentry mentioned are, of course, excepted. Gene Kelly, however miscast, lightened proceedings with his serio-comic singing and dancing. But none of it was as well done as he can do and has done before. Judy Garland's larynx lifted little—and Rita Hayworth sent regrets. She was substituted for by Lana Turner, all tulled up, who uninspiredly narrated to score from "Pinocchio." Ignace Hilsberg, more concertist than cinemartiste, offering concerto from "Hangover Square," and freres Dorsey, exhibiting trombone, sax and clarinet, comprised "Academy" personalities.

Wiseacre remarks of Dr. Karl Wecker, Bowl managing director, anent certain erstwhile film hits, their musical contents, and some personalities, were nearer to showmanship that "anathema" night at Bowl ever came. There was little or no flare. No one seemed to care, excepting the hard-working musicians and leaders. Event marked second time up. It was deuce Academy night. Third strike may mean out! Rendering of few nostalgic numbers to impressive array of fiddles, presence—though not notable performance— of some scattered notables, nor high prices nor conversation make good will. And then there's always the box-office, too!

Short Gets Preem, Top Billing, Too

Twist of premiere for short subject has been worked on "Champagne Music," opening at Majestic theatre, Santa Monica, today, to bally short's star, Lawrence Welk, whose band is current at nearby Aragon ballroom. Short gets top marquee billing over feature, "Night in Paradise," and bally as being first showing.

Board to Divvy Rank Pix Between E-L and U-Int

Allocation of J. Arthur Rank films for distribution in the United States between Eagle-Lion and the new Universal-International combo will be decided by a special board of three reps of the companies involved, it was disclosed over the weekend by Bryan Foy, Eagle-Lion topper.

In explaining the manner in which the Rank product would be distributed in this country, Rank explained that the decision of the board will be final. Personnel of the board, which will include one Rank rep in this country and one rep each from Eagle-Lion and Universal-International, will be announced within two weeks. Its chief function will be to insure that both companies are fairly treated in portioning of the Rank product.

Foy further pointed out that Eagle-Lion is well along its way in lining up its production schedule for the 1946-47 season. Within the short space of three months since its organization, company has completed pre-production preparations on 18 of the 22 feature films slated for next twelve months shooting. At the same time, company is rapidly completing a $1,500,000 studio construction and modernization program.

'My Empty Heart' Shutting Down While Script Finished

Last Wednesday Daily Variety announced that Helen Deutsch had been signed to a Columbia writer-producer deal. On Thursday it followed with a short item to the effect that shooting had been resumed on "My Empty Heart" following a shut down due to differences of opinion over the script between producer-writer Virginia Van Upp and director Charles Vidor. Next day Daily Variety revealed that Miss Deutsch had been assigned to "My Empty Heart" in place of Miss Van Upp.

Late that afternoon, Columbia in a special release labeled "important announcement" said:

"Virginia Van Upp collapsed on the set of 'My Empty Heart' yesterday and was taken to her home and placed under the care of her physician, Dr. Eugene L. Armstrong. On Dr. Armstrong's orders Miss Van Upp and her husband Ralph Nelson will leave shortly for an extended vacation through the Caribbean and South America.

"Filming of 'My Empty Heart' will continue under the supervision of Helen Deutsch. The unfinished portion of the script has been assigned to Allan Rivkin and Devery Freeman."

Asked about Miss Van Upp's condition, Dr. Armstrong said, "There is nothing serious wrong. It's just a case of her taking a rest."

After the special Columbia announcement, Daily Variety learned that shooting on the picture will be shut down for some time, perhaps two or more weeks while the script is finished to the satisfaction of Miss Deutsch and director Vidor.

FCC Skeds FM Hearings Here; To Clash With Chi NAB Meet

Federal Communications Commission has set Oct. 14 through 24 as period to hold FM hearings here on 18 applications for 14 available frequency modulation channels allotted to Los Angeles. However, it was not possible to learn which commissioner or staff member would chairman sessions which will be held in Federal Building downtown.

Event poses a serious problem for local radioites with applications who would also like to attend national convention of National Association of Broadcasters, in Chicago, Oct. 21 through 24. Conclave was set up before commish scheduled its date and is more or less irrevocable. So, unless commish switches its hearing date some broadcasters must eschew the convention to make necessary personal pitch for their FM pleas.

Those applying are: Earl C. Anthony, Inc. (KFI), Standard Broadcasting Co. of Los Angeles (KFVD), Columbia Broadcasting System, American Broadcasting Co., Southern California Broadcasting Co. (KWKW), Hughes Tool Co. (Howard Hughes), Los Angeles Broadcasting Co. (KFAC), Voice of Orange Empire, Inc. (KVOE), Santa Ana; Radio Broadcasters, Inc., Echo Park Evangelical Association, Hollywood Community Radio Group, Pacific Coast Broadcasting Co. (KXLA), KMPC, KIEV, and as a group, International Union of United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers and Conference of Industrial Organizations. There were others who have previously withdrawn their applications.

The Invisible Informer

(Melodrama)

REPUBLIC RELEASE. Associate Producer, William J. O'Sullivan. Director, Philip Ford. Original story, Gerald Grayson Adams. Screenplay, Sherman L. Lowe. Photographer, William Bradford. Art director, James Sullivan. Set decorations, John McCarthy, Jr., and Otto Siegel. Musical direction, Richard Cherwin. Sound, Ferrol Redd. Makeup, Bob Mark. Film editor, Richard L. Van Enger.

CAST—Linda Stirling, William Henry, Adele Mara, Gerald Mohr, Peggy Stewart, Tom London, Donia Bussey, Claire DuBrey, Tristram Coffin, Charles Lane, Cy Kendall, Francis McDonald.

PREVIEWED at RCA Studios, Aug. 16, 1946. Running time: 57 MINS.

"The Invisible Informer" is definitely secondary product. It starts out with a story that combines possibilities of tense crime melodrama with eerie atmosphere and could have been fast, shivery delineation of murder along the bayous. But its full effect is lost in various ineptitudes—chief of which is stilted, implausible dialogue.

Picture is unfortunately cast throughout and the acting generally has a distinct Junior play flavor about it. Linda Stirling and William Henry, as insurance company sleuths trailing the missing Baylor emeralds, try hard, but have two strikes against them from the start owing to being cast in roles for which they are not especially fitted. Gerald Mohr is a convincing enough murderer, but isn't helped at all by the lines he has to use in connection with his murdering and intrigue. Adele Mara makes a nice eyeful as a girl who loves her way into being strangled. Supporting cast is just that.

Direction by Philip Ford probably keeps the show moving along as smoothly as possible under the circumstances. This fact, combined with shuddery swamp atmosphere intensified by William Bradford's accurately keyed photography keeps the show from flattening out too much and makes it a fair bet as a supporting feature.

Production by William J. O'Sullivan utilizes quickie materials to good advantage in the matter of technical and scenic effects.

Watt Taking 'Arch' Troupe To Riviera

Paris, Aug. 18.—Nate Watt, assistant to director Lewis Milestone and here with camera unit filming backgrounds for Enterprise's "Arch of Triumph," takes his unit to Cannes tomorrow, for further shooting on French Riviera. Company spent two and a half weeks in capital.

ROACH UPS BUDGET ON 'DOC ROBIN'

Budget on "Who Killed 'Doc' Robin" has been upped from $500,000 to $650,000 and shooting schedule extended from 30 to 45 days by Hal Roach, Jr., executive producer of fourth offering of studio's annual output of 12 feature comedies.

Increased budget is result of public response to "Curley," at sneak-preview of company's first feature. "Robin" is to embrace same group of juve actors, and thought is, according to studio, that with public ready to accept series extra money will be dumped into its making to improve product.

EASTMAN PREEMS 16M KODACHROME FILM FOR INDUSTRY

Eastman-Kodak previewed its new and long-awaited 16m Kodachrome printing film over weekend to trade, and announced that product will be strictly reserved for industry and unavailable to amateurs. Two special demonstrations were necessary to accommodate those desiring look-see at heralded commercial film, known as type 5268, and which assertedly permits considerably greater fidelity to original shooting film.

Company has held up demonstration and release until film was available in quantity. With bottlenecks out of way showings were given at Kodak plant here at 1:30 and 8 p. m. Friday. Those witnessing demonstration declared film as living up to all promises. Consensus was that film is answer to problem of scale and contrast under normal process of printing from original shooting film. Producers, cameramen and duping lab reps witnessed showing.

New film, looked upon as boon to 16m film industry, has been in process of development for several years, and war interrupted research. It will now be released generally, except to tyros, making it possible for producers and distributors to more closely match originals which it is not possible to use for projection.

THE GRAPEVINE: After a two-and-one-half-week shutdown, ''Possessed'' will start rolling again at Warners today. Joan Crawford insisted on a replacement for cameraman Sid Hickox. Other lensers on the lot did a burn, so the studio went borrowing from the Skirball-Manning unit at Universal, with which Miss Crawford has an oral agreement to do two pictures. Result: Joe Valentine and his crew move onto the ''Possessed'' set today to finish the picture . . . Clifford Odets has been working for six months at Metro under a writer-director ticket, but the studio is still keeping it a secret . . . Nick Stuart, silent star and ex-husband of Sue Carol, is now an ork leader and emcee at the Last Frontier in Las Vegas . . . Richard Haydn, droll fellow, will be exceedingly busy today. This morning he plays Joseph in ''The Emperor Waltz.'' This afternoon he hightails it from Paramount to 20th-Fox where he will give away the bride in a scene for ''The Late George Apley.'' Then, about tea-time, he commutes to another 20th soundstage to make Technicolor tests for ''Forever Amber,'' in which he will play the Earl of Radclyffe . . . Arthur Little Jr.'s bride American Airlined it to New York yesterday four days after her wedding day. Urgent business, not a marital bustup, was the reason . . . Ella Raines and Ricardo Cortez are being sought by the Shuberts for leads in the Steve Fisher play, ''Winter Kill,'' on Broadway this fall.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Newest yearning for the footlights, which is sprouting little theatre movements from the foothills to the sea, arose in the gilded precincts of Malibu. In a miniature theatre erected on Warner Baxter's tennis court a series of one-acters will be presented for three nights, Aug. 30-Sept. 1. There'll be 200 seats at two bucks a throw. Bob Walker is directing and acting in ''The Man in the Bowler Hat'' with Jim Warren, Doug Fowley and Betty Prinz. Brian Donlevy and Ed Marin will direct a couple other one-actors, and that old standby, ''If Men Played Cards as Women Do,'' will have Gregory Ratoff and Warner Baxter in its cast . . . As a direct result of the grosses being piled up by ''Night and Day'' and his job of direction on ''Life with Father,'' Mike Curtiz has been rewarded with a new suite of offices at Warners . . . Wild Life note: Nat James is heading for the High Sierras on his vacation from the RKO flackery . . . Cecil B. DeMille, glorifier of the American bath, is going primitive—in ''Unconquered'' Paulette Goddard takes a bath in a barrel . . . Shades of the Old Palace: Billy House and his wife, Harriett, and the singing team of Dickerson and Deagan—both top-billers in the old days—on the set of RKO's ''Trail Street'' . . . Among the bills waiting for a certain maestro when he returns to town is that of his press agent, who helped put him on a top shelf . . . Spotted at the Santa Barbara Biltmore were the James K. McGuinnesses, the Alex Kempners, the Ernie Orsattis, Vic Orsatti, Edmund Goulding, Dudley Field Malone and Eddie Hillman.

CALL SHEET: ARTHUR TREACHER, long cast in butler parts and now swearing he'll never play a butler again, is victim of a gag in Mike Fessier and Ernie Pagano's ''Flame of Tripoli'' at Universal. The two producers brought a butler's tray on the set and any time Treacher blows his lines someone proffers the tray and asks if ''this will help'' . . . MARLENE DIETRICH'S first request to Paramount on arriving for ''Golden Earrings'' was to see her co-star, Ray Milland, in ''The Lost Weekend.'' Studio ran it off for her in a projection room over the weekend . . . THE PLAINSMEN were cited by the Western Music Association for recording 132 western songs in the past year . . . ROBERT RYAN, RKO leading man, has netted $500 in royalties this summer on the play, ''Rocky,'' which he wrote 10 years ago while at Dartmouth. Play is showing at summer stock theatres in the east . . . ROBERT BASSLER received 12,500 feet of film shot at London and Buenos Aires racetracks for incorporation in his 20th-Fox production, ''The Homestretch'' . . . LINA ROMAY is vacationing at Arrowhead . . . FRANK MORGAN says that Senator Claghorn probably refuses to sail in anything but a yawl, nautical for you-all . . . RODDY McDOWALL'S dachsund, Pullman, grieved over Roddy's absence on a p.a. tour, refused to eat, and finally had to be shipped to Akron, O., to join him.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Al Green, who's been a director since Hollywood was merely the end of a streetcar line, packs a b.o. punch in his baton. Before directing ''The Jolson Story,'' which looks like a bonanza for Columbia, he piloted ''Mr. Winkle Goes to War,'' ''A Thousand and One Nights'' and ''Tars and Spars.'' Now he's directing ''The Fabulous Dorseys'' . . . Eagle-Lion producer Albert J. Cohen and writers Polk and Lenoir and Francis Rosenwald, working on the script of ''Mattewan,'' based on the NY hospital for the criminally insane, ended a weekend star at California's state hospital for the insane at Norwalk. Cohen says Norwalk is somewhat different than Hollywood. It's air-conditioned . . . Off the lots: Our Doc Baker reports spotting Harry James and Betty Grable, Bob Leonard and Sid Grauman at Del Mar Saturday. Thornton Delehanty tossed a dinner at the Beverly Hills Club for Edwin Balmer, editor of Redbook, and Mrs. Balmer. Ingrid Bergman alone at the Bar of Music. Carmen Miranda, Tommy Breen and Marie McDonald at Ciro's. Jane Greer and Frank Schultz, the Bud Abbotts at Lyons' English Grill in Sherman Oaks. Peter Arno at The Kings . . . Jack Cole, Columbia dance director, will head for a NY vacation . . . George Curtner and Louis Hayward plan to open their restaurant, the Chanteclair, Sept. 18 . . . Preston Sturges and Harold Lloyd conferred over the weekend on the possibility of making a sequel to ''The Sin of Harold Diddlebock'' . . . Overheard in Ciro's: ''If he takes another drink, we can call him a man of extinction.''—D.D.T.

A new wire recorder, which registers the most minute reactions of a theatre audience, was recently constructed for the use of Eddie Sutherland and Bing Crosby and had its first and very successful demonstration at the recent sneak preview in San Francisco of ''Abie's Irish Rose,'' which Sutherland produced and directed for Bing Crosby Producers, Inc.

This recorder, which is operated in the projection booth, picks up every laugh and every other emotion displayed by an audience, and, like the film itself, may be run over and over again.

The invention, which consists of about two miles of wire on a spool, was the idea of Dr. S. J. Begun. It will be placed on the market, but that will not be for at least six months.

Mulvey, Aides Here For Goldwyn Huddle

James A. Mulvey, prexy of Samuel Goldwyn Productions, headed a group of company toppers into town over the weekend. Contingent, here for conferences with Samuel Goldwyn, include Alfred Crown, in charge of South American sales; Arthur Sachson, sales manager; Sylvan Oestreicher, tax adviser; Miriam Howell, eastern head of production; Bernard Smith, eastern story head, and Betty Goldsmith, Mulvey's secretary.

LESLIE SUES WB; CLAIMS MALICE IN 'UNDERBILLING'

Joan Leslie renewed her battle with the Warner Bros. over the weekend when actress filed suit in federal court against the studio for a total of $2,725,000 in a controversy over her billing in the film, "Two Guys From Milwaukee."

Actress recently won a court battle breaking an acting contract at Warners, which she signed when she was 17 years old. In her complaint for libel, injunction and other relief, actress charges that studio changed her billing in her last film from a star to a featured player. She charged that change was due to "malice and ill-will" on the part of the studio after she won her contract-breaking suit.

In addition to the financial damages, actress asked for an injunction, restraining studio from exhibiting the picture unless they restore her billing to co-star with Dennis Morgan and Jack Carson.

Powley Leaves H'd on Tour of Radio Locals

IA Heads New Council

Spearheaded by the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, a drive was launched over the weekend to create a new council of motion picture unions. Projected organization, to be known as the Motion Picture Studio Council of the Los Angeles Central Labor Council, would work within the framework of the latter labor setup. At the preliminary meeting, called to work out a formal resolution of the program for submission to the Central Labor Council, were reps of the IATSE, Screen Actors Guild, Screen Extras Guild, Teamsters, Studio Utility Employes, Studio Plasterers, and the Culinary Alliance. Program, in form of a resolution, has been sent to the International union offices of the respective locals and the Central Labor Council for approval.

DESIGNERS ASK 35% TILT

sents a sharp drop from designers' recent wage demands.

Development followed two-and-a-half hour meeting at the Beverly Hills Hotel between producers' labor committee and reps of all studio unions. Meet marked the second time in history of the industry that all union elements were called together in a producer attempt to end deadlock on wage dispute. B. B. Kahane, chairman of the producers' labor committee, sounded a warning in the face of continued threats of strike by the set designers.

STUDIOS MIGHT CEASE

"They (Screen Set Designers) threaten a strike," Kahane told the assembled unionists, "and if they establish picket lines and other crafts support them in the strike, the result might well be that the studios will be forced to close down, throwing thousands of workers out of their jobs."

Background of current Set Designer-producer dispute is difference in interpretation of the provisions of the July 2 strike settlement, which ended in a 25 per cent wage increase. The Set Designers, through business agent Edward Gilbert, claim the 25 per cent increase was only an interim measure and was in effect for only 30 days under terms of the settlement, and during which time the producers were to have negotiated new deal to cover "basic inequities."

112 PER CENT INCREASE

At the weekend meeting, Gilbert asked for an increase in Set Designers hourly wage from $2.36 an hour to $5.00, a wage increase, producers pointed out, of 112 per cent. In addition, the Set Designers demanded inequities in wages for supervisory personnel be adjusted upwards.

Producers stand was that their understanding of the July 2 settlement and interpretation of an inequity was that the latter meant adjustment for certain individuals or classifications within a union. The producers, it was further learned, claim that inequities should be adjusted by means of negotiations between themselves and the individual locals. Kahane pointed out that if the Set Designers were granted a 112 per cent wage hike, producers would be obliged to give same percentage of increase to other unions.

BREWER BACKS PRODS

IATSE international rep Roy Brewer, was reported as saying that if exception was made of Set Designers, he was quite sure some of his unions would take up same issue of wage increase based on inequities. Herbert K. Sorrell, prexy of the Conference of Studio Unions, supported Gilbert's stand during the hot debate.

Robert Montgomery, president-elect of the Screen Actors Guild, was reported in agreement with the producers' interpretation of terms of the July 2 strike settlement. Acting to avoid complete breakdown of negotiations, Montgomery asked Gilbert to draw up a compromise wage proposal. This was agreed upon and resulted in call for this afternoon's producer-Set Designer parley.

'CAESAR' SURPRISE SMASH IN BOFFO CHI WEEK

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Terrific first week biz at rejuvenated RKO Grand Theatre where "Caesar and Cleopatra," first run film to play the house under new Class A classification is big film news here, particularly considering the fact that pic shown is a British product. Midnight shows and a 95 cent top from noon on boosted the week's take to a sock $34,000. "Two Sisters From Boston," with Tex Beneke-Glenn Miller orch on stage in second week doing a robust $7000 at the Oriental, while "Well Groomed Bride," with Desi Arnaz orch on stage at Chicago registered a lusty $64,000. "Henry the Fifth" at the Civic Theatre with a $2.40 top, twice a day run, is turning them away with a smash $18,000.

NEW L.A. INDIE IN SIGHT; MURCHISON GETS NOD FROM FCC

New indie station looms for Los Angeles with Federal Communications Commission accepting for filing application of Hugh R. Murchison's application via new Coast Radio Broadcasting Corp. Capitalized at $200,000, outfit is asking for 5,000 watt station on 1540 band and daytime operation. Pitch is being made on grounds that existing 12 indies have failed properly to serve community and promote southern California. Latter is avowed intention of newcomer.

Coincident with above, announcement has also been made of withdrawal from scene of Carroll Hauser and Oscar Kelly who had asked for new 5,000-watter in Santa Ana, and which it was intended to build to a 50,000 watt clear channel station—come channel breakdown day. Exit of Kelly-Hauser combo also made for cancellation of hearing on objections to licensing of proposed station on 830 kilocycle band. KWKW and KIEV were objectors now withdrawn.

Vernon Story, now with Press Wireless in San Francisco, will be associated with investment banker Murchison and group of others in proposed new L.A. station.

FCC has also approved application of J. F. Tighe, of Porterville, Cal., for new station. Station will operate on 1450 band with 250 watts, unlimited.

Sale of KXO, El Centro, for $65,000, by Valradio, Inc., to Paul and Edith Jenkins, Kenneth Thornton, Imperial Valley Publishing Co., and Belle and Harry Hovey, was okayed by FCC.

'OUTLAW' ENDS STEEL PIER RUN

Atlantic City, Aug. 18.—Howard Hughes production, "The Outlaw," and Jane Russell, firm's star, moved out of Steel Pier here yesterday, after a three-week appearance. Leon Leonard, city solicitor, however, served notice on District Court Judge George T. Naame, representing Pier, that he will ask Vice-Chancellor Albert S. Woodruff in Camden tomorrow to dismiss a temporary restraining order which has stopped local officials from halting picture.

Naame secured injunction the day before picture opened, three weeks ago, for a two-week run. Film was held over for an added week, as was Miss Russell.

Leonard's notice says that he has petitioned the court to dismiss the restraining order because it is "excessive and illegal."

LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

It's the chief topic of conversation wherever radio people gather, and well it may be, for its implications are broad and sweeping. What else could we be talking about but the Crosby-Philco waltz-me-around-again Willie. What appears on the surface is only a ripple in the stream. Below surges a current of highly-charged speculation, and in some quarters, dire apprehension. The whole structure of network radio may be shaken or solidified by der Bingle and the Philco's of Philly. If the canned show cracks a high Hooper, NBC and CBS will have cause for furrowed brows and sleepless nights. Should the wax works fall below the control figure of 12, another noble experiment will have gone the way of Sweeney and the big nets can kick up their heels. But it won't be passed off so lightly, this revoltin' development in high brass circles.

Bluntly put, two big shows are pitted against Crosby-Philco ("nine o'clock is Philco time") in the eastern time zone, which accounts for 43 per cent of the national Hooper rating. NBC has "Duffy's Tavern" to worry about and Frank Sinatra is on the opposite CBS shore, i.e., the Groan versus the Swoon. Will the two big nets take it in lying-down complacency? That one just about answers itself. The portents are ominous. Let's say that Crosby lands in the 20's on his first Hooperating. That would give ideas to some of the big names on NBC and CBS, who would much rather do it Bing's way than their own if they could get away with it. Now that The Groaner has broken the ice the others can paddle through and by now must be flexing their oar muscles.

What are the big nets going to do about it? Well, they can campaign like mad for their own 9 o'clock EDT shows and fight fire with fire via time, space, billboards and skywriting. Philco's plan is to plaster the country with every known advertising media to keep the drums beating for Crosby & Co. That Crosby will keep well ahead of 12 is practically assured by the Wednesday night potential, which is around 40. To be sure he's on ABC and a record jockey's delight but he's also Crosby and that's the straw in the brick. They found Winchell on ABC, didn't they? That slogan, "nine o'clock is Philco time with Bing Crosby," will be pounded so hard and often that Geo. Washington Hill's LS/MFT earache will pale by comparison.

Although the figure of $30,000 has been widely publicized as Bing's weekly take on his package deal (Crosby Enterprises) it is likely he'll go well beyond that. Contract calls for $24,000 weekly on 325 stations. For each transmitter added he is to be paid a bonus and if Philco goes through with its announced plan of using 600 stations, two-thirds of the nation's total, his paycheck will be closer to $35,000. Another moot point in the contract was the "stop" figure, finally compromised at a Hooperated 12. Should he at any time fail to reach that figure, either party has the privilege within the ensuing 26 weeks of either cancellation or abandoning discs for live broadcasts.

Now that Crosby is safely in the Philco fold, several "now-it-can-be-told" stories in connection with other deals have cropped out. Collapse of the General Motors negotiations can be traced to the counterpart of too many cooks spoiling the broth. Contracts were switched so often that Bing in his bewilderment cooled on the deal. Meanwhile, Philco's James Carmine sneaked into town, talked to Crosby, got his terms and took them back to his board of directors. It was done that easy and that fast. GM's proposal was $30,000 live or $22,500 on wax but too many people waved too many different contracts at The Groaner. Reynolds pen deal went sour because Bing didn't approve of their publicity methods. When a Reynolds negotiator told of having pictures taken of Bing sitting atop a giant eight-foot pen, he bowed off with, "I don't want to work for that kind of an outfit."

Station breaks . . . There's a good chance that Hildegarde will be signed by Campbell soup by the time you read this. It would go into the Sunday night spot opposite Walter Winchell and replace "Corliss Archer." Which reminds us of a crack by Jim Doane that "no one is going to stir my soup with a ladle 3,000 miles long." Meaning, of course, the interference of the Camden crowd with scripts and production . . . Is the show Foote, Cone & Belding has in the works for General Motors? . . . Ruth Arnold will forget about Hooperatings for the next two weeks and loll in luxurious ease at her beach house . . . Bernie Milligan dissolves his six-year partnership with Coy Williams in the Earle Ferris Hollywood operation Aug. 31. Milligan continues to represent Ferris clients here in addition to his own list while Williams branches off as an independent publicist . . . In Cam Shipp's story on Bill Burton and Dick Haymes in Esquire, his time breakdown on the radio show gives "only four minutes" to commercials. Just try and get away with more than three minutes on a half hour show . . . Joe Stauffer takes Glenhall Taylor east Saturday to meet the Ayer brass in New York and Philly . . . King of England has conferred on Tom Lewis the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire for "exceptional meritorious service" while commanding officer of Armed Forces Radio Service . . . Phil Cohan and Mann Holiner back from their Canadian vacations . . . There's a sale brewing for Frances Scully's "Hollywood and Vine" . . . Bette Davis leads off Gresta Blanca's new dramatic series Sept. 3 in an original . . . Lester Gottlieb gets in today to help set up the Ginny Simms show for Young & Rubicam . . . NBC's sports authority, Jack Lightcap, takes up his stand here to do "Sports Recap" five times a week (KFI, 10:15 p.m.). He was aide to Bill Stern back east . . . Death of Henry Orbach, former ABC director of news and special events here, came as a shock to those who knew him.

3 MAJOR NETS OKAY RADIO DIRECTORS CONTRACT PARLEY

Three major nets have replied to contract demands of Radio Directors Guild, indicating willingness to negotiate initial agreement with relatively new group. However, National Broadcasting Co. has expressed itself as unwilling to enter into joint negotiations along with Columbia Broadcasting System and American Broadcasting Co.

Letters of acceptance of invitation to meet with union reps have been received by RDG, and NBC, through Sid Strotz, veepee, has suggested Sept. 4 as likely date to start what, to date, has been cordial relationship. Other two, including KECA (ABC outlet) as separate unit, have agreed to group talks. RDG will reply, accepting NBC's proposition, and will ask others to set up mutually agreeable date for discussion of demands. Only condition asked by nets is that proof of claimed majority be shown. Guild will furnish same in replying to letters this week.

Skirball-Manning Inks Henry Fonda

Henry Fonda was signed over the weekend to star in Skirball-Manning's "Appointment in Samara." John O'Hara story was purchased for $100,000 by Skirball-Manning and will be the third of five top budgeters outfit is committed to do for Universal-International. Second, "The Magnificent Doll," has just been completed.

Wilde As Turpin

Cornel Wilde has been set for title role in 20th-Fox's "Dick Turpin," based on life of English bandit. Picture will follow Wilde's appearance in "Forever Amber." Late Tom Mix originally made picture for William Fox company in middle 20's, as a silent.

COURT RULES FOR KRASNA IN COL 'DEAR RUTH' SUIT

Columbia lost its plagiarism suit against Norman Krasna over the weekend in New York when the court ruled that Krasna's "Dear Ruth" was "wholly unlike that of the story 'Dear Mr. Private'," latter an unpublished yarn owned by the studio. Columbia had sought an injunction, damages and an accounting of profits on the Krasna play, which is being filmed by Paramount.

In rendering the decision in favor of Krasna, Judge Samuel Null stated: "There was no direct proof that Krasna ever saw or heard the plaintiff's work, or any part of it. Whether read in its entirety or subjected to detailed examination, the play ("Dear Ruth") contains no such similarities to warrant the reaction that it was a copy in whole or in part of the plaintiff's story ("Dear Mr. Private")."

Dear Eddie:

It is with great pleasure and pride that we represent you in show business. No artist of our time has achieved a greater measure of success than has blessed your great career.

Your recent week's engagement at the Milwaukee "Centurama" has grossed $92,884. — not only a new record — but a new all-time high for two-a-day performances.

This is phenomenal business and due to your great showmanship. However, breaking records is not new in your career. Over a period of years your name has been synonymous with box-office success.

It is a further expression of the esteem and affection that is held for you by the public. We congratulate you.

Present scale in the major studios is $13.30 per hour. Union is also asking that certain of the indies, making two or more pictures a year,

FILM DIVVIES SOARING

Washington, Aug. 19.—Dividends paid by motion picture companies for the second quarter ending June 30 almost doubled those for the same period last year. The total for the three months was $9,043,000. Large part of the increase was due to a $2,000,000 melon by Warners in April.

SUIT LOOMS IN SCOPHONY DEAL

Washington, Aug. 19. — Despite the huddles in New York last week end on the proposed Scophony consent decree the issue is not yet cleared up and the Justice Department is continuing preparation for a court suit just in case the deal falls through.

While considerable progress was made and the Government drew closer together with the various parties interested in the Scophony process there are still some points in disagreement, it was learned today. Unless these are straightened out Joseph Borkin, handling the case for the Anti-Trust Division will go to court in the matter.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Dorsey brothers have been signed to ballroom operators dream contract—whereby bands of Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey will play together for dancers at Casino Gardens, Ocean Park, owned by Tommy. In what probably amounts to ballroom deal of all time, Jimmy goes into Casino, following Woody Herman, tomorrow night. Tommy will follow in mid-September, probably Sept. 10, after Jimmy has been playing two weeks. Pair will then double-barrel it for two weeks. Marks first time Dorseys have entered such an agreement, or that two top flight bands, particularly so situated, have worked such contract. Probably also means complete end to longtime feud between freres or, perhaps, start of fresh one.

PREXY of KMPC, G. A. Richards, and Robert O. Reynolds, v-p and g.m., leave today for east. Celebrating 10th anniversary of their meeting, pair have embarked on visit to sister stations, WJR, Detroit, and WGAR, Cleveland, where general meeting of managements of trio of stations will be held to set overall policy and operations. Meet will be held in Detroit, Aug. 24. With KMPC here having been recently okayed by FCC for power hike to 50,000 watts, and WGAR being expectant of approval for same boost, meeting was called to align operations, particularly in relation to sales promotion, publicity, merchandising and advertising. As near as is possible stations will be operationally aligned, however certain limitations must be placed on indie operating KMPC in view of Columbia Broadcasting System affiliations of other two Richards stations. Reynolds will return here August 28.

FOX-WEST COAST denies renewed interest in television and along with it report that a new hill had been recently purchased near Mt. Wilson from which any such activity would originate. F-WC execs have always been split on advisability of getting into video. Though Charles P. Skouras was personally for it, and finally did apply, chain dropped out about same time others here did and presumably for same reasons—color. Some wanted to be sure to miss nothing or any bets by getting in on ground floor. Others held that circuit should stay in its own business of exhibition and effect possible tieups with those in video. However, despite denials rumor persists that new chunk of real estate has been purchased as an ace in hole.

TAKING new tack, Paramount has switched advertising and promotion campaign on "To Each His Own" from class approach to livelier slant accenting sex and other sensational angles. Picture hasn't been drawing with sugared ads. So, instead of continuing to give it ooh-la-la treatment in attempt at building it to Academy Award status, ads are being pepped and dignity dropped in favor of better box office.

BY mutual agreement, local radio stations have turned thumbs down on cooperating with Hollywood Independent Citizens Committee of Arts, Sciences and Professions. As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The Yugoslavian incident will not start a war as the shooting in that part of the country, Serbia, started World War I, but it is illustrative of what can happen in our relations with other Communist-dominated countries, and even with the Soviet, in these tense times. The propaganda the people get in these countries against the United States, the way their nationalistic ambitions are intensified, is pretty heady stuff. It's like giving them fire-water, making them trigger happy about Americans, yet expecting that with weapons in their hands, they would not fire on Americans when the opportunity arose. Trieste has been used to arouse a nationalism to obscure the absence of freedoms and to serve as a springboard for attacks on capitalism. The Yugoslav incident is serious, but only in the potentialities of its extension. We'll weather it, but we've come into a period when storms are more frequent.

'Centennial,' 'Bascomb' Up First Runs Week to $390G

Heading for the biggest week locally since the heat wave set, 28 Los Angeles area first run and move-over houses estimate gross take of $390,500 on the current stanza. Advent of two heavy drawing bills hypoed the lagging heatstruck boxoffice, "Centennial Summer" and "Bad Bascomb" being two toppers. "Summer" at Chinese, Loew's State and Uptown looms as catching $75,000 on first frame. "Boscomb" at Belmont, Egyptian, Los Angeles and Wilshire should cop a nifty $66,800 for its initial stretch.

"Tarzan and the Leopard Woman" and "Deadline at Dawn" at the Pantages and RKO Hillstreet will garner a so-so $32,000. "In Old Sacramento" and "My Pal Trigger" will do only a slow $28,000 at the two Paramounts, even aided by personals of films' stars over the weekend.

Among the holdovers "Night and Day" is scoring glorious $55,000 for its third stretch at the Warners' Downtown, Hollywood and Wiltern. Another leader in the stickarounds is "Night in Casablanca." Latter sights nifty $28,500 for four Music Halls.

"Sugar Chile" Robinson and sepia stage show at the Million Dollar is credited with sweet $35,000 for current week, with "French Key" on the silversheet. "Black Angel" and "Wild Beauty" holding down positions at Guild, Ritz and United Artists will come off only with $28,600 for starting frame.

PHILCO STUDYING CROSBY SERIES SPOT

New York, Aug. 19.—No decision will be reached for several days by Philco as to where to spot the Bing Crosby recorded series. Huddles were scheduled yesterday with Mark Woods, prez of ABC, but Philco asked more time to study the situation. Woods is holding out for the 9 p.m. Wednesday time with the 7:30 slot on Sunday being vacated by "Quizz Kids," as alternate choice. James Carmine, v.p. of Philco, who swung the Crosby deal, is also talking to Ed Kobak, prexy of Mutual, and it is reported he is still anxious to see if NBC and CBS will lower the barriers on transcribed shows across the network. No decision on the definite time is expected for several days.

Mestanza Aide Here On Distrib Biz

'STATE OF THE UNION' GETS HIGH PRAISE

Music Corp. of America picks very few duds in which to invest effort or money. "State of the Union,' 'a delightful theatrical affair, which opened very successfully last night at the Biltmore is definitely not one of its few errors. Second company or no, it's a piece of genuine entertainment that augurs a buzzing b.o. for slated five-week tenancy.

In every sense it's theatre. Despite that, it's also commercial in its mass and class appeal. It humanly and humorously treats soap box, soapy politics and supremely important economic questions in a palatable and highly entertaining seriocomic manner.

Both story and players are as fresh and refreshing as the current newspaper. Conrad Nagel, Irene Hervey and Henry O'Neill, give fine, believable performances, ably aided by Leona Maricle, Forrest Orr and Patrick McVey. Casting generally was no accident, nor do there appear to be any of politics therein so well lampooned in script. Sets are tasteful and utilitarian. Nothing more or less, on whole, could be expected—or accepted—from authors Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse, and producer Leland Hayward. They have pieced and paced a really live play.

Beauchamp To Stay On With Lesser

Clem Beauchamp, production manager for Sol Lesser on "No Trespassing," continues with the organization in same capacity on "Tarzan and the Huntress" which starts filming next month. Beauchamp was signed yesterday by Barney Briskin, studio chief for Lesser.

THE GRAPEVINE: Rising young thrush let herself in for a load of misery when she copped the reviews from a prima donna in a recent legit offering in town. Latter gave her the business onstage, until she was almost upstaged through the scenery. Payoff was a party the prima donna gave backstage on closing night. She invited the entire company, except for the newcomer . . . Initial sneak preview on Paramount's "Welcome Stranger" indicates to studio execs they may have as big a hit with the second Bing Crosby-Barry Fitzgerald co-starrer as they did with the first, a little item entitled "Going My Way" . . . Danny Kaye takes off on his first p.a. tour in five years when "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" is completed . . . Guido Salmaggi, son of NY matestro Alfredo Salmaggi, is in town for a film career . . . Jessie Royce Landis was set for a choice role in "The Wayfarers" and she was tearful when it was taken off the schedule by Paramount. But an hour later she received a wire from Mike Todd offering her a starring role on Broadway . . . Zachary Scott's birthday present to his wife was a pair of sunglasses—with gold frames . . . Flock of caterers descended on Paramount yesterday. Bob Hope's brother, Fred, Cleveland provision merchant, told them to look up Bob when they reached Hollywood. So they appeared in force at the Paramount gate, and Hope's staff showed them around the lot.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Here's a house-hunting epic out of Mother Goose. Wife of Charlie Rhodes, Fawcett photog, was walking her dog. Dog chased cat and Mrs. Rhodes chased dog. Pursuit led to a man posting a "For rent" sign on the lawn. Mrs. Rhodes persuaded him to delay posting the sign until she could get to the phone. On the other end of the phone was Barney Oldfield, the Warner flack, who is no longer homeless. "I was so grateful," Barney said, "that I bought the dog a pound of beefsteak. And if the cat shows up there's a saucer of milk in it for her!" . . . Frances Gifford must feel sometimes that the days of the silents have returned. She is co-starring in "The Arnelo Affair," but Arch Oboler, writing and directing the Metro film, provided only two pages of dialogue—about 500 words—throughout for her. And she's in 96 per cent of the scenes. Oboler's idea is to tell as much of the story as possible through the facial expression of Miss Gifford . . . Frances Ramsden, who plays the femme lead in Preston Sturges' "The Sin of Harold Diddlebock," almost drowned Sunday when she was stricken with cramps while swimming off Emerald Cove, Catalina. She was rescued by Sturges' secretary, Caroline Wedderburn, and hospitalized in Long Beach . . . Toothsome note: Dorothy Lamour's six-month-old son has cut his first tusk . . . Joe Lilley, Paramount arranger and composer, dashed off music and lyrics for "Don't Tell Me That Story" in 12 minutes and they say it's headed for the hit class. Of course, that was a press agent holding the stopwatch.

CALL SHEET: ROY ROGERS had an impacted wisdom tooth yanked, appeared before Republic cameras for a special trailer and made local personal appearances with "My Pal Trigger," all in 24 hours . . . LARRY ADLER will preem the special arrangement of "Rhapsody in Blue" by Robert Russell Bennett at Hollywood Bowl Labor Day . . . ANN DVORAK has turned down the offer to co-star in a Canadian film with Paul Lukas and Helmut Dantine . . . RICHARD WEBB turns light comedian in the Paramount Technicolor shot, "Sweet and Low" . . . PETRILLO HURLS DEMAND AT INDIES carry a full orchestra on salary throughout the year. This provision applies in major studios now.

Independents are squawking loudly at the proposal, some of them insisting that the terms, if met, would put the small quickie companies and other outfits making only one or two pix a year out of business.

They pointed out that for a two-picture a year company to keep a full orchestra on salary demanded would make picture budgets prohibitive. For the majors, putting out more pictures, the added cost per picture is not so serious.

Independent producers also voiced fear that if Musicians can put over their full time orchestra demand other studio crafts will press for similar arrangement, requiring full time crews of electricians, carpenters, painters, set decorators, etc., for companies making two or more pictures yearly.

Union will deal with Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers in negotiating contract for indies.

Forced resignation of Don Manchester as veepee in the Chicago office of Foote, Cone & Belding may give rise to many erroneous interpretations so to keep the record straight here's the not-so-sweet and lowdown from high up in the brass section. Break came after months of friction and Fax Cone made the final decision. Although Manchester was account exec on Frigidaire, division of General Motors, he had no part in the Bing Crosby-GM negotiations, therefore couldn't be made the scapegoat because the deal went sour. No subsequent partnership with Cone, as reported months ago, will eventuate, and none of the accounts handled by Manchester will leave FCB, according to informed sources. He was also agency exec on the Hiram Walker account.

FCB's proposed daytime stripper for Armour is contingent on OPA controls. Should ceilings on meat prices be restored, radio project will be abandoned. If the sky's the limit on poke chops, negotiations will be resumed with Al Pearce, who has completely recovered from his recent illness.

The capture of little Fernando Bohigas' kidnappers was front page news for several days. The boy had been stolen by a childless woman obsessed with the idea of being at least a foster mother. For months Fernando remained lost while the police department continued search, until the child was finally rescued and the kidnapper sent to the penitentiary.

The Rodriguez brothers hurriedly signed contract with Fernando's parents and a quick script based on actual story was whipped into shape. "Ya Tengo a mi Hijo" is the result. Little Fernando Bohigas plays role as in real life, Isabella Corona portrays the kidnapper and Blanca de Castejon the mother. Ismael Rodriguez directed and the picture is ready for release.

Producers Pay Tribute to Trem Carr's Memory

Tribute to Trem Carr was paid yesterday in resolutions adopted by the Independent Motion Picture Producers' Association and the Association of Motion Picture Producers.

Latter's board of directors resolved:

"WHEREAS, Trem Carr was for twenty four years a vital force for progress in the motion picture industry, and during that time universally was recognized and respected as a leader who devoted himself to the best interests of the industry, and consistently reflected credit on the industry; and

"WHEREAS, he was held in deep affection by his friends and fellow-workers, because of his unfailing kindness and fairness; and

"WHEREAS, he was active in charitable and patriotic functions of the industry, serving on the Permanent Charities Committee and the War Activities Committee; and

"WHEREAS, his death is a severe loss to the entire industry;

"NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: That the Board of Directors of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, Inc., individually and on behalf of the Association, do hereby express their deep regret at the death of Trem Carr, and their sincere sympathy to his family; and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to his family, and a copy entered in the minutes of this Association."

At a special meeting of the Independent Motion Picture Producers, it was resolved:

"Whereas, it has been ordained by the Almighty Creator to take from our midst our great and good friend Trem Carr who during the past fifteen years has been ont of our charter members, has served us as president, director and chairman of the board, has faithfully and with wise counsel served us and the motion picture industry as a member of the War Activities Committee, Permanent Charities Committee and other industry and civic enterprises. ing for a 35 per cent wage increase for decorators and a 45 per cent pay hike for local's other classifications, principally illustrators, designers and model builders. Proposal, it was learned, was turned down by producers' labor committee headed by B. B. Kahane.

Producers, in turn, offered a counter-proposal which was reported to include a formula which recognizes some of the union's claims to wage inequities. Ed Gilbert, designers' business rep, stated that producers' proposal represented a definite progress in negotiations.

Understood new producer proposal would recognize abler and more experienced workers in studio art departments and would create a special classification whereby these workers would receive increases over the 25 per cent wage increase granted at the July 2 strike settlement. Producers' new wage proposal will be studied by union's negotiating committee before scheduling another meeting with the producers. Following the next union-producer meeting, the producer wage plan will be submitted to local's membership.

decision was to continue production of "B's" pending sales tests of next few months.

Participating in the discussion and decision were Jack and Harry Cohn, Abe Montague, general sales manager; Abe Schneider, treasurer; John McConville, foreign sales head and Leo Jaffe, assistant to Schneider. It was not learned whether Ben Zeidman, in charge of studio's "B" product, was at the meetings. It was further learned that Universal's decision to discard "B" product and Republic's threat to do likewise unless exhibs paid more for the product loomed prominently in the discussion of the program.

Columbia's "B" program for the 1946-47 season called for around 30 low-budgeters. Whether all will be made depends on their sale in competitive bidding. Group of seven producers are turning out the product under executive supervision of Zeidman. They are Ted Richmond, William Bloom, Colbert Clark, Sanford Cummings, John Haggott, Wallace MacDonald and Rudolph Flothow, who produces the Darmour units "Crime Doctor," and "The Whistler" series. In addition, Sam Katzman's indie unit releases its low-budget product through Columbia.

BAN ON 'OUTLAW' RESTORED AS STEEL PIER RUN ENDS

Atlantic City, Aug. 19.—A temporary restraining order against the city of Atlantic City, prohibiting the resort from interfering with showing of "The Outlaw," today was dissolved by Vice Chancellor Albert S. Woodruff. The picture and Jane Russell in p.a. finished a three-week run on the Steel Pier Saturday.

Woodruff said he had sent a special master in Chancery to see the picture and report back to him and that the master had stated it was a "third class picture made into a moneymaker by expert publicity." The vice chancellor said he doubted the authority of the city to arrest anyone in connection with showing of the film.

The Pier was reported to have paid United Artists $15,000 a week for the film plus 50 per cent of the gross above $117,000.

FCC CALLS HUGHES HEARING REPRIEVE AN 'EXCEPTION'

Washington, Aug. 19.—Although FCC has excused Howard Hughes from testifying in behalf of his bid for a Los Angeles television station Commissioner Clifford J. Durr wants it made clear that Hughes has been given "special" treatment. The Alabama commissioner who granted Hughes the reprieve last Friday said that FCC will continue to require personal testimony from the principals as well as the hired hands before approving radio station grants.

Hughes' doctors had refused to let him give bedside testimony to Commissioner Ray C. Wakefield Aug. 9. But the movie magnate assured the FCC he would appear at a later date. FCC decided however that decision on LA video grants would not have to wait for his appearance.

Meanwhile FCC has not granted a similar reprieve to Tommy Lee, owner of the Don Lee Network. Lee has failed to appear at three hearings on his application for LA television on the plea of illness. In each case the attorneys have requested a postponement but told the FCC he would take the stand later.

STUDIO UNIONS

Last Thursday Local 1421 sent invitations to representatives of all studio unions to meet together and to consider how best to negotiate the several inequity problems of the unions and speed up the signing of contracts. The next morning the Producers hurriedly arranged a new meeting with all union representatives who had attended the strike settlement meeting of July 2nd.

The Producers' aim in that meeting was to plead innocence of any violation of the Treaty of Beverly Hills and to embarrass Local 1421 before all the other unions. The Producers did not succeed in doing this. The other unions, too, have experienced delay and evasion and bad faith in their bargaining. The other unions, too, have inequity problems which demand prompt adjustment. The union representatives did not censure 1421 as the Producers hoped they would; only one union spokesman spoke in such a way as to block 1421's negotiations.

The conclusions of the Friday meeting were clear. The Producers had agreed on July 2nd to negotiate wage inequities. They had not yet examined the inequity problems of all the unions and therefore, on July 2nd, did not commit themselves to any specific settlement of this matter. But they did agree that the 25 per cent formula would not fit all cases and a whole list of unions was specified for further adjustment in negotiations. 1421 was one of the locals so specified in the interim agreement. And this written agreement committed the Producers to negotiate a contract with 1421 within the 30 day interim period. By pointing out that the Producers in their counter-proposal had completely ignored 1421's inequity arguments and by showing that the Producers had allowed the interim period to pass without making proposals of any kind to the union, 1421 vindicated its charges that the Producers had violated the Treaty of Beverly Hills.

The Set Designers' purpose, however, is not to engage in a war of charges and counter charges with the Producers but to end the stalling and get contracts signed. It was mutually agreed at the end of last Friday's meeting that 1421 and the Producers would resume wage and hour negotiations on Monday, August 19. As this statement is written the outcome of these continued parleys is not known.

1421 negotiators have entered that meeting prepared to give and take. Their aim is to bargain but to win a proper and acceptable contract. They know that only the insistence and the militancy of the membership of Screen Set Designers, Illustrators and Decorators has brought response in the past and will force a conclusion now. They hope to reach an amicable settlement.

Prepared to fight, the Set Designers were aware that a strike would affect all studio workers and felt that the problems of all might as well be considered at the same time. So 1421 called a conference of all studio unions because the Producers were stalling all the unions and were preparing a brush-off of all inequity claims.

Whatever the outcome of Monday's negotiations 1421 stands ready to cooperate to secure contracts now. An all-union conference is still in order. The time has surely come for us to end the ridiculous bargaining procedure here which allows the employers endless evasion and delay, which permits the Producers to play us against each other to the disadvantage of all, and which keeps the whole industry in constant unrest and turmoil.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

SINCE culmination of the Arnold Pressburger purchase of the Somerset Maugham yarn, "Then and Now" for $200,000, it is now learned that Pressburger wasn't the highest bidder for the property. Another major independent producer is reported to have bid around $300,000 for the yarn. Background of the successful Pressburger deal is that actor George Sanders has been a favorite actor and friend of Maugham's ever since he played in "Moon and Sixpence." When Pressburger first contacted Maugham on purchase of "Then and Now," he indicated he was seeking Sanders to play starring role. Latter was deciding factor in winding sale, although Pressburger wasn't highest bidder for the story property.

"I'VE Always Loved You," produced and directed for Republic by Frank Borzage, is being touted by the studio as something new in motion pictures in that dialogue is synchronized to the musical score just as a song lyric is fitted to tune. Job was done through cooperation of Borden Chase, who did the script, with Musical Director Walter Scharf and Artur Rubenstein, concert pianist. During the shooting of the picture Chase and Borzage checked repeatedly with Scharf and Rubenstein, changing script to meet the requirements of the music. Later, Scharf wrote all scoring and paraphrases to achieve what he terms a "perfect synchronization of moods."

INCREASED use of Trucolor at Republic to hypo its westerns and "B" product is resulting in decreased use of process shots. Process shots can be made in Trucolor but the job is difficult and more expensive than straightaway shooting. Consequently studio is shooting it straight as far as possible. Armand Schaefer's "That's My Gal," just finished shooting with George Blair directing, was done without a single process shot.

Recently, it was put on market again, with Culver lot still interested and Enterprise actively in picture as prospective purchaser.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

One of the features of the report of the Government decontrol board is that it was unanimous and so includes the Republican member of the board, a businessman manufacturer from Ohio. Its statement on the amount of increases on meat, because of the character of the board, can be considered as authoritative—from 20 to 50 per cent retail, and 35 to 80 per cent wholesale. That would be within the experience of most housewives. Although ceilings are restored, it is not likely they will go back all the way to June 30 levels, since the current OPA bill has a higher base, 1940, instead of 1936-39 as under the former bill, and it also provides for the addition of costs since the date. Thus, although meat prices will be reduced, they will be higher than they were. This difference may be sufficient to encourage livestock producers and meat wholesalers to continue to keep a supply of meat on the market, and to discourage the operation of the black market. The board makes the point that we have learned from experience why enforcement of price control failed in the past, and that "the government has at hand adequate techniques to enforce these regulations." Under these circumstances, enforcement should be definite, speedy and hard. Operation of a black market is a black stain upon the people, and a definite injustice to the man who tries to be honest. It should be wiped out without hesitation and with sternness.

In pictures now you see the gals of yore
All weighted down with oldtime bathing suits
And oldtime lads who loped along the shore
Said they were "beauts."

Time ankles by and garb grows less and less,
As in the Autumn when the red leaves fall.
And even gray haired oldsters must confess:
"Not bad at all."

No gal would wear a suit so scant and bold
In modest days way back in Nineteen-Ten,
But even in those simple days of old
They got their men.

Bad news to football and the world of sport in general is the passing of Fielding H. Yost, the Hurry-Up Man of Michigan, who put the sparkplug into an otherwise dull game and made it a Point-a-Minute while Henry Ford was tinkering with a Mile-a-Minute machine on wheels. Yost and Alonzo Stagg were the giants of football in the Midwest in an era when the Big Three was on the skids and did not realize it. It was front page when Yost and Stagg grappled on the gridiron, a tactician and a strategist, each working in his own way and producing a football drama any time the two teams met.

Stagg goes marching on, coaching a small college team, but knowing that practically all the hifalutin stuff the modern coaches pull today was old stuff back in the days when he lined up his Maroons in Marshall Field, which is now more appropriately known as Stagg Field, although Stagg is no longer there and neither is football.

U.S. JUDGE MULLS FILM DECREE FOR CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Federal Judge Michael J. Igoe took under consideration today a decree entered at his request by Thomas C. McConnell, attorney for the Jackson Park Theatre, which if granted would mean the end of the present system of film release in Chicago.

Highlights of the decree are as follows:

1. That a film may not have a run longer than two weeks at a first run (Loop) house.
2. That on subsequent runs the film may not run longer than one week.
3. The "dead' 'time between Loop runs and showings at B theatres (neighborhood) be eliminated.
4. That move-over of films from one Loop house to another Loop house be eliminated.
5. That price fixing be done away with.
6. That double feature programs be eliminated insofar as having two pictures playing at houses owned by the defendants prevents the Jackson Park Theatre from showing one of the A features.

It is expected that defendants in the case will file briefs in reply to the decree when the case comes up for hearing Sept. 9. Defendants are expected to appeal the case to the U.S. Court of Appeals and then to the Supreme Court if necessary.

British Rep Due on Talent Lend Lease

Harry Foster, British agency topper and Wm. Morris office rep in London, is slated to arrive early next week for meetings with Abe Lastfogel, Johnny Hyde and Wm. Morris. Understood discussions will center on two-way lend lease of talent, culminating in closing deals involving big-name players.

Clampett Signs Towsley

Donald Towsley has been inked by Bob Clampett Productions as head animator and starts work at once. Towsley is former head animator on Donald Duck shorts for Disney's. Clampett will release inkers through Republic.

Leary, Holderness

Nolan Leary and Fay Holderness have been signed for featured roles in "Lady Killer" at PRC. Sigmund Neufeld is producing film at Sutherland studios.

NEW PUPPET PIX QUARTER COSTS

New York, Aug. 20.—New company is being formed to make features with puppet characters via new method, slicing current cost of cartoon production to about 25 per cent. Concern is Lou Bunin Productions, and will be headed by Lou and Florence Bunin, developers of puppet technique. Al Margolies will be associated.

First film will be "Alice in Wonderland," with Leopold Stokowski inked as musical director. Negative cost for film in color will be under $500,000. George Schaefer's Equity Capital Corp. may handle financing.

OK 16 Pix for Germany; Prods Ask Raw Stock

New York, Aug. 20.—Sixteen Hollywood features have been okayed by American Military Government for release in Germany during 1946-47, but producers will refuse to supply these pictures until U.S. Government cooperates in making rawstock available, Irving Maas, head of Motion Picture Export Association, revealed here today.

Alternate demand to rawstock is that Government make dollar credits available against blocked marks held by industry in Germany. Same situation applies in Japan.

General Joseph McNarney wants films to reorient Germans. Army has nothing to do with credit or rawstock releases. This is up to State and Treasury Departments.

Pictures approved need dubbing, and all are without violence in action. Okayed are "Lost Angel," "Random Harvest," "Ziegfeld Girl," "Jane Eyre," "Laura," "Keys of the Kingdom," "Sun Valley Serenade," "The Adventures of Mark Twain,' "Gentleman Jim," "You Can't Take It with You," "The Story of Louis Pasteur," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "Union Pacific," "The Great Victor Herbert" "and "Suspicion."

Nassour's First Two Stages to be Completed in 40 Days

First two stages of new Nassour studios, at corner of Sunset and Van Ness, will be completed within next 40 days, Edward Nassour announced yesterday. Five stages and administration building, with shops and other physical departments, are to be encompassed in overall program to cost approximately $2,000,000.

Stages will carry dimensions of 100 by 125 feet each, and are built along most modern engineering lines. Other three stages will be finished by or before next March. New stages will be made available to producers immediately they are completed.

Nassour intends to concentrate on rental of his studio facilities to indie producers, rather than contracting for blanket usage by major companies for their overflow production. Some such commitments will be made, it is understood, but these will be limited to certain number of day's each month, so that indies still can shoot there. Pine-Thomas already occupy offices on lot, and will film their product on lot.

Majors Get Uncle Sam's Ideas On Enforcing Film Decree

Washington, Aug. 20.—A proposed draft of suggestions for policing and implementing the New York motion picture decree has been forwarded to the majors for study by the Justice Department. Draft was prepared by Robert Wright, motion picture specialist of the anti-trust division and is reported to be five pages long. It contains his ideas of what should be done to make the decree—including the single picture selling provisions—work. Attorneys for the big five and little three will study the provisions and then make their own suggestions in the hope that something agreeable to all parties can be worked out. This will not interfere with plans of both sides to appeal the case to the Supreme Court.

Film Toppers Believe Boom Business is Leveling Off

New York, Aug. 20.—While boxoffices reported business still above last year's record peaks, film execs saw a tapering off trend in current figures. Theatre receipts for the first 32 weeks this year, to Aug. 15, averaged 12 per cent better than 1945, while the income from foreign rentals was up 13 per cent. Current theatre grosses are up eight per cent over a year ago, and domestic film rentals increased about five per cent.

Oscar Doob, Lowe circuit exec, saw a weakening of holdover business, however, and Donald Henderson, 20th-Fox treasurer, reports the percentage increase over last year is beginning to taper off.

WB Circuit Reports Biz Up 11% Over Last Year

Survey of Warner Bros. circuit houses shows business currently running 11 per cent better than at this time last year, it was disclosed yesterday. Studio cites as contributing factor new records being established by "Night and Day," big returns from "A Stolen Life" and widespread bally of 20th Anniversary of Talking Pictures. "Night and Day" has been held over 100 per cent in first 300 pay dates. Of these holdovers 40 were in spots where one week was previous maximum playing time. Pictures also played simultaneously in two or more theatres in 15 spots.

'WIZARD OF OZ' PROVES GREEK THEATRE TOPS

By far the most charming and enjoyable production of the Greek theatre season so far, "The Wizard of Oz," now in a two week stand there, needs only the pacing of additional playings to put it into the topflight professional class. Frank Gabrielson's revised book, based on the L. Frank Baum classic, is neither smart alecky nor too topical, but instead keeps all the whimsical warmth of the original fantasy. E. Y. Harburg and Harold Arlen's score, from the Metro film, is still fresh and worth hearing.

Donna Lee O'Leary, as Dorothy, displays a strong voice that delivers best in the upper registers and should place the newcomer among new favorites in her professional bow here. James Westerfield, who directed the piece, also plays the Cowardly Lion with a smattering of Bert Lahr and Brooklyn that gets all the comedy possible from the dialog. George Mann as the Scarecrow and John Pelletti as the Tin Woodman play in the fine tradition of those two sterling characters. William Vedder plays the Wizard as though he were out of the original book, which is credit enough.

Barrie O'Daniels deserves mention for his splendid production as do Kate Drain Lawson for costumes, Norman Rock for settings, and Val Raset for choreography.

Once the Ray Sinatra conducted orchestra picks up its cues more sharply and the second half of the show speeds up, "Oz" will not only be one of the best musical fantasies presented in some time, it will be a likely contender for trouping, if the Hollywood Starlight Theatre Association or anyone else gets traveling rights. It's too good just to be played for two weeks and dropped.

Special credit goes to Joey Preston, juvenile drummer, who turns in a smart routine at the opening of the second act, with Gene Collins, youthful tapterper. Another interpolation was that of a trampoline act, Kreck and Bodo. Heavy juvenile cast of dancers points to gearing of show for moppetrade as well as adults.

300 Day-Date Bows For 'Abie's Rose'

"Abie's Irish Rose" produced and directed by Eddie Sutherland for Bing Crosby Producers, Inc. will be released by United Artists in over 300 theatres simultaneously latter part of November.

Main in Kettle

Marjorie Main will move over from Metro on loanout to Universal-International for role of Ma Kettle in "The Egg and I." Top featured role was assigned to Miss Main after U-I received letters from fans demanding actress be only one selected for the chore.

B. P. Schulberg, pioneer film production and exploitation exec, yesterday was signed by Enterprise as director of national exploitation, advertising and publicity. Schulberg also will be in charge of special exhibitor relations for the Charles Einfeld-David Loew combo.

He will give up his current partnership in the public relations firm of B. P. Schulberg & Irving Rubine to assume his new chores immediately. Rubine will continue the firm under his own name.

Schulberg entered film business as director of advertising and publicity for Adolph Zukor's Famous Players' Film Company, and soon after held down a top post in Paramount. He started his own production outfit, Preferred Pictures, but resigned from it in 1918 to return to Paramount as managing director of production. He held down latter post until 1932 when he once more joined the indie field. Since then he held down a production post at Columbia.

New York, Aug. 20. — Dick Haymes ain't gonna sing no more, or, at least, for time being. 20th-Fox is taking away his bird seed and will spot him in straight dramatics. His next picture, ''Mine on Sunday,'' has only one tune and may be forerunner of even less.

• JUST FOR VARIETY •

THE GRAPEVINE: Muted report around Paramount is that the scrapping of plans for ''The Wayfarers'' wasn't entirely due to objectionable parts of the novel. Presumably the studio knew about those passages when they bought the screen rights. Harry Tugend was slated as producer and some topflight actors lined up for the cast. But it's understood that politics reared its ugly head, outcome of an intramural feud, and the picture was junked at the last moment . . . Harry Cohn has debarked from his yacht and is now—clear the decks!—back at the studio. First move was to view all films now in the rough-cut stage and see what gives for the fall and winter boxoffice sweepstakes. ''My Empty Heart'' presumably got the Cohn cardiograph also . . . John Garfield is having director trouble in his plans to produce the filmbiog of Barney Ross. Two directors have read the script and turned down the chore . . . Richard Macaulay brooded for hours yesterday over the Hearstian frenzy over lewd literature which inspired the L.A. police to arrest a bookseller for selling ''Memoirs of Hecate County.'' Last night he tried to peddle his copy of the book and get himself arrested, but no luck. Macaulay says he will take it to the U.S. Supreme Court—if only somebody will arrest him . . . Charles Kaufman, who wrote the documentary ''Let There Be Light'' while in service, is back at Metro and collaborated on ''A Rich Full Life.''

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: There's one way to escape from the extra ranks, though it's a little risky. Sam Hanks, ex-extra, sold his wardrobe and bought a midget racer. In the last five weeks he has pocketed $10,000 in prize money . . . Dick Powell planned to surprise June Allyson on their first wedding anniversary and invite a few friends for a quiet evening of celebration. She beat him to it, and when he arrived home he found a house full of guests, including Louis B. Mayer, Claudette Colbert, the Robert Montgomerys, the James Cagneys, Henry Fonda, Esther Williams, Susan Peters, Milton Holmes (associate producer on Powell's film, ''Johnny O'Clock), Mrs. Holmes and many others. Commenting on the success of the Powell-Allyson marriage, Edwin Knopf toasted: ''Confound those people who said it wouldn't last'' . . . According to a British entertainment journal, Nijinsky, the dancer, is preparing to leave Vienna for New York, where he will be given the insulin shock treatment in an attempt to restore him to sanity . . . ''This Side of Innocence'' by Taylor Caldwell and ''The Hucksters'' by Frederick Wakeman are see-sawing for the top of the best-seller lists . . . L.A. Daily News has acquired Billy Rose in his new role of Broadway columnist. With Wilson, Lyons and Rose, the News will be covering Broadway as thoroughly as Hollywood.

CALL SHEET: JOHN ABBOTT leaves for London to visit his family and appear with the Old Vic troupe on completion of ''Deception'' at Warners . . . GIG YOUNG rode a racing bike to Laguna and back in four hours on a dare from Craig Stevens. His reward on return was soda pop and a bottle of liniment . . . BING CROSBY and his wardrobe man, Mickey Cohen, are both color blind—which may explain Bing's wardrobe . . . PATRICIA MORISON is grieving over the loss of her Llewellyn setter . . . HELEN STRUDWICK, wife of John Shepperd, 20th-Fox actor, American Airlined to New York on the first stage of her journey to Ireland. She's going to write a book about Erin . . . EDDIE BUZZELL is writing a story on Margaret O'Brien for the Satevepost . . . BILL MAULDIN arrived yesterday for conferences at International on ''Up Front'' . . . PRESTON STURGES escaped with scratches and bruises yesterday when his station wagon overturned after a collision downtown. Came to work nevertheless . . . CLEMENT ATLEE (we cover the world by mimeograph and a network of flacks) attended the London preem of ''The Searching Wind'' . . . BILL DEMAREST returned from his Alaska vacation and voiced the desire to play a solid, businessman type for a change. So Paramount cast him as the brawling harvest hand in ''The Big Haircut.''

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: You can bet Charles Vidor will transfer to Warners if he wins his suit to break the Columbia deal in October . . . Josephine Baker is reported seriously ill in Paris . . . Paramount has high hopes for Gloria Stroock, the Broadway beauty signed a few weeks ago. They think she's the prize discovery of the past few years . . . Metro is playing with fire—atomic bombs in ''The Beginning or the End'' and now an earthquake in ''Green Dolphin Street,'' the first staged on the lot since ''San Francisco'' . . . June Allyson visited the Warners lot yesterday and thereby touched off the recurrent rumors that she will play Marilyn Miller in the studio's musical based on her life . . . Off the lots: Allan Jones dined at the Bevhills Club with the Eddie Sutherlands before catching his wife, Irene Hervey, in ''State of the Union.'' The Paul Munis, Dorothy Sebastian and Bill Miller cracking lobster at The Kings. Harry Edwards and Jackie Wertheimer, Rory Calhoun and Dolores Devine at Ciro's. Marie Allison and Louis Shurr at Bar of Music. Cully Richards and Nick Condos stagging it at Charley Foy's. Ben Bogeaus and Dolores Moran at Lyons Chophouse. Al Herd and the ex-Mrs. John Auer at Breneman's . . . Dana Andrews and his family are taking off on his ketch for a cruise along Puget Sound . . . Norman Siegel of Paramount is looking for a femme star to appear at the Cleveland Air Races Aug. 30-Sept. 2, with plenty of national publicity in the offing . . . Lenore Ulric will return to the Broadway stage this season . . . Humphrey Bogart will place his footprints in Grauman's Chinese cement, come twilight tonight . . . Helen Walker tells of the actor who became fired by ambition. And his studio followed suit.—D.D.T.

'RAGS' RAGLAND SERVICES THIS AFTERNOON

John (Rags) Ragland, 40, stage and screen comedian, died early yesterday morning of Bright's disease and uremic poisoning at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. At his bedside were Phil Silvers and Frank Scannell, old friends since his burlesque days, Wilkie Mahoney and Mr. and Mrs. Colton Cronin, latter his agent. Death came so suddenly that relatives in east could not reach here in time.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon, 2:00 p.m., at Cunningham & O'Connor mortuary, 850 W. Washington Blvd. Body will be taken to his home town of Louisville, Ky., for interment.

Ragland returned from New York several weeks ago, after having been hospitalized in New York for several weeks. Last winter, Toots Shore, an old buddy, took him to number of specialists, but Ragland wasn't apprised fully of his serious condition.

Following 12 years in burlesque, Ragland scored on Broadway stage as topflight comedian in such pieces as ''Panama Hattie,'' ''Ziegfeld Follies,'' ''Who's Who'' and ''New Faces.'' Coming to Hollywood in 1941, he went under contract, his most recent picture being ''Her Highness and the Bellboy.''

Lorraine Miller Inked For Helen Hayes Legit

Light 'n' Airy

(on the ½ shell)

by JACK HELLMAN

It's worthy of note that picture p.a.'s are finding new ways of making radio work for their studio bosses. Paul McNamara, chief drum beater for David O. Selznick, has hit upon a unique device that should keep the airlanes buzzing with advance intelligence on "Duel in the Sun." Recording the voices of the film's stars in interview fashion, there are lapses in the disc to allow for the local station gossiper to intercept questions, which are drawn from a script prepared for such a broadcast. It requires pin-point timing and properly synchronized the effect is that of an actual interview put on wax. Platters and scripts have been shipped to 300 stations around the country and it's a fair guess that most of them will make use of the vicarious conversation piece.

Another free ride is that devised by Bill Hebert of the Goldwyn flackery. Bits of gossip are culled from various lots, with the accent on Goldwyn releases, and incorporated into a Hollywood program called "Stars in Your Eyes." These morsels of chit chat are read off by a station commentator and made available for local sponsorship. If nothing else it shows that the picture boys are thinking in terms of radio and that's more than the radio boys are doing. Exploitation and promotion gets short shrift from them and if it isn't type or art it all goes for the end book.

KFWB DROPS DEAL FOR RACE RESULT BROADCASTS

Warners KFWB has dropped deal with Boyd Co. Agency whereby station would have aired race track results for consideration of $52,000 annually. Transaction had been in works for two months, despite station denials that it was ever seriously considered. Agency had been asking irrevocable one year's contract. Station's recent acquisition of Martin Block is believed to have been largely instrumental in ending it.

Consolidated Publishing Co. (Metropolitan Scratch Sheet), now airing gee-gee gab on half hour over KWKW, wanted Warner station. Pitch was made on basis of seeking larger and best possible local outlet, and KFWB was first to nibble at bangtail bait. Others had been flatly turning it down as undesirable—with an eye to Federal Communications Commission kudos. Sheet would have set up operators, trained station announcers, etc., and eschewed frequency discount for privilege. In exchange, it wanted four breaks per hour, and permitted insertion in regular sportscasts.

At one point in negotiations, station is said to have teased account with story of an opposition offer from Moe Annenberg's Triangle Publications (National Scratch Sheet), which was said to be offering flat $60,000 through Smith, Bull & McCreery Agency. However, that deal was denied at both agency and station, while station continued to mull Metropolitan deal. Consummation of deal between Boyd and KFWB would have meant cancellation on KWKW since FCC permits only one station to broadcast any single publication's results. Boyd Co. must now shop around among remaining — and seemingly unwilling—other indie stations.

Since KFWB is laying out velvet carpet — and contract — for Block, considered to be gem among disc jockeys and national figure, it's hardly likely that they'd risk upsetting him in any way. Pilot will probably have full say on material to go on, interrupt or be interspersed in his platter marathon. Acceptance of Met deal would, therefore, have been a headache.

20th Buys In All NT Stock

approved purchase by National Theatres Corporation of all that company's outstanding Class B stock for $7,516,000.

The net profit for the six months, after dividends on prior preferred and convertible preferred stock are deducted, amounts to $4.33 per share on the 2,534,895 shares of common stock outstanding as of June 29, 1946. Outstanding common stock at the same date last year totaled 1,295,698 shares and for the comparable 26 weeks of 1945 the consolidated net profit per share on the common then outstanding amounted to only $2.43 per share.

EARNINGS DOUBLE

The total net profit for the first 26 weeks of 1945 was $5,433,360.-43 as compared with this year's $11,449,449.38.

For the second quarter ended June 29, 1946 the consolidated net profit was $5,207,496, amounting, after deductions to $1.97 per share of common stock. Profit for the first quarter was $6,241,953. Profit for the second quarter of 1945 was $2,557,875, equivalent to $1.15 per share of common stock.

Purchase of the outstanding Class B of National Theatres gives 20th-Fox 100 per cent control of that corporation, the stock, if converted, representing 20 per cent of the equities of National Theatres.

$500,000 SAVING

Earnings applicable to the 20 per cent interest at current income rate are approximately $2,600,000. Purchase also makes it possible for 20th-Fox to file consolidated income tax returns with National Theatres, effecting a saving of $500,000 annually. This, added to the $2,600,000 brings the earnings to an actual total of $3,100,000.

The stock was issued to principal executive managers of National Theatres Corporation in 1944 according to a plan devised by a committee of stockholders and directors appointed by the late Wendell Willkie, then chairman of the board.

According to reports from stockholders meeting, it was a spirited one. Some ill feeling was expressed against the board of directors for making National Theatres stock deal. Charles Skouras, NT prexy received sizeable profit from transaction, which was defended by brother Spyros who gave short history of deal and turned chair over to another, leaving the room. Those profiting included, Elmer Rhoden, Harold Fitzgerald and F. H. Ricketson, all top execes of circuit. Those sharing made $6,850,000 profit as stock purchased for $565,000 in 1944 was sold for $7,415,000, as noted above.

It is estimated that the National Theatres earnings for 1946 will exceed $15,000,000 and that 20th-Fox consolidated earnings will top $24,000,000.

Managers of National Theatres Corporation will continue under long term contracts under the new set-up.

In enumerating these points, Rodgers averred that it was intention of Metro to approach the new order in a spirit of "Let's try," rather thar "How do I come out?"

HOPES FOR BENEFIT

"We can only hope that the putting into effect of the final decree will result in substantial benefits to the industry as a whole, rather than to create chaotic conditions," Rodgers declared.

"It must be obvious to everyone in business that if, as, and when the opinions of the court are incorporated into a decree, there will come about a drastic change in the general order of conducting many phases of our distribution business and possibility of some changes in our production plans," he added.

effect since the first Oscars were awarded, to the 900-plus membership of the Academy.

Two changes in by-laws also were under consideration. They were:

1—Election of officers in April instead of October.

2—Hereafter the Academy would have 11 branches instead of eight. Split-up of the Sciences division has resulted in additional branches. Each branch would elect two governors under this change, one to serve a one-year term, the other to serve for two years.

First election to be held under the proposed system would be in April, 1947.

EXHIBS ARE BEEFING OVER PRESS BOOKS

New York, Aug. 20.—Flatulence of press puffery put out by distributors is drawing plenty of squawks from exhibitors.

Exhibs gripe is that the ideas are stilted as far as exploitation is concerned, and no self-respecting newspaper will use much of the handout grist offered in pressbooks. Ad mats, exhibs add, are "out of proportion to our needs." They suggest that distribs find out what's needed in the publicity, exploitation and advertising line, then try to comply with needs in a less offhand manner.

Circus poster war days have come to local first run motion picture exhibition. All bars are down, budgets are up and every possible avenue is being explored and exploited as majors seek to hypo boxoffices in show case Los Angeles via expanding advertising-publicity campaigns.

That company declared no such dividend.

MCA, NBC and Biow Wage Battle Over Vallee Airer

Three titans of the radio industry—MCA, NBC and William Biow—are locked in battle over the Rudy Vallee show for Philip Morris, "Villa Vallee." NBC has let it be known that it will not accept "Villa Vallee" or any other Vallee show that is not an improvement over last season's "Villa" for Procter & Gamble. Biow agency is going ahead with plans to tee up the program on NBC Sept. 3 in the 8 p.m. EDT Tuesday spot, leading off the string of comedy shows.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

INSIDE story on how the 20th Anniversary of Talkies came to be celebrated last Aug. 6 was revealed at Warner Bros. yesterday when Jack L. Warner recalled that it was nearly a year ago that Mort Blumenstock, veepee in charge of advertising and publicity, came out from New York with two ideas. He suggested that 1946 lent itself either to observance of the Warners 40th year in business, or the 20th anniversary of talking picture pioneering, and Blumenstock recommended the latter. The Warner Bros. okayed it, and first announcement was broken to the Coast flacks when Blumenstock came out in April, held a staff meeting, mapped the campaign and made the assignments. It was Blumenstock's idea that there was a natural tie-up with the Thomas A. Edison Co., Bell Labs, A. T. & T., Western Electric, R. C. A., and Victor, and all those industrial and scientific units jumped on the bandwagon. Whooptedo recently passed is still being counted up in newspaper and magazine footage excelling any other event of such institutional nature in this, or any other industry.

FILM studios during last week have been entertaining greatest influx of newspaper folks since before the war. All the studios have been targets for the visiting press, but Paramount flackery yesterday took a few minutes off to list them. Here yesterday were William Hawkins, of the New York World-Tele; Dan Thompson, of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; Herb Monk, St. Louis Globe-Democrat; Bill Carr, Cincinnati Enquirer; Ellen Donahue, Baltimore News-Press; George Dixon, of King Features. Recent visitors were Fred Johnson, San Francisco Call-Bulletin; Wood Soames, Oakland Trib; Carlton McKinney, San Francisco Chronicle; Frank Funge, San Francisco Examiner; Carl Gartner, Des Moines Register-Tribune; Wilferd Smith, Chicago Trib; Hazel Black, Oakland Trib; Dale Beronius, Kansas City Star; Mrs. Florence Fisher Parry, Pittsburgh Press; Dorothy Stevenson, Monterey Herald; Marc Thibault, Montreal Illustration; Henri Letondal, Canadian News Agency.

JOE Schenck emphatically denies that 20th Century-Fox, parent company of National Theatres, is taking over operation of NT's Mexican affiliate, Circuito del Nord. Following recent visit here of B. V. Sturdivant, resident manager of chili circuit interests, story was circulated that NT was pulling out of border province operations. Report was that NT was losing money in operation but with elimination and takeover of direct operations, 20th could, through elimination of middleman charges, reduce costs and possibly show profit. NT owns 51 per cent of Circuito, an unusual privilege granted few foreign interests, but which was swung on basis of 20th's connection with NT.

IT'S no mere rumor that the National Scratch Sheet has also been trying to crack station in local market through Smith, Bull & McCreery agency. Dick Smith, partner, has been trying to peddle account for flat $60,000 yearly. So eager is account to nudge in that they're even offering to suffer mayonnaise covering of race results, suggesting that gee-gee gab be innocently flanked with general sports patter, race stuff being injected in between baseball, boxing and other results to avoid objection and reduce prominence.

NEW directing technique was brought to screen from radio by Arch Oboler, currently directing "The Arnelo Affair" for Metro. Oboler doesn't listen to the actors with naked ear, but plugs special set of earphones into the sound recorder and follows the dialogue in this way. By this method, he says, he hears what is actually recorded instead of voices reverberating through the large stage. One advantage of the system, Oboler points out, is that actors can use softer tones that record perfectly.

ANNOUNCEMENT that Santly-Joy will publish Ray Gilbert's new tunes, "Sooner or Later" and "Zip-a-Dee-Doo-Dah" may precipitate three-way controversy. Written for Walt Disney's "Song of South" while Gilbert was on release agreement from exclusive contract with Ralph Peer, songs were, under agreement, to be published by Peer. Contract provided that his future works be published by Peer, but recent announcement that S-J was to publish score from Disney film has raised question of rights.

The stage coach will b manned and womaned by elderl folk who have never had any truck with Hollywood except through thei neighborhood theatres. You woul be surprised if you knew the numbe of Hollywoodites who never g down town, and at the number o Angelenos who look upon Hollywood as a phantom realm, even as the natives of Kamchatka or Timbuktu. Acad Vote Plan Meeting With Furor in Film Biz

General commendation greeted Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences action in changing the voting procedure for annual awards. Industry felt yesterday that much politicking and possible unfairness in selecting Oscar winners would be eliminated by the Academy's decision to limit voting to members only.

Academy's move came after many hours of argument and discussion ending early yesterday morning.

Simultaneously, it was agreed that nominations for different awards will be made up of same groups as participated previously. This means that all members of each guild may vote on nominations, but for final balloting votes may be cast only by actual Academy members.

Proposal also was passed to extend number of individual branches from eight to eleven. Sciences division, which previously comprised one of the eight branches, now is divided up into four new groups, due to fact of increasing importance of each. Newly-formed branches include Art Directors, Cinematographers, Film Editors and Sound Men, all formerly linked together.

Other branches consist of Actors, Directors, Executives and Producers, Musicians, Public Relations, Short Subjects and Writers.

'Caesar' Script Given Library of Congress on Shaw Request

Washington, Aug. 21.—Copy of the shooting script of "Caesar and Cleopatra" was presented to the Library of Congress today by United Artists. Presentation was made by John Balfour, first minister of the British Embassy. Script was received by Herman H. Hinkle, acting Librarian of Congress. Present also were Nathan D. Golden, Department of Commerce film specialist, and Mori Krushin, UA promotion man and former Weekly Variety film writer.

Script contained a brief note from George Bernard Shaw to Gabriel Pascal which read: "Dear Gabriel, you had better present this to the U. S. Library of Congress to which I owe many obligations. But I am not the sole author. The words are mine; the pictures are yours—and the antics."

Government Wants H'wood Studios to Make Shorts

Washington, Aug. 21.—Hollywood's major studios may be asked to make shorts for the government, in order to produce the type of fact films which will prove satisfactory for general theatrical exhibition. Understanding here is that Eric Johnston, who has agreed to help the office of war mobilization and reconversion, will make the request to the studios. OWMR, whose media section is successor to wartime OWI as liaison between the motion picture industry and the government agencies, has been unsuccessful up to now in getting its pix widescale commercial exhibition.

As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

We've made the kind of demand upon Yugoslavia that had to come in the case of one of the Soviet-dominated countries sooner or later. Ever since those first days when we decided the way to get along with Russia was to be a good fellow we've been permitted in the Soviet-dominated lands only under sufferance, and have been continually restricted, embarrassed and dominated by the Soviet. In Hungary, they allowed us to use only a cow pasture as an airfield, would not permit erection of a shed on the field to shield out men from winter winds, required that the communications car be kept in Budapest, would not permit any plane to remain overnight nor for any longer than necessary to unload and refuel. In Bulgaria and Romania, we have to get Russian permission to come in and go out, and our men have been arrested for breaking some Russian restriction—Romanian members of our staffs arrested by Romanian police on Russian orders, embarrassment by a former enemy state of a supposed control power. The story of our frustration by the Russians economically and politically in all these states is one a lot of newsmen have known but have hesitated to tell until now because we've figured there was enough trouble between Russia and ourselves. It's learning these facts that brought such different men as Walter Lippman and Drew Pearson home, after recent visits to Europe, talking about war with Russia. Other correspondents who had been there oftener and earlier were not so shocked, but now they're telling their stories because it helps us understand the relationship of what happens in this Yugoslavian case, to the Albanian bluster, the arguments between Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria on one side and Greece on the other, and so on.

Film Review

South of Monterey

MONOGRAM RELEASE. Producer, Scott R. Dunlap. Director, William Nigh. Original screenplay by Charles S. Belden. Based on character created by O. Henry. Photography, Harry Neumann. Production manager, Charles Bigelow. Assistant director, Eddie Davis. Technical director, Ernest Hickson. Set designer, Vin Taylor. Musical director, Edward J. Kay. Sound, Frank McWhorter. Film editor, Fred Maguire.

CAST—Gilbert Roland, Martin Garralaga, Frank Yaconelli, Marjorie Riordan, Iris Flores, George J. Lewis, Harry Woods, Terry Frost, Rose Turich, Wheaton Chambers.

REVIEWED at Million Dollar Theatre, Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 20, 1946. Running time: 58 MINS.

"South of Monterey," latest of the Monogram Cisco Kid series, gets top value out of quickie production and comes up as acceptable melodrama in its own market. There's the usual amount of gunplay, skullduggery and horse-riding and a fight that stacks up as good, average Western film rough and tumble.

Gilbert Roland gets a true Mexican touch in his portrayal of the Cisco Kid role, Marjorie Riordan and Iris Flores handle the femme romantic interest adequately, and Frank Yaconelli gets over for laughs in his role as the comedy drunk who is the Kid's right hand man. Rest of the cast gives them satisfactory support.

Direction by William Nigh keeps the show moving smartly, points up the comedy sequences and makes the old "badman with a heart of gold" plot plausible.

Scott Dunlap has made a low budget yield good returns in production. Settings are more than somewhat on the cheapie side but Dunlap and Nigh, with help of Cameraman Harry Neumann have managed to get realistic atmosphere out of them.

LEGIT OPENING

THE GENTLE APPROACH

"The Gentle Approach," by John O'Dea, which opened at the Belasco last night, is one of those comedies that covers up mediocrity at a telling moment with either a smart crack or a pratt-fall situation that takes the audience's mind away from the patent lack of cleverness. Concerned with a returning veteran (a film star) who is being "psyched" by his authoress wife back into what she considers normal civilian life, "Approach" is neither gentle in its humor nor adept in plot development. What it amounts to is stock gaggery with an occasional shot from the husband's desire to return to his bed and board, with emphasis on the former and mistaken belief that the wife is about to give birth to another man's child.

Saving what humor there is in the show is a smart cast, topped by William Wright, who puts punch into everything he does. Wright, a newcomer to this reviewer, looks like an ace comedy star of the Melvyn Douglas school. Jacqueline deWit, Wally Cassell and Clancy Cooper bolster Wright's work with boffo support. Other solid performers include Isabell Jewell, Marcy McGuire, Lillian Fontaine, Dan Stowell and George Ramsey. Direction by Harold Daniels is equal to the cast's performance . . . way above the script. R. L. Grosh and Sons conceived and executed a smart set of a Bel-Air living room.

BOWL CANCELS HEIFITZ WHEN HE TELLS HIS FEE

Hollywood Bowl Association cancelled its contract yesterday with Jascha Heifetz, who was to have played one night during the Symphonies Under the Stars—on the charge he "broke a gentleman's agreement" and disclosed the amount of his fee. Fact that Heifetz was to have been paid $5000 for the one-nighter started a stampede among other musicians soloing at the Bowl for more money.

Dr. Karl Wecker, Bowl managing director, simultaneously announced that a $4000 ceiling has been placed on fees for engagements for the current Bowl series.

Dr. Wecker said Heifetz's rep had asked for $6000 for his appearance, despite former's plea that the Bowl series is a "non-profit operation." Wecker added that Heifetz's price came down to $5000 later only on the agreement that the violinist would not make public the size of his fee and arouse the envy of other artists.

Siegel Will Direct 'Night Unto Night'

Don Siegel has been handed director tasks on "Night Unto Night" at Warners as his second feature stint. Siegel, who recently was upped from shorts megger, bowed on full-length films with "The Verdict."

Nesbitt Short Guns

Metro starts production today on first John Nesbitt Passing Parade short for the 1946-47 season, "A Really Important Person."

SEG, PRODS SPLIT ON BACK PAY

Issue of starting date of retroactive pay is only remaining barrier in contract negotiations between Screen Extras Guild and the producers, it was officially confirmed yesterday in message addressed to local's membership by the board of directors. At present, producers contract proposal offers retroactive pay back to January 1, 1946. Union had asked retroactive pay back to January 1, 1945, which was turned down by the producers. General membership meeting of the Guild has been called for night of September 8 in the Hollywood Legion Stadium at which time producers proposed contract will be submitted for discussion.

THE GRAPEVINE: They're swinging the axe at Paramount. This week a number of assistant directors were let out, and a flock of other employes (in the higher categories, too) will be leaving in the next few weeks. Order has come down from the studio hierarchy to cut costs, and quickly . . . Legit producers on the Coast are squawking at Mike Todd's tactics. His record layout for exploitation has blanketed the Coast cities for "Up in Central Park." Other shows, unless they contracted for it months ago, can't get any ad space in the newspapers. That was the prime reason for "Song of the Flame" folderoo in Portland. Show had only a $3,500 advance sale in San Francisco for a 12-day stand, thanks to a blackout of exploitation, publicity and advertising space . . . Raymond Massey is selling his surfboard after a precipitous parting from it at Malibu . . . Gilbert Roland is off to Mexico City. Friends say it's a romance but he's naming no names . . . 20th-Fox alleges Linda Darnell's 42 costumes for her role in "Forever Amber" will cost ninety grand . . . Irving Elman, writer for Sol Wurtzel Productions, passed some sort of literary test. He answered an ad for an apartment for rent, as requested, and got it over you-can-guess-how-many-other applicants . . . Charles Trenet, the French singer who had New York swooning in the plushier deadfalls, has delayed his Ciro's opening from tomorrow to Sept. 4 due to transport difficulties . . . Natal note: Gene Kelley celebrates his birthday tomorrow.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Dennis Hoey, portraying a Gestapo agent in Paramount's "Golden Earrings," was pasting a wicked-looking scar on his face for the sake of characterization. "Ah, Heidelburg," murmured Ray Milland. "No," Hoey sighed, "UFA!" . . . Margaret O'Brien took off her shoes and went barefoot for her Grauman's Chinese ceremony of placing her prints in the sands of time. Sid Grauman asked why. "It's easier to wash my feet than clean my new shoes," Margaret explained solemnly . . . Amid the thud of dropping options at Universal-International, Jess Barker had his picked up, and thus the actor's pending deals with another studio and a Broadway producer went by the boards . . . Richard Martin, playing the lead in Comet's "Adventures of Don Coyote," is part owner of the outfit which operates Enterprise's commissary . . . Travel note: Sign on a downtown bootblack's stand reads "I've sold my business and gone back to Italy" . . . Film-radio-television tieup has been promoted by Charles R. Rogers' outfit for "The Fabulous Dorseys." Nationwide search for a thrush for Dorsey's band was conducted over Mutual's 302 stations, and six finalists brought to Hollywood. Winner will get screen and video tests in addition to the band job. Television end is handled by Don Lee.

CALL SHEET: ATWATER KENT called Ginny Simms the other day and heard her young son howling lustily in the background. Yesterday Ginny received an application for the Atwater Kent auditions for young amateurs made out for her son and dated for 1964 . . . JEFFREY LYNN, true to his fiancee, Robin Chandler Tipper, in New York, is giving the brushoff to the local wolfesses . . . JUDITH ANDERSON, of the imperious manner, is striking an incongruous note these days. She's taking lessons in throwing the lariat from one Bear Valley Charley Miller, who trouped with Buffalo Bill's outfit . . . BILL HENRY won a $100 pool by catching the most trout while on location with "Trail to San Antone," the Gene Autry oater . . . MARTY HOLLAND takes off for NY to discuss her latest novel, as yet untitled, with publisher Julian Messner . . . JAMES McNAMARA, KLAC's mobile reporter, will be called as a witness at the trial of Anthony Cornero Strallo, the ex-seafaring man. McNamara interviewed Tony several times . . . FRITZ LANG'S next film for Diana Productions, an untitled psycho murder story, is listed simply as "Operation Bloody Murder"—very tentatively . . . ROBERT CAPA takes off on a photo assignment to Europe shortly and is being given a round of parties. First was tossed by J. Richard Kennedy, the millionaire scenarist . . . ELEANOR ALLEN'S book, "Canvas Caravans," is now on the bookstalls . . . SAM COSLOW is paging Maxine Barrett, Don Loper's dancing partner, for "Copacabana" . . . NAT JAMES, sailing off for the High Sierras, lost his savoir faire—and his gaudy temper—when two tires blew out near Tulare. Thermometer registered 114 in the shade, under the car, that is.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Magicians, arise! Chester Morris is going to expose the sawing-a-woman-in-half trick in Columbia's "Boston Blackie and the Law." From Cagliostro to Blackstone this bit of legerdemain has been kept a holy secret . . . Dick Haymes is asking 20th-Fox for a change of pace. He'd like to duck musicals and play in a western . . . Geraldine Brooks is twoing the town with ex-Marine Major Robert Reed . . . After viewing the rushes on his first picture, Republic is planning a buildup for Ransom Sherman . . . Off the lots: Eddie Cantor and Ida at Slapsy Maxie's. Natalie Schafer dining at The Players with John Houseman before departing eastward. The Harry Ritzes and the Donald MacBrides at The Kings. Alice Faye and Phil Harris, Lou Crosby and Linda Hayes at Lyons English Grill . . . Joe Frisco returns to Charley Foy's Monday with his cigar, scratchsheet and stutter . . . Life mag photographed the big waltz sequence in "The Emperor Waltz" at Paramount . . . George Jessel will produce "This Song of Mine" from his own original early next year for 20th. He wants Jolson, Cantor and Vallee for top roles . . . Red Skelton is tripping in the footsteps of John Barrymore, Frederic March and Spencer Tracy. For Metro's "Merton of the Movies," he plays a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" sequence to demonstrate his virtuosity. Skelton tried out his act on Virginia O'Brien, who deadpanned: "Which one is Mr. Hyde?"—D.D.T.

NY HEARS REP IS CUTTING SKED BY 10 FILMS

execs expect cost of production to be $3,000,000 more than original budget of $25,000,000 set for the 62 films.

Allen Wilson, Republic veepee in charge of all production at studio, yesterday denied that company has any intention of trimming number of pictures it will produce for 1946-47.

"We announced 62 and we are going to make 62," he declared. "There will be no cutting of this number. I am in daily communication with Mr. Yates, in New York, and there has been no mention of the subject."

It is known, however, that studio will make only 12 Trucolor films, a slice of four off Yates' original announcement of 16. Two of these will be Roy Rogers specials, six Monte Hale-Adrian Booth westerns and four in new classification tagged Major group.

Wilson also said yesterday that announced figure of $25,000,000 for whole year's product, was merely an estimated figure, and probably final production budget would be considerably hiked, due to increasing costs.

MUSICRAFT PLANS FOREIGN PRESSING

Musicraft Records, Inc., has arranged for pressing and distribution of its recordings in 38 foreign countries. Announcement was made yesterday of world-wide distribution agreement concluded with Electrical Musical Industries Studios, Ltd., of London, which will handle Musicraft output abroad. Deal, effective immediately, covers Great Britain, continental Europe, South America and Australia, and EMI will use its own labels of Parlorphone, His Master's Voice (HMV, as popularly known), and (British) Columbia.

THREE WAY FIGHT OVER VALLEE AIR SHOW

NBC spokesmen. Under its current budget of $9,000 it is assumed by the web that the production level required by NBC could not be maintained. MCA and Vallee counter this claim with the assertion that last season's Hooperating ranging from 8 to 13 surpassed many NBC shows. Second record of "Villa Vallee" was cut last night for inspection by NBC and final decision of Prexy Niles Trammell is awaited.

Meanwhile NBC is pushing the sale of its packaged "Fourth Estate," starring Mark Hellinger, for the Philip Morris Tuesday night NBC spot. Show carries a price tag of $10,000. MCA also has a newspaper story called "Feature Assignment" but is making no effort to sell it to Biow until the Vallee situation is cleared up. MCA allows it is Biow's problem at this time and that it will continue to represent Vallee in the deal without forcing the issue with NBC.

Under NBC policy no program can go on the network until it has been approved by the chain's program heads—Clarence Menser in New York and Lewis Frost in Hollywood. Trammell was brought into the picture when it was apparent that Biow and Vallee would appeal an adverse decision to the highest authority. In his 18 years on radio Vallee has broadcast on no other network than NBC and was instrumental in launching the careers of many top NBC personalities. Likely that last night's record will be piped into New York today for Trammell's decision. Vallee plans to use the same format as last season, with only one important cast change—Billy House for Pinky Lee—the latter being held over on the Drene show.

Rogers Starts First Trucolor Feature

Shooting starts today on "Apache Rose," first Roy Rogers Trucolor feature at Republic. William Witney is directing and Olin Howlin replaces George "Gabby" Hayes as top comedian in the oatuner. Hayes is tied up in RKO's "Trail Street," necessitating the switch. Others in the cast are Dale Evans and Sons of the Pioneers. Edward J. White is producer.

Prinz Terps 'Rose'

Leroy Prinz will create and stage all musical numbers for "My Wild Irish Rose" at Warners. Film will roll within the next few weeks with David Butler directing and Dennis Morgan starring.

Buchanan in 'Alone'

Edgar Buchanan yesterday drew a featured role in "They Walk Alone" at Columbia. Film guns Sept. 5 with Richard Wallace directing for producer Jules Schermer.

'Co-eds' Moran

Pat and Patsy Moran have been signed for featured roles in "Betty Co-Ed" at Columbia. Vet vaude team puts on eccentric song and dance act.

LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

Philco may have chewed off more than it bargained for in raiding the exchequer for the Bing Crosby recorded series. A fly, and a big one, has been crawling around in the ointment and of which the Philly set makers may have not been cognizant. It concerns the fee for commercial transcriptions exacted for songwriters and publishers by Music Publishers Protective Ass'n. Under the copyright provisions and for some time under legal fire is the bite of 25 to 50c per number per station for music used on sponsored pancakes. It's highly probable that Philco labored under the impression that the music tax would be two cents a number as obtains on phonograph records or piano rolls. But the Crosby series falls in the commercial transcription category and the law is plain on that tax.

Should Philco see through its plan to use 600 stations that would add, roughly, another $150,000 a year to client's outlay. If Philco should decide to make an issue of the higher levy it will be joined, according to reports, by Longines, the watch outfit which uses platters exclusively. A stockholder in Philco and also an attorney, who must go unnamed, has threatened to "blow the thing wide open" at the next stockholders meeting if Philco accepts the tax bite without a fight.

Just how well Philco comes off on the deal has conjured up considerable speculation. At $30,000 a week for a 39-week season and the time charge for 600 stations approaching that figure, Philco's "nut" will exceed $2,000,000. Add another 13 weeks at possibly around $10,000 for the summer session and you have a pretty tidy sum, easily the top figure in radio's history. Of course it can't all be charged off to Philco as the dealers must fork over for the time and part of the enormous advertising appropriation. So perhaps another $150,000 for the music tax won't be taken too seriously. Groaning comes high these days.

They're already making book on how high the Hooper will leap or crawl on the Crosby disceroo. Best guesses range from 14 to 25 but the Blue Boys won't be unhappy if he opens with a 17. It's a matter of record that Bing's Music Hall hit a high of 25.8 in January of '45 and plummeted to a low of 5.4 last month without him. Assuming that he goes into the 9 p.m. Wednesday spot around the country he should carve for himself a nice fat chunk of the night's sets-in-use potential of roughly 40. In our crystal ball it looks like a fast 20 with all the ballyhoo to be generated by Philco and its dealers together with the public hunger for an idol who has been away so long.

Chain breaks . . . Time is running out for David Rose's "Holiday for music" and the grapevine has it that Nash-Kelvinator won't renew when option time falls due next week. If the network time is held and a cheaper show substituted, Kelvinator will have to foot the bills as Nash production has ben seriously curtailed due to wildcat strikes and the motormaker may forego radio as have most of the others. Second time extension has been refused by Rose's attorney-manager. "Holliday" bugeted around $9,500 has average of a Hooper 5 . . . Brewster Morgan in Kansas City where his mother passed away . . . Wally Jordan of the NY William Morris office in town on the Meredith Willson-Canada Dry deal and other agency biz . . . Tom McAvity and Helen Mack shoved off yesterday for N'Yawk . . . Percy Faith reported not renewing with Carnation and will make his home here . . . Bill Pennell's "Hollywood Report" on KLAC looks headed for the big time . . . Palm Springs station KCMJ is carrying a program in which the listener lets off steam on what's wrong with radio. No, you can't get on it.

Many problems of a pressing nature confront American Federation of Radio Artists in convention at the Roosevelt hotel for three days beginning tomorrow ayem. High priority on the agenda goes to a renegotiation of the National Code of Fair Practices and stormy sessions are predicted on the convention floor. Wage demands will be stepped up considerably, probably as high as 35 per cent, and improved working conditions will also get a forensic going-over. Spread of employment may be plumped but not with too much vigor, AFRA delegates holding that it is beyond their pale to dictate to networks and agencies who can and cannot be hired. There may, however, be a committee appointed to explore ways and means of encouraging the hiring of members beyond the favored few. Some controversy may develop over the demand of Hollywood delegates that the differential between New York and Hollywood paychecks be leveled off in favor of a uniform national rate. Eastern scale for two or more stations falls into the t.c. category while a station spread half way across the country from here gets only a regional payoff. AFRA, now in its seventh convention, has survived organizational growing pains and should manage its new problem and reforms without too much static in its vast membership.

Hitch hikes . . . Vick Knight and not Dee Engelbach produces the Victor Borge-Benny Goodman show for Socony Vacuum. Latter, tied up with production of Academy Award Theatre, couldn't clear with his client as Borge-Goodman will travel a good part of the season. Knight will also produce his transcription package, "Here Comes Harmon," which has been sold co-op by Criterion Radio Features of Chicago. Former grid star will give predictions and use guestars. Knight also is in negotiation with Paramount on a producer deal . . . Al Kaye will get the production call on the Meredith Willson-Canada Dry entry if he can get clearance from Benton & Bowles, of which he is Coast radio director . . . Bob Corley in from Atlanta for the "Beulah" role to be plattered Monday by Ken Dolan . . . John Bates, radio head of the Mathes agency, who negotiated sponsorship of Meredith Willson and Hoagy Carmichael, shopping around for other shows.

UA DUBBING EIGHT PIX FOR FRANCE, ITALY BOOM

First batch of eight pictures to meet sudden demand from French and Italian market was being readied for dubbing yesterday by United Artists. Cecil Cone, head of UA foreign department here, said others will be prepared for shipment as rapidly as possible.

There has been big demand for American film in both France and Italy since the war, but catch has been that producers here couldn't get money for them because of financial regulations. Situation has improved to some extent in that respect and UA is planning large scale distribution in both countries.

A GAS ATTACK

The all-out attack on the Screen Writers' Guild's proposal for an American Authors' Authority has been opened, as predicted at the last membership meeting.

The first blast has come from certain mercenaries of the local press and has taken the insidious form of personal assaults on various individuals prominent in Guild affairs.

Among those who have been the victims of these assaults are Emmet Lavery, President, Lester Cole, First Vice-President, Oliver H. P. Garrett, Third Vice-President, Maurice Rapf, Secretary, Harold Buchman, Treasurer, Howard Koch, Henry Myers, and John Wexley, members of the Executive Board, Dalton Trumbo, Editor, Ring Lardner, Jr. and Theodore Strauss, members of the Editorial Committee of THE SCREEN WRITER, James M. Cain, as author of the AMERICAN AUTHORS' AUTHORITY, John Howard Lawson, and Budd Schulberg, members of the Guild, William Pomerance, Executive Secretary, and Harold J. Salemson, the Guild's Director of Publications. We may confidently expect that others will be subjected to similar assaults.

WHAT IS THE NATURE OF THESE ATTACKS AND WHAT IS THE PURPOSE BEHIND THEM?

These are the salient facts:

The political, religious and personal opinions which individual members of the Guild may or may not hold in no way concern the Guild officially, for the Guild is a union and not a political party. These opinions are also not the real concern of the above-mentioned mercenaries of the press, whose true purpose in this attack is to arouse prejudice against the American Authors' Authority.

Lavery, Cole, Garrett, Rapf, Buchman, Koch, Myers, Wexley, Trumbo, Lardner, Strauss, Cain, Lawson, Schulberg, Pomerance, and Salemson are being attacked not because of any fancied connection with the Communist Party, but only because they are active and loyal members and functionaries of the Screen Writers' Guild.

The attacks are therefore attacks on the Screen Writers' Guild and on every member of the Guild.

The purpose of the attacks is to confuse the membership and thus disunite the Guild.

It is no coincidence that they have been timed immediately to follow the Guild's proposal for an American Authors' Authority.

They are being made at this time because only a strongly united Guild can hope to further the Authority plan.

If any member of the Guild needs proof of the desirability of the Authority, the violence of these attacks constitutes such proof.

The Guild cannot hope to answer all these attacks separately as they are launched. Our energies must be conserved for the task of creating the Authority, not dissipated in a piecemeal effort to discredit the fantasies of those anxious only to confuse the issues. We only ask our members and well-wishers to analyze all future attacks of this nature in the light of the facts listed above.

The Editorial Committee of "The Screen Writer" is preparing a detailed analysis of the salient issues now before us. In our next number of the Screen Writer you will find:

IBEW ENGINEERS PACTS RECEIVED BY INDIES HERE

Batch of 12 new contracts with International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers was received yesterday by Cal Smith, prexy of KFAC, repping indie stations. Acting for Bob Reynolds, absent prexy of Southern California Broadcasters Association, Smith immediately distributed new engineer agreements among stations for signature and immediate return.

Managements have been eagerly awaiting tickets for nearly month, following conclusion of negotiations with union. Though accepted bitterly due to hefty wage hikes averaging between 25 and 40 per cent, they have been anxious about final settlement. Union was held up in delivering by film studio matters, it's claimed.

With possible exception of KRKD, tickets will be signed and back to union by tomorrow. KRKD may find objection to clause affecting jurisdiction of engineers and announcers which names technicians alone as those responsible for handling of turntables, an upset in custom that formerly permitted gabbers liberties with tables.

Grant Parsons' Guest

Assembly Line Film Studio Plan Told by Fred Pelton

be a combination of assembly line technique modified for the practical requirements of motion picture making. Experts believe it will completely streamline the industry by its revolutionary studio design and plan of operation. The plan is expected to save the industry millions of dollars annually. According to Pelton, the system will net a 30 per cent saving in set costs in construction and operation.

General view of a working model of the studio of tomorrow shows a number of stages nested close to each other. A power center is located at most convenient point, resulting in use of a minimum amount of electrical cable. Compactly laid out adjacent to the stages are the various studio work shops. Stages and shops have rail streets between them and huge railroad-type turntables where needed. Whole sets are transported by mobile platforms from shop to shop and then on to the stages.

ONE STAGE FOR PIC

Underlying factor of the Pelton System is that the stages are used only for shooting purposes and are not tied up at any time during the preparatory stages. The sets are built completely on the large mobile platforms which becomes the stage floor when transferred onto the sound stages.

Only one stage is required for each production unit at a studio, since sets can be transferred at night for next days work. A stage can be completely emptied and refilled with new sets in less than one hour. This would eliminate current night work when the rigging and lining is done for next day's work. New plan calls for construction operation to take place entirely in daytime.

Pelton claims his system will be a great stabilizer of employment, because whole pictures will be built in advance at normal pace without interfering with shooting activities.

Sets can be built well in advance without tying up stage space, thereby enabling directors to plan their action from actual sets rather than models. The sets are built in position on mobile platforms, which later become the stage floors. These platforms are transferred by power from shops to stage. Sets remain standing on the platforms as complete units and are only struck when additional platform area is required. Hence, a picture can be held intact until after editing and preview. In case of retakes, platforms, which contain the sets involved in the picture, are rolled onto the stage for shooting.

BIG ECONOMIES

Great economies are indicated by the new plan because large masses are moved as a single unit instead of much handling of smaller sections. The power driven "carriers," which in an emergency can be operated by hand, transfer the mobile platforms from position to position. At each right angle rail intersection is a large turntable on which the "carrier" and its power unit ride when changing direction. The entire industrial area of the studio is roofed to shelter the finished and dressed sets prior and subsequent to use on the sound stages.

The shops are arranged in normal order of operation, carpentry, paint, plaster, prop, etc. Under the new system, a shooting unit will be normally assigned to one stage. Stage will be fed with sets in any order required, so that a director may shoot in continuity if he desires. Alongside the stage floors, occupied by the mobile platforms, are 20 to 25 feet wide shelves on which company-operating accessories remain, such as props, electrical equipment, grips, make-up and portable dressing rooms.

RECTANGULAR STAGES

The platforms will normally be rectangular 60 by 80 feet, which would permit the building of around 85 per cent of all types of sets on a single platform. Where a set will not fit on a single platform, it may be cut and built on two or more platforms. As a result, a series of street fronts can be used in various combinations inside the stage. Stages can be designed to house any number of platforms desired. The three-platform stage, used in the work model, will be used in the average studio.

STAGE 120 BY 200

Overall dimensions of a three-platform stage with a 20-foot shelf will be 120 by 200 feet. A four-platform stage will measure 120 by 260 feet. Besides regular industrial doors for pedestrian and truck traffic, special doors are built at one end of each stage to permit the platform with sets mounted on it to move in and out. Shop floors are elevated to the height of the platforms to facilitate the building of sets directly on the platforms.

Various major studios have evinced deep interest in the system, chiefly RKO and Columbia. Understood the system figures prominently in new studio construction plans currently being readied by the two studios. In addition, it was learned that Alexander Korda may utilize the revolutionary system. Pelton has filed applications for patents in the United States and all the film-producing countries in the world. He intends to grant licenses to studios to use his design and system on a royalty basis.

U-I Building Up Writing Staff

Universal-International intends to build up permanent staff for its writing department. Plan is to personnel department with between 25 and 50 name writers. BUDGETS UPPED TO HYPO LOCAL FIRST RUNS risen better than 300 per cent, radio spots are taking heft slice and, for example, Metro locally is booking twice as much air time as New York. L.A., frequently pace setter for the nation, looks to be leading again.

SPLASHES IN FALL

Arrival of new fall season will probably see biggest splashes. With war over and necessary supplies more available, no angle is being overlooked. Important money is again being loosened from both distrib and exhib ends in effort to outdo opposition. And more will undoubtedly be forthcoming when new government decree on auction selling of pictures goes into effect; when exhibs do more actual shopping for product and more selling is required.

Newspaper space is still being rationed by publishers but film companies and theatres are managing to get absolute maximum of both paid for and free (publicity) space. Where that fight reaches standstills or limits, other avenues come in for heavy play. Included are, car cards, 24 and six sheets, posters, photo enlargements, cut-outs, flash lobbies, new special one-shot neon signs under marquees, stickers and every conceivable promotional tie-up, regardless of cost. Attempts are being made to contract billboards and two major outdoor ad firms are up to necks in orders, beset from one side with new business and hampered with building program that's eliminating many locations. Even "sniper" firms, handling wildcat back fences, etc., are loaded.

PAR IN FOCUS, TOO

Paramount steps into picture this week with tinsel handling of "Beaucaire" which gets post-war top budget, far in excess of immediate predecessors. Every gimmick from barber shop quartets to possible peppermint painting of Washington monument is being tried for an all out.

Matter has reached such proportion as to be attracting even "artistic" end of biz — production. Studio brass, producers and stars have taken to personally checking air spots, billboards and other pluggia and complaining where they see too much opposition or too little ballying of their work. They want news of their efforts to be seen and heard—and press departments are a-doing it now that purse strings are no longer tight ropes.

New York, Aug. 21.—Heavy bally build-up for "Killers" and "Canyon Passage" in selected key city first-runs will be new order of things under decree, and will be pattern Universal will follow in future, according to Maurice Bergman, eastern publicity head of U. The anti-trust decision has dictated the policy, he said, which will be complete changeover of U's former policy of releasing films on blanket scale.

An unprecedented ad budget of $300,000 has been set for two pix. World preem of "Killers" at Winter Garden, here, has allotment of $50,000, largest sum ever earmarked for advance bally one situation.

Shearer Back to Pix

Negotiations are on for Norma Shearer to return to films under the Enterprise banner. With Warner Brothers, RKO and Universal-International all bidding for the star's services it was reported last night that Charles Einfeld-David Loew combo has the inside track. Wanger and Fedderson Talk Airshow For the Industry

Walter Wanger and Don Fedderson, veepee of KLAC and KYA, are talking plan for airing of motion picture industry's first institutional one-hour weekly program. Show would involve participation of entire industry, would go on live here and be transcribed for cuffo distribution to stations throughout country. Station would contribute free air time, using show as strictly non-salable sustainer, and would also furnish cuffo platters through its own plant. Industry, through Motion Picture Association of America, Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers and Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, would bear production costs on assessment or other basis.

Plan is known to be in works but neither Wanger nor Fedderson would confirm or deny it when checked. However, pitch is being made that Ilona Massey, who co-starred with Walter Pidgeon in Metro's ''Holiday in Mexico,'' has been dropped from studio contract roster.

Metro Signs Pandro Berman To Unusual Pact—10 Years

Pandro S. Berman yesterday was signed to a 10-year contract by Metro. Studio execs referred to the pact as the ''most unusual contract ever given a Metro producer.'' Few producers in Hollywood have deals calling for longer tenure. Henry Blanke has a 15-year contract with Warners and Ernst Lubitsch one for the same length of time with 20th-Fox.

Berman has been producing at Metro for six years. He currently has two films ready for release—''Undercurrent,'' starring Katharine Hepburn and Robert Taylor, and ''Sea of Grass,'' a Hepburn-Spencer Tracy starrer. On his schedule and being prepped for production are ''If Winter Comes,'' ''Before the Sun Goes Down,'' ''The Fortunes of Richard Mahoney,'' ''May Flavin'' and ''Green Mansions.''

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

COAST legit fans are not as misty-eyed about the subscriptions to the Theatre Guild productions are they were six months ago when the land-rush for pasteboards began with announcements of Guild entry on the Coast. Initial production of "Foolish Notion" was given so-so reception. This was followed by hysterical boxoffice for "Oklahoma!" which was expected. However, "The Merry Wives of Windsor" drew such general pannings in the press, plus apathetic response from Guild subscription owners, that season's windup with "Lady Windermere's Fan" will probably find no great rush to subscribe to further seasons or sets of plays. Theatregoers can get seats for any night they choose and in just about any location, either through agents or boxoffice purchases. Besides, even the 10 per cent saving is no lure when "package deal" includes turkeys that aren't even palatable at Thanksgiving.

THERE will be no stiff necks in front-row audiences from looking up at screen in new Goldman theatre in Philadelphia, which opened its doors last week with world preem of Paramount's "Monsieur Beaucaire." Theatre has no stage, an innovation for picture houses, and screen is only four feet above floor level. Screen itself, too, is oversized, measuring 22 by 28 feet, which permits larger pictures on screen. To take advantage of lower screen, loges as well are built lower than is usual in modern-day motion picture theatre. New house, which William Goldman is said to have built as a monument to himself, is reported to have every new scientific development known to architects, and is far more improved than Radio City Music Hall, which is supposed to be last word in picture houses.

PRESTON Sturges is writing scripts of two pictures simultaneously, which he will produce for his California Pictures. First is "The Human Strong Box," which probably will be his next, to follow currently-shooting "Vendetta," and second is "The Girl on the Magazine Cover," being written specifically for Frances Ramsden, who appeared with Harold Lloyd in "The Sin of Harold Diddlebock." No release has yet been arranged for either picture, California's two-picture deal with United Artists terminating with "Vendetta." There is possibility producer may re-sign with UA, although number of other distribution outfits are reported to be interested in his product.

EXAMINER, which originated the Golden Gloves fisticuffs in this area and then discarded the tournament in order to give boxing the cold shoulder, is reported anxious to get back into the cauliflower business. Recently its promotion department made a pitch to reclaim the affair for the development of punch drunk pugs. Understood the attempt met with an icy reception. The Times, which took over the Golden Gloves when Examiner dropped it, is reported to have signed a new three-year deal with the Hollywood Legion stadium for perpetuation of the promotional event.

EDDIE Albert was originally brought to Hollywood because of his success as a singing juvenile lead in "Boys from Syracuse," but subsequent film chores never called for singing. When Republic prexy Herbert Yates signed him for "Rendezvous with Annie," Albert asked that opportunity be given him to sing at least one song in the pic as condition for signing deal. Latter request was granted. As a result, Republic has signed him to a singing-starring role in "Hit Parade," with indications pointing toward Albert accepting only like chores in the future.

MILTON Sperling is trying something different with Gail Robbins, whom he has just placed under personal long-term contract as a member of United States Pictures stock company. Instead of building her up on screen as a personality, he has arranged for lengthy engagement at Copacabana in New York, later in fall, with probability she will go from there to Club Versailles. After she has done stint in several Broadway spots, then she will be brought back to Hollywood and set in top-budget musical United States will produce.

METRO is preparing to re-issue the five-year-old "Rage in Heaven." They figure that in 1939 public hadn't been conditioned to psychopathic theme of the pic, that 75 per cent of the movie-goers in 1941 didn't see the film, that a new lot of film goers has grown up since then and that to 90 per cent of the potential audience "Rage" will be a new film. Only thing now is to wait for the box office returns.

LOCATION schedule for Metro's "The Romance of Rosy Ridge" company reads like the itinerary of a road show. Troupe will be away from the studio for two months, working out of The Palomar Inn at Santa Cruz shooting at Santa Cruz and Seaside, 20 miles up the Coast. They then move to Kennedy Meadows and from there to Sonora. Company gets dude ranch headquarters in the Mother Lode country during the Kennedy Meadows stint.

U-I TOPPERS PLAN PRODUCTION AND DISTRIBUTION

Universal - International toppers yesterday began series of meetings on production and distribution plans for the newly-formed company. Toppers participating in the meetings, in addition to Scully, are William Goetz, Leo Spitz, Nate Blumberg, Matty Fox, William Dozier, Cliff Work and Joseph Seidelman.

J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of the board of Universal, was slated to arrive in New York last night from London by Clipper after a month in Europe. He is the last of Universal execs to return from the London meets with J. Arthur Rank. Cowdin is expected to join in the studio conferences next week.

Zoellner Here On Exhib Survey Tour

New York, Aug. 22. — William Zoellner, chief of Metro reissues and importations division, returned to the home office today from Chicago. He is slated to leave this weekend on second lap of a tour of the country to survey exhib reactions to reissues and imports, and huddle with branch managers. He will hit the south and midwest next, then the coast. He recently visited 12 cities in New England and the east.

Jourdan Gets Role In 'Paradine Case'

Louis Jourdan, French actor, recently signed and brought over here by David O. Selznick, was set yesterday to co-star with Gregory Peck and Ann Todd in Alfred Hitchcock's "The Paradine Case."

14 WB Shorts Set For Sept.-October

New York, Aug. 22. — Warners has set 14 shorts for release during September and October, Norman Moray announced. Eight shorts will go out in September and remainder in October.

RUBENSTEIN TO SCORN BOWL

As an aftermath of now bawling and brawling Hollywood Bowl salary and temperament wrangle, Artur Rubenstein has disclosed that he will never again play the Bowl—at any figure. Famed pianist, top notch soloist to have appeared at Bowl to date, condescended to work date for $2,500. Now, having learned through newspapers and disclosures of Jascha Heifetz's agent, Rudolph Polk, that Heifetz was booked at $5,000, Rubenstein has blown his top and the Bowl forever, he declares, taunted by jibes of fellow artists.

Pianist has also turned down an offer of $500,000 from Metro. He was offered half million in return for a three-year contract during which he was to be available for unspecified number of pictures. Offer was nixed because he refuses to play anything but his own selections, classical music, and because he feared involvement in things beneath his dignity, i.e., cinemantics of Jose Iturbi, a far cry from the concert and serious things.

Little Bungalow Lack is New Hazard on Location

Location set-ups, especially for indie producers, are currently being hampered by latest shortage to develop, it was disclosed yesterday. Producers have been fighting one kind of a shortage and another these many months and now comes a scarcity of those humble utilities immortalized by James Whitcomb Riley and Chick Sale.

One location manager yesterday was telephoning frenziedly to various outfits that rent portables, trying to line up enough comfort to take care of a troupe during several days of location shooting. He wasn't having any luck and finally paused, wiped the sweat from his brow and cracked:

"All I can think of is to get them to change the script to use Jackson's Hole, Wyoming."

Major studios, with their own equipment, are not having so much difficulty. Most of them are equipped with what are known as "honey wagons" mounted on either truck or trailer.

Indies, however, have been either renting or buying as location demands required.

Health authorities require special equipment be used and the old style star-and-crescent trimmed structure, or the dirt, lime and sidewall quickie substitute are strictly out.

Goldwyn Stiffens Writer Ranks With Top-Name Men

Samuel Goldwyn is building up his ranks of writers. With addition yesterday of Robert Russell, producer now has total of nine top-flight writers under contract.

Indications point toward Goldwyn reviving his writer format of 27 years ago, when he organized Eminent Authors Pictures, Inc., and engaged such literary toppers as Rupert Hughes, Mary Roberts Rinehart and Maurice Maeterlinck. Goldwyn is reported allocating heavy coin in current writer expansion program.

WORKS ON "TEXAS"

Russell checks into studio today to collaborate with playwright Robert Presnell on an adaptation of "Gone to Texas," a novel by John Thomason. Besides latter two, contract writers currently at work on screenplay assignments include Phil Rapp, Everett Freeman and Ken Englund, who together wrote the script of "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty." Mel Shavelson, top comedy writer, is currently collaborating with Englund and Freeman on a period college story that will co-star Danny Kaye and Teresa Wright.

BERCOVICI ON "WIFE"

Novelist Leonardo Bercovici is adapting Robert Nathan's yarn, "The Bishop's Wife," for production early next year. Cary Grant, David Niven and Teresa Wright have been announced for the leading roles. Daniel Fuchs has been assigned by Goldwyn to write an original for David Niven and Dana Andrews, while Michael Hogan is writing the screenplay of "The Broad Arrow," a novel by William McLeod Raine.

Apart from the writers under contract, Goldwyn has recently drawn upon such top scribbling talent at Gwethalyn Graham, MacKinlay Kantor, Robert Sherwood, and James Thurber. All are still serving in an advisory capacity on their individual works as they are being prepared for early production.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The Yugoslav crisis appears likely to have passed. The effect will be felt in the Conference of Paris and the United Nations if we follow through. As Senator Myers says, this was another "attempt to discourage the presence of Americans in Soviet dominated sectors of Europe and Asia." In all these countries, we have been obliged to toe the line according to the rules laid down by the Soviet and its satellites, in an apparent attempt to discourage us from remaining and also to make us realize we must not expect to secure the rights and freedoms demanded for the people. We've taken the rebuffs with a smile in an effort to make friends, but now that a step has been taken too far, we've finally shown our character. We've got to persist in insistence, regarding those plants in the Soviet zone of Germany making munitions and war materials for the Russians, regarding the promised rights for the people in all the Balkans, Hungary and Austria. We have the pattern for action—through the Security Council, as in the Yugoslav case—and in refusing admission to Paris or the United Nations of any nation, like Albania, Romania, and Bulgaria that does not grant the freedoms to its people solemnly promised in the Atlantic Charter and the United Nations Charter. Yugoslavia can be a turning point in world history. It's up to us.

Trail To Vengeance

UNIVERSAL RELEASE. Producer-director, Wallace W. Fox. Original screenplay, Bob Williams. Photography, Maury Gertsman. Editor, Russell Schoengarth. Musical director, Mark Levant. Art direction, John B. Goodman, Abraham Grossman. Set decorations, Russell A. Gausman, Ralph Warrington. Sound, Bernard B. Brown, William Hedgcock.

CAST—Kirby Grant, Fuzzy Knight, Jane Adams, Tom Fadden, John Kelly, Frank Jaquet, Stanley Andrews, Walter Baldwin, Roy Brent, Pierce Lyden, Dan White, Beatrice Gray, William Sundholm.

REVIEWED at Hitching Post Theatre, Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 22, 1946. Running time: 43 MINS.

"Trail to Vengeance' is formula saddle fodder which manages to keep spectator mildly engrossed. There are enough chases and fights—both gun and rough-and-tumble—to draw up attention just when the eye begins to wander to far horizon, and script handles characters pretty logically. Chief criticism of picture is its brevity, footage running only 43 minutes.

Brother of Kirby Grant, star of film, is murdered, and a banker moves in to foreclose on ranch. Widow doesn't know anything about such a plaster, since they have plenty of money in the bank. Grant smells a mouse, starts his own investigation and plot takes up from there, with hero finding himself plenty embroiled with assortment of heavies.

Fuzzy Knight teams with Grant, for comedy relief, warbling song number, "Huckleberry Pie," for musical divertissement. Jane Adams appears in leading femme role, but there's no suggestion of romance until last few feet. Grant never is entirely convincing as a westerner, but tries hard and does good enough job for a budget picture. Frank Jaquet plays banker, Tom Fadden top villain and John Kelly is in for some bruising action with Grant, in fights never too expertly staged.

Wallace W. Fox handles dual chore of producer-director, and does average job with assignment. Bob Williams wrote original screenplay, and Maury Gertsman lensed to good effect. Other technical credits, as well as supporting cast, are par.

Sid Talmadge Moves To Cartoon Records

Sid Talmadge, former Coast rep for Cosmo Records, has resigned and has joined Dave Fleischer's new waxery, Cartoon Records. He will be replaced by M. S. Wolf Distributing Co., which takes over circulating of Cosmo's platters. He had been with Cosmo two years. In new connection Talmadge has title of general manager and will supervise all distribution.

'APLEY' BEATS SKED, SAVES $160G

"The Late George. Apley,' with Fred Kohlmar producing and Joseph Mankiewicz directing, wound up 10 days ahead of schedule at 20th-Fox yesterday, which studio execs said meant a saving of $160,000. Mankiewicz and Kohlmar credited experienced cast, mostly from Broadway, and the Philip Dunne script for the saving in time. Ronald Colman, co-starring in the film with Peggy Cummins, gave a party for the cast and crew which was attended by author John P. Marquand, visiting Hollywood for first time.

FILMS AIRSHOW MAPPED BY KLAC AND WANGER

since networks have seemingly outgrown close industry cooperation film biz should step out on its own with giant public relations program which would combat adverse publicity and reflect overall intent, objectives, awareness of responsibility, contributions and other favorable facets of the business. Deal would be further hypoed by Bing Crosby's decision on transcriptions, and is gauged to fit desire of stations to conform with Federal Communications Commission's attitude on worthwhile sustainers.

Plan is reportedly being drawn up in rough by Fedderson and J. L. Kaufman, associate director of publicity at Universal-International, to whom it was turned over by Wanger. When set it will probably be fronted by Wanger to filmers with emphasis being put on super quality presentation involving tops in scripts, talent, production and complete general cooperation and availability of all personnel.

Generally, it would be dramatizations of picture making, from notion to polished production; excerpts from films, re-enactments of historic events in development of industry, behind-the-scenes stories, interviews, film music, dramatizations of filmdom's contributions, plus lacquered messages slanted to counteract pot shots at industry, its people, its leaders and its personal and professional business.

With idea indie station steals a march on Warners own KFWB and KMPC, so-called "Station of Stars." Advent will probably stimulate considerable reaction, particularly since latter, with new 50,000 watts, regards itself as the mouthpiece of Hollywood, and Warner station is already industry-affiliated.

THE GRAPEVINE: Sometimes, in the distance, a film studio looks like a great stone monster swallowing people, talents, money, hopes, all for the sake of a few silvery shadows. It looks as though it had the heart of a barracuda. Closer up, however, it becomes an organism with its own brand of generosity and understanding. Metro, for instance, kept the late Rags Ragland on the payroll until his death though it was under no such obligation. Same studio paid Susan Peters thousands of dollars worth of doctors' bills after she was injured in a hunting accident and kept her on the payroll at full salary. Recently, however, with one eye on its stockholders, Metro had to take her off pay. But the studio made up for it by signing her husband, Dick Quine, to a new contract with a hefty boost in salary . . . Dave Chasen returns tomorrow from New York and New Orleans on a talent hunt. Took his chef along to find some new hands at broiling, stewing and baking, Los Angeles talent being mainly of the short order cook variety . . . Dan Parker, hard-hitting sports editor of the NY Mirror, is working in the Metro shorts department during his vacation . . . Producer Milton Sperling bought director Raoul Walsh a box of coronas for setting a new speed record on "Pursued." Walsh came through with 24 set-ups in one day of shooting interiors and 17 on location for one day.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: The stage mother is probably the most ancient villain in show business. Harried producers and directors have referred to them in moments of spleen as harpies, vultures, ghouls and other less printable names. Comes as a surprise, therefore, that the 35 kids who sing and dance in "Wizard of Oz" were highly praised by the management for their stage discipline as well as their talent. It seems that the kids were trained by Gladys and Mauri Rubens, who teach them discipline and dance routines—and the devil take cuteness and precocious charm. Secondly, the children's parents are sternly segregated and not allowed to interfere with their training . . . Lou Nova will play a Cossack in "Russian River," the forthcoming Nelson Eddy-Jeanette MacDonald starrer . . . Janis Paige's sister Betty, who works on the Warner lot as a stenographer, suffered a broken ankle and is limping around in a cast . . . H. D. Hover of Ciro's is tossing a swimming party and barbecue Sunday afternoon for the fan mag photogs . . . Walt Disney's brother Roy is in Paris searching for a new cartoon character idea . . . S. Z. Sakall passed his exams and will be sworn into American citizenship in January.

CALL SHEET: EDDIE ALBERT is being coached by Burl Ives for his singing role in Republic's "Hit Parade of 1947" . . . DICK ERDMAN leaves the Warner lot this week for a long stay in New York and a return to legit . . . BOBBY BREEN, once a boy film star, hits the comeback trail in autumn with an appearance at Chicago's Chez Paree . . . ROSEMARY DECAMP returns to her Dr. Christian airshow Aug. 28. It will be the start of her tenth year with the program . . . BARBARA NUGENT, daughter of Elliott, left yesterday to attend school at Geneva, Switzerland. She played a bit in "Welcome Stranger," directed by her father, during her stay in Hollywood . . . GWEN DAVIES, war bride from Abertillery, Wales, made her film debut yesterday in Paramount's "Golden Earrings." She conversed on the set with Ray Milland in Welsh. Star was born near Gwen's hometown . . . ROBERT MITCHUM is writing a book of children's stories based on incidents in the history of the West . . . SONJA HENIE is due from New York via American Airlines today . . . CONSTANCE MOORE'S 18-year-old sister is visiting her and has been offered a screen test by Otto Preminger at 20th-Fox . . . LAURITZ MELCHIOR is nursing burned hands today. In a scene for "This Time for Keeps," Jimmy Breen, seven-year-old playing a candle-bearing choirboy, stumbled and his robes caught fire. Melchior, a step behind, rolled him on the floor and beat out the flames with his hands.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Contract offers and picture deals are buzzing around Danny Kaye's head. Comic has one more picture to do for Samuel Goldwyn when he finishes "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty." Then he goes on a p.a. tour. Against his return Metro, Universal-International and Warners are dangling story properties before him. In the last few days Danny and his wife, Sylvia Fine, have been spending a lot of time on the Warner lot—and there seems to be something cooking in the Green Room besides the food . . . Forget-me-not note: Natalie Thompson, ex-wife of Bob Hutton, is leaving for Paris shortly and going through the passport process. She had to call Bob, to whom she was married for two years, to find out his age and birth-date for the questionnaire . . . Off the lots: California Cabana Club opening drew the upper crust, with Bob Hutton winning a case of cognac, Mary Benny a case of champagne and Alexis Smith, Eleanor Parker, Ann Miller and Steffi O'Keefe won John Frederics hats, given as door prizes. Louis Calhern at the Saddle & Sirloin. Dick Arlen and wife at The Kings . . . Six of the Seven Foys—Bryan, Richard, Irving, Madeline, Mary and Charlie—held a reunion at the latter's nightspot . . . Charles R. Rogers must have a lot of confidence in his picture, or the reviewers, or something. He's previewing "Angel on My Shoulder" on Friday the 13th.—D.D.T.

NEW GOVT TOUGH RATION POLICY TO HIT THEATRE BLDG

Washington, Aug. 22.—Theatre construction is expected to be hit further by a sharp slash in non-residential construction due to be ordered within the next two or three weeks by Federal Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt.

In an effort to provide more material for residential units Wyatt has announced a "tough ration" policy which may slash industrial and public works building by anywhere from 20 to 50 per cent.

Theatre construction has been limping since the end of the war due to material shortages and the construction ban already in force.

The Hoopers are still hopping around limply in the lower registers but soon again the first teams will be fielded and the spiral that looks like a cyclone funnel in gear for its upward sweep. In a last desperate lunge befor the shimmery curtain of summer falls, many of the seersucker brigade reared up from their low estates and caught the Hooper checkers for a plus. Another full-timer, "Aldrich Family," shows the way to the Friday flock using 1.3 pickup to fashion a 9.2.

The others foundered and oscillated thusly: Dick Haymes 6.1, up 1.2; Lum and Abner 2.9, up .4; Meredith Willson 4.3, down .2; Kraft Music Hall 7.6, up .2; "Phone Again Finnegan" 3.5, off .2; Tommy Riggs 3.6, up .4. Best gain was posted by "Vacation with Music," hoisted to 6 by 2.6 upshot.

AFL Defines Carpenter Solves H'wood Riddle

When is a carpenter not a carpenter? When he is engaged in erection work!

The AFL Executive Council made public this decision yesterday when it defined erection work to mean assemblage of sets on stages or location — something like putting a jigsaw puzzle together. All such erection work, the union's executive council stated, belongs to the IATSE Set Erectors, Local 468.

A carpenter is really carpentering, in the opinion of the top labor body, when he does all mill work and carpenter shop work in studios. Defining latter as construction work, the executive council ruled it belonged under the jurisdiction of Carpenters Local 946, UBCJA.

Clarification of the jurisdiction award of December 25, 1945 is expected to end dispute which has raged between the carpenters and the IA set erectors. Carpenters claim the wrongful interpretation of the award has deprived them of 500 jobs. Union charges that the IA local has stretched the word "erection" to mean "construction." Understood William L. Hutcheson, international prexy of the carpenters and first veepee of the AFL, was behind the move to get official clarification of last year's jurisdictional award.

FILM STOCKS HOLD IN MARKET SKID

New York, Aug. 22.—Bad break in American Telephone stock on today's market, which sloughed many industrial shares, had only a minor effect on film stocks. In fact, Universal and 20th common held even on the day and Paramount rose seven-eights. Loew's and Warners' lost three-quarters each and others were off fractionally.

FRISCO CRITIC RAPS RELIGIOUS SLANT

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—In review of San Francisco news today by Claude La Bell on MGM's "The Green Years" La Bell voiced objection to introduction of religion though otherwise lauding production. La Bell says "The chief objection is that I resent having a specific religion crammed down my throat in the guise of entertainment.

"I see no reason for this church propaganda finding its way so frequently onto the screen. In this particular instance I cannot see that it forwarded the picture in any way. It was an overtone heavily laid on."

NEW TRUST PLAN HITS PRODUCERS WITH THEATRES

ert Wright, pix specialist for the Division are causing a furor in the industry with the indies welcoming them with open arms. They are unpalatable to the majors but some sources in the Justice Department hint that if the New York Court should adopt them there is a possibility that a Government appeal to the Supreme Court for complete divorcement might not be made.

Under the proposals which were disclosed in New York by counsel for one of the majors, Justice Dept. would prevent theatres of one major from licensing films of other theatre owning majors for at least 10 years.

SHOWCASES SHUT OFF

Proposition of course means that in many of the largest situations in the country some of the big studios would be unable to obtain showcase playing time for their product. Since the showcases are mostly controlled by one or more of the Big Five.

Other proposals by Wright would prevent the Big Five from making any expansion in present theatre holdings and would compel them to carry through the partial divorcement ordered in the decree within two years. Wright would also ease up on the single picture selling provisions for the benefit of the indies.

"None of this represents a final determination by the Anti-Trust Division," Berge pointed out today. "The Department has been holding conferences with different groups and trying out ideas on them. Memoranda are being sent around. They are trial balloons.

"Wright's proposal does not mean that that is what the Department is going to ask in October. We have not taken any final determination of our position yet. Anything said or written at this time is purely tentative."

Berge did indicate however that Wright's new proposition is the most workable that has been offered for consideration so far.

MYERS LIKES IDEA

Abram F. Myers, chairman of the board of Allied States Exhibitors, welcomed the Wright proposal as perhaps "better than divorcement itself," speaking for himself and not for his board.

"The Government's proposal to enjoin each theatre owning defendant from playing the pictures of other theatre-owning defendants, is a logical development," he said in a statement. "The idea was advanced by Mr. Wright during the final argument when he was being pressed by the court to suggest an alternative to theatre divorcement."

Down Mexico Way

By LUISA MARIA ALVAREZ

Mexico City, Aug. 22.—"Santa" was practically the beginning of the Mexican motion picture industry. It is the name of the heroine of a novel by Federico Gamboa. "Santa" was filmed here during the silent screen days, when we had neither studios nor markets. Elena Sanchez Valenzuela was starred. Our motion picture people of today have forgotten her. However, a copy of the old film will be sent to the Modern Art Museum of New York.

The second version of "Santa" was made about fifteen years ago with a lovely, young, unknown girl in the title role. When the picture was released the name of Lupita Tovar became known over the country. But the young actress soon married Paul Kohner and was lost to the Mexican screen. She is back now, as lovely as ever, and will soon begin work in "Three White Orchids." And there are possibilities that Lupita may remain in Mexico.

"There are times when I feel I never want to leave this country, and others, when something quite absurd and annoying happens, I decide to leave as soon as possible . . ." Paul Kohner told me.

I understood perfectly. One always feels about Mexico its undeniable charm and beauty, and then, suddenly, no water comes out of the faucet, or some other equally silly and annoying inconvenience is felt. But if one lives here long enough to realize that those small annoying things are just that, small things, then one can actually begin to feel the full beauty even beyond snow capped volcanos and incredible cloud formations.

And even Mexico's scenic beauty, to say nothing of its history, has barely been touched by our cinema. Xochimilco, Puebla, Cholula, Guadalajara, Juanajuato, Acapulco, are a few of the spots discovered by our cameras in a country that differs widely from north to south, in climate, culture, habits and local color.

Jorge Negrete has been popularizing (more so) his name throughout Spanish America. His next picture will probably be for Oscar Dancingers with the Argentinian Libertad Lamarque as co-star.

Another of our male stars who has been touristing southward is Abel Salazar. But the only fair picture made by Salazar was "A Man Has Kissed Me," and stellar honors really went to Maria Elena Marquez. Abel is a pretty boy who seems to be frantically busy putting that fact over on the audience. That and nothing more.

More and more rumors about Hollywood offers to Maria Felix . . . if she will kindly learn English. Personally, I hope she doesn't. Who are we going to rave about if the incomparable Maria goes off to Hollywood? Yes, most of us feel that way about her.

A few days ago a wealthy cattle ranch owner from one of our northern states confessed to me that he had made a hurried special plane trip to attend a bull fight in this city because he knew Maria Felix would be there. The man almost landed in jail as a result of fighting his way through the crowd so that he could take "one close honest-to-goodness look" at the star.

"It was worth it," he assured me.

Bea Boynton (Bea Boynton Suggests . . .) from Pasadena, collecting material for her column and radio talks . . . Don Alvarado touristing around with attorney Francisco Lopez Figueroa . . . Stage comedian Roberto Soto, cinemactress Isabella Corona, Susana Guizar and Maria Luisa Zea and actor Crox Alvarado forming their own movie producing company : . . "Una Extrana Mujer" with Roberto Silva, Alicia Barrie and Andres Soler heading cast is ready for release . . . So is "Salon Fru-Fru," starring Hugo del Garril, with Carmen Montejo in femme lead . . . Ray Milland and Errol Flynn have made reservations at the Hotel Reforma.

McCarey Drops His Megaphone

Leo McCarey will shelve his megaphone for the balance of 1946 to confine his activities to producing. McCarey, it was learned yesterday, has set his contemplated "Adam and Eve" over to his 1947 schedule. He is trying to sign two directors for this and another story.

METRO SKEDS FIVE SHORT SERIES FOR COMING SEASON

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Metro has scheduled five series of shorts totaling 52 reels for the new season, William Rodgers announced at the sales convention here today. The shorts will be sold on a one-or-all basis under the company's newly outlined policy. Shorts include 10 single-reel Pete Smiths, 16 single-reel Technicolor cartoons, 12 one-reel FitzPatrick traveltalks, six Passing Parades and four two-reel specials.

Rodgers is slated to leave here Saturday for Coast for a week of huddles with studio execs.

Quint Named For Top 'Noon' Roles

Stirling Hayden, Sonny Tufts, William Holden, John Lund and William Bendix yesterday were all announced for lead roles in "Blaze of Noon." Production is scheduled to roll Oct. 3 with John Farrow directing and Harry Tugend producing. Film marks Hayden's return to the screen since doffing uniform.

Smith, Parker, Scott, Greenstreet, Young Set

Alexis Smith, Eleanor Parker, Zachary Scott, Sydney Greenstreet and Gig Young yesterday were set for leads in "The Woman in White." Peter Godfrey will direct for producer Henry Blanke. Lensing will begin in a few weeks.

THURMAN ARNOLD, ZIFFREN MEET ON TRUST DECREE

Paul Ziffren, senior partner in Los Angeles law firm of Ziffren, Schwartz & Steinberg, local attorneys for Enterprise, planes to Washington over weekend for confabs with Thurman Arnold, Enterprise's legal rep in National Capital.

Pair will discuss anti-trust decree as it relates to indie producers releasing through major distribution channels. Arnold is understood to have discovered that anti-trust decree, as handed down in June by Federal Government, doesn't protect indies who release through majors, and Ziffren is going east for talks with Arnold on initiating a move for proper coverage of such indies, particularly Enterprise. Decree has not yet become final, and attorneys will attempt to remedy situation insofar as it applies to Enterprise.

ue to undercover feud between New ork and Chicago locals.

Elections, which will be conducted nd completed on Sunday, last day f convention, are expected to be hot —but not hottest issue on agenda. New wage scales and working conditions to be incorporated in codes for resentation to networks are expected o stimulate warm sessions. There's he likelihood that a few wild resolutions, a la Petrillo, and there are ome smouldering, will further heat p proceedings.

Attempts are being made to get Edward Arnold to run. Regarded as union-conscious and a worker, Arnold is general favorite and a cinch for election if accepting nomination. Dick Powell is also being proposed, is said to be disinclined, and generally regarded as not sufficently interested or active. Other is Virginia Payne, prexy of Chicago local, and creator of soaperas' vet character, "Ma Perkins." Nominee must be a member of national board and she is only likely other candidate because of holding that status. Eddie Cantor and Lawrence Tibbett, former president and board member, are eliminated. Name personality is most desired, so it's probable that considerable heat will be put on Arnold to help union public relations-wise.

PAYNE EXPERIENCED

Miss Payne, regarded as probably most active AFRA officer, is expected to be opposed by at least 80 per cent of New York group, repping some 90-odd delegates as compared to L.A. local's 96. She's carrying all of Chi's weight and is considered most acceptable alternate by L.A. Afrans. Therefore, with Chi and L.A. sticking together, providing Arnold demurs, it's hoped to put her over. She is now also first v-p of national board.

Delegates began piling into Hollywood and L.A. Wednesday and yesterday. Remainder get in this morning making total of rough 200 delegates here. Second and third days' sessions are expected to be liveliest and most important. On second day new code will be virtually set, and on closing day final reports of coordinating committee on national negotiations will be made, along with final report on resolutions and elections. Date and location of next conclave will also be set at this, AFRA's biggest convention to date in eight year history.

Substantial increases in asking prices for both live and transcription performing are expected to result. Reports are that union will peg them high, similar to what local asked here for announcers, and will probably settle on average 30 per cent hike.

TELE PROBLEMS LOOM

Also to be taken up are problems of television jurisdiction, performances on recordings, a new field, and establishment of some type of public relations, a field heretofore neglected by union as whole. Union is reportedly eager to reply to alleged labeling of "communist" credited to Research Institute of America, and desirous of setting up public relations to assist in national negotiations and events thereafter.

From space reserved for observers, or from floor, may come cries against monopoly of work by select groups in each key city, attempts at setting up standby rules, similar to musicians union, for payment of non-working actors by audience participating programs, and demands for payment of announcers and choirs on religious programs. Insurgence of muttering non-workers is said to be cooling but everyone's holding their breath — and for more than one reason.

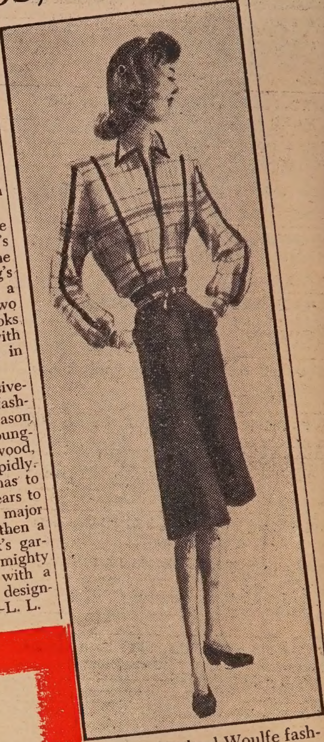
About Fashions . . . Selma Robinson, Editor; Louise Levitas, Associate

Movie Styles, But Good!

The dress which Loretta Young shows off to such advantage here and the dress sketched below were designed for her by Michael Woulfe, aged 26, a Brooklyn boy who made good in Hollywood. Miss Young wears them as part of a handsome Fall wardrobe in the movie thriller, The Stranger, which opened yesterday at the Palace.

If you want to know what the movie is like, see Cecelia Ager's review on page 18. As for the clothes, everything in Miss Young's movie closet, from a negligee to a bridal gown, and including the two sports costumes shown here, looks simple but rich—in keeping with the well-heeled role she plays in The Stranger

This simple kind of expensiveness is kind of rare in movie fashions and is probably the reason why Woulfe, the newest and youngest fashion designer in Hollywood, has rushed to eminence so rapidly. From where he is now, he has to look back only a few short years to the time when he was an art major at Erasmus Hall High and then a shipping clerk in New York's garment district. Must be a mighty satisfying view for a lad with a fat five-year contract now, designing things for glamor girls!—L. L.



Another Michael Woulfe fashion, this dress with a plaid flannel blouse and belt in two soft tones of green, and a solid wool skirt in forest green. The high club collar is edged in the same forest green wool which stripes the blouse

Thanks

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

WARNER Bros. look to returned veterans from the various armed services during the month of September. Producer Owen Crump bows in his first producing assignment with "Night Unto Night," and it stars former cavalryman Ronald Reagan. Director-writer John Huston, recently from the Army, gets away on "Treasure of Sierra Madre" for Henry Blanke. Wayne Morris, former Navy flier, goes into "Deep Valley," and Gig Young, late of the Coast Guard, gets a top spot in "The Woman in White." Both Reagan and Young had previous credits, "Stallion Road" and "Escape Me Never," respectively, but for the other three it's the first breath of civilian air and business activity surrendered so long ago.

KXLA and KGER have been dropped as outlets for Safeway Stores' sponsoring of aired full length operas from San Francisco. Time on KLAC has been taken instead. At last minute Friday, Foote, Cone & Belding agency and United Pacific Network decided on KLAC as preferable to cover lower California area. KXLA was to cover for Los Angeles, and KGER, Long Beach, was to cover San Diego. KLAC, though unable to carry live broadcasts of operas simultaneously with others in special network, will carry them delayed via transcription. Previous baseball commitments do not permit blanket optioning or flat four hours for operas, so for first few broadcasts KLAC will carry them delayed and plattered.

FOLLOWING two years of experimentation, Walter Kempton, special effects expert, has created a special solution to enhance brilliance of colors in movie fire scenes. First use of solution will be in Comet's Cinecolor production, "The Adventures of Don Coyote." Effect is reported to be spectacular, as caught by Cinecolor cameras.

METRO is developing a new system in advertising and exploiting its films. One line slogans for films is the plan from here on in. "Adventure" teed the program off with "Gable's Back and Garson's Got Him." Recent slogans, which finally convinced studio to retain the idea, were " 'The Green Years' is a Wonderful Motion Picture" and "This Is the Year of 'The Yearling.' " Advertising copy is going to be cut down extensively in wordage, with the single line slogans being featured most prominently.

KIEV is attemptnig to get away from discs and canned programs and is going for live talent and setting pace for other local indie stations. Station already has upped live programming from nothing to approximate 10 per cent of its total and is adding more. THOUGH Paramount's Television Productions, Inc., is seemingly walking away with local video scene with special programming and exploitation of its activities, insiders claim Don Lee station would be right there in competition if it weren't that latter is somewhat hampered due to continuing work and experiments for government and armed forces that tie up personnel and equipment.

PRODUCER Seymour Nebenzal had to re-shoot murder of Michele Morgan in scene in "The Chase." First shooting came out with actress looking so alluring and sexy that murder weapon and actual killing were subdued by the allure. New murder scene tones down star's charms, so proper attention by audiences will be paid to killing.

Mr. Ace

(Comedy-Drama)

UNITED ARTISTS RELEASE. Producer, Benedict Bogeaus. Director, Edwin L. Marin. Assistant to producer, Carley Harriman. Production associate, Arthur M. Landau. Original story and screenplay, Fred Finklehoffe. Photography, Karl Struss. Production designer, Ernst Fegte. Set decorations, Fred Widdowson. Musical supervisor, David Chudnow. Music score, Heinz Roemheld. Sound, William Lynch. Assistant director, Joseph Depew. Miss Sidney's costumes, Michael Woulfe. Makeup, Otis Malcolm. Hair stylist, Scotty Rackin. Film editor, James Smith. Song, "Now and Then," by Fred Finkelhoffe and Sid Silvers, introduced by Joyce Bryant and Flennoy Trio.

CAST — George Raft, Sylvia Sidney, Stanley Ridges, Sara Haden, Jerome Cowan, Sid Silvers, Alan Edwards, Roman Bohnen.

PREVIEWED at Four Star Theatre, Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 23, 1946. Running time: 83 MINS.

"Mr. Ace" shapes up rather neatly as a starring vehicle for George Raft and Sylvia Sidney and that about lets it out. The picture is light drama that won't get the audiences unduly excited and, on the other hand, furnishes enough mild entertainment to keep them from getting bored. Box office returns will depend pretty largely on pull of the Raft-Sidney names on the marquee.

Raft appears to advantage as a machine politician in a story that barely hints at connection with racket angles. Political corruption is prominently mentioned now and again in the dialogue but action doesn't come right out and show any of it.

Miss Sidney is more gorgeous than political as a congresswoman running for governor. One is inclined to agree with statement of Raft that she is "too beautiful for politics," but nevertheless gets in some good licks as a smart and not too scrupulous politician. Failing to get support of Raft and his organization she influences one of his henchmen to double-cross him. Raft retaliates with a little dirty politics of his own, involving the lady's domestic difficulties and threatening a scandal.

Needless to say, the political battling is complicated by the softening influence of love on both opponents. Miss Sidney and Raft both see the light and become disgusted with machine politics at about the same time. She quits the governor race and he thereupon connives from the background to get her to re-enter, throws the support of his organization to her and gets her elected before she knows who's back of the deal.

Story loses much of its potential drama through being told in series of scenesin which close-up tableaux of Raft and Miss Sidney predominate. The pair are repeatedly posed at expense of the action. But Director Edwin L. Marin has generally managed to get things in motion in the nick of time to keep the yarn from bogging down.

Action is also livened by Sid Silvers as Raft comedy handyman, Jerome Cowan as Miss Sidney's campaign manager, and Alan Edwards as the husband who wants only a divorce and finally gets it.

Production chores have been adequately handled by Benedict Bogeaus and his associate, Arthur M. Landau. Settings are generally lavish. Photography by Karl Struss has been keyed down to the point where it gets a near-mystery atmosphere in spots but is nevertheless clear and sharp.

West of Vermont Area Has First Run Bulge

First run motion picture exhibition in Los Angeles has taken Horace Greeley literally; it has gone west! Steadily expanding westward toward Hollywood and Beverly Hills over past half dozen years, situation has now reached point where there are twice as many first run houses west of Vermont avenue as there are downtown—and more portend. Seatwise, ratio is 26,164 to 18,569, or half again as many as lower L.A. With arrival of at least three more, possibly within year, seating situation will approximately duplicate present comparative theatre figures of two to one.

It's a case of the mountain going to Mohammed. Just as New York's center gradually expanded northward, local parallel is found in growth of Los Angeles west and northwest. Exhibitors and distributors, to keep 'em coming, have met situation by going along via changeovers and new construction.

Continuing to hold fort—though not so much their former status—in downtown L.A. are: Hillstreet, Orpheum, United Artists, Warners, Paramount, Los Angeles, Music Hall and Loew's State. In Vermont area and extending westward are: Belmont, Uptown, Wiltern, Hawaii, Music Hall, Paramount, Warners, Egyptian, Chinese, Pantages, Guild, Ritz, El Rey, Vogue, Wilshire and Music Hall (Beverly Hills). Auguring for latter group are a new Paramount, at Wilshire and Doheny, another Pantages theatre opposite the May Co., on west Wilshire, and Fox-West Coast's new Loyola, at Sepulveda and Manchester.

Paramount alone among majors is without showcase in outer reaches of L.A. area. Others have some outlets, if only subsequent runs. But situation will be remedied soon as building restrictions are lifted. Pantages, too, will build when permitted. Loyola is certainly for F-WC. Theatre is now virtually complete and will seat 1,200. It'll probably run day and date with Chinese, Uptown and State, at same admission prices as de luxer, and featuring large auto parking space. Arrival of latter trio will swell outlaying first runners to 19.

In addition there are part-timers and moveover sites, Carthay Circle, Four Star and, currently, Laurel, offering total of 3,264 additional seats with respective 1,518, 900 and 846. Current operation of Marcal as first run moveover with "Outlaw," and 1,196 seats, hikes hit 'n' run total to 4,460. Overall totals hop to 30,624 seats in 20 west-of-Vermont locations, servicing seven distributor pools comprised of 20th-Fox, Metro, Warners, RKO, United Artists, Paramount and Universal.

Coast Indies Petition U.S. To Protect Film Rentals

Following four-day board session at Ambassador, Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners announced decision to make two recommendations to government regarding application of new decree.

"At proper time," PCCITO will suggest to Justice Department that prescribed licensing of films will not only permit but encourage procuring of exhorbitant rentals. This would tend toward admission hikes, says PCCITO, and thus be detrimental to public, and may further monopoly found by court. PCCITO will recommend some method to be devised to fortify licensing against abuse.

Group's trustees also point out decision provides licensing pix at minimum prices together with percentages. This, they feel, automatically precludes proper determination of highest bidder if allowed.

PCCITO holds inasmuch as intent of court and provisions of decision is that pictures shall be licensed to highest bidder, it's impossible to judge same if percentages are permitted. Group will recommend distributors be required to offer pix for license at agreed fees, sans percentages, to assure pix going to highest bidder.

As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The main problem remains: How to get along with Russia? That's the question behind the Yugoslavian affair, which so far is working out fairly well. The Yugoslavs have a point in connection with our planes flying over their country. No military plane, armed or unarmed, is permitted by international law to fly over the territory of any foreign nation without permission. And out flyers, to save time on a more direct route, were probably going over in fair numbers. Those pilots didn't see why not. But the Yugoslavs, tutored by Russians, who fired on our planes over Korea and Manchuria, at Vienna, and even buzzed General Clark, are suspicious, and trigger-happy. Their state of mind is indicated in the Russian and Ukrainian delegates' walking out of that game in Paris—because they did not have front seats, and the United States did. The policy is getting even more isolationist now, as indicated in the ouster of Litvinov, and in permitting us to have only one consulate in all Russia, recalling our Naval attaches at Archangel and Vladivostok. When we're friendly, we're taken advantage of. When we get tough, they just won't play. The trouble is that discouraging as it may be—we've got to persevere.

Under Nevada Skies

(Musical Western)

REPUBLIC RELEASE. Associate producer, Edward J. White. Director, Frank McDonald. Second unit director, Yakima Canutt. Screenplay, Paul Gangelin, J. Benton Cheney. Original story, M. Coates Webster. Photography, William Bradford. Art direction, Paul Youngblood. Set decorations, John McCarthy, Jr., Otto Siegel. Musical director, Morton Scott. Music score, Dale Butts. Editor, Edward Mann. Sound, Victor Appel.

CAST—Stars Roy Rogers and Trigger. Features George "Gabby" Hayes, Dale Evans. Supporting players, Douglass Dumbrille, Leyland Hodgson, Tristram Coffin, Rudolph Anders, LeRoy Mason, George Lynn, George J. Lewis, Tom Quinn, Bob Nolan and Sons of the Pioneers.

PREVIEWED in Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 23, 1946. Running time: 70 MINS.

"Under Nevada Skies," thoroughly upholds the standard previously set for Roy Rogers starrers. Film is packed with song numbers, excitement and action, the type which will have juve audiences yelling and their elders interested in a well-worked out mystery. In the hands of Edward J. White, picture carries class production values, and Frank McDonald's direction is tops. George "Gabby" Hayes and Dale Evans again appear with western star, each contributing customary good performance.

Story by M. Coates Webster, scripted by Paul Gangelin and J. Benton Cheney, has Roy trying to solve the murder of an old friend, Leyland Hodgson. Latter's death revolves around a jeweled crest which he stole years before from Miss Evans' father, and which a gang headed by Douglass Dumbrille is trying desperately to locate. Reason for the quest remain sa mystery, however, until fadeout, when it is disclosed that crest held secreted a map showing location of rich deposit of pitchblend, from which uranium is derived.

Rogers enlists aid of "Gabby" Hayes, an old watchmaker, who is acting sheriff during official's absence from town of Bear Valley, Nevada, and together they follow number of leads which finally leads them to coveted map. Plot has been well handled, for most part, but certain loose ends are never tied, such as identity of actual murderer of Hodgson.

Hard riding is a feature of the piece, Rogers on Trigger, and there are a sufficient number of gunfights and knock-down-drag-out battles to keep attention constantly riveted on action. Rogers is at his best in the role of radio star who returns to his home town and is drawn into murder mystery. Both he and Miss Evans warble number of songs which spectators should find pleasing. Femme looks pretty in her character, and Hayes is in for his usual brand of clever comedy.

Supporting cast without exception is first-rate, Dumbrille scoring with a suave portrayal, Hodgson making most of a small role, LeRoy Mason playing a killer. Songs by Bob Nolan and Sons of the Pioneers are melodic, too.

Technical creditsare of high quality, William Bradford's photography particularly outstanding, other assignments in kind.

Ory in 'New Orleans'

Edward "Kid" Ory has been signed by Jules Levey for featured stint in "New Orleans." Ory was early-time jazz artist.

TERSE TAGS SAVE EXHIBS COIN IN MARQUEE JUICE

Studios are giving more attention to exhibitor relations in view of rising costs in theatre operations. Special exhibitor contacts are being set up in flackeries. One result is trend toward short, terse film tags. The one-word eye-catchers, which allow for prominent marqueeing at low electric cost, appear the vogue.

Warner Bros. currently has single tag films like "Humoresque" and "Cheyenne" in cans, with "Possessed" and "Deception" nearing winding stage. Milton Sperling's "Pursued," being made by United States Pictures at Warner Bros., is following the trend.

Exhibs have shown favorable reaction in recent weeks to such tags as RKO's "Notorious" and "Heartbeat," and 20th-Fox's "Laura" and "Smoky." Another angle on popularity of single name films is current short newsprint situation. With space squeezes enforced in many situations, exhibs can obtain maximum display in small ads by blowing-up pithy tags.

Slim Gaillard Asks Morris Free Him

"Slim" Gaillard Saturday asked for release from managerial contract with William Morris office. Gaillard is understood to have disagreed over coin. Agency is expected to reply to Gaillard early this week.

JOAN LESLIE WINS INJUNCTION SUIT

Joan Leslie was granted injunction over the weekend by Federal Judge Campbell E. Beaumont forbidding Warners from exhibiting "Two Guys From Milwaukee," with a show cause order returnable today. Company will be required to show cause why the injunction should not be continued until Miss Leslie's libel action is tried.

Actress obtained the temporary injunction on charges that the studio gave her feature rather than star-billing, to which she claims to be entitled. She is suing Warners for $2,725,000.

THE GRAPEVINE: Ray Milland is understood to be hot on the trail of the lead role in "The Hucksters." Paramount and Metro deny there's a loan-out deal in the making, but there's a possibility Milland may get the role he's set his sights on . . . Barry Fitzgerald is lined up for "Rip Van Winkle" in the forthcoming Gene Fowler-E. H. Griffith film version. It will be slightly disconcerting to hear that Dublin accent bouncing around the Catskills, but there's a rumor going around the picture will be retitled "Rip O'Winkle" . . . At the preview of "No Leave, No Love," Van Johnson was so thoroughly protected by a cordon of studio men as he left the theatre that an old Chicago resident must have thought the days of Al Capone were back. Unless you caught a glimpse of the innocent Johnsonian features, you'd have thought a gang lord was on the prowl with his boys. A shrill mass of bobbysoxers, waving autograph books and eyelashes, didn't have a chance to get through the manpower surrounding their idol . . . The Dead End Kids are going highbrow. Huntz Hall and Gabriel Dell are going on a three-month vaudeville tour of the South with a 16-piece band that will play, among other things, chamber music! . . . Stork Schedules: The Mark Stevens' baby is due in two weeks; Celeste Holm and Schuyler Dunning expect theirs about Christmas time.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Stranger in Stetson and high-heeled boots ankled into the Hitching Post the other noon with bulging saddlebags under his arm. Inside he opened the saddlebags and took out an assortment of sandwiches, which he munched during a dozen reels of gunplay and giddyap . . . Maurice Chevalier has been signed to star in "Golden Silence," first film to be made in Paris by RKO in association with Pathe Cinema. Robert Pirosh, RKO writer, left over the weekend for Paris to collaborate with Rene Clair, who will produce and direct, on the screenplay . . . Ray Van Ettisch, managing editor of the L.A. Examiner, is enjoying a fisherman's dream on vacation on the Rogue river—he's fishing from the front porch of his cottage overlooking the river and hooking salmon . . . Bob Taplinger, now a Paramount producer, sold a slogan and idea to Jack Frye, TWA prexy, for $10,000. It's a "gift trip" hookup . . . Fritz Kortner was called for another scene in "The Brasher Doubloon" at 20th-Fox, though he had been told his role was finished and he had planned a weekend trip. So Kortner canceled the trip and showed up at the studio to find that all he had to do for the scene was lie on the floor, gun in hand, and play dead . . . Carola Alena, working in Paramount's "The Emperor Waltz," was born in Georgia (Russia, that is) and her family lived near Joseph Stalin's—but she's strictly a down-the-line Democrat.

CALL SHEET: FRANCIS CUGAT, prominent artist and brother of Xavier, has been signed as color director on "Desert Town" by Hal Wallis . . . MICHAEL O'SHEA got an attractive offer for one of the two horses he owns but turned it down. "I refuse to be known as 'One Horse O'Shea,' " he stated . . . BURT LANCASTER, hitherto more familiar with the Broadway brand of snake, has been initiated into the Ancient Arizona Order of Rattlesnake Killers. Killed a rattler near Tuba on the "Desert Town" location . . . LENORE AUBERT is getting an unexpected chunk of coin from an inventor, aided by her family in Vienna some years ago, who has patented a new toy which manufacturers believe will be a best-seller . . . ROBERT BASSLER, 20th producer, is hearing plenty of complaints on changing the title of "The High Window" to "The Brasher Doubloon." The loyalty of Raymond Chandler's readers being what it is—high octane—he wishes they would understand that the new title is the name of a rare coin which figures prominently in the story . . . MARIA MONTEZ and JEAN PIERRE AUMONT plane out today for New York and Paris.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Of all the Hearst editorial campaigns, launched with froth and fury, none have fizzled so flatulently as the anti-lewd literature witch-hunt, which so far has netted two bookstore clerks no more responsible for the publication and distribution of "Memoirs of Hecate County" than William Randolph Hearst . . . Off the lots: J. Edgar Hoover dining at the House of Murphy. Lina Romay and Harry Karl at Breneman's. Jay Gould III tossing a birthday party for Marie Allison at Ciro's. The John Murrays and Ben Freedmans dining at the Brown Derby. Grace Hayes getting the cake-and-champagne treatment at Charlie Foy's in celebration of her birthday. ZASU PITTS OKAY, BUT 'CORDELIA' NEEDS OCTANE

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 25.—Zasu Pitts opened Shubert legit season here in "Cordelia." Play is featherweight vehicle for comedienne and will need more than high octane doctoring to propel it to Broadway.

Production minimizes utilizing Pitts comedy talents and makes her sort of good-doer, a character with limited appeal. B schedule is the best the script could hope for as film possibility.

Acting of sizable cast is pretty routine stuff; small opportunity for individual standouts. Miss Pitts does okay with what is handed to her; Curtis Cooksey gets chuckles out of sea captain role; Patty Pope is attractive love interest; Kitty Kelly fits as femme good-time charlie; Phyllis Debus shows moppet promise.

Edith Head has designed early century costumes, and setting by Charles Elson is attractive.

for Class "A" hotels and niteries. Hotel owners gave notice to all current and prospective bands and cocktail combos used in hotels throughout the city that their services would not be required after Sept. 2.

Owners emphatically will not meet 802's demands for raises ranging from 20 to 55 per cent and will do without music of any kind until 802 lowers its sights. Discarding music means all floor shows such as the Hotel Lexington's Hawaiian revue, Hotel New Yorker's Ice revue, etc., go out, too.

Agency men cite hotel owners move as the first time the group has acted in concert since 1938, when 802 sought to put through its three dollars per man remote broadcast tax. Hotels pulled out their wires and united front lasted for a few weeks before the Park Central broke the front by accepting 802's demands.

VALLEE IS RUSHING NEW FORMAT FOR NBC APPROVAL

Rudy Vallee will drop his night club format of last season ("Villa Vallee") and work out a new program devise acceptable to NBC and the Biow agency. Audition talent for the new program pattern will include Hal Peary (Gildersleeve) and Larry Adler, harmonica virtuoso. Latter is rated by Jack Benny and other top-flight comics as one of the best comedy minds in show business. Vallee hadn't decided over the week-end whether he would cut a record or merely submit a script to NBC and the agency.

"Villa Vallee" was scorned by NBC as "not believable" and a new format ordered. Both Al Lyon, prexy of Philip Morris, and Milton Biow, agency head, bought the show with the provision that it be the same format as last season, according to Vallee. Audition record cut last week was unacceptable to NBC and unsatisfactory to the Biow agency. Billy House, who had a featured comedy part, will not be used in the new format, being concocted by Vallee and his writer, Bob Marko.

Takeoff of the Vallee show, if approved by NBC, was originally slated for Sept. 3 as replacement for "Philip Morris Frolics" but it is now likely that a later date will be set with the current program continuing until Vallee is ready. It was indicated at the Biow agency that should the new Vallee format and talent meet with its approval and NBC continues to withhold its acceptance, the ad house will make an issue of the controversy with Prexy Niles Trammell.

LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

Writer problems are always worth a stick of type but when a situation arises that threatens the very structure by which they are paid their munificent wage it cannot be dismissed so lightly. The die hasn't been cast yet but there are ominous rumblings that Radio Writers Guild will soon push a test case to have something to go on when they embrace a blanket policy covering the ownership of material after it is broadcast. To get at the quick of the dispute it would be the better part of valor to crack the toughest nut first so how about the Guild having a go at the comedy shows.

Let's take a case in point to see how it's going to work out. We're singling out the writing battery for Jimmy Durante and Garry Moore because, oddly enough, they are making no demands on ownership of what worms out of their typewriters or rolls off their glib tongues. These craftsmen are Jack Douglas, holdover from last year, and two teams—Les White and Art Pierson and Stan Davis and Elon Packard. What must be considered, and importantly, is that some gagmen can run down a pun, quip or mot but for the life of them can't put it on paper or in dialog form. Say that one of the writers, and we use the word advisedly, tosses in a gag and Douglas develops it into a bright situation running two or three minutes. Who rates the credit, the creator or the developer? The gag, as is, would last about 20 seconds. While Douglas made it fill a three-minute spot.

Now, in the matter of ownership, should it come to that, who rates the biggest cut of a sale if it should be split up among the five writers. Let's say that Douglas is paid $1,000 a week and the Packard-Davis duo $1,500. Divvied up in proportion to their weekly stipends, would Douglas be satisfied with taking a lesser cut than one of the teams when it was he who developed a tossed-in gag for a fat spot? On many a writing staff it's no secret that one or two men contrive 75 per cent of the usable material and the others merely throw in an occasional gag. So who owns what isn't going to be so easy to determine if we know writers.

Now for another stop on the comedy front. How about shows such as Fred Allen, "Ozzie and Harriet," Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor and a few others where the star of the program contributes as much or more to the script than any of the writers. That is particularly true of Allen and Ozzie Nelson. Are they to be cut in for their contributions or is the divvy for Guild members only? If they are to get a slice of a sale how is their proportion to be determined? We'll concede, on such dramatic shows as "Suspense" and others of that genre, the right to ownership of original material has genuine merit. Actually, ownership of material, especially on comedy shows, is more smoke than fire. How many comedy scripts are sold to picture studios or rehearsed for other forms of reproduction? Check the list and you'll find it a meagre one. Why then all the hullabaloo? It doesn't strengthen their bargaining position one whit and it may force the agencies and networks to trim their writer cost sheets if the material they pay for is lost to them.

Chain breaks . . . Bing Crosby cuts his first record for Philco next week before an audience. Bill Morrow produces and tends to the scripts with Al Lewis. Femme singer may be Lina Romay for the first six platters. Crosby Enterprises, which turns out the discs, may also package Joan Crawford in a waxed dramatic series. It would have to be platters as the lady no like working before an audience . . . Three downtown sheets are all for reinstating radio columns but won't do it unless the Eexminer changes its attitude and goes along . . . Ned Tollinger is resigning from the Young & Rubicam production staff, effective Sept. 15. Reported that others will follow . . . Camay series has a tentative getaway date of Oct. 5 . . . Marcelle Mitchell passing her three-week vacation in Chicago . . . Press agent stunt for the Durante-Moore season opener on the 13th back fired when a black cat was tied in as an ill omen effect. Jimmy is superstitious and Garry is allergic to felines . . . KIST, the Harry Butcher-Fox Case station in Santa Barbara, joins NBC network as a supplementary station Sept. 29 . . . Bob Hope will use guest singers until he finds one he likes. Desi Arnaz may be the batoneer.

Things are looking up in the Hooper set and most of the entries had enough bounce left to carom into the plus column. Here's what we mean: "Corliss Archer" 6.9, up 2.2; Frank Morgan 6.8, up .3; "Blondie" 7.4, off .3; Ford Festival 2.5, up .6; Gene Autry 4.6, up .2; Jimmie Fidler 2.7, off 2; Louella Parsons sub 4, up .1; Dick Powell 6.2; up 1; Silver Theatre 4.1, off .6; Tommy Dorsey 6.5, off .8; Carmen Cavallaro 6.1, up 1.3; Darts for Dough 2, off 2.4; "One Man's Family" 7.8, up 1.6; Summer Electric Hour 2.6, up .3; "Gregory Hood" 5.4, up 1.4; Lum and Abner 3.9, up 1.1; Screen Guild Players 10.3, up 1.5; Jack Haley 7.6, off 2.2; "Maisie" 6.4; Hollywood Star Time 4.1, off .1; "Sam Spade" 3.8, off .4.

Hitch hikes . . . Raymond R. Morgan, who nursed audience participation shows along to the big time, has sold another to Mutual, which carries as a sustainer five times a week in 30-minute stanzas beginning Sept. 9. Tagged "Heart's Desire," it is the creation of Roy Maypole and Charles Morin and Morgan promises a brand new twist in format and giveaway . . . Edgar Bergen will use governors again on his program, leading off with Earl Warren Sept. 22 . . . Tums is bringing back "Pot o' Gold" on ABC starting Oct. 3 with Peter Donald as featured comic, Harry Salter's ork and singers Vera Holly and Jimmy Carroll. Only change in format is the thousand dollar giveaway. To get the "grand" the phone call must be answered by the person in whose name the phone is listed. If someone else answers, the windfall shrinks to $100 and the remaining $900 goes into the jackpot .

KLAC CUTS PACE BACK TO ITS 1000 WATTS

Klondike operation at newcomer KLAC is kaput and economy now appears to be order of the day. After several months of splurging with new call letters, ownership and white-washed policy, station's getting down to operation more typical of its power (1,000 watts) status.

General paring is denied but there are unmistakable evidences of retrenchment, possibly with view to keeping nut to normal until new power increase to 5,000 watts is granted by Federal Communications Commish.

Station has apparently created desired impression and is now cementing basic force. Announcer staff has been reduced and men cut back to 40 hour week from 44 hours. Resignee salesmen are not being replaced. Other changes are taking place involving inter-department switches and fill-ins. Spending is being curtailed except where commitments exist, and reductions have been made in staff of Al Jarvis, station's piece-de-resistance.

Movie Styles, But Good!

The dress which Loretta Young shows off to such advantage here and the dress sketched below were designed for her by Michael Woulfe, aged 26, a Brooklyn boy who made good in Hollywood. Miss Young wears them as part of a handsome Fall wardrobe in the movie thriller, The Stranger, which opened yesterday at the Palace.

If you want to know what the movie is like, see Cecelia Ager's review on page 18. As for the clothes, everything in Miss Young's movie closet, from a negligee to a bridal gown, and including the two sports costumes shown here, looks simple but rich—in keeping with the well-heeled role she plays in The Stranger

This simple kind of expensiveness is kind of rare in movie fashions and is probably the reason why Woulfe, the newest and youngest fashion designer in Hollywood, has rushed to eminence so rapidly. From where he is now, he has to look back only a few short years to the time when he was an art major at Erasmus Hall High and then a shipping clerk in New York's garment district. Must be a mighty satisfying view for a lad with a fat five-year contract now, designing things for glamor girls!—L. L.

Another Michael Woulfe fashion, this dress with a plaid flannel blouse and belt in two soft tones of green, and a solid wool skirt in forest green. The high club collar is edged in the same forest green wool which stripes the blouse

MICHAEL WOULFE

New prexy was a dark horse whose name didn't enter picture until actual opening session. When Edward Arnold and Frank Sinatra refused nominations, Carpenter came up. He won by margin of one vote over Virginia Payne, prexy of Chicago local, who automatically became first vice president, an active and important post.

TUTTLE SWINGS ELECTION

Lurene Tuttle, local actress, actually swung the vote. Absent on the first ballot which resulted in a tie between Carpenter and Payne, her proxy voted for Payne. However, Miss Tuttle returned for runoff and switched, electing Carpenter.

Elected along with Carpenter to vice presidencies were: Lu Tobin, San Francisco; Frank Sinatra, LA; Minerva Pious and Clayton Collyer, NY; Robert Donnelly and Lawrence Tibbett (incumbent prexy until last night), NY; Carlton KaDell and John Brown, LA, and Nellie Booth, St. Louis, also were nominated for v-p posts but trailed in the balloting.

Bill Metzger, of Cincinnati, beat Louis Van Rooten, NY, for recording secretary's post, and Ben Grauer, NY, won treasurer's post over Norman Field, LA. Latter job is important in that treasurer is empowered to call national board together.

By virtue of being regulated by local membership count as of last convention two years ago, NY group had two more votes than LA local—which now has approximately 3,000 members compared to NY's 2,500. George Heller remains national executive secretary.

Networks and transcription firms will be notified by Sept. 1 of union's intention to seek re-negotiation of codes affecting employment of actors, singers, announcers and sound effects workers.

Existing contracts expire Oct. 31 and require that nets be notified 60 days in advance. In addition to 35 percent slug, nets will be told that rates for regional broadcasts, peculiar only to West Coast must be eliminated and placed on par with NY where transcontinental rate prevails. Union will not conclude national agreement until inequity is eliminated. It's said agreement must also contain cost-of-living clause permitting reopening of wage negotiations if necessary.

Some attempt also will be made to protect professionals against unfair use of non-pros on audience participating shows. Union will ask that those actually performing in place of actors be paid same scale and in some cases be obliged to join union.

Move to set up public relations for AFRA was skipped for nonce—but its need was very apparent from general result. In offside conference, Heller admitted need but in another breath also admitted that AFRA favors playing things close to vest, a contradiction a la James C. Petrillo.

Next convention will be held in New York.

PHILHARMONIC NIX FOR GRANZ JAZZ SHOW REPEAT

Los Angeles Philharmonic Audiorium has turned thumbs down and its classic nose up to Norman Granz's proposal to stage his classic jazz unit, "Jazz at the Philharmonic" in its acred halls. C. H. Brainard, manager, has stated that Aude's board has flatly refused booking on any kind of a deal, percentage or otherwise, and will not listen to Granz's personal appeal that his mixed (white and negro) group be permitted to reappear at what is regarded as home site and cradle of now successful troupe.

Granz just returned from highly successful nationwide tour with company that played all class spots of country, including Carnegie Hall, New York; Opera House, Chicago, and Detroit's Symphony Hall. Show was formed to play Philharmonic here last winter and, after packing house to point of requiring police, getting itself packed out of concert hall and having the welcome mat yanked from under its feet, it hit road for tour.

When Granz crew left they were told the iron curtain was down on all such shows in future. Management declared show attracted an undesirable element, presumably Negroes and Mexicans.

It was added that any events that conflicted with staid policy of hall were out. Situation holds now despite Granz's offer to let Phil supervise all advertising, offer of a $10,000 bond for any damages caused by audiences and offer to take any two nights Phil will permit.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

PARKING situation around RKO has reached desperation stage, what with local gendarmes waging car-tagging campaign against street parking and with every available parking and gas station within walking distance of studio taxed to capacity. Lot workers are understood to be considering appointing committee to take vexatious problem up with police department, for space is so limited near studio that less than half workers inside can be accommodated and others are forced to keep their cars on street. Landlords in vicinity of studio are reported to be responsible for law suddenly swooping down on car owners.

PLENTY of dough has been put out by 20th-Fox to turn a chunk of Southern California into summer oat country. Setting for "Bob, Son of Battle" called for a small vale in Scotland in late spring knee deep in green oats. So approximately 20 acres of oats were planted on the 20th-Fox ranch. System of water pipes and sprinklers were installed and have been kept operating since the grain was sown last May for use in late August. Cows used in the scene are stuffed with alfalfa before they are turned loose in the field to keep down consumption of the costly crop.

NEW technical development evolved by the combined craft of the Warner Bros. prop department and lenser James Wong Howe is a plastic compound to be used in place of window glass. It is currently being used successfully by United States Pictures. The plastic compound resists maximum heat, is as crystal clear as standard glass, and fractures safely. It was safely used yesterday on "Pursued," when a scene calling for a scrap between Robert Mitchum and John Rodney took out all the "window" panes without cutting either players or workers.

FEDERAL Communications Commission has gone gestapo and is quietly sleuthing reasons behind recent non-appearance of local radio bigwig at hearings it called. Commish has it on authority that person concerned was more available than met the eye—or their ear through apologetic subordinates and if geting straight of it may start fireworks with serious repercussions. Story goes that one opposition broadcaster has a positively identifying photo of subject that places him right on spot.

SHADOWLESS surgical-type lamps are being used for initial time in the industry in the illuminating make-up rooms currently under construction at Eagle-Lion. The shadowless reflectors make it possible for cosmeticians, working under department head Bud Westmore, to apply make-up more evenly, and under conditions approximating lighting used on the set. Initial use of the new equipment is being made in donning greasepaint on players in "It's a Joke, Son."

Retakes

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

So many costume pictures are emblazoned on the screen
With ancient frills and furbelows in many a gorgeous scene
That now and then you wonder what the net result would be
With boys and gals arrayed in clothes of 1693.
The films are educational and often work their wiles
To influence the modern gals to fall for ancient styles.
And some fine day you may observe, out yonder on the pike,
A gal arrayed in hoopskirts on a rampant motorbike.

Van Johnson explores the realm of farce in "No Leave, No Love," with not entirely happy results at all times. Film goes overboard in slapstick and would benefit by considerable trimming, action frequently reaching the silly stage. Star's name and that of Keenan Wynn, however, assure high grosses in all situations, and there are the bands of Xavier Cugat and Guy Lombardo to further please the cash customers.

Action revolves around two Marines, Johnson and Wynn, about to be mustered out in San Diego, sent by their commanding officer to Hollywood, where Johnson, Congressional award holder, is to appear on radio program staged by Pat Kirkwood. Johnson, framed into appearance by Wynn, makes latter sub for him on air show, and he takes Wynn's identity. Switch in identities provides premise for a lot of entertainment, discounting over-burden of slapstick and over-length of feature.

Film introduces to American audiences Miss Kirkwood, imported by Metro from England. Femme has pleasing voice, warbling "Love On a Greyhound Bus," and "Isn't It Wonderful" classily. She has an easy acting style, with comedy well-timed.

Standout piece of footage is Frank "Sugarchile" Robinson, seven-year-old sepia entertainer, whose pounding on the piano and singing of "Caldonia" will bring down any audience. Joey Preston, another moppet, makes most of a specialty traps number.

Marina Koshetz, appearing as a Russian countess, does top piece of caricature with role, and delivers strongly with her singing. Her "Otchi Tchorniya" is something to write home about, and so is her comedy and style.

Johnson and Wynn play their respective roles to the hilt, latter overshadowing star by his experience in comedy. Johnson, however, is bound for big hand from bobby-soxers. Edward Arnold has fat part as air show sponsor who is taken for a financial ride and loves it. Marie Wilson shows in smaller part, and Leon Ames contributes tellingly as commanding officer. Music of Cugat and Lombardo is tops.

Joe Pasternak has clothed picture with his customary high class production and Charles Martin handled direction. Latter should have been more attentive to comedy scenes, these apparently getting out of hand time and again. He and Leslie Kardos collabed on original screenplay. Technical credits generally are above par.

Justice Dept. to Hold Preview on Petrillo

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Eagerness of U.S. Government to make its case against James Petrillo, AFM president, stick, is evidenced in the fact that the Government's brief will be submitted to the Department of Justice for review before it is presented in U.S. District Court here Sept. 19.

William J. Connor, assistant to J. Walter Woll, U.S. District Attorney here, says if Judge Walter J. LaBuy decided in favor of Government, Woll's office would ask for immediate jury or bench trial with Petrillo's attorneys favoring latter. Should Petrillo be successful in having Lea Act declared unconstitutional by LaBuy, Government will appeal directly to Supreme Court.

Petrillo would not be able to appeal directly to high court, if LaBuy decided against him, but would have to go to U.S. Court of Appeals on ground that court erred in its findings. A decision by U.S. Court of Appeals either way will force case to the Supreme Court for final action.

Connor said in either case he didn't expect litigation to come before Supreme Court until early in 1947.

Attorneys for Petrillo filed a brief in support of motion that Lea Act was unconstitutional after Government filed a criminal information for violation of Lea Act when Petrillo called a strike at station WAAF here May 28 because station refused to hire three more record librarians than it said it needed.

Theatre Association Votes To Step Into Trust Action

New York, Aug. 26.—American Theatre Association regional directors have voted 14 to 5 to intervene in the government anti-trust suit. The directors were polled by top execs of the organization, who claimed the issue transcends the constitution's ban on taking a position on trade practices.

The directors gave their approval to three possible steps:

1. To petition the court for the right to intervene.

2. Join fight against auction selling.

3. Seek delay in effective date of the decree. The ATA execs, following the vote, are mulling over best move available, since the legal question has arisen as to whether any theatre group has a right to apply for status of amicus curiae (friend of the court) in the suit.

AGNEW HERE FOR 'DUEL' RELEASE

Neil Agnew, veepee in charge of sales for David O. Selznick and Vanguard Films, arrived yesterday from New York for huddles on "Duel in the Sun" release with Selznick and Chief Flack Paul J. MacNamara. Release date for the picture is expected to be set at conferences, though it is understood opening is still uncertain because of delay in getting Technicolor prints. Labs are jammed and "Duel" is one of several films held up by situation. Method of handling release and possibility of road-showing pic are also still under discussion.

RAPPER GOING ON BRITISH TOUR

Irving Rapper, Warners director, goes to London as soon as he winds up "Deception," as studio emissary, to look over possibilities of new talent and story properties in United Kingdom. Rapper previously produced stage shows there for Gilbert Miller.

Jack L. Warner also is slated to make English hop, but not until later in Fall. Purpose of this trip is to supervise reopening of Teddington studios, which company is erecting, and huddle with personnel of Warner Continental offices.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Now comes another Yugoslav bombshell—the demand for $1,300,000,000 in reparations from Italy. As you've heard on the air and read in the papers, that's more than the reparations that even Russia asked from all the former enemy nations put together. We were worried about the effect on Italian economy of collecting $100 million for Russia's reparation claims, but now comes this demand for thirteen times as much. The claim is one with important potentialities, one that probably will be allowed in part, and that will affect Italian economy. It could even be so large that Italy would not be able to pay it, and would have to forfeit some of her plants directly to Yugoslavia and Russia. In any case, it will put a ball and chain on the Italian foot, and delay reconstruction, if not completely prevent it. That kind of situation would favor the Communists. There are undoubted ideological reasons behind the Yugoslavian claims, which also involve religion, since overwhelming reparations that develop Communism within Italy, where the Vatican is located, would not be unwelcomed by the Reds.

'NOTORIOUS' IN SPRINT FOR 84G WEEK

"Notorious," heading for $84,000 week at the Pantages and Hillstreet theatres, is leading local first run theaters on the current frame. Another strong entry among new bills is "Monsieur Beaucaire," which has a very fancy $57,500 in sight at the two Paramounts. Other bills range from good to dull, holding overall gross outlook in 28 houses to estimated $360,000.

"Notorious" ran ahead of the Pantages-Hillstreet previous record-holder, "The Bells of St. Mary's" on its first four days, but is figured to finish slightly behind on the week due to latter's New Year's Eve take. The RKO release set new house record at the Pantages Sunday with boffola $8,600 on the single day.

"The Time of Their Lives," with "Dark Horse" supporting, is running ahead of average at the Guild, United Artists and Ritz, with business very big at the downtown house. First frame closed last night with estimated $30,000. "Our Hearts Are Growing Up" and "Deadline For Murder" is very slow at the El Rey, Orpheum and Vogue, sighting dull $24,500.

Holdovers are led by "Centennial Summer," in second frame at the Chinese, State and Uptown with $43,000 estimate. "Bad Bascomb," in second and final week at the Belmont, Egyptian, Los Angeles and Wilshire is a slow $35,500. "Night and Day" closes four-week run at the three Warner theatres Thursday night with estimated $31,500. "A Night in Casablanca" finished four-week stay at the four Music Halls last night with approximately $15,000, making way for opening today of "Caesar and Cleopatra."

Small Orders Sets For Valentino Pic

Edward Small yesterday ordered erection of two elaborate sets at Hal Roach Studios which will be used in both the extensive testing activity and later in the actual filming of "The Life of Valentino," his forthcoming independent production. Decision grew out of Small's intention to give candidates to be tested for the role the advantage of first-class costuming and background.

Smith Gridder Gets Egyptian Preem

Pete Smith short, "Football Thrills of 1945," will be screened with Metro's "Holiday in Mexico" starting at Egyptian theatre, Sept. 5, national release date. "Holiday" gets preem at Egyptian this Thursday night.

REP SCHEDULE HALF FINISHED

With start today of "Hit Parade," starring Eddie Albert and Constance Moore, Republic enters last half of production program of high-budgeted films for 1946-47, it was disclosed over the week-end by production chief Allen Wilson. Studio, with 12 one-million dollar productions slated for release next year, has six completed and will put other six before cameras within next three months.

TODD REVAMPING 'CENTRAL PARK' FOR BOWL

Producer Michael Todd yesterday started revamping his "Up In Central Park," in preparation for its opening at the Hollywood Bowl September 7. Todd is pointing towards a record theatre throng of 20,000 for the opening night.

Show, which just closed its six-month run in Chicago, will play in Kansas City this week and continues on to Hollywood for rehearsals beginning next Tuesday. Todd is adding a chorus of 100 singers, 75 dancers, and a 60-piece orchestra to the original company headed by Wilbur Evans, Betty Bruce and Maureen Cannon.

Designs for the Howard Bay settings used on Broadway are being rescaled to proportions suitable for the Bowl's large stage opening of 160 feet. Approximately 164,000 square feet of canvas will be painted to form back drops extending 55 feet in the air. Scenery will be supported by eight 60-foot steel towers anchored to the Bowl's foundation. Todd is planning a run of 22 consecutive nights for the outdoor show. He is shooting for a gross of $200,000 weekly.

WB Will Release Sales Meet Short

THE GRAPEVINE: Academy Award night is a good six months off, but most of the studios have indicated already their top contenders for the Oscars. Tipoff, of course, is the advertising and publicity layout. 20th is polishing up "Razor's Edge," RKO is beaming on reviews of "Sister Kenny," Metro execs have ordered the big buildup for "The Yearling," Selznick is putting all his weight behind "Duel in the Sun." And at Warners "Humoresque" is getting the prestige plugging. Jerry Wald's second production with Joan Crawford in one of the star spots was viewed by Jose Iturbi, Sol Hurok, Artur Rubenstein and Jascha Heifetz the other night. All raved about the picture and one said, "It's the first picture about musicians that didn't make me cringe!" Warners like Miss Crawford's performance in it so well they're boosting the ante in her new contract from $100,000 per picture to $250,000. Somewhat daring innovation in the film is that she is alone on the screen for the last 18 minutes of footage . . . Charlie MacArthur is directing the revival of "Front Page" on Broadway, which he wrote with Ben Hecht . . . Frank Wilson, whiskey firm exec, and Louanna Hogan, 20th starlet, have called off their romance . . . Geoffrey Homes (Dan Mainwaring), once a starveling rewriteman on the Herald Express, is now suffering from the gout. A couple of his pals called his ailment esthete's foot . . . On Arizona location for "Desert Town," Burt Lancaster is losing his New York accent by living with a rancher named Lee Doyle and studying the western drawl.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: S. Z. Sakall's suggestion that his famous chins be placed in the cement gallery at the Chinese theatre was firmly rejected by Sid Grauman on the grounds that the resulting dents in the forecourt would fill with water during the rainy season and constitute a safety hazard for small fry wandering about . . . Paul Kwartin, ex-GI whose singing drew raves at the Central City opera festival, is testing at two major studios this week . . . Don't ask Paulette Goddard how she likes being a glamorous actress today. In "Unconquered," under the unsparing directorial eye of C. B. DeMille, she's playing the slavey in a frontier tavern called "Rim o' Hell." And for the rest of the week she'll be on hands and knees scrubbing the tavern floor . . . Catching "Dear Ruth" at the Laguna strawhatter were Gail Russell, Johnny Sands, Anne Stewart, Ross Hunter, Sheila O'Malley, Dick Clayton, John Dahl, Nancy Walker, Lon McCallister, Peggy Ann Garner, the Allyn Joslyns, Ann Sothern and Bob Sterling . . . Ever hear of the squeak department? Hank Potter directing "Katie for Congress" at RKO was filming a scene in which a couple of actors sneaked up on the villain. "Send for the squeak department," Potter ordered. And in a few moments, four men equipped with squeaky shoes appeared on the set . . . Walter Howey, the Hearst satrap, trained into town and transferred to a plane to San Simeon yesterday.

CALL SHEET: WESLEY RUGGLES has sent a number of invitations to Hollywoodites inviting them to attend the preem of his latest picture Aug. 29—in Leicester Square, London England! . . . FRED de CORDOVA is Hollywood's man of detachment. On the set of "Love and Learn," which he's directing, he urged Bob Hutton to put more warmth into his kisses with Martha Vickers, who is only his best girl . . . GEORGE MURPHY will be guest of Gov. Earl Snell of Oregon at the annual salmon derby. Heads north when "The Arnelo Affair" winds . . . BONITA GRANVILLE, who played Mickey Rooney's girl friend in "Uncle Andy Hardy," is talking a deal with Metro to become a regular in the Hardy pictures . . . JOAN HARRISON, now an RKO producer, formerly Alfred Hitchcock's writer and assistant, may follow in the old master's footsteps. Hitchcock always spots himself in one scene of each of his pictures as a bulbous sort of trademark. Miss Harrison, who is blonde but not bulbous, may play a bit in her production "They Won't Believe Me" . . . ANNABELLA planed out yesterday for New York . . . RICHARD THORPE, Metro director, has given up ranching. Says he can't stand that 5 a.m. awakening routine . . . COLLEEN MOORE and her daughter Judy visited the "Possessed" set yesterday at Warners.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: That roar coming out of Jack Warner's office the other morning was caused by a letter in his morning mail with the letterhead "Adolf Hitler, The Chancellery, Berlin W 8." It read, "Mein Oberst Warner: I have just seen 'Hitler Lives' and enjoyed it very much. (Signed) A. Hitler." The gag was designed by Owen Crump, the letter was written in German by Henry Blanke and the stationery was furnished by Barney Oldfield of the publicity department. Warner is having the "testimonial" framed and hung in his office . . . A reporter in the next Bugs Bunny short will be known as Louella O'Possum . . . Sounds like a wild-eyed claim indeed, but the Goldwyn Girls going to England for personal appearances with "Kid from Brooklyn" are said to look good even in their passport photos . . . Off the lots: Johnny Mitchell and his wife are celebrating their ninth wedding anniversary today; he's the Warner flack. Matty Fox planes to NY today. Peter Lawford and Sid Luft stagging it at Ciro's. The Gene Autrys at Charley Foy's to catch singer Ellen Sutton, who sang on an airshow with Gene several years ago . . . Kent Smith, who appeared in the Army short "How to Become a Civilian," is taking his own cinematic advice. He's on a three-month fishing trip . . . Sol Wurtzel chartered a bus and boat to take himself and 15 members of his staff fishing off San Clemente . . . You'll have to excuse us now. We're working on a book which ought to become a best-seller, to be titled "Memoirs of Los Angeles County."—D.D.T.

'BRIDE' AND ARNAZ, WITH 60G WEEK, TOP BO IN CHI

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Topper in Chicago this week is "Well Groomed Bride" with Desi Arnaz orchestra at the Chicago pulling in a healthy $60,000. Oriental is close second with third frame of "Two Sisters From Boston" and Alvino Rey orchestra doing a good $53,000. Big three is rounded out by "Caesar and Cleopatra" at the remodeled Grand with a socko $35,000. Long termers doing well are "Stolen Life," at Roosevelt, $20,000; "To Each His Own," State-Lake, $21,000; "Green Years," United Artists, $22,000; and "Kid From Brooklyn," $19,000.

"The Time of Their Lives"

ANY resemblance between this and the last half dozen Abbott and Costello pictures is so slight and incidental as to be written off completely by the showmen whose customers used to raise the rafters with shouts and screams of laughter in the dawn of the A. and C. era. The audience present at the previewing of "The Time of Their Lives" at the Forum Theatre in Los Angeles all but rolled in the aisles with merriment, exactly as in the good old days. The film is as different from the comedians' recent works as day is from night; and a challenge for gross records anywhere.

The excellent cast company provided the comedians this time includes Marjorie Reynolds, Binnie Barnes, Gale Sondergaard, Donald MacBride and Anne Gillis—to mention only those of marquee weight—but the off-screen talent rates much credit for the quality of the offering. To Walter De Leon and Bradford Ropes, who collaborated with Producer Val Burton on the script, and to John Grant for the additional dialogue which doubtless includes many of the sure-fire lines, much is done for maintaining a balance of humorous values seldom attained, and director Charles Barton rates a special kind of credit for timing dialogue and business with consummate precision.

The picture opens sedately in the closing year of the Revolutionary War, with George Washington and Benedict Arnold figuring in the story, and then switches to 1946, with Costello and Miss Reynolds still present as spirits and with Abbott portraying his own great grandson. The story concerns the efforts of the spirits to obtain their release from an old curse by so managing matters that the 1946 living will find an old letter clearing them of treason, and the way in which they accomplish this is, literally and figuratively, out of this world.

For comparison of this picture with anything else in the A. and C. record, you must go back to that early number about the haunted house, with which it has no more in common than a 1946 Cadillac has with a Model T. Ford But comparisons are without importance when a hit comedy is under consideration, and that is what this is.

Running time, 82 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Aug. 16.

by JACK HELLMAN

The barrier has been sprung on another season and the stake programs are primed for the getaway. Last night two of the highly regarded dramatic entries—Lux and Cavalcade—officially inaugurated the fall semester and the others are warming up for their turns at the mike. What will the new season be like? Nothing spectacular or promising having been developed during the summer, it looks like pretty much of the same with Hooper's high and mighty 15 snug and smug on their lofty perches.

There will be a few new ones in contention among the secondaries and who knows, one of them might break through and topple a favored son. In this group may be listed Dennis Day, Phil Harris-Alice Faye combo, Hollywood Players, Mel Blanc and Meredith Willson. Incidentally, the latter, unless memory has tricked us, is the only summer standby to make the seasonal grade. CBS launched a few house shows to fill the hiatus voids but so far not one of them was knocked down to a buyer. Arthur Godfrey's "Talent Scout," a pro version of amateur and opportunity programs, is said to have had a few nibbles. The first nine weeks are the toughest to get past and ratings will be watched closely. The kiss of death will be planted on those who fail to muster an audience of size comparable to the expenditure on a relative basis. They're off and running and the chips are riding on the favorites.

BROADWAY RUNAROUND

By RADIE HARRIS

REFLECTIONS OF THE HOLLYWOOD SCENE ON LEAVING IT: The homey boarding house atmosphere plus the country club service of the Beverly Hills hotel . . . Meeting Betty MacDonald, the most refreshing of the liter'y lites . . . Everyone's sincere pleasure at the success of Mark Hellinger's "The Killers" and Sid Skolsky's "The Jolson Story"—because it couldn't happen to two nicer guys . . . The glamour boys who come and go, but Ronald Colman who goes on forever . . . My most touching moment: Seeing David Niven again . . . The people who call you up to tell you how much it will mean to them to mention them in your column, and never call you back to say "thank you" when you do . . . Marital happiness in four words: Merle Oberon and Lucien Ballard . . . The sights you don't see when you stay home: Ed Gardner emerging from Wright's Ice Cream Parlor with three chocolate cones!

The men with whom anywhere else in the world you wouldn't be seen dead at a dog fight, but who, in Hollywood, can date the most glamorous girls in the world merely by saying, "But darling, I'm a producer—or a director—or an agent—or even Bob Hutton!" . . . The matrons like Norma Shearer, Connie Bennett and Greer Garson, who look so young while the "young" like Deanna Durbin, Judy Garland and Buffy Cobb, who look jaded with sophistication . . . Inevitable quartet: Keenan and Evie Wynn, Van Johnson and Peter Lawford . . . Sonja Henie's trophy room—which she could hock tomorrow and never have to skate again . . . The Hollywood star least concerned with the Hollywood bandwagon—Bette Davis . . . "Line" you can swing on—Otto Preminger's . . . The complimentary things everyone has to say about Jack Briggs, who, if he can avoid it, will never be known as "Mr. Ginger Rogers" . . . Most interesting pictures to watch in the making: "Arch of Triumph," "Razor's Edge," "The Late George Apley," "Life with Father," "Emperor's Waltz," "Ah, Wilderness" and "The Life of Walter Mitty" . . . Sunday afternoons at the Doug Fairbankses—or anytime with this charming couple, my favorite host and hostess . . . Mary Benny, in stunning decollete and magnificent jewels, chewing gum . . . The majesty of Ethel Barrymore presiding at a tea table . . . Listening to Don Loper expound his theories on Hollywood fashions, which he'll soon put into practice with his own "what the well-dressed glamour puss should wear" shop . . . Johnny Walsh and Edie and Rack at the Cafe Gala, a breath of New York.

Players who should get down on their knees every night and say "thank God" instead of putting on a temperamental act—like Veronica Lake . . . The success of the Laguna Playhouse and the Actors Lab, which has made Hollywood conscious of its own potentialities as a theatrical springboard . . . Most indefatigable party goers, the Reggie Gardiners, Anita Colby and Fefe Ferry . . . The amount of distorted truth fed to columns by self-appointed stooges . . . Room with a view, the Crillon . . . Joan Fontaine's new-found radiance . . . Most fascinating directors to watch at work: Eddie Goulding, Rouben Mamoulian, Robert Siodmak, Alfred Hitchcock, Billy Wilder and John Brahm . . . Actor who worked the hardest for his success, Larry Parks, whose imaging of Al Jolson in voice and gesture is a sensational job . . . Old friends who wear the best, Laura LaPlante and Irving Asher . . . Best dressed star for every occasion, Gene Tierney . . . The newest story trend, where the "conflict" revolves around a wife walking out on her husband because he's too successful! . . . An overlooked actress who will come into her own on her own lot—Anne Baxter as "Sophie" in "Razor's Edge" . . . Larry Adler playing "The Bolero" at Ciro's . . . The good sportsmanship and guiet dignity of Peggy Cummins in the face of the toughest break to befall a young actress . . . Rex Harrison's vague English charm . . . The courtesy and tact of the publicity gang, which should entitle them to the highest diplomatic posts in the world . . . Howard Hughes' memorable quip, "I'll get well—if it kills me!"

It's an old cliche albeit true that "the bigger they are, the nicer they are"—e.g. Gary Cooper, Bing Crosby, Loretta Young, Bill Powell, Hal Wallis, Charles Boyer, Fred Astaire and Bob Hope . . . Touching the stars dept: Hearing Tony Martin sing "They Say It's Wonderful" . . . The Bobby sexers newest sock appeal—Mark Stevens . . . Add music to the ears: Bart Marshall saying "Bless you, my sweet" . . . The day that went by without at least four parties . . . Newcomer to watch, Frank Borzage's discovery, Katherine McCleod . . . New York pals I'll miss the most, Ray and Dorothy Massey . . . The star who holds a unique position in Hollywood—everyone has a good word to say about her behind her back, Dorothy Lamour . . . Gene Markey's priceless impersonation of Gregory Ratoff, and Freddie March's perfect mimicry of Sam Goldwyn . . . Prettiest and most unaffected natural blonde, Joan Caulfield . . . The jumping of hurdles and the scissoring of red tape because of the overboard protection of stars by studios, business managers, agents, press reps and relatives . . . Emil Coleman playing "Just One of Those Things" at the Cabana Beach Club (and who hasn't lived that torch song!) . . . The quiet charm of dinner at "The Club" . . . Actresses most on the spot for their "show me" audiences: Linda Darnell as "Amber" and Ingrid Bergman as "Joan Madou" . . . The happy reunion of Marlene Dietrich and Paramount . . . Add performances for Academy Award contenders: George Saunders in "Bel Ami" and Susan Hayward in "Smash-Up" . . . The lack of any new personality with the sextacular appeal of Lauren Bacall . . . Least unspoiled, most thoughtful and the only actor I drool over—Tyrone Power . . . And to A. U., my thanks for adding "variety" to my Hollywood spice of life!

LUX THEATRE IN TOP NOTCH BOW FOR 13TH YEAR

For going on 13 years now the trade and some 20,000,000 dialers have lavished encomiums on the show that set the mold for a hundred imitators. After 500-odd performances it can be said unequivocally, and more apropos, without reservation, that it's still the headman in its class. Which by way of introduction for an airshow that needs none, Lux Radio Theatre last night cracked open the new season with a highly veneered dramatization of "Without Reservations."

It's not just a coincidence that Claudette Colbert was the marquee power to lure back the listeners after an eight-week fast, marking her third inaugural Luxer. It was planned that way as it had been planned before. In many a producer's book she's the first lady of radio, the stellar performer of them all. Toss her a script and forget about it. She'll come through without a fluff or a flaw and backed by a solid AFRA cast the production problems dwindle to trifles. In "Reservations" she had competent aid from her vis-a-vis, Robert Cummings.

OLD, OLD STORY

Reviewing a Lux program becomes a repetitious duty. Some are better than others, perhaps, but under the direction of Fred McKaye and the story fashioning of "Sandy" Barnett and Sam Carter, the results generally call up superlatives in the fusing of all elements. The music of Louis Silvers is expert and never overdone in its mood and bridge work, and William Keighley, producer-emcee, has managed his medium so well that C. B. DeMille seems to have been completely forgotten. The dignity and high polish befitting dramatics of such high order are aurally evident with only the rough edges of the product plugs flecking the sheen.

SOUND CAST

Casting of the opener was in the Lux tradition. While the stage was well filled with bit players, the dramatics were handily performed by the two principals with sound support from Elliot Lewis and Sandra Gould. The others were merly line readers. Charlie Forsythe presides over the sound effects as he has done since Lux moved here from NY 11 years ago and John Kennedy still rides the commercials.

Nine out of 10 film stars use Lux, so the ads read, and the same ratio may be applied to fans of straight dramatic programs. Never out of the Top 10 in the Hooper list, its high estate seems once more secure.

Lou Brock To Stage 'Santa Monica' Here

Lou Brock has slated "Santa Monica," drama with trailer camp background, for stage production locally next fall, project to mark his bow as footlight producer. George Callahan was inked yesterday to write play. Danny Jackson, lyricist, and Ted Kovack, composer, will do song numbers.

Brown Draws Fire

Donald M. Brown draws production reins on Republic's "Thunder in the Forest," original by Milton Raison. Forest fire fighters film goes before cameras following Brown's present assignment, "Web of Danger," latter to roll Sept. 10.

'CAVALCADE' BACK ON NBC WITH LUKAS IN LEAD

"Cavalcade of America" settled back into its NBC niche last night after a brief layoff to resume its stories of America with the heavy accent on freedom and our way of life. Opener brought to the mike Paul Lukas as the star of Priscilla Kent's "Passport to Freedom." Moving into its 12th session, the du-Pont sponsorship shows no skimping on budget and the cost sheet on talent alone is no piddlin' sum.

In previous seasons stars have been paid as high as $7,500. Even mob scenes and crowd noises, which ordinarily come off the sound effects turntable, were given live enactment. This year the budget is being revised —downward for talent and upward for scripts. Likely that a ceiling of $5,000 for names will be imposed, with the writers to come in for a fatter cut of the production outlay.

Lukas, as the bewildered European unused to the American way, was at mikeside through most of the dramatization and gave a sincere portrayal. He drew strong support from toplayer Afrans and the music of Robert Armbruster was moving and spirited. John Zoller's direction maintained an even tempo and pace. Production-wise, the inaugural came off without opening night nervousness and not a line was fluffed in the difficult multi-lingual script. Commercials, institutional for the most part, were handled by Gayne Whitman, with John Heistand presiding over other program details.

Herbert Marshall is cast topper next week in "With Cradle and Clock," pursuing the same theme of liberty and opportunity.

western, "The Showing Up of Blanco Posnet" in Hollywood within the next 18 months to two years.

He did not mention the Universal-International studio specifically, but said "Mr. Shaw feels we should avail ourselves of the new J. Arthur Rank affiliations in Hollywood and take full advantage of their equipment and resources, not to mention America's wonderful location possibilities."

PASCAL SETTING PACE

The Shaw project ties in closely with remarks made at a recent press conference here by Sidney Gilliat, producer of "The Notorious Gentleman" ("Rake's Progress" English title). Gilliat, who is a Rank producer, said that "it would be nice if we could come over here to produce a picture—if only for the experience." He denied any actual plans in the making but admitted such an arrangement was a possibility. The Pascal project is believed to be the first of a series of similar production set-ups.

Pascal said he would not start production until next spring, although he said he will be back in the United States within the next two or three weeks. Regarding the Shaw films, he said:

"It may surprise you to know that since the success of 'Pygmalion,' 'Major Barbara' and now 'Caesar and Cleopatra' Mr. Shaw has completely reversed himself on the matter of my making his plays in Hollywood. I plan to arrive in your country in the spring to make both 'The Doctor's Dilemma' and 'The Devil's Disciple.' Then, after launching them in Britain, I shall return to the United States to make 'The Showing Up of Blanco Posnet,' an original Shaw screenplay on the cowboy theme.

"The whole thing will probably take a year and a half, maybe more."

Announcement of U-I's own production slate will be made shortly, it was stated yesterday by a company exec. Company toppers, headed by Nate Blumberg and William Goetz, continued discussions yesterday on production and distribution format for the new outfit. The 25 projected productions represent a sharp drop from the Universal average annual slate of 50 films in recent years. Difference represents company's recent elimination of its B-picture program.

J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of the board of Universal, and Charles B. Preutzman, company's general counsel, arrived from New York yesterday to participate in policy huddles. Meetings are expected to wind up this weekend with announcement on program to be made shortly after.

Crosby Gets Wed. Night Spot; 10 p.m. in East, 9 p.m. Elsewhere

New York, Aug. 27.—Time spot on ABC for the Bing Crosby recorded series has finally been set. Philco's plans for 9 p.m. around the country were blasted when the network couldn't clear its eastern stations for that period. He'll be spotted at 9 p.m. on Wednesday in all parts of the country except the east, where he'll be heard at 10 p.m. Groaner starts Oct. 16 with 211 basic ABC stations, with 400 other sites being set. Eastern spotting at 10 o'clock offsets the "spite work" claim since Frank Sinatra airs at 9 p.m. in the east.

It was indicated yesterday that Crosby will cut his records at the 6000 Sunset studios, where an audience of 300 can be accommodated. Rehearsal has been called for Friday at that farm-out spot.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

EXHIBITORS who had permits for new construction only to be stymied by Federal restrictions are being given a break under interpretation of local building codes by Huber Smutz, zoning administrator. New ordinance governing non-conforming construction, under which theatre building comes, will not be effective for those already holding building permits until 30 days after Federal building restrictions are lifted. This means exhibs now holding unusable permits will not have to worry about ordinance clause requiring greatly increased parking space and other building changes if construction is started within 30 days after government removes its freeze. Where a permit, obtained before the ordinance was passed, has expired, same privilege is granted exhib on renewal of permit. Interpretation of the municipal building code was sent to S. Charles Lee, theatre architect, who, along with exhib groups, had moved for clarification. Smutz also has granted West Coast Hollywood Theatres and Fox De Luxe Theatres extension of time in which to start construction on new theatres at Lankershim and Kitteridge, and Langdon and Ventura, respectively, until a period within six months after the war has been officially declared ended.

HAKIM-LITVAK organization plans what is purported to be most comprehensive still picture coverage ever given a motion picture, for publicity campaign of "A Time to Kill," which went into production yesterday under direction of Anatole Litvak. In addition to regular 4 x 5 and 8 x 11 stills, 36m coverage will be effected with a Contax camera; 2¼ x 3¼ candid photos will be taken with an Ikonta B; a combat camera will be used for exterior action 4 x 5's; a Rolleiflex also will be used for supplementary shots, and a Curtis color camera used in making gallery portraits. Further slated are 300 8 x 10 Kodachromes and approximately 5,000 candid photographs snapped during production.

SATURDAY Evening Post's long-awaited "expose" on Music Corp. of America is being regarded in trade as more nearly approaching a press agent plant of astronomical proportions. And even MCA biggies, once thought to be anticipating publication with some quaking, are looking at four installment serial as great build up instead of coal-raking. Though labeled "octopus" of show biz, top agency is presented as acme in efficiency and results for clients, comment that couldn't be bought. Story reveals lot of "inside" that many in trade have known for years, and though apparently designed to startle, reception is such that it has lost punch and dissipated apprehension.

PRESIDENT C. E. Toberman, of Hollywood Bowl, denies that changes in executive personnel of amphitheatre will be effected with close of season. Report was circulating that Dr. Karl Wecker, director of Bowl, would not be in charge next season, and that other changes were possible. Wecker is said to be mildly resented by some of old guard Bowl board members for having popularized and otherwise lightened Bowl fare since takeover. However, Toberman stated, he is "best executive Bowl could possibly have and is concluding a very successful season. There will be no changes."

INNOVATION in photographing automobile headlights in Technicolor night scenes during daytime shooting is introduced in Hal Wallis' "Desert Town." Powerful airplane landing lights have been mounted on cars in place of ordinary headlights, since normal car lamps do not pick up in Technicolor when filmed in daylight with camera filters. Illumination as result is stepped up 15-fold. To supply these super lights, autos carry 12-volt wet batteries, weighing total of 500 pounds, and an intricate Rube Goldberg wiring system rigged up in each car for their operation.

ROBERT Alton, directing "Merton of the Movies" as his first picture since being upped by Metro from dance director, is employing a technique which he finds has already cut down considerable shooting time. Six weeks prior to actual date of camera rolling, he worked with miniatures provided by art department of every set, and using puppets he mapped every move of actors in each scene, as well as deciding on camera positions. By time film was ready to go, every scene was mapped, resulting in much saving of production time.

INDIVIDUAL behind Norma Shearer's return to films is David Lewis. Although femme star had been approached many times during her five-year absence from the screen, it was only at Lewis' advice she consented to the deal which brought her under the Enterprise banner. A strong friendship has existed between actress and the producer since the days when Irving Thalberg gave Lewis a chance at top-flight production at Metro.

ARTUR Rubenstein received no offers of picture work from Metro and, therefore, had no opportunity to refuse any, states film firm. Straight of half million dollar turndown story is now said to stem from statements attributed to Sol Hurok, pianist's manager, who reportedly told friends he was obliged to nix film offers totaling that figure over past three years because Rubenstein was unwilling to play more popular selections.

IT won't be the fault of cameraman Arthur Edeson if Warners don't do right by character of Lillian Russell in "My Wild Irish Rose," when this production hits the screen. Edeson is somewhat of an authority on the actress, who was a close friend of his. When she appeared in film "Wildfire," made by World Film Co. back in 1911, he handled camera for her.

Calif. Theatre Owners Vote for Intervention in Trust Suit

Southern California Theatre Owners Association will intervene in the New York anti-trust suit. Step was authorized by board of directors after hearing report by Paul Williams, general counsel, that government intends to do nothing to present adverse affects proposed decree will have on exhibitors. SCTOA will cooperate with American Theatres Association and any other exhib group that plans positive action in the matter.

Williams, who returned recently with Cecil Vinnicof from Washington huddles with Attorney General Tom C. Clark and Robert L. Wright, Clark special assistant in charge of the government case, planed east yesterday. He will remain in New Work and Washington as long as necessary to present intervention to court. A particular target will be auction selling of films, a plan devised by the court in handing down its decision in the case.

EXHIBS STAND ALOOF

Only a few exhib organizations have indicated plans for positive action to prevent a decree that would be destructive to exhibitor operations. One, in another section of the country, has declared it plans to take no action, preferring to keep itself in a position where it can criticize or acclaim freely. Another plans to file a brief as a friend of the court. Others have passed resolutions condemning proposed decree's terms but it is doubtful if any additional action will be taken.

SCTOA is centering its action on intervention rather than a brief as a friend of the court, on the advice of Williams. If court grants petition to intervene, SCTOA will be in a better position to give a detailed picture of the destructive effects the proposed decree will have on exhib operations. Friend-of-the-court brief would constitute, according to Williams, for the most part a statement of views, argument and opinion by lawyers without the weight of intervention in which the organization becomes an actual party to the suit.

NEW DECREE CHANGES LIKELY

Washington, Aug. 27.—Additional suggestions for amending the New York motion picture decree are due for the Justice Department either the end of this week or early next week, it was learned today.

Just what they will contain is not known but it is possible that Robert Wright, motion picture specialist for the Anti-Trust Division, may suggest some changes in the amendments he recently sent to attorneys to the majors, as well as shifts to improve the single picture selling provision.

REVIEWED at Universal Studios, Stu-
City, Aug. 27, 1946. Running time:
MINS.

"Little Miss Big" is one of those dest budgeters that never gets ove its budget. It is a compound corn, schmalz and hokum, whip-d up to feature child actress Bevy Simmons and to make a bid for ntimental tears. The picture doesn't ite succeed in either of these purses, the Simmons child being none
o prominently cast and the tear-rking sequences mostly failing to
ick. Picture is adequate as a sec-d-halfer for double bills and can and, though not too firmly, on its vn in the sticks.

Little Miss Simmons, only six ears old, is probably given as much do in the picture as she can han-le, but fattest part is character part layed by Fay Holden. Fred Brady nd Dorothy Morris are just adequate the romantic interest, Frank Mclugh gives a characteristic perform-nce, and Milburn Stone, as a priest, n't too fortunately cast. Samuel S.
linds and John Eldredge make the nost of parts that are not too plausly written and directed.

Story has Miss Holden as aged nulti-millionairess sent to a "rest ome" as incompetent by her coniving nephew (John Eldredge). She scapes and takes refuge in home of McHugh, humble barber.

She wins the heart of the barber's family, including little Beverly, who calls her grandma. Family gets into difficulties with the law by harboring her. The old lady gets out of the jam with relatives with the help of Beverly's grown-up sister and her boy friend (Miss Morris and Brady) and the family is squared with the gendarmes by the priest. It's none too plausible at any point, but low spot is probably where little Beverly gives her barber pa a comedy shave with a table knife.

Production by Marshall Grant and Stanley Rubin doesn't get anything extra out of low budget materials and Erle Kenton's direction does little to intensify the tepid drama. Photography has been well handled by Paul Ivano.

As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The Greek elections Sunday are the apparent primary objective of the Yugoslavian recall of her ambassador and the announcement that the Soviet ambassador has asked for an exit visa. The Soviet obviously does not want the Greeks to decide to recall their king, and they may be taking this means of warning them against taking any such action especially since they are surrounded by Soviet satellite states. The protest against the Greek press for attacking Tito, Stalin and Molotov, is one of the most interesting features. The Russians doubtless believe that such attacks are abuses of fredom of the press, but it's one hard to understand in our country where we have most of the press against the administration, and the Communist press against anything our State Department does. These devolopments, the delay in Yugoslavia's written answer to our protest, and Polish defiance of the United States and Great Britain, saying their elections are own affair and not ours, are some of the things we have to expect now that we've abandoned our old policy of granting concessions to the Russians in the interests of friendship. We must, however, avoid exaggerating these developments, and realize they are natural reactions planned partly to scare us out of Europe and out of international action to maintain peace. The Russians would like to have a clear field, and they'll have it if we retreat.

TRADESHOWN at 20th-Fox Studio, Westwood, Aug. 26, 1946. Running time: 78 MINS.

Teen agers and adults with a fancy for that kind of music will go for "If I'm Lucky" in a big way. Featuring of Harry James' band and Harry James' wailing trumpet, plus a generous showing of Carmen Miranda in characteristic song and dance routine will insure that. The show is musical comedy that has less corn in the story and less melody in the music than some. What with the James-Miranda billing, coupled with Vivian Blaine and Perry Como for the marquees, the picture looks to be fair box office.

Miss Blaine and Como handle their acting chores in the romantic leads creditably and team successfully in their song numbers.

Phil Silvers carries the comedy load, gets all the laughs his part affords, and is a big factor in keeping the action bright and lively where it might otherwise drag. Edgar Buchanan also earns applause in a part that is a blend of comedy and corn. Miss Miranda gets in some hot comedy licks of her own as Silvers' wife.

Songs are featured in production numbers that are all adequately and in one or two instances, lavishly staged. "Jam Session in Brazil," with Miss Miranda and the band doing "The Batacuda" song is show's most elaborate number.

Title song, "If I'm Lucky," is plugged to the limit throughout the film, but still isn't the best of the six tunes by Josef Myrow and Edgar De Lange. "Follow the Band" is closer to hit class than any of the others.

Picture is one that Bryan Foy left behind when he moved from Fox to Eagle-Lion and he can take a bow for his handling of the production. Lewis Seiler's direction blends drama and music pretty successfully, though action could have been paced more smartly in spots. Camera work of Glen MacWilliams is standard.

MAJORS PLANNING REISSUE FOR AUCTION BIDS

New York, Aug. 27.—Major film companies are planning to re-issue top pictures as insurance against product shortage and decree uncertainties. Companies do not want to risk new product with auction bidding.

Metro has "Boom Town," "Captains Courageous," "The Great Waltz" and possibly "Gone With the Wind." Paramount is re-issuing "The Plainsman" Sept. 1, and follows with "The Jungle Princess." 20th-Fox is in with "Sun Valley Serenade" and "The Bowery" for the fall.

Play Review

LADY WINDERMERE'S FAN

San Francisco, Aug. 27. — The last of the season's Theatre Guild's productions, "Lady Windermere's Fan," presented by Homer Curran in association with Russell Lewis and Howard Young, opened at the Curran Theatre last night to a swank audience that went all out in enthusiasm for the four act, three scene Oscar Wilde epic, with a hand picked cast starring Cornelia Otis Skinner and Henry Daniell.

The superb costuming by Cecil Beaton, who surprised the audience by appearing in the role of Cecil Graham, received kudos as did his startling sets and lighting. Direction by Jack Minster was of Broadway caliber.

Supporting cast includes expert jobs by Penelope Ward, John Buckmaster, Rex Evans and Estelle Winwood, who turns in superb performance in spite of dated asides and soliloquies. Play moves with spirit and Wilde epigrams waylay occasional stilted lines. An expensive lush production.

NINE IN WORK AT WB NEXT MONTH

Warners will embark upon its most active production period since Pearl Harbor, during September, when nine pictures will be at work. With four already before cameras, five are set to start next month.

First to go will be "My Wild Irish Rose," story of Chauncey Olcott to star Dennis Morgan, slated for Sept. 9, with "The Woman in White" to follow immediately. This has Alexis Smith, Eleanor Parker, Zachary Scott, Sydney Greenstreet and Gig Young topping cast.

Others will be "Night Unto Night," Owen Crump's first producer chore since his return from Army; "Treasure of the Sierra Madre," Humphrey Bogart starrer; and "Deep Valley," with Dane Clark, Ida Lupino and Wayne Morris.

Currently rolling are "Love and Learn," which took off on Monday, "Possessed," "Deception" and "Pursued."

• JUST FOR VARIETY •

THE GRAPEVINE: It looks like "Down to Earth" will finally make it. Don Hartman's production for Columbia has been shooting, with intermittent layoffs, since March 25. All that's left undone now is the finale number, which has been rehearsing under the direction of Jack Cole and will begin shooting the end of this week. Finale will require 10 days before the cameras, if no more mishaps occur. Bad luck has dogged the picture. Rita Hayworth had several illnesses, and the schedule had to be revamped so Roland Culver could join Paramount's location trip to Canada for "The Emperor Waltz." These delays have zoomed the budget from $500,000 to $750,000, which will bring the total cost to about $2,500,000 . . . Goldilocks on Vine street: Rudy Vallee in his new blond thatch . . . Dorothy Malone checks into Warners for tests today after two-month vacation in Dallas . . . An atmosphere of goodwill has been hovering over RKO's "The Bachelor and the Bobby Soxer." Cary Grant appeared at the studio on his day off to play opposite four girls testing for the role of his fiancee. Jacqueline White won the part. And Shirley Temple showed up on her day off to test with 14-year-old Ian Bernard. He got the part, too . . . Ciro's will start broadcasting its dance rhythms Sept. 18. Carmen Cavallaro will tee off there nightly, except Friday, broadcasts over KHJ and Mutual network . . . Victor Francen is preparing the "Life with Father" production in Paris . . . Oscar Levant crack in "Humoresque": "I think of ideas for songs when they're topical but don't get around to writing them until they're typical."

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Howard Da Sylva, cowboy from the canyons of Manhattan, bravely went through a riding scene for "Unconquered" at Paramount. Then his uncooperative russet mare threw him head over boots. From the far side of the set a cry rang out: "Hi-yo, Da Silva!" . . . Luxury on wheels: Alexis Smith has bought a three-room caravan trailer for a motor trip to Canada this fall . . . One of the crummier aspects of life hereabouts is the typical motorist, habitat Southern California. He may be kind to children and animals, refrain from beating his wife except on weekends, pay his bills and brush his teeth twice a day. But once he gets behind a wheel he suffers from fatty degeneration of the brain. At Hollywood and Vine yesterday, for example, a yuck halted his car in the midst of rush hour traffic to buy a newspaper. All he had was a five-dollar bill, but he waited patiently until the news vendor counted out his change . . . According to the Better Business bureau Our Town is bulging with conmen, gyp artists and swindlers of all descriptions. Wayne Morris may have a solution to the problem of keeping them out of your pockets. As a gimmick to startle approaching guests, he has a microphone planted in his front gate. The other day he tuned in when a pair of strangers appeared at the gate. They were a pair of sharpers rehearsing their spiel, and Morris, warned beforehand, gave them a fast brushoff!

CALL SHEET: ADRIAN'S opening yesterday afternoon drew a glittering attendance, including Norma Shearer, Irene Dunne, Laraine Day, Susan Peters, Claudette Colbert, Mary Pickford, Ann Sothern, Mary Benny, Anne Nagel, Doris Stein, Fanny Brice . . . TED BRISKIN, Betty Hutton's husband, left for Chicago camera show. Operations at his local factory will start shortly . . . MAX STEINER left the Warner music department yesterday for a NY business trip. Returns to score "The Woman in White" . . . CURTIS BERNHARDT has sold his London residence to Lawrence Olivier and Vivien Leigh. Went undamaged through the London blitz . . . LINDA DARNELL received a streamlined motor scooter from an admirer but 20th-Fox wouldn't allow her to ride it. So she's given it to her sister Monte . . . JOAN CRAWFORD will wax a children's album for Decca . . . BEN BLUE, now clowning at Slapsy Maxie's, became a father yesterday. Mrs. Blue gave birth to a boy, weighing seven pounds, four ounces, by Caesarian section at Cedars of Lebanon . . . JOSE ITURBI's luncheon party for the Mexican Charros in the Metro commissary drew the presence of the ubiquitous Sheriff Biscailuz, who acted an interpreter . . . ANSALDO PUCCI, technical advisor on Preston Sturges' "Vendetta," was demonstrating how the Corsican assassins inflict a stab wound. Pucci was too realistic. Result: three stitches in his arm.

ON THE SOUND STAGE: Angela Lansbury, now that her marriage to Dick Cromwell is kaput, moves into a new house next week with her mother and twin brothers . . . Jack Cooper has nicknamed his new son "Littlejack" . . . Sam Abarbanel, the iconoclast, has come up with a new-type publicity story. Favorite of the flackeries is about cast and crew betting on a certain horse on a hunch, because he has the same name as the star or director, and naturally the horse wins and pays off at long odds. Al Rogell, directing "Heaven Only Knows," had his Sea Warrior running at Del Mar the other day. And Abarbanel affirms that Sea Warrior not only ran out of the money but nobody connected with his picture bet on him . . . Off the lots: The Hal Derwins and Les Browns dining at Chasen's. Shirley O'Haha and Dick Erdman at Harout's Har-Omar. Estelle Taylor and Jack Dempsey at Beverly Tropics. Harry Richmans and Spike Joneses at The Kings. The Arthur Treachers, George Morgan and Ramsey Ames at Lyons' Grill. Claire Trevor with John Shelton and Stanley Rubin at the Cabana Club . . . Wilkie Mahoney, famed gagman now at Warners, was asked by his four-year-old son who Benjamin Franklin was. "He wrote jokes on calendars," Mahoney explained. "Your jokes are a little dated, too, aren't they?" the observant lad asked.—D.D.T.

The home dials are getting hot ain, possibly in anticipation of the undering herd's return. Tuesday t, especially the NY shows, is arply upward, as they say in finan- al circles, and that can mean only revived interest in what's coming on the platter. A helping of uail or guinea hen under glass is ooly fare after a steady summer et of ham hocks and warmed-over ash. When plusses pile up where inuses used to flourish the signs e unmistakable. Fingers are get- ng itchy for a go at the knobs and ars cocket set-ward.

At month's end you'll be reading ese figgers in your Hooper pocket iece: "Man Called X" 10.1, up 1.3; ony Martin 5.4, up 1.5. Most of he others fluctuated fractionally and ent up on the big board on this oint-rating: "Date with Judy" 5.5; ncore Theatre 6.1; Evening with omberg 7; Lum and Abner 2.4.

Chain breaks . . . Phil Baker is coming out with "Take It or Leave It" Oct. 1 for six to eight weeks and perhaps longer if the results justify the change in locale. Baker, never a Coast defender, has taken a home in Bevhills which may mean a long stretch ahead for the quizzer . . . At this writing the Rudy Vallee show for Philip Morris "looks in" although the revised format has not yet been presented to NBC or Biow. He's making a good old college try to give the client and net what they want and the intent has won for him a sympathetic understanding. Biow has "Encore Theatre" under wraps and will rush it in when any of the other shows founder. Agency is hopeful "Pays to Be Ignorant" will stage a comeback, and if not it will have to step aside for "Encore," which has been the summer sub for "This Is My Best," to be replaced next week by "Hollywood Players." Here for the takeoff are Sander Heyman, representing the product, Cresta Blanca, and Sherman Gregory, manager of the Schenley radio department . . . NBC, CBS Join Petrillo Against FCC Rule on Discs

Washington, Aug. 27.—CBS and NBC teamed with James Caesar Petrillo's American Federation of Musicians today to oppose an FCC proposal relaxing requirements for identifying announcements on transcribed radio shows. NBC-affiliate KFI, Los Angeles, and the Bamber Broadcasting Co. also joined with the major webs to request oral argument on the FCC proposal.

The relaxation as proposed by the commission would require identifying announcements at the beginning and end of recorded programs only on forums, new shows or other slots where the element of time is of particular significance. On other shows, the FCC would require only that licensees make no affirmative effort "to create the impression that the program being broadcast consists of live talent."

Petrillo and the nets balked at the relaxation, arguing that it would discourage use of live talent on the air and inevitably lead to recorded shows parading as live and spontaneous.

The AFM said under the proposal, bulk of musical recordings would not have to be so identified. This would lead to "fraudulent practices" and "would be grossly unfair to the many thousands of artists who have contributed to the success of radio." Since broadcasters using records would naturally rely on known talent, this in turn, the AFM declared, would mean that they would be loath to encourage or experiment with new talent.

Both networks objected to the vagueness of FCC's new rule and urged that "uniform minimum standards" be set down to apply to all types of records.

TEXACO CLOSES WITH BRACKEN FOR FALL

Texaco yesterday reached a decision on a fall show and bought Eddie Bracken, who is in the east and helped close the deal. Understood package price is $12,000 weekly. Half hour situation comedy program airs on Sunday night at 6:30 over CBS and replaces musical headed by Jimmy Melton and David Broekman's orchestra.

Starting date is Sept. 28. Texaco was an early bidder for Bing Crosby and later switched to Dick Powell, who would have headed a variety show. Not until yesterday was it apparent that the oiler had cooled on Powell and was casting about for another show. Closing with Bracken came as a complete surprise.

Parker Pen May Air 'Information Please'

New York, Aug. 27.—Deal is in works for Parker Pen to take up tab on "Information Please," with decision expected this week. As an alternative Parker is considering Alec Templeton, summer sub for Charlie McCarthy. Latter package with guestars is $8,500 a week as contrasted to Dan Golenpaul's quotation of $12,500 for "Info." J. Walter Thompson agency is currently negotiating. Some talk that Parker would spot show on ABC just ahead of Bing Crosby-Philco record series.

'Boy Meets Girl' Opens At Laguna

"Boy Meets Girl," starring Allyn Joslyn, opened a week's engagement at the Laguna Beach Playhouse last light. The veteran Broadway hit is produced by John Lucas. This is the next to closing play for the Gryphon Players, who have enjoyed a successful season at Laguna. The group is planning to present a winter series in Palm Springs if an adequate theatre can be located.

KYSER SWITCHES FROM LUCKIES TO COLGATE

Kay Kyser has ended his seven-year association with American Tobacco (Luckies) and beginning Oct. 2 goes under sponsorship of Colgate, for which firm he has been airing for two years under a lend-lease arrangement. His new program will be cut to half hour, airing in the east at 10:30. Frank Morgan takes first half of the Wednesday night hour. For nine years Kyser's "College of Musical Knowledge" has been holding down the NBC hour spread. Morgan, currently plugging Pall Mall cigarettes, switches to Luckies after Jack Benny returns.

Biow, Schick Burn Over CBS Spotting

New York, Aug. 27. — Milton Biow and Schick razor are doing a burn over refusal of CBS to spot "Lights Out" in the Monday night 10:30 slot as replacement for "Tonight on Broadway," musical show. Schick may take show over to ABC, Saturday 8 p.m. Outfit also has option on "Fat Man" and will decide on either show before end of week. Fact that Monday night CBS time only provides for eastern hookup doesn't make Schick any happier and it'll probably scram CBS.

"The Time of Their Lives"

ANY resemblance between this and the last half dozen Abbott and Costello pictures is so slight and incidental as to be written off completely by the showmen whose customers used to raise the rafters with shouts and screams of laughter in the dawn of the A. and C. era. The audience present at the previewing of "The Time of Their Lives" at the Forum Theatre in Los Angeles all but rolled in the aisles with merriment, exactly as in the good old days. The film is as different from the comedians' recent works as day is from night, and a challenge for gross records anywhere.

The excellent cast company provided the comedians this time includes Marjorie Reynolds, Binnie Barnes, Gale Sondergaard, Donald MacBride and Anne Gillis—to mention only those of marquee weight—but the off-screen talent rates much credit for the quality of the offering. To Walter De Leon and Bradford Ropes, who collaborated with Producer Val Burton on the script, and to John Grant for the additional dialogue which doubtless includes many of the sure-fire lines, much is done for maintaining a balance of humorous values seldom attained, and director Charles Barton rates a special kind of credit for timing dialogue and business with consummate precision.

The picture opens sedately in the closing year of the Revolutionary War, with George Washington and Benedict Arnold figuring in the story, and then switches to 1946, with Costello and Miss Reynolds still present as spirits and with Abbott portraying his own great grandson. The story concerns the efforts of the spirits to obtain their release from an old curse by so managing matters that the 1946 living will find an old letter clearing them of treason, and the way in which they accomplish this is, literally and figuratively, out of this world.

For comparison of this picture with anything else in the A. and C. record, you must go back to that early number about the haunted house, with which it has no more in common than a 1946 Cadillac has with a Model T. Ford. But comparisons are without importance when a hit comedy is under consideration, and that is what this is.

Running time, 82 minutes. General audience classification. Release date Aug. 16.

NEW WASH. EDICT SLOWS THEATRE, RADIO BUILDING

Washington, Aug. 27. — New theatre building and construction of standard FM and television stations were delayed additional months, today when Civilian Production Administrator John Small announced a 20 per cent slash in commercial building effective immediately.

The action limits still further present cutbacks in non-housing building and reduces rate of commercial approvals from 45 to 35 million dollars a week.

At the same time, Small said that Wilson Wyatt, National Housing Administrator, was assuming top authority over all housing activities, including several now under CPA. Wyatt's elevation was looked on here as definite indication that situation in commercial construction of theatres and radio buildings would get worse before it will get better.

CPA actions during week of Aug. 15 show $33,000,000 worth of projects approved and over $72,000,000 commercial building turned down as non-essential.

WASHINGTON HULLABALOO

By FLORENCE S. LOWE

Washington, Aug. 27.—Indications are that the bulk of the film houses around the country which instituted special, low servicemen's rates in 1941 and 1942 will have eliminated these cheap price tabs by the end of this year. The houses would have acted sooner in many cases, except for the fear of unfavorable reaction in their communities.

However, the film theatres certainly need feel no inferiority complex in this matter. Night clubs, restaurants and legit offered no special inducements to men in uniform, even during the height of the war. Indeed, many niteries have a particularly bad record in this respect. More than one GI found himself not only getting no special consideration but even being clipped in some of the joints.

Anent the recent uproar about ATA turning down "Seeds of Destiny," the Government food short, as not suitable for screening in its summer theatres. It doesn't happen only in this country. England knows about those things too.

J. Arthur Rank financed Jill Craigie in the production of a documentary on Plymouth, worst blitzed town in England. She turned out a 64-minute pic called "The Way We Live" which tells the story of the city's plan for reconstruction. The critics over there say it is a first rate job, but the theatres won't run it. Seems it is so long it gums up programming.

From where Hullabaloo sits, the position of the indie theatre owners that the latest Justice Department suggestion for amending the New York motion picture decree would compel the major studios to make more films does not seem justified. You will remember that Robert Wright, pix specialist for the Anti-Trust Division, suggested that theatre owning majors be prevented from cross licensing each other's pictures. The indies are under the impression that this would compel the Big Five to make more films in order to have enough product for their own houses. Which would be all to the good for the independents since it would definitely put them into a buyers' market.

However, two points stick in this column's craw. First, the steadily mounting production costs militate against increase in output and will result in fewer films rather than more. Second, no studio can get rich on the take from its own theatres, not even Paramount which has the most. The studios have to depend upon getting playing time in the thousands of small independents around the country, plus a share of foreign biz, particularly when the bloom goes off the present bcom peach. With restrictions being built up all over the world, only a limited number of our films will get foreign playing time. And it doesn't make sense that the studios would make more films than they can market profitably to the small independent houses of this country.

A little picture called "Sunday Dinner for a Soldier" has set a new attendance record in Bremen, in the American zone of occupation in Germany . . . All German radio stations are broadcasting summary accounts of the Paris Peace Conference . . . Supply of 35m raw stock in Britain has stepped up sharply. British have lifted all controls except for newsreels . . . Of the 452 pictures screened in Argentina during 1945, 359 were the Hollywood product, 49 came from Mexico, 28 were produced in Argentine studios and the remaining 16 came from other countries. Local production was hampered by scarcity of raw stock. And generally speaking the Argentines preferred American pix with Spanish subtitles to those dubbed with Spanish dialogue . . . Finland reports that its supply of phonograph records is moving up to meet demand but that needles are still very scarce . . . Popular Science Film Studio in Russia is about to release "Heart of the Motherland" which shows 800 year growth of Moscow from a small settlement up to the present . . . The Soviets, incidentally, have a radio equipment plant under construction in the Urals which they say will be one of the largest in the world.

Recent heavy rain storms in England which flooded out the London subways and other places also flooded the Ealing studio. Studio carpenters made stilts and pontoon bridges to save the sets from water ruin . . . Washington businessmen are launching a highpower promotion campaign to attract visitors and conventions to this city. You will remember that visits to the capital were discouraged during the war, and people have gotten somewhat out of the habit. The D.C. boys want to add $60,000,000 a year to the city's income from this business . . . National Association of Broadcasters is predicting a record breaking 2,000 attendance for its annual convention in Chicago Oct. 21-24 . . . Warren Francis, Washington correspondent for the Los Angeles Times, and George Dixon, King Features columnist, are among the newsmen pinch-hitting in the "morning man" spot on a radio station here . . . FED BAN ON FILM BUYING IN LINE FOR OKAY

New York, Aug. 27. — Government's proposal banning affiliated circuits from buying film from theatre-owning majors has little chance of being acceptable to the statutory court that turned in the anti-trust decision, according to industry lawyers. Latter claim the government can't win in a decree what it lost in the decision.

Department of Justice proposal on partial divorcement is pointed out by legalites as indicating how far afield the government-supported decree goes. Taboo proposed by the government, they claim, is an attempt to obtain divorcement via "slow strangulation" and they don't consider the move a real threat.

WB ADDS DEPT. FOR COLOR STILLS

Warner Bros. publicity dept. inaugurates a regular color art service today, as result of a recently completed survey of key city newspaper art requirements.

Kodachrome transparencies, with the news and feature releases, will go out twice monthly at first, and may be increased as the idea catches on, in keeping with demand.

Color printing is on the upbeat in the roto and magazine supplements, and many of the big dailies have been blueprinting new feature sections to be given the nod as soon as newsprint and color press equipment is available.

Three gallery men, two 4x5 men, and all production still men are now shooting in color on the Burbank lot, and Kodachrome lensing on players and productions has been hypoed to double previous pace.

Case in point was "Life With Father," Warners' Technicolor superbudgeter, which received more shutter-clicking than any film in the history of the studio, and the hopper now contains more than 300 color stills which will be parceled out to magazines and filtered into the regular services to metropolitan sheets across the country.

Subjects from the Michael Curtiz directed feature cover a wide range, from sequence layouts to a varied list of production scenes, character portraits, production glimpses, and featured players in action.

PAR ASKS CLEAN BILL IN TELE CASE

the matter goes deeper than with General Precision. Par is worried about its status before FCC on its application for television licenses. Company officials feel they would be in better position in the eyes of the Commission if the charges were dismissed than if there were a court record of them accepting decree for allegedly violating the anti-trust law in connection with radio patents.

Other than the one issue of decree of dismissal, everything is cleaned up in the Scophony case. General Precision and Paramount have agreed to Justice Department terms. They will unload their stock, get out of Scophony and permit open licensing of Scophony patents for the Skiatron Tube, etc.

"HARVEST OF YEARS"
by DeWitt Bodeen

"A very moving and genuine play with several outstanding performances, notably by Edith Evanson and Philip Abbott. Abbott, who had a distinguished war record as a B-24 combat pilot in Europe and holds all sorts of medals as well as the D.F.C., is very likely to find himself going places fast in Hollywood as a result of his excellent performance in 'Harvest of Years'."
—Dorothy Manners
L.A. EXAMINER.

"DeWitt Bodeen's 'Harvest of Years' is a charming play . . . and little Margaret Lambert probably will be picked up by one of the studios before the week-end. She has a Helen Hayes quality all too rare these days."
—Hedda Hopper
L.A. TIMES.

"The play, which concerns a Swedish family in the San Joaquin Valley, is atmospheric and thoroughly entertaining theatre . . . Edith Evanson's performance of the mother role is superb, for she manages to combine the many facets of the character into a genuine person of singular impact."
—Herb Sterne SCRIPT.

"Interesting Hollywood event of lastnight was the opening of DeWitt Bodeen's new play 'Harvest of Years' . . . and judging from the enthusiasm of the first-night audience as well as the unusual human quality of the play, its chances elsewhere look bright."

PRODUCTION CODE TO BE EXPLAINED WORLD WIDE

New York, Aug. 27.—The Motion Picture Association is readying a world-wide publicity campaign to explain operation of its Production Code Administration. Campaign is expected to be launched this winter as an answer to critics of PCA.

PCA has long been the whipping boy for foreign critics of the American film industry. MPA officials believe this source of industry ill-will results mainly from ignorance as to what PCA contains and how it is administered.

With the American film industry about to launch its greatest effort for world markets against increasing competition, Eric Johnston is determined to eliminate any cause leading to ill feeling against the Hollywood product. Central theme of the campaign will be that self-regulation means less censorship, not more. Johnston asserts that the PCA is a creditable organization doing a job necessary to the industry, and there's no reason to be ashamed of it.

certificates which yielded 50 cents a quarter.

Other picture stocks followed the general trend of the toboggan slide. Twentieth-Fox dropped 2⅝ to 52⅜; Columbia was off 1⅜ at 30⅝; Paramount 1¼ at 34; RKO skidded ⅞ to 19⅞; Universal slumped ⅞ to 41¼, while Loew's closed at 32⅛, off ¾. Warners new stock finished at 22.

In addition to voting the new dividend, Warners directors decided to prepay $1,591,000 of its outstanding 2% notes not due until May, 1947. This payment will make $14,726,000 which has been made on the original $37,000,000 issue, leaving a total indebtedness of $22,274,000.

AFM FACES FIGHT IN ASKING BOOST FROM NY INNS

New York, Aug. 27. — Opinion here is that New York local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians bit off more than it can chew in demanding from hotels and niteries such big scale boosts. It is no secret that the new scales asked were designed to help the current "blue ticket" regime in the December elections, since neither of the regime's strong men, the late Jack Rosenberg, nor William Feinberg, now with General Artists, is available. However, the feeling is that if Local 802 does not make the demands stick, the muddle the entire campaign has caused in New York band nitery circles will form a backblast that will bow the current party out of office come December.

HOTEL MEN COLD

At the moment hotel men are in no mood to do much dickering with 802. The Night Club Owners Association agreed to meet with the local before the New York state labor mediation board, but so far the hotel men have not advised that their faction will sit down the same way. As it stands now the situation is one big muddle.

Agencies, bandleaders, union or hotel men don't know where they stand. Hotels have given notice to all musicians, effective Sept. 2, or as soon thereafter as two weeks notice follows on the end of their work week. Name bands will continue to work if they choose and if salaries cover new scales, at least as far as the hotel owners are concerned. But 802 told one leader here that though current contract price surpasses the new scale for all his men, if he doesn't get a raise commensurate with the scale jumps after Sept. 2, he must quit job.

STAGE SCALE WAITS

Meantime, negotiations on the new scale for legit theatres in New York remain at status quo until the return of James Reilly, executive secretary of the League of New York Theatres, due back next week. Boosts amounting to nearly 100 per cent, are being demanded. Date may be set for a meeting of the LNYT and representatives of 802 after Reilly returns.

Vaude ops meet Thursday to frame counter proposals to the union's demands. Union asks $135 minimum for sidemen, $202 for assistant conductor, $241 for conductor. Vaude ops are unwilling to pay these hikes, especially since increases would also apply to idle, stand-by orchs.

Michael Dunne yesterday was set for a top role in 20th-Fox's "Mother Wore Tights."

Billion BO For Six Months

85 per cent of the levy is estimated to come from the nation's flickers, the remainder be attributed to legit niteries, carnivals, sports, etc.

Tax collected indicated total box office for the six months of $1,804,580,305, or at the rate of $2,169,160,610 for the year.

The half-year record was capped by a smash biz countrywide in June which resulted in a tax take of $40,248,042 for the month. This is the second biggest month on record, topped only by the $42,389,371 for September, 1945. Indications here are that 1946 will continue to ring the bell at the box office through all its remaining months.

While June was tremendous nationally, it did not break any records on Broadway, country's No. 1 midway, although that main stem did very well. Figures for the 3rd New York Internal Revenue District, all of Manhattan above 23rd St., show that admissions to theatres resulted in a tax of $5,074,115, or about $300,000 under May, although $800,000 better than June, 1945.

Broadway's nitery biz fell off slightly. The spots turned in taxes totaling $547,868, which was $700,000 below May and $80,000 under June, 1945.

RANK, ENT IN RECIPROCITY

York Saturday for conferences on the project with company's banking officials and American reps of the British film tycoon. Unless it becomes necessary for Loew to return here with a further report for partner Charles Einfeld, he is slated to hop to London for final meet with Rank on program following culmination of New York meetings.

Current provisions of the program calls for an interchange of stars by the two combos. Plan would also make available to the Einfeld-Loew setup facilities in Rank's British studios. Under latter development, Enterprise would produce a minimum of two pictures during 1947 in England using starring teams of American and British players. Rank is particularly anxious to obtain some of Enterprise's big star names to team with his own English stars. Such action, Rank interests believe, would create stronger marquee values for the British product in American market.

James Mason, England's top b.o. name, will make his Hollywood film debut in RKO's "Mourning Becomes Electra." Dudley Nichols, who will write-produce-direct the filmization of the Eugene O'Niell play, closed the deal with the British actor yesterday, culminating negotiations of several months. Mason, according to Nichols, will arrive here sometime in November to prepare for the role. Nichols plans to set the top-budgeted film before the cameras next February. He is currently writing the screenplay.

WB HANDS 10-YR. DEAL TO BOGART FOR INKING

Warner Bros. yesterday asked Humphrey Bogart to sign a new 10-year contract. Studio is asking for the unusual long term pact in a compromise move to meet some of the actor's contract demands.

It was learned that Bogart, currently on loan-out to Columbia, is asking the following terms as basis of a new contract:

1. Make only two pictures annually; one for the studio and one for himself on a participation basis.

2. A flat $200,000 per film for the studio picture.

3. Rights to approval of director and screen play.

Although Bogart's current contract has about 18 months more to go, studio is pressing to re-sign him to new deal immediately. Understood reason back of the move is fact that studio has already announced Bogart for a group of high-priced story properties, most of which were purchased with actor chiefly in mind.

Group includes "Winter Kill," "Mr. Broadway," "Treasure of the Sierra Madre," and "Dark Passage." Bogart will return to studio following completion of current chore in Columbia's "Dead Reckoning." Sam Jaffe is negotiating new ticket for Bogart.

Studio officials admitted plans for a December opening in Texas, California and New York and there is possibility picture won't hit the screens here until week after the London premiere.

Selznick toppers and United Artists execs are currently working out sales methods in huddles that will

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

TWO studios yesterday came up with the press releases on "first use of helicopter" in production of a picture. Paramount flackery advised that one of the "coffee mills" chartered in Phoenix, Ariz., for use in the filming of Hal Wallis' "Desert Town" on northern Arizona location, had not only proved handy in scouting location sites but had been employed to fly camera and crew to top of almost inaccessible butte for a pan shot of the desert. 'Copter was flown by Ross MacKenzie, of the transportation crew, a former Navy pilot. At the same time, Enterprise announced that a helicopter, rented from Air France, is being used instead of a camea boom to film difficult background shots in Paris for "Arch of Triumph."

THOUGH there are approximately 18 Radio Corp. of America manufacturing licensees on Coast, it's reported only Gilfillan Co. is prepared to make television receivers. Lab is nearly completed and firm generally prepped to go, according to execs, but they are holding back and will not go into production until they can see whites of eyes of telecasters. Outfit will wait until commercial video is here and they can see definite market for equipment. Progress of seven prospective stations will be watched and when program is warranted sets will roll. Present estimate is that it'll be another year before stations are really programming due to doubtful deliveries on transmitting equipment, tests, experimentation, etc.

RELATIONS between indie stations and International Brotherhood of Electrical workers are at lowest ebb they've ever been as result of pay hikes union obtained for technicians and which broadcasters regard as little short of piracy. Average 25 to 40 per cent upping is resting bitterly in gullets of managements, majority of whom are eagerly awaiting time they can in turn jam something down throats of union. One expressed it as "they've not heard the last of us and better not ever relax their guard." Impression is that slightest infraction of rules by engineer will result in immediate dismissal as managements refuse to brook anything but top performances.

IT'S not too uncommon for studios to keep teaming stars who make a hit in a picture, but 20th-Fox is using same technique with a technical crew. Studio is keeping intact crew which worked "House on 92nd Street" and "13 Rue Madeleine." Group will be working together again on the Louis de Rochemont production, "Boomerang." Same technical methods employed on the previous pictures, which were almost entirely made on location, will be utilized on "Boomerang." Latter film will be made entirely at Stamford, Conn.

FRED Parrish, still photog who built camera car which producers Buddy Rogers and Ralph Cohn used for "Adventures of Don Coyote," claims a record two-ton pay load carried by the car during production. For location sequences of the Comet Cinecolor feature, car was loaded with two Cinecolor cameras, four reflectors, 19 technicians, and averaged 40 miles an hour for half-mile stretch on steep grade to catch running shots of Richard Martin and Val Carlo during horse chase.

"Now if we only had Sonny Tufts, Ella Winters, Spring Byington, 'Cyclone' Smith and Claude Rains, what an overcast we'd have."

Retakes

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

"The Wizard of Oz" comes galumphing along
With its fine old admixture of story and song.
It fetches you back to the times that have flown—
The days and the nights of Montgomery and Stone.

When you write for years about ball games and fights and plays, you forget a lot of them, but some of them stick in your memory. One of the memory-stickers is "The Wizard of Oz," with Montgomery and Stone doing their stuff as the Tin Woodman and the Scarecrow. You have forgotten the rest of the cast and even the story, but those two comedians stand out in your memory like twin beacon lights in a dark world. There were good actors in those days, before the maudlin age of autograph hunters.

Speaking of hunters, some day the State Game Warden will declare a closed season on picture pigeons. And speaking of pigeons, Wilkie Mahoney takes time off his task on "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" at Warners to send us a snatch of pigeon poesy, as follows:

I shot an arrow in the sky.
It hit a pigeon in the eye.
Now that pigeon and I
Are even.

Outstanding actor in "Caesar and Cleopatra" is Stewart Granger, the lad who plays the muscular Greek. One of these days you will see him in person in Hollywood, rassling with Jim Londos.

Speaking of names, as everybody does in every neighborhood, a new emcee in town, just out of the Navy, is Speed Copp. The guy you hate on the way home.

There is still a question in the Johnston office about "His Wedding Night" and "His Wedding Day," but "Night and Day" goes on, day and night.

George Jessel has ceased his efforts to sell "Brooklyn Bridge," showing how customs have changed. In the good old days a city clicker sold it to a yokel every Saturday night.

So you think Hollywood leads the world in ballyhoo, do you? Plug for "Caesar and Cleopatra," made in England, reads: "Your eyes have never seen such lavish splendor on the screen."

Another British ballyhoo reads as follows:

"They Were Sisters."

In Hollywood you know he is a motion picture star

Theatres War on Demands for Free Time on Their Screens

Move to control increasing demands for free screen time has been taken y Southern California Theatre Owners Association. Exhib organization has oted to nix all requests unless they follow formula that will insure proper heatrical approach, quality and technique in subject matter and production.

Exhibs in this territory have been faced with growing demands for screenng of trailers plugging a variety of projects having no connection with film usiness, forcing SCTOA, which represents a majority of exhibitors in this xchange area, to take steps to control situation.

Organization board of directors has established screening committee, to vhich ballyhoo scripts plugging community projects, charity drives, etc., nust be submitted prior to production. If script has the proper theatrical pproach and production quality is assured, committee will give its approval, provided subject matter has been okayed by a group of three policy judges.

RULING COMMITTEES

Thornton Sargent, Harry Wallen and Everet Cummings will function as he SCTOA screening committee, while W. H. (Bud) Lollier, Jack Berman nd Jack Brower will serve as policy judges. Latter trio was set up to assure heatres staying clear of controversial subjects or projects that might reflect on box office.

Theatres are constantly being approached to donate screen time to reels promoting a variety of subjects, with most of requests being made after films have been made and just prior to running time asked. A recent incident had promoters turning up at theatres with completed picture of very poor quality and getting in a hefty political plug.

UNUSUAL LENGTH

In some instances exhibs have been able to trim over-length subjects to fit in on programs, but usually reels are turned out without regard to how they can fit in with regular bills. Recently exhibs were forced to trim a charity film, produced in New York, by five minutes before it could be screened.

While running time and quality will play an important part in the acceptance of nationally distributed free reels, SCTOA action is aimed primarily at locally sponsored plugs.

POTTER'S SHOW IN NEED OF EDITING

There is too much that is too little in second show at LARRY POTTER'S SUPPER CLUB that opened last night. A lot of it is holdover that nearer approaches cold leftover; that is, all but Arthur Blake, satirist, newcomer; Martha Davis, negress-pianist singer and, believe it or not, a band vocalist, Bob Morrow. Such is the show as a whole excluding aforementioned two personalities. Morrow stands out as one of its memorable moments.

Running a virtual and unwarranted hour and a half, show needs considerable editing and directing hand of show-wise producer and m-c. Fewer acts, or certainly better and briefer ones would be more in keeping with place. Build-up to Blake is mostly mass and maze of mediocre mayonnaise who are better left unidentified.

Blake, too, needs editing but no tutoring. He just does too many in too long a time, particularly when preceded by so much of nothing. His impressions, particularly of female theatrical contemporaries, i.e., Hildegarde, Hepburn, Bette Davis, Marjorie Main and their Boswell, Parsons and Hopper, are near to excellent. His forte is femmes. He knows them well and does them well.

TRIO NOMINATED FOR ARTISTS PREZ

Election of president will be chief order of business at general membership meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Art Directors next Wednesday. Candidates nominated to succeed retiring prexy Bernard Herzbrun include Ernst Fegte, Benedict Bogeaus Productions; William Ferrari, Metro; and Ben Hayne, Columbia.

Wiard Ihnen, chairman of the nominating committee, announced that nominations to complete the board of directors for coming year will be named shortly. Out of SMPAD's current 20-man board of directors only eight are automatically succeeding themselves for coming term.

Working Guests

Charles Einfeld believes some studio visitors should be put to work—especially if he be the prexy of the French Chamber of Commerce in the United States and the American rep of Mumm Champagne, Jean Ravaud. Latter, a visitor on "Arch of Triumph" set yesterday, was recruited on spot as technical advisor to help reproduce the Paris bistro, The Scheherazade for a scene in the film.

TANSEY GETS PRC RELEASE

Robert Tansey yesterday asked for and was granted release from his PRC contract as producer-director of Eddie Dean series of westerns. Termination becomes effective Saturday, when he winds up shooting "Stars Over Texas," current Dean saddler.

PRC's reduction of series from Cinecolor to black and white was reason given for Tansey requesting his release. First six were made as tinters, with "Texas" marking second of black and whites.

Tansey is negotiating with company for deal to produce and direct high-budget Cinecolor special, with studio understood to be interested in new proposal.

As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Some persons are expressing surprise that the meat prices that will go into effect next week are not so low as those that applied on June 30. At the time the Decontrol Board ordered meat back under controls, I predicted meat prices higher than June 30, but not so high as those that have been charged without controls. That was only sensible. There is no reason why other prices should be higher under the new OPA controls, and meat should be an exception. We have yet, however, to see how the controls will work on meat even though the ceilings are higher. For the past week, livestock raisers have been rushing their hogs and cattle to market at weights far below usual market stock. They've been anxious to get as much as they could on the high market, but that means that hogs and cattle that would be ready for market in a few months will already have been killed. Such a decreased supply will add pressure for increased prices once the ceilings are back, and the likelihood of black market operations. It is to be hoped, however, that the black market operators will this time be hit quickly and hard. Controls are bad, but the fall from a boom can be worse.

I've Always Loved You

REPUBLIC RELEASE. Producer, Frank Borzage. Associate producer, Lew Borzage. Director, Frank Borzage. Screenplay by Borden Chase. From American Magazine story, "Concerto," by Borden Chase. CAST—Philip Dorn, Catherine McLeod, William Carter, Mme. Maria Ouspenskaya, Felix Bressart, Elizabeth Patterson, Vanessa Brown, Lewis Howard, Adele Mara, Gloria Donovan, Stephanie Bachelor, Cora Witherspoon, Fritz Feld.

PREVIEWED at Republic Studios, Studio City, Calif., Aug. 28, 1946. Running time: 116 MINS.

"I've Always Loved You," Republic's most ambitious release to date, is gorgeous in color, rich in music and a bit dim in drama. The rest of the film does not match the quality of the Artur Rubinstein piano recordings and, while the Rubinstein name is sure box office at the Philharmonic Auditorium or Carnegie Hall, it remains to be seen how it works in the movie theatres. Picture generally shapes up as a good show, but one that doesn't promise any sensational grosses.

Philip Dorn gives a smooth and convincing performance in the male lead as a famed piano maestro and conductor, and Catherine McLeod is generally adequate to the exacting requirements of her part as his pupil and protege who not only falls in love with him but threatens to surpass him as a pianist. Roles of both Dorn and Miss McLeod require a considerable degree of skill at the piano. Their work at the keys matches the recording of Rubnistein with enough verisimilitude to serve for the average customer if not for a professional musician.

Chief acting honors of the piece go to Maria Ouspenskaya in an important character part as Dorn's mother which definitely enlivens a good portion of the film. Fritz Feld also scores in brief bits as Dorn's comedy secretary.

Casting of William Carter as the farm boy whom Miss McLeod finally marries is not too apt and latter half of the drama is weakened by fact that his performance is too much on the juvenile side.

Felix Bressart as Miss McLeod's father who gave up a concert career to marry and settle down on a Pennsylvania farm, and Elizabeth Patterson as Carter's mother, who is the farm housekeeper, earn special mention for their work.

Climactic drama of the piece hinges on love of Dorn and Miss McLeod, Dorn's jealousy of her talent and his belief that "there are no women in music" and that her playing is really his own creation. The first big scene is when he conducts at her debut and discovers she is "stealing the show" from him and the final big scene is a similar concert in which she plays under his conducting and actually does "steal the show."

After the first tussle for concert honors Miss McLeod goes back to the farm and marries Carter who has always loved her. The second battle of

THE GRAPEVINE: The Voice of the Johnston Office is uttering sternly into the ear of Warners about "Voice of the Turtle." Adaptation of the Broadway hit will require considerably more cleaning up before it's fit for the screen, the purity sealers have indicated. The play itself it concerned almost entirely with the sexual maneuvers of a soldier and a girl in the latter's apartment over a weekend furlough. In fact, with the action taking place in the girl's tiny apartment, it's a glossy version of "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" . . . Alex Gottlieb and Polly Rose will be married Sept. 29, with brother Billy Rose, the columnist (oh, yes, he's a producer, too), coming out to be best man . . . Junket idea initiated by film industry to give the press and public a whirl with widely-scattered premieres is being taken up by the fashion industry. In the forthcoming weeks, fashion previews will be held on Catalina, at Grand Canyon and other odd places, with the newspaper and magazine style experts being taken along for a free ride . . . Paramount is searching for another title on "The Big Haircut," which concerns a wheat harvest but which the studio fears will be taken for a tonsorial saga. Already rejected as frivolous is the suggestion "The Lost Wheat End" . . . Xavier Cugat is tossing a big party tonight after the "Holiday in Mexico" preem for members of the cast and many others.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Rather disillusioning for the tourists on the set, those prize heavies Peter Lorre and Lon Chaney swapping recipes —for food, not homicide—on the set of "My Favorite Brunette" at Paramount . . .And here's another swap item, Transatlantic type: David Niven is driving Laurence Olivier's car, which the latter left in storage in the east when he departed for England four years ago. In London, Olivier has taken over Niven's car which he left behind when he left for Hollywood six months ago . . . Lindsay and Crouse presented every member of the cast and crew with a money clip when "Life with Father" finished shooting . . . Perc Westmore, in a grisly bit of research, has invented a new kind of blood makeup to be used exclusively for Technicolor . . . Nancy Randolph, who will plug Don Loper's fashions, was recommended to him by the head operator at 20th-Fox. Latter rescribed Nancy, then a 20th phone girl, as a "girl who can't plug, but what a body!" . . . Vera Ralston's family will finally become reunited in two weeks. She has been living here with her mother and brother, but her father was interned by the Nazis in Czechoslovakia. Liberated by the American Army, he received a visa to come to the U.S. recently and arrives in New York Sept. 3 . . . Visiting at the Paramount lot yesterday were Odeyessia and Athania Skouras, nieces of Spyros and Charles Skouras, and their cousin, Dina, of Athens, Greece. Latter lived through the German occupation and will go to school in this country.

CALL SHEET: BILL GARGAN returned from San Francisco where he enrolled his son, Bill Jr., at the University of S.F. . . . GEORGE BEATTY, comic at Charley Foy's nightspot, takes over the Dick Lane emcee role on the Paramount station W6XYZ telecast Tuesday nights . . . JOSEPH H. ROSENBERG, who retired as the Bank of America's veepee, takes his new post as rep for Lehman Brothers Monday . . . MARTY HOLLAND has bought a Bevhills bookshop in partnership with Paul LaSalle, the flyer, out of the proceeds from her novel "Fallen Angel" . . . CONSTANCE MOORE, on the set of "Hit Parade" at Republic, tells about a snooty friend of hers bragging about her swimming pool. Her friend gushed, "You simply must come over and get yourself a tan by my pool, or do you have a pool of your OWN?" Replied Connie, "No, but we have a deluxe sprinkler system" . . . DON THE BEACHCOMBER is tossing a "feast of the islands" Sunday for 60 film figures. Gala and Pagos, his 300-year-old land turtles, will also be present . . . RILEY BRYAN took his talking dog, Jerry, whose vocabulary makes that English talking dog sound like a blithering illiterate, to San Francisco. They'll appear at military and naval hospitals in the area . . . AL SIMON is living in an author's dream world this week. In one day's mail he received checks from Collier's, American Magazine and This Week . . . BILL HENRY is directing at the Pasadena Playhouse in his off-the-set hours.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Bob Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck went to see a picture the other night after Bob had been riding horses all day and was rather tired. Half way through the film he dozed off. He woke up to find his wife putting on her coat and getting up to leave. "Where you going?" he yawned. "Home," said Barbara. "What for?" asked Bob. "The picture is over," she informed him. And Taylor stumbled up the aisle considerably bemused . . . Joe Lilley, Paramount composer and arranger, says he is obtaining affadavits attesting that he wrote the song "Don't Tell Me That Story" in 12 minutes flat. He says no flack held a stopwatch on him, as we slyly stated, "only gentlemen were present" . . . Off the lots: The Wayne Morrises gave a dinner party at Saddle and Sirloin for 13 of his comrades from the Inyo Kern naval air base and their ladies. Janet Russell and Allan Hersholt celebrated her 21st birthday at Beverly Tropics. Huntington Hartford and Evelyn McBride, Eve Arden and Ned Bergen, at Ciro's . . . Since Time, Life, Fortune and Architectural Forum, the Luce publications have been barred from the Warner lot, there is a suggestion floating about that "Life with Father" will be retitled "With Father."—D.D.T.

Editorials

Today's Appreciation:

To the Warner Brothers of Hollywood, who brought out the world's first talking moving picture 20 years ago today, but who—more than that—have become known as producers with a sense of social responsibility.

In some circles it has been the popular thing to cry, "Propaganda!" and to accuse the Warners of capitalizing on popular enthusiasms. But there can be no gainsaying their contribution. "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang" stirred public thought to protest against chain-gang abuses. "The Life of Emile Zola" was a constructive effort in behalf of racial tolerance. "Juarez" hailed democracy and civil liberties. "Watch on the Rhine" exposed Naziism. The Warners' first "talkie" was a technical triumph, but the voice that has cried out against tyranny, oppression, intolerance, social degradation in the last 20 years has helped to rouse the conscience of a sleeping world.

MOA MIXES WITH EASTERN INDIE IN PRICE WAR

Dog fight is brewing between Machine Operators Association and newcomer indie operators from East who are allegedly pulling cut-throat tactics in price war. Another disturbing turn is incursion into retail juke box business of machine distributors (wholesalers to operators) through subsidiary companies. Means to fight both will be devised at special meeting of association being called for Sept. 3.

Meeting was held Tuesday night to open discussion of problems, and to meet Teamsters Union reps who want to step in and replace International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers which is now servicing trade. Though disliking Teamsters' initial approach, MOA board will appoint committee to deal directly with union heads in effort to displace IBEW with which group is dissatisfied. Move probably will precipitate jurisdictional battle between two unions.

FEE RAISE FORGOTTEN

One of original intentions of meet was to discuss acceptability of raising juke box fees from five cents to ten, or three discs for a quarter. However, meeting resolved into declamation of new non-member Eastern interests who have been price cutting, offering greater percentages to location owners, and blasting of manufacturers and machine distributors who have failed to protect and who are actually in virtual conspiracy to stab them, either directly through "phoney" subsids renting or otherwise placing machines, or through indiscriminate cooperation with newcomers.

INCOME DROPS

With income from machines having taken sharp drop, and costs of both machines and records having gone up to three times pre-war costs, ops see need of hiking fees to that of wired music outfits. Now at five cents per playing, and sharing on 50-50 with spot owners, MOA members want to hike fees and split 70-30 with locations, ops taking short end. In comparison, newcomers are said to be offering 80 per cent to locations. It's also reported that Easterners have corraled some 900 machine locations in this area alone and are working entire Coast.

By JACK HELLMAN

Crime might not pay but they do pretty well by it on radio. Running one-two on the Hooper time are a pair of black-jackers listed as "Mr. D.A." and "Crime Doctor." It's a photo finish, too, with "D.A." just .3 of a point ahead of the doctor, checked at 11 even. And skimming down the list of the Top 15 are more of the cops-and-robbers genre. In fact, nine of the leaders are dramatic or chiller-dillers. Screen Guild Players holds down third position with 10.3 followed by "Man Called X" 10.1; "Suspense" 9.5; Phil Baker 9.4; "Aldrich Family" 9.2; "Can You Top This?" 8.9; Kay Kyser 8.9; "Big Town" 8.7; Mystery Theatre 8.6; Dr. I.Q. 8.6; "Thin Man" 8.5; Hit Parade 8.5; "Ellery Queen" 8.4. It's rise and shine on the Wednesday list. Academy Award Theatre came through with 7.7 on .9 lift; "Dr. Christian" was clocked at 7.4, off .6; "Holiday for Music" 6, up 2.3; Lum and Abner 4.7, up 1.1; "Sad Sack" 5.8, up .1. Showing the way to the multi-week crowd is "Supper Club," caught at 7.3.

It happened out in the Pacific and what makes it a trade story is the tag line Bob Burns gave to the incident. Van Buren's favorite son had a passel of friends on his yacht for a sail when one of them caught a snatch of familiar conversation on the ship-to-shore communications line. It went something like this: "We should have $1,500 for writers, $3,000 for guestars and AFRA cast, etc." Flipped Burns, "You can't even get away from the hucksters out in mid-ocean." Could it have been Milton Biow, out on Harry Cohn's yacht that day, getting the breakdown on a show from an agent? Knowing what we do about Biow's reverence for his idol, Alexander Bell, it could very well have been him, it could.

Chain breaks . . . How come that Peggy Lee, whom B. Crosby thinks is the hottest prospect to come along in years, has been sidetracked from his record sales for Philco? She's been standing by in NY awaiting a call but it hasn't come through and meanwhile Lina Romay has been booked for the first six platters. Miss Lee is not only available but would like nothing better than to sing with Bing . . . Sheilah Graham's 3.9 on Coast Mutual for Rayve has whetted the interest of a big air spender. Her cinema chit chat has a newsy freshness and no tattler gets around more than she . . . Jack Kirkwood's 8.9 just about tops the summer sustainers from here but so far no fall sale . . . Which network head called together the principals of the show niched opposite Bing's platters to map a full scale assault on the wax works? . . . Bert Prager has joined up with Jimmy Saphier . . . There's some fire coming through the smoke on the "Man Called X" deal and pens may be poised on parchments before many more days . . . Nellie Revell will come to the Coast if any of the deals brweing for her come to a head.

Jack Rourke, who used to be a page in white flannels and blue coat at NBC in New York, recalls some of the others who turned with the wheel and spun upward. To name a few, there were Jack Cleary, producer for Sammy Kaye; Richard Ney, mate of Greer Garson; Producer Dee Engelbach; Gil Ralston, head of daytime radio for Procter & Gamble; Earl Wrightson, featured baritone on "Family Hour," and Ted Steele, KMPC music director.

On the Short Line: Some time ago Benny Goodman broke with Music Corp. and went under the management of Mark Hanna. First deal he made for the tooter-maestro was for the Socony-Vacuum show, more or less wrapped up by MCA, which represents Victor Borge. Billing for the program reads: "The Victor Borge Show Starring Benny Goodman." Wonder what Bennah thinks of that arrangement? . . . If this isn't a new low in press agenting it'll do until you can top it. "National Barn Dance" sent the following exclusive to "Strange as It Seems": "Lulu Belle, singing sweetheart of Barn Dance, still keeps among her treasured souvenirs the same wad of gum she was so excitedly chewing when married to Scotty, her singing partner. She calls it her "sentimental Spearmint" .

Hitch hikes . . . All the stars in the "Hollywood Players" lineup will appear in one form or another on the inaugural broadcast over CBS Tuesday. Bette Davis and Rex Harrison lead off the dramatics, and to be cut in on the program from their studios will be John Garfield, Claudette Colbert, Joseph Cotten, Gene Kelly, Joan Fontaine, Gregory Peck and Paulette Goddard . . . Phil Spitalny and his all-gal orchestra will do several programs from here in late fall for his new sponsor, the electric companies . . . Walter Craig, radio head of Benton & Bowles, and his Coast director, Al Kaye, have booked passage on the next sailing of the marital barque . . . Henry Morgan, bowing in on ABC Sept. 3 with a new half hour show, has a five-a-week strip coming up when he moves here in a few weeks. Mike Shore calls it a "new dimension" in audience participation shows . . . Dick Hubbell, production head of Crosley television, casing the video scene and not too hopeful of any cornerturning for three years at least. 'Our progress didn't impress him too much . . . NBC publicity release states that "at Kyser's suggestion the new program will be reduced to half hour." Just supposin' Kay hadn't suggested it, what would have happened to Frank Morgan, who holds a fall commitment with American Tobacco and the time situation being what it is? Mr. Hill owned the time and Kyser no longer works for him . . . Joan Edwards will do a comedy skit on Sept. 7 takeoff of "Truth or Consequences" which may indicate a guestar policy for the Ralph Edwards menagerie. Variety's showmanship plaque will also be presented him on the broadcast . . . Art Linkletter (howya, Ralph") on the mend from a cutting job and due back with "People Are Funny" Sept. 20 . . . Irna Phillips' "Women in White" and "Today's Children" start airing from here Monday.

'DUEL' WILL GET 4 PREEMS; LONDON SHOWING FIRST

probably last the rest of this week. Neil Agnew, veepee and general sales manager for Selznick, is trying to complete sales plan that will yield huge return necessary to make film a financial success.

That $6,500,000 nut represents only the production cost of the picture and, by the time exploitation dough and cost of prints is added, Selznick's total investment in the pic is likely to run close to $8,000,000.

This means that, in order to return a worthwhile profit, "Duel" will have to gross close to $20,000,000. An amount of dough that really calls for a sales plan that will guarantee the widest possible market.

Date for nationwide screening of the film is still contingent on getting sufficient number of prints. Technicolor labs have been jammed and it is understood "Duel" would have had an earlier release date if prints could have been turned out in time.

Prints for the three-state opening, it was stated, will be available and it is hoped to get others out before the end of December.

Selznick is crowding to get picture released before the end of the year so that it will be eligible for Academy Award competition.

Carnegie Hall ends with Miss McLeod triumphantly proving that she is not only a great pianist on her own but that she no longer has any lingering love for Dorn.

The stage conflict may get over for professional musicians, but is a bit subtle for most of the audience. Borden Chase's story is one of those that are difficult to make vivid on the screen. Frank Borzage's direction attempts to meet the challenge but doesn't quite click at all times. For the rest, Borzage has done an excellent job in keeping up the interest in sequences that don't provide startling action and in the production chores he and Lew Borzage have made skillful use of spectacular materials.

Color photography is a top job throughout and Cameraman Tony Gaudio is entitled to take a bow.

One Big Ork

Indie producers proposed yesterday to establish one permanent orchestra to be used in all their productions. Establishment of the orchestra was being worked out in negotiations between Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, with all members of that organization participating in upkeep of the orchestra, and the Musicians Union. Snag in the arrangement is how the cost will be assessed, it's understood. SIMPP bargainers maintain cost should be pro-rated among all members.

CIGGIE SHOWS ARE MOVED

American Tobacco has moved its billing on Luckies and Pall Mall cigarettes from Ruthrauff & Ryan to Foote, Cone & Belding, giving the latter agency the entire account. Transfer affects approximately $3,500,000 in business and involves radio shows headed by Jack Benny and Frank Morgan. R & R recently lost the Lionel Barrymore and Bob Burns shows (American Home Products and Noxema) to the new firm of Sullivan, Stauffer, Colwell & Bayles, three of the members having withdrawn from R & R to form their own commission house.

RELEASING DEAL ERASED DUE TO INT-U MERGE; PIX TOTAL $30 MILLION

Enterprise last night withdrew from its distribution deal with Universal.

The Charles Einfeld-David Loew combo had asked release from its $30,000,000 production commitment for Universal release. Universal agreed to the dissolution of the pact signed June 5, 1946, following a 24-hour series of meetings between legal representatives of both parties. The official announcement of dissolution issued by Enterprise in behalf of both companies stated:

"Enterprise and Universal today announced that by mutual agreement their distribution arrangements have been cancelled. The agreement to dissolve was arrived at amicably."

Action was precipitated by recent merger of Universal and International. Enterprise felt it had no deal with the new organization—that its contract was with the old Universal company.

Enterprise questioned whether the recently formed Universal-Interna-

England Goes Hollywood In Upping Picture Pay

London, Aug. 29.—Salaries of British film stars and players are soaring to unprecedented figures because of competition from Hollywood for new faces, new personalities, and established players who have a wide following in the British Commonwealth.

Due to interest shown by producers and agents in Hollywood, thousands of pounds of sterling are now paid as salaries to featured players who a few years ago were comparatively unknown.

Where only a few top stars received five thousand pounds for single picture a few years ago, latter figure is now a common one. As it stands today, only J. Arthur Rank and Alexander Korda are successfully bidding for players' services. The smaller indie producers cannot match the two film tycoons.

Some 30,000 workers in British film industry, including theatre employes, average around $15.00 pay per week.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

NORMALLY a call to the National Casket Co. is only a last resort, but when prop man Lloyd S. Edwards, on U. S. Pictures' "Pursued" at Warner Bros., came up against a request for a kite-shaped coffin with silver handles, he phoned the Los Angeles branch of the company. Need was for a pine-hod for John Rodney to use while he lay in state during an inquest scene in the film. The casket outfit was abreast of the demand immediately, and cooperated with the studio to the extent of assembling the required specimen overnight on a rental deal, making delivery at half price. Now, anyone in town who has need of a Model 1900 lay-away can get at the same place.

The color process outfit is understood to have met opposition from city authorities in their original purpose to expand the present Romaine street plant. City is said to have objected because of waste disposal problem and increased fire hazard and move to locate in the valley followed.

CANTOR AT RKO FOR 2ND FILM

Checking in at RKO Radio lot yesterday, Eddie Cantor started preparations for his forthcoming picture, "Rich Man, Poor Man," on which he will be both the producer and star, with Joan Davis set as co-star.

The new picture is from an original by Warren Wilson and Oscar Broadney. It is the second film on a two-picture deal Cantor made as producer-star with the late Charles Koerner, the first being "Show Business," released in 1944.

"Rich Man, Poor Man" is set for fall production and is to be one of the big budget pictures of the year at RKO Radio.

IMPP includes Eagle-Lion, PRC and Monogram studios. The $156.16 weekly scale for senior flacks goes into effect immediately and is retroactive to January 1, 1946.

MacMurray Buys Yarn

"Innocent Affair," comedy original by Lou Breslow and Joseph Hoffman, has been bought by Fred MacMurray as starring vehicle for himself, probably to be made under his own indie Mutual Productions banner. Star will do picture sometime next year.

Retakes

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

He made a picture once a week i simple days of yore
And labored with a willing heart because he loved his chore.
In Griffith Park or on the beach beneat
the sunny skies
He toiled and battled all year lon with guns or custard pies.
But now he is a movie star, up in th
major league,
And acting is a dreadful bore and fill him with fatigue
And now his petulant complaints re-echo far and near—
He feels that he is overworked to make two films a year.

Four Music Hall Spots Gross $1,720,300 in First 12 Months

Four Music Halls closed their first year of first run operation with a total gross of approximately $1,720,300. Group, operating as exclusive first run local outlet for United Artists releases, chalked up the imposing figure in a total seating capacity of 3,127. Big money earner of the 15 bills screened since the opening Aug. 8, 1945, was "The Outlaw," which accounted for nearly $470,000 of the total figure during an 11-week run.

The Downtown Music Hall, seating 872, came through with a gross of approximately $833,200 on the 55 weeks covered. Next big money-maker in the group of day-daters was the Hawaii, with better than $353,400. Beverly Hills Music Hall hit total of $269,100 while Hollywood Music Hall, with only 475 seats, clocked very big $264,000.

"G. I. JOE" BIG GROSSER

Aside from the immense "Outlaw" take, next best grosser in the foursome was the opening bill, "The Story of G. I. Joe," with $153,200. "Captain Kidd" pulled $129,200 during a four-week stay, while "Whistle Stop" touched $122,100. Latter film also established the best first week figure of any bill but "The Outlaw" with $48,100.

As the quartet of first runs starts second year of operation, "Caesar and Cleopatra" looks headed to establish a new first week high for the second season. Film, on the first two days, has pulled better than $16,300. Opening day was more than $8,500. All indicates the first run outlet will continue to prove a source of profitable grosses for UA releases.

HALLS SPEED RELEASES

Music Halls were launched locally to give UA producers preferred screening time for their product after crowded booking calendars in other outlets had delayed releases and failed to give run lengths that producers demanded. Teaming together for operation was Joe Blumenfeld, San Francisco exhibitor, who acquired the old Tower, downtown, and the small Hollywood boulevard house which was renamed the Hollywood Music Hall; and Al Glaston and Jay Sutton, operators of the Hawaii and the Elite in Beverly Hills. Latter was renamed the Beverly Hills Music Hall, with the Hawaii the only house retaining original name.

Nitery and Hotel Musikers Delay Strike for Parley

New York, Aug. 29.—Threat of musicians strike in hotels and niteries here was averted with agreement to continue negotiations on wage increase until Sept. 2—Labor Day. Committees, repping bonifaces and vaude house managements, and union reps agreed any increase granted would be retroactive to Sept. 2 when present pact expires. Local 802 is asking for 25 per cent hike for nitery and hostelry musickers, plus additional 25 for those working with floor shows.

Union reps met separately with vaude committee and Allied Restaurant and Entertainment Industries, nitery organization. Latter conclave was held under auspices New York State Mediation Board. Walkout would involve some 27,000 musicians in approximately 1100 night spots and 40-odd hotels.

Vaude and cafe men declare new scale, as proposed by union, would increase music costs more than 50 per cent, and are exhorbitant.

Richard McCann, 802 prexy, headed musician group. Joe Vogel, Metro; Bob Weitman, Paramount; Gus Eysell, Music Hall theatre, among committee for vaude ops. Arthur Garfield Hays, AREI counsel, spoke for niteries.

Balter Drops Liberal Torch; Returning to Sportcasting

Sam Balter is dropping the torch. Commentator, over whom many controversies have started, and who assumed national proportions via repeated political-social wrangles with sponsors, stations and others, is officially abandoning liberal causes that have kept him in hot water. He will, in about face, resume his original status of sportscaster.

Facilitating move is his appointment as sports director of station KLAC which becomes effective Sept. 9. He will thereafter assume charge of all sports events connected with station, in addition to making broadcasts. Present commentator connections at KLAC will be terminated.

Red River Renegades

(Western)

REPUBLIC RELEASE. Associate produc- Bennett Cohen. Director, Thomas Carr. iginal screenplay, Norman S. Hall. Pho- raphy, William Bradford. Editor, Wil- m P. Thompson. Musical director, Mort ickman. Sound, Victor Appel. Art direc- , Fred A. Ritter. Set decorations, John Carthy, Jr., Earl Wooden.

CAST—Stars Sunset Carson. Supporting ayers, Peggy Stewart, Tom London, Ted lams, LeRoy Mason, Bruce Langley, nne Duncan, Edmund Cobb.

REVIEWED at Hitching Post Theatre, llywood, Calif., Aug. 29, 1946. Running ne: 55 MINS.

"Red River Renegades" stacks up vorably as standard western offer- g and provides strong vehicle for unset Carson, in latest of Republic's eries starring this gent. Poor editing n one occasion throws picture for a oss, but Carson stock is maintained hrough rapid action geared for pop- lar taste.

Star plays a U.S. postal inspector n stagecoach days in this saddler vhich is afforded its share of fights nd hard riding. He arrives on scene vhere coaches carrying fortunes in egistered mail disappear, and takes t from there. He is aided by an old saddle-maker, Tom London, who actually is another inspector, and gal, Peggy Stewart, who turns out to be a Pinkerton operative. Femme plays different type of heroine, as handy with a gun as Sunset.

Enough novelty is injected into plot to carry spectator along on the breeze. Star offers good characterization, never stepping out of this character, and he's convincing in role which calls for plenty of gun-play. London makes most of comedy role which doesn't get as sappy as majority of western teammates, and Miss Stewart is attractive in a part which gives her a lot to do. Ted Adams and LeRoy Mason are properly effective as heavies, whole cast performing atmospherically.

As associate producer, Bennett Cohen got the most out of his budget and Thomas Carr's direction keeps plot continually on the move. Norman S. Hall wrote original screenplay and William Bradford delivered nicely with his camera.

PAR WILL START FOUR NEXT MONTH

Start of four pictures during September, augmenting six already in production, will give Paramount its busiest month since before Pearl Harbor.

Slated to go next month are Robert Fellows production, "The Big Haircut," starring Alan Ladd and Dorothy Lamour, set for Sept. 4; "Variety Girl," high-budget musical directed by George Marshall, to go Sept. 11; "Blaze of Noon," to star Stirling Hayden, Sonny Tufts, William Holden and William Bendix, scheduled for Sept. 14; and Pine-Thomas' "Adventure Island," rolling Sept. 15.

Gallant Bess

(Melodrama—Cinecolor)

METRO RELEASE. Producer, Harry Rapf. Director, Andrew Marton. Original story and screenplay, Jeanne Bartlett. Suggested by incident as told by Lt. Marvin Park, USNR. Photography, John W. Boyle. Editor, Harry Komer. Musical score, Rudolph G. Kopp. Sound, Douglas Shearer. Art direction, Cedric Gibbons, Howard Campbell. Set decorations, Edwin B. Willis, Paul Huldschinsky. Montage, Peter Ballbusch. Technical advisor, Capt. W. W. Feineman.

CAST — Features Marshall Thompson, George Tobias, Clem Bevans and "Bess." Supporting players, Donald Curtis, Murray Alper, Wally Cassell, Jim Davis, Chill Wills, John Burford, Johnny Bond.

TRADESHOWN at Westwood Village Theatre, Westwood, Calif., Aug. 28, 1946. Running time: 100 MINS.

"Gallant Bess" is an unusual film which unquestionably will be remembered among the season's list of horse pictures. Beautifully photographed in color, feature should be a natural at box office and cash in on current craze for equine stories, despite lack of marquee names and a plot which sometimes becomes too maudlin and is over-length in footage. Based on true-life incident of a Seabee who found a horse on an island in the South Pacific, narrative has been built up for use of this premise, and as carefully produced by the veteran Harry Rapf it stands as a novelty melodrama which, bit of the fable side, will certainly be among Metro's talked-about films.

This is the picture for which Metro experimented so extensively in use of Cinecolor, and it emerges as a success in this field, tints lending themselves admirably to telling of story. Marshall Thompson plays lad who lavishes all his love on his horse, Bess, and who, when talked into enlisting in few moments notice, is forced to leave her behind. Because he is not there to care for her when she comes down with pneumonia, while in foal, she dies shortly after he rushes back to her, his arrival delayed by his commanding officer who refused him immediate leave in the emergency.

Feature actually is divided into two parts, so loosely knit as to lose considerable interest during this linking period. First half unfolds here, second part in South Pacific, where boy, still grieving and bitter at his loss, finds a wounded mare and nurses her back to health.

Story doesn't hold up too strongly under close inspection, but it intrigues interest and catches up audience in its sweep. Jeanne Bartlett wrote original and script from incident as told by Lt. Marvin Park, USNR, and stint generally is an imaginative piece of work.

Andrew Marton did top job of directing, his handling of horse and animal scenes particularly effective. There are some wild animal shots which are especially engaging, and photography by John W. Boyle an artistic achievement throughout. Other technical departments likewise are outstanding.

In top role, Thompson turns in clever performance, and George Tobias likewise contributes tellingly in comedy part. Clem Bevans has sympathetic role, others scoring including Donald Curtis, Murray Alper, Wally Cassell, Johnny Bond and Jim Davis. Chill Wills is in for humorous moment as recruiting officer. As for Bess, the horse, she is one of most beautiful and highly trained yet glimpsed on screen.

GELLER GOES TO EAGLE-LION AS PRODUCER

James J. Geller, one of the victims of the recent Universal reorganization "purge," moved over to Eagle-Lion yesterday on a producer contract. Geller checked in at the studio and was given his first assignment by Bryan Foy—to produce "Love From a Stranger," Frank Vosper play purchased by Eagle-Lion.

Play has previously been filmed in England and was bought by Eagle-Lion with Arturo de Cordova in mind for the lead. Script is being done by Gina Kaus.

This is Geller's first venture as producer. He was story editor at Warners for a number of years, came to Universal last year as coordinator in the story department, and was released there with numerous other execs when the Universal-International merger was effected. He is known as one of the top story men in the business.

THE GRAPEVINE: You might have a little trouble figuring out whether you're watching a musical comedy or a three-ring circus when "Up in Central Park" opens at the Hollywood Bowl Sept. 7. Producer Mike Todd yesterday added the Shyrettos, a tightwire act, plus a troupe of Arabian tumblers and a bagpipe band to the cast. Fred and Elaine Barry of the Broadway cast returned from a South American tour in time to resume with the show . . . Mikhail Rasumny, an odd little man, finds himself in an odd little situation today. He bought a new home on Woodrow Wilson drive. On the day he was to take possession, the deal to sell his old house fell through. So now Mikhail has two roofs over his head . . . Bette Davis lunched yesterday with Jeffrey Lynn, giving rise to a flock of rumors that he will be the leading man in her next picture . . . Maj. Dick Prentiss met Dorothy Malone at the airport when she arrived from Dallas. They're expected to announce their engagement shortly . . . Ray Milland may have another "lost weekend" in Paramount's "Golden Earrings" whether he likes it or not. In one scene Marlene Dietrich clouts him over the head with a frying pan . . . Ida Lupino's new boat broke down as it was entering the breakwater at Balboa, and Humph Bogart aboard his yacht towed her craft to the dock . . . Cruel jest dept.: They say the old salutation, "What do you know, Joe?" has been changed to "When do you go, Joe?" at Universal-International.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Arthur Lubin has gone underground in New Orleans. Journeying there for his directorial chore on "New Orleans," every frustrated actor in town heard he was casting local people for atmosphere parts and descended on his suite demanding their chance at a screen career. Lubin had to change hotels and assume an alias. At last reports he was considering a beard and slouch hat as additional safeguards . . . American Airlining out today: Nicholas Schenck of Loew's, J. Cheever Cowdin and C. D. Prutzman of Universal . . . William Gargan overheard it in Billingsley's: "He says he wants a tie to match his eyes but can't find any bloodshot silk" . . . Joyce Arling, who's playing the "Susie" role in the Laguna strawhat version of "Boy Meets Girl," originated the part on Broadway. Allyn Joslyn and Marc Lawrence play the punchdrunk scenario writers . . . William Boyd has taken another radical step in his treatment of the hoss opera. All ungrammatic "thataways" and sagebrush colloquialisms will be dropped from his Hopalong Cassidy series. It's not true, however, that Oxonian accents and pear-shaped vowels will be mandatory . . . Warners has raided the Public Domain, which Edward Small has sharecropped so profitably, for "Woman in White." The mystery story was a terrific bestseller—in 1859.

CALL SHEET: BARRY SULLIVAN'S household is in a panic. A sailor he met while making "Suspense" has written that he is sending his pet cobra to them from India . . . HORACE McNALLY'S job of acting opposite Ginger Rogers in "Magnificent Doll," as Dolly Madison's first husband, resulted in signature of a personal contract with producers Jack Skirball and Bruce Manning . . . MURIEL HERMAN, wife of Hal Herman, assistant to John Brahm on "The Brasher Doubloon," has written another play, "Here Lies Ebenezer," in collaboration with Arthur Herzog. It's a comedy scheduled for Broadway production this fall. Her other play "Mary Had a Little" is in the tryout stages . . . LOIS COLLIER was the target of envy on the "Flame of Tripoli" set when her husband, Bob Oakley, presented her with a new sport coupe on their first wedding anniversary . . . PRESTON STURGES won't forget his 48th birthday, celebrated yesterday. At the end of shooting the other day the "Vendetta" company got together and sang "Happy Birthday" and recorded it on the soundtrack. At the end of the rushes yesterday morning the song came blaring out . . . CARLEY HARRIMAN, production assistant to Benedict Bogeaus, got a hand from the boss for his work on "Mr. Ace," previewed last week . . . SYLVIA SIDNEY buying five hats in one store sitting. Chain reaction in the millinery department?

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Sydney Greenstreet has turned down offers to play a Colonel Blimp type in an English motion picture. Afraid he might get typed? . . . Joe Von Stroheim, son of The Monocle, marries Phyllis Fifield Saturday at Immaculate Heart of Mary church, with a reception at the Chapman Park hotel. He works in the Metro art department while she is employed in a similar chore at RKO . . . Jim Davis was handed a new Metro contract yesterday. Might have had something to do with the job he did in "Gallant Bess." He's been handed the heavy rôle in the new Van Johnson starrer "Romance of Rosy Ridge" . . . Off the lots: Stellar turnout for Arthur Blake's opening at Larry Potter's Supper Club included Ida Lupino, Carmen Miranda, Yvonne DeCarlo, Wallace Ford, Gail Patrick, Janet Blair, Agnes Moorehead, Alexis Smith, Judy Canova, Isobel Lennart and her new husband, John Briard Harding III. Ciro's will be taken over by a Sunset Strip fashion show Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons next week. Angela Lansbury and George Kitchell at Lyon's Grill. Marguerite Padula reopens at Charley Foy's Monday . . . The busy scientists in Paramount's flackery came up yesterday with the startling news that Paulette Goddard and Dorothy Lamour "have the most sizzling kisses in Hollywood," according to tests made on "Sleepy Joe," the studio's $75,000 robot. We'll bet a Ubangi maiden's kiss would melt Sleepy Joe's copper heart, scramble his Frankenstein brains and buckle his aluminum knees.—D.D.T.

SPERLING TRYING TO MAKE DEAL ON 'ANGEL' PIC

Milton Sperling, United States Pictures topper, has started negotiations with the Arthur Ripley-Rudolph Monter combo on production deal on "Look Homeward Angel," the Thomas Wolfe classic.

The Ripley-Monter setup signed a six-picture deal with David O. Selznick about two years ago, at which time "Angel" was tabbed as the initial production. Ripley wrote the screenplay and although it has been in Selznick's possession for some time, producer has given no indication of early action.

In the meantime, various studios have put in bids for the property, with Ripley willing to listen only to package deal setups. The writer-producer-director recently went back to North Carolina and shot 38,000 feet of backgrounds for the film. Ripley's production plan calls for a $2,000,000 budget. Selznick's chief obstacle on producing film is studio space.

Sperling, utilizing Warner Bros. studio facilities and distribution setup, is in a position to assure early producton. Understood plans call for starring team of young players bolstered by strong cast of top feature actors.

Buchanan To Blurb 'No Trespassing'

Deal for Buchanan agency to handle advertising and exploitation on "No Trespassing" was completed yesterday by Sol Lesser Productions. No announcement was made of the amount budgeted for ballyhoo but Lesser, enthusiastic after viewing film, said he was upping the sum originally intended.

Studio Workers Fined

Twenty studio workers yesterday pleaded guilty to violating a Superior Court order on picketing and were fined $25 by Judge Charles P. Johnson after waiving charge on 349 others.

Lester For Maxie's

Jerry Lester has been signed by producer Sammy Lewis to headline the new show, "All in Fun," opening Sept. 16 at Slapsy Maxie's.

Light 'n' Airy

(on the ½ shell)

by JACK HELLMAN

The pounding impact of simplicity, never given its full due by the men who master mind big time radio, is finally inching into their consciousness. It's not that they haven't had a successful format to go by but comedy being so hotsy with the Hoopers they went all out for the bigger game to the almost utter neglect of the simple things that have a down-to-earth quality. "The McGee's" have done alright, as have "Aldriches," "Amos 'n' Andy," "Lum and Abner," "One Man's Family" and a choice few others that play on the sentiments rather than the risibilities. Never smart alecky or laugh-reaching, they've made simplicity work for their success. Now comes Texaco to buy Eddie Bracken and Canada Dry to foot the bills for Meredith Willson.

The thought was bouncing around in our conk that the subject of this tabloided thesis might have had something to do with these two buys so we sought enlightenment from John Bates, radio head of the Mathes agency, who negotiated the Willson deal. "It's as simple as all that," he concluded, after pounding home the argument that Americans want entertainment that is purely American, earthy and something that stays with them. Willson, he opines, has that quality with a folksy humor that is easy to take. As for Bracken he, too, falls into that category, never hitting folks over the head with a warmed-over gag. Most of the joke boys are seguing into situation comedy so mebbe after all they're getting hep to what's blowing up on the home front.

BROADWAY RUNAROUND

By RADIE HARRIS

NEW YORK IS THE SAME: Noise! Dirt! Hurry! Hurry! Hurry! . . . with queues still waiting to see "Oklahoma" . . . J. Brooks Atkinson, resuming his drama criticism on the N.Y. Times . . . Clifton Webb, holding court at the Colony . . . Peter Lind Hayes, keeping the ropes up at the Copa . . . Ethel Merman, conducting a private box office from her home for all her friends wanting house seats for "Annie Get Your Gun" . . . Dwight Wiman in action again . . . W. W. But it's my home town, and like every home town, the nicest part of leaving it is coming home again.

NEW YORK ISN'T THE SAME: without Frank Case at the Algonquin, Jim Moriarity at the Barberry Room and Rags Ragland at Toots Shorr . . . When trash like "Maid of the Ozarks" can continue at the Belasco and fine plays like "Home of the Brave" and "This, Too Shall Pass" can't . . . SCOOPING AROUND: Gene Tierney is letting Clifton Webb give out all the press interviews on "The Razor's Edge," and is keeping her Waldorf Tower an "ivory" one from the 20th-Fox publicity dept., except the fashion head, who happens to be her mother . . . Arthur Rank's American interests won't be confined strictly to business but to a lot of pleasure when his daughter, Sheila, and her groom Freddie Packer, present him with his first grandchild . . . David Raksin checks in from Hollywood today to huddle with Leonard Sillman on the selection of the "Cinderella," who will sing his beautiful score to "Cinderella, '46." Of all the contestants who have auditioned so far, the No. 1 fave is Marjorie Belle, Walt Disney's "Snow White" . . . Now it's Joan Castle who is strolling down "Park Avenue" with George S. Kaufman . . . Wonder how Frank and Bertha Case would feel about Margaret and Carroll Case's decision to put the Algonquin on the auction block? . . . Some of our male producers had better look to their laurels this season. With Irene Selznick and Tallulah Bankhead already announcing their production plans, along come Haila Stoddard, Terry Lewis and Gloria Safier as further femme competition . . . Damaris Deere Wiman, daughter of Dwight and Steve, becomes the bride of Richard Newbold Colhoun on Sept. 14 at Saint James Church, with a large reception at the Plaza afterward . . . It's rather ironic that with all the "inty" set discussing Sir Charles Mendl's performance in "Notorious," no one has bothered to mention the fact that one of Broadway's greatest stars isn't even recognized in the fleeting glimpses of her Lenore Ulric . . . If Dorothy Massey is excited about the preview raves on Laura Hobson's forthcoming novel, it's because she gave her the title, "Gentlemen's Agreement" . . . With Florence Desmond in "Cinderella, 46," Lenore Corbett in "Park Avenue" and Pat Kirkwood in "Sweet Bye and Bye," it would certainly seem as if the English gals have a priority on our musicals this season . . . And, of course, the fact that James Mason is playing in five picture houses simultaneously certainly shows that English is spoken here!

"BERLE"-ING POINT: I like Milton Berle's crack that he knows a Hollywood actress who refused to attend a fashionable party because she was ashamed of being seen with last year's husband!

MUTUAL AGREEMENT: Have this one on Eddie Cantor, which he tells on himself: Just before Eddie returned from his Canadian vacation, he was sitting in his hotel room at Banff Springs, when the door was unceremoniously thrust open and a fond mother clutching her offspring, burst into the room. With no apologetic prelude, she immediately demanded her sonny boy to sing. No sooner had he finished than with no encouragement from Eddie, she applauded for an ancore. Eddie allowed himself to suffer again, but this time, at the conclusion, he reached for an invisible hook. Taking the mother aside, he told her as kindly as he could that her child had no future in the theatre or on the screen.

"Please believe that I'm sincere in telling you that he has no talent along those lines," he told her. "Take my advice and let him go back to school and lead a normal child's life."

The mother listened silently, and then yanked her child to the door. Just as they were about to leave, she turned back and looking at Eddie snapped, "And you stink too!"

'SUN' THAT ROSE IN H'D WILL SET IN NY

"Duel in the Sun" sales huddles, in progress here for the past week, are being transferred to New York. Neil Agnew, veepee and general salesmanager for Selznick International and Vanguard, left last night, following an all-day conference with David O. Selznick, Paul MacNamara, chief flack, George Bagnall, United Artists veepee, and other UA execs.

No announcement was forthcoming and it is understood the conferees haven't yet hit on satisfactory sales and release method for the $6,500,000 biggie.

Selznick and MacNamara will leave here next Tuesday for further conferences with Agnew in New York, where Selznick will also meet Ann Todd, British actress, who arrives on the Queen Mary Sept. 3.

AFRA INITIATES PARLEY TO GET NATIONAL RATE

American Federation of Radio Artists today makes initial pitch to network Coast divisions on new contract demands affecting this area only. Decision was reached yesterday at board meeting and potato handed to Claude McCue, exec secretary. He will contact divisional v-p's of four networks by telephone in attempt to set up immediate negotiations.

Point union wants to dicker on is elimination of regional net pay classification. Labeled unfair at recently concluded convention, it is unique in that classification is nonexistent in East. There union some time ago had it eliminated and announcers working on regional net broadcasts are paid transcontinental rate.

Here nets have retained classification and pay less. Easterns get t.c. pay rate for any program that goes out over two or more stations. Local branch would not be as tough but would permit two-station airings on regional basis. However, t.c. pay is sought for what goes as regional now.

Overall commercial, sustaining and transcriptions code negotiations are to be undertaken early in October. However, union will today make it clear that talks will be indefinitely postponed unless local thorn is removed. Threat is that unless nets agree to parity between East and West there will be no negotiating of new tickets with nets.

NEW MEREDIAN PIX TO PRODUCE 16M'S ON CO-OP BASIS

Meridian Pictures, with capitalization of $250,000, has been formed by Sam Nathanson, former sales head of Planet Pictures, in association with group of 16m producers on cooperative basis. Newcomer firm, headed by Nathanson, prexy, Maurice Goldman, secretary, and Mary Scully, treasurer, will institute unique distribution deals with producers and embark on new type of sales policy in 16m field.

From six producers, Duncan Rinaldo, Allyn Butterfield, Arthur Gregor, Col. Frank Koops, Walter Mattox and G. A. Durlam, Meridian expects minimum of two Kodachrome color pictures annually. Operating a la United Artists, producers will share in income from them, instead of usual buyout or salary basis. Leyva, Gary Lindsey and Oscar Productions, Meridian cartoon subsid, will participate with shorts, all 16m.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The splendid character and the immense magnitude of the job being done by MacArthur in Japan is made more apparent in the first annual report just made public. He's able to tell us that the millions of Japanese armed men and civilians abroad have now been handled, that the war factories have now been destroyed or reconverted to peace, that the hold of the 14 families on Japan has been broken, and that such reforms have been made as the program that will enable the Japanese tenant farmer to buy the land he now works. MacArthur has been much criticized, but he's doing the job in Japan that we wish were a fraction as well done in Germany . . . So far our record on the veto in the United Nations is clean. We cast votes against the admission of Albania and Outer Mongolia today, but in neither case were there enough affirmative votes so that our vote was not a veto but merely one of the negative ones. But the situation was different on Eire, Transjordan and Portugal. All of them got enough affirmative votes for admission, so that the Russian vote against was a veto in each case. In the case of Eire, their's was the only one against. Even Poland did not join Moscow in this case. You can write your own comments on the Irish reaction.

'VITAGRAPH GIRL,' EARLY DAY STAR, DEAD

Florence Turner, one of the early immortals of motion pictures in their infancy, died early yesterday morning at Motion Picture Country House, following illness of several months. There will be no funeral services. Her body will lie in state from 1:00 p.m. this afternoon to 12:00 noon Sunday at Pierce Bros. Hollywood Mortuary, 5959 Santa Monica Blvd., followed by cremation.

Actress, who started her screen career at 17 with Vitagraph and became known to movie-goers of early 1900's as "The Vitagraph Girl," is second screen veteran to pass away this week, Jeanie Macpherson preceding her by two days. In 1915, she was voted by country's motion picture exhibs as "most popular actress in the United States."

Following appearance in scores of silent films, she went to England in 1916 and established her own producing company in London, first screen star to embark upon such a venture. When U.S. entered World War I, she abandoned this and toured England, Scotland and Wales in vaude act, entertaining American troops in France. She returned to this country at end of war and resumed screen career, appearing with such companies as Mutual, First National, Rayart, Pathe and Universal. For past few years she was under contract with Metro, and remained with them until stricken some time ago.

Enterprise Withdraws From Universal Deal

tional company would deliver the same concessions granted its product under terms of its original deal with Universal. Observers last night believed that it was a "case of being a big fish in a small pond" as against competing with only A-product of UI's new program.

U PLEDGES EQUAL RIGHTS

It was learned that Universal emphatically told the Einfeld-Loew combo that it would receive the same terms of distribution in the Universal-International releasing program. When Enterprise still pressed the issue, Universal agreed to the cancellation of the pact.

The original pact called for Universal to release, throughout the world, a minimum of six top-budgeted Enterprise films annually for a three-year period. The films were to have been sold separately from the Universal product and from that of the several indie units which were releasing through Universal.

ENT SPENDS $6,000,000

Enterprise has already spent approximately $6,000,000 on its production program. Its initial film, the Harry Sherman production, "Ramrod," has been completed, and the "Arch of Triumph" is nearing completion. Its projected production program is jammed with big story properties and a heavy slate of top talent in all departments.

Speculation last night centered on Enterprise's next distribution move. With its multi-million dollar investment temporarily at a standstill, company is believed to have already initiated releasing negotiations with other distribution outlets. It is reported that talks have begun with Columbia, United Artists and RKO, with indications pointing to Columbia and UA currently being the hottest prospects in that order. An alternative arrangement would be Enterprise forming its own distribution program, a project which Charles Einfeld is known to have advocated some time ago.

In the legal phases of dissolution Enterprise was represented by the law firm of Schwarts, Ziffren and Steinberg, and its NY attorney, Howard Reinheimer, with Universal represented by its general counsel, Charles Prutzman.

U-I PROGRAM UNDENTED

Loss of Enterprise products will not dent Universal--International 1946-47 program of top-A products. Company already has an imposing backlog of top budgeted films. Definitely on the slate are Mark Hellinger's "Swell Guy"; Skirball-Manning's "The Magnificent Doll"; Walter Wanger's "Smashup"; Universal's "Shahrazad," "Pirates of Monterey," "I'll Be Your's," and "Flame of Tripoli." Also International's two completed films, "Dark Mirror" and "Temptation."

In addition, J. Arthur Rank is committed to deliver at least eight top budgeted films for Universal-International release.

Prediction that auction selling under the decree will result in huge increases in motion picture business was made by Herbert J. Yates, Republic prexy, over the weekend. Yates said he looks for a nationwide theatre building boom with from 3500 to 5000 theatres being constructed as rapidly as materials are available.

"Under the decree everybody in the business is going to get a better

COURT SEZ PRODS MAY PICK BUYERS

Pittsburgh, Sept. 2. — Anti-trust action brought by an Ambridge, Pa., theatre operator against major distribs was dismissed by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson who ruled that film producers have the right to choose their customers and select theatres in which their product is first exhibited. Paramount, RKO, 20th-Fox, Loew's, Inc., were among the defendants.

Ben Hecht Shows Crowd Broadway

New York, Sept. 2.—This is Ben Hecht week on Broadway. Revival of his and Charley MacArthur's "Front Page" opens at the Royale Wednesday, and a new propaganda play, "A Flag Is Born" comes into the Alvin Thursday. "Swan Song" is current at the Booth. In addition, he has two films screening, "Spectre of the Rose," which opened Saturday at the Republic, and "Notorious" at the Music Hall.

CBS RAISES PAY 10 PCT.

New York, Sept. 2. — CBS announced 10 per cent pay hike for all employes receiving $100 per week or less, bringing all those getting between $100 and $109 to a flat $110. Effective Sept. 1, increase goes to those "not currently covered by union contract or any other agreement."

CIO union foremost in trying to organize CBS white collarites—Radio Guild of United Office and Professional Workers of America—immediately claimed credit for boost, reproducing letter sent Aug. 20 to CBS personnel director Howard Hausman asking for a "cost of living" increase for all.

Johnston Bars Transcribed Interviews by Film Stars

Transcribed interviews are verboten for film folk, according to new ruling being laid down by the Motion Picture Association of America. Nix has been put on the plattered palaver, according to Eric Johnston office, because requests have reached saturation point and inability to control or even partially regulate uses to which interviews might be put.

With industry being virtually inundated with requests for player interviews from all types of organizations and associations, from stations, agencies, personalities and others, it was deemed necessary to apply brake. There will be but few exceptions, and those only where there is an absolute guarantee of intended usage—which will be checked before approval. Live shows, it's presumed, will not be affected.

Equally considered in adoption of policy was problem of promiscuous use of platters by indie stations. The open end transcription that permits use by any local sponsor was one of major flies in pudding. Too often, by innuendo or blatant misuse, stars and others were made to appear to be endorsing products, and in some cases were made to lend impression to more questionable things. Among those to be hard hit by the ukase are many syndicated Hollywood air columns, great majority of which feature interviews.

LABOR DAY COIN FILLS NY TILLS

New York, Sept. 2.—Broadway boxoffices bulged today with the biggest load of coin many had ever taken over a weekend. Labor Day weekend brought in a flood of out-of-towners, who joined the natives in lining up at the film houses. Strong bills, plus good theatre weather, helped build terrific grosses at most Main Stem theatres.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

AN unusual feature of the cast assembled by Pandro S. Berman for Metro's "Life's for the Loving," is that the principal players with the exception of Marie McDonald are all graduates of the Broadway stage. Gene Kelly jumped from "Pal Joey" to Hollywood. Charles Winninger and Spring Byington are legit vets as is John Warburton. Clinton Sundberg and Jean Adair appeared in "Arsenic and Old Lace" on Broadway before coming here and to the film and Bill Phillips started on the New York legit circuits. Marie McDonald appeared in "George White's Scandals" in New York and on the road and also was with the Charlie Barnett and Tommy Dorsey orchestras. Actress also did series of p.a. stints in heading vaude bills throughout the country.

IN national negotiations AFRA will seek to erase thorny verboten practiced by national Broadcasting Co., and Columbia Broadcasting System—the refusal to permit staff gabbers to do outside free lance work. Neither will allow staffers doubling into other stations or nets, nor will they permit "foreigners" to work their mikes. American Broadcasting and Mutual Broadcasting System do okay interchanging. Union was at first staunch on both points but will not try to force both issues. Former one will be requested but AFRA feels it cannot insist that NBC and CBS give free rein to people they pay. However, point of letting requested outsiders, from ABC, Mutual or indies, work at NBC and CBS will be pushed to limit.

THOUGH not admitted by George Heller, national executive secretary when here, American Federation of Radio Artists will be staunchly behind expanding locals when latter meet opposition. Asked about how AFRA would assist small locals in expansion plans, Heller stated it was not for discussion, that it would be included in new national code, and that plan was very flexible. However, it now comes out that union as whole is prepared to back stations to point of boycott. If local stations with net affiliations thwart AFRA reps, nets will be asked to cease feeding them programs containing AFRA members, i.e., singers, actors, announcers, sound effectors. If nets fail to respond, union will likely pull thesps.

FEELING growing among local AFRA heads that wrong people were invited into parlor that made recently closed national convention. Impression is that politicking and faction-heavy New York group has left behind disturbing and dangerous influences. Local here has, except for mutterings of few getting little work, been relatively free of cliques, politics and other dividing agitations. Since NY group, very obviously splti, politicked, traded and otherwise maneuvered with votes, membership, etc., local heads fear seepage into group here that may eventually produce trouble.

NEGOTIATIONS have been completed between Enterprise and NBC for use of the original transcriptions of the speeches of Premier Daladier of France and Prime Minister Chamberlain of England declaring war on Germany on Sept. 3, 1939. Speeches will be dubbed into the sound track of "Arch of Triumph" to highlight certain key chase sequences involving Charles Boyer and Michael Chekhov, as well as establish time of Ingrid Bergman's murder in the David Lewis production.

NEW Orleans folks are getting a big bang out of filming of scenes for Jules Levey's "New Orleans" in their city. It's the first time they've seen a picture being shot there and riverfront sequences for the picture are being filmed before a large and enthusiastic audience. Arthur Lubin, directing, used 750 locals as extras in waterfront scenes, according to Len Simpson, flack for the outfit, who returned yesterday. Company is due for another week of shooting in New Orleans.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The Russian situation is bad, very bad, and serious. It's growing steadily worse. In the face of the threatening storm, the natural tendency is to become critical—of our policy in the past, or of what we're doing now. It's easy for those who do not have the responsibility for carrying out policies to be critical. They can sit by their microphones or at their typewriters and spin out their second-guessing wisdom secure in the knowledge that even if their ideas are accepted, they shall not be held accountable for them. They can be idealistic without the slightest regard to practical facts. They can suggest withdrawing our troops from China without worry about whether the Russians then come in. They can suggest one day that we back up our words with force, and a few weeks later, cry out against our sending warships into the Mediterranean. They can shut their eyes to the spread of Communism over the Balkans and declare the British must withdraw their troops from the last western foothold in that part of the world. We do need a dynamic, inspired policy. We have the handicap of trying to face the expansion of a nation that can take advantage of our economic and social complacency and that is fired with the zeal of a cause, that cannot be divided into factions like ours. We still have a few years grace. During that time, our hope must be that a Jeremiah shall arise who shall not only inform and warn, but inspire us with a constructive democracy.

Labor Day Biz Here is 90G Up Over '45; 430G Week in Sight

Healthy holiday trade and strong new bills are shoving Los Angeles first run grosses up to socko $430,000 or near. Take is approximately $90,000 ahead of Labor Day week last year in the same houses, bespeaking upswing in local trade when attractions are hot.

Largest slice of business goes to "Holiday in Mexico," which is sighting solid $85,000 or better for its week at the Belmont, Egyptian, Los Angeles and Wilshire theatres.

"Two Guys from Milwaukee" at the three Warner houses, is coming through with handsome $70,000, while "Caesar and Cleopatra" finished its first frame in the Music Halls with estimated $52,000. "They Were Sisters," Universal release of British production, is cracking $8,000 for its solo screening at the Four Star. "Black Beauty" and "Letter for Evie" is dull at the El Rey, Orpheum and Vogue with light $25,500 estimate for its first week.

"Notorious" continues to lead the holdover trade. On second frame at the Hillstreet and Pantages film is sighting strong $66,000.

"Monsieur Beaucaire" is also catching handsome business for its second week at the two Paramounts with outlook for big $48,500. Third and final week of "Centennial Summer" at the Chinese, Loew's State and Uptown is heading for $31,500. Second week of "Time of Their Lives" and "Dark Horse" is pointing for near $20,000 at the Guild, Ritz and United Artists.

Screen Scribes Raised to Minimum of $187.50 a Week

Marking a sharp increase in wage scales, new minimum weekly salaries for screen writers and new minimum payments for scripts written on a flat deal contract have been agreed upon by a Conciliation Committee, made up of reps of the Screen Writers' Guild and the Motion Picture Association.

New scale, which went into effect August 27, gives a minimum weekly wage for qualified writers of $187.50. It also provides for a $1,500 rate for low budget flat deals, and $2,250 for feature flat deals. New pay scale will be in force for next two years.

Pact replaces the Producer-Guild Basic Agreement of 1942. Latter agreement provided for a $125.00 weekly minimum, $1,000 for action or western scripts, and $1,500 feature flat deal minimum.

Representing the producers in the negotiations were Marvin Ezzell, Jacob Karp and Robert Newman. SWG reps were Mary McCall, Jr., Richard Collins, and Philip Dunne, chairman of the Conciliation Committee.

RECORD B'WAY WEEKEND

Music Hall with a stageshow, rang up the biggest Labor Day business, as well as heftiest weekend take, for the house. Music Hall may do better with third week of "Notorious" than first two weeks of its run, with a $154,000 weekly gross in sight.

Third week of "Claudia and David," plus a stage show topped by Vivian Blaine and Jerry Colonna, may brighten the Roxy's b.o. statement with a $110,000 tap—building up to the Roxy's biggest three-week business in its history.

"The Killers," which opened last Wednesday at the Winter Garden on a straight picture basis, looks like a $50,000 opening week. House is running on an all-night grind policy. A new record for the Broadway house is assured.

Bigger second week than the record opener of $86,000 is in sight for Warners Strand, with "The Big Sleep" and Bob Crosby's band on its marquee. House opens at 9 a.m. and runs its feature for last time at 1 a.m., closing for only eight hours per day. "Sleep" is expected to get a six week run instead of the four-weeker originally scheduled.

Holiday bonanza is keeping the sixth week of "Strange Love of Martha Ivers" on the Paramount screen and Dick Stabile and ork on the stage on a par with the previous week's take. "Holiday in Mexico" at the Capitol picked up in its third stanza after slipping somewhat last week.

Gomersall Returns To U-I Exec Spot

Cancellation of Universal release contract with Enterprise brings E. T. Gomersall back to Universal-International as sales executive, it was announced over the weekend by William A. Scully, veepee and general sales manager of U-I. Gomersall had been loaned out to Enterprise as general sales manager for that company. Scully said Gomersall is returning to U-I under the terms of his contract.

30 Love On Air

Three local stations will carry A. G. Spalding Co.'s sponsored airing of national tennis championships from Forest Hills, L.I., New York, via tailor made network. Games will be broadcast live over KFVD, for Los Angeles, KGER, for Long Beach, and KWKW, for Pasadena, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., Sept. 7 and 8.

Expert Day

There were technical advisers all over the "Arch of Triumph" set over the holiday weekend—in fact one adviser to each player. Michel Bernheim, French director, served for Charles Boyer. Dr. Serge Bertensson, former general manager of the Moscow Art Theatre, advised Louis Calhern, playing the Russian doorman. Ilia Khmara, Gypsy tune expert, kept Ingrid Bergman's torch warbling in key.

THAT 'HEART' FULL AGAIN

Writer-producer Helen Deutsch will resume production on Columbia's "My Empty Heart" Thursday, following a two-week shut down on the film. Shooting on film stopped when studio replaced original producer Virginia Van Upp with Miss Deutsch on Aug. 19, 1946. At that time, Allan Rivkin and Devery Freeman were assigned to revise portions of the screen play. Green light was given director Charles Vidor upon completion of script revisions over the holiday weekend.

Paul Mantz Signed For 'Noon' Air Roles

Paul Mantz, just before hopping off in the Bendix trophy air race which he won in record time, signed contract with Paramount to take charge of all aviation sequences in "Blaze of Noon," forthcoming production based on the lives of four flying brothers. Mantz will perform many stunt flights for the film, supervise all photo planes and all other aerial equipment used in the production.

Play Review

There's Little theatre, there's Strawhat theatre and, in Los Angeles, there's the Greek Theatre's production of Sigmund Romberg's "East Wind"—that combines all the poorest elements of both of the former. Except for the moderately acceptable, and definitely not acclaimable, performances of such leaden leads as Allan Jones, tenoring, Pamella Caveness, trying, and Carmen D' Antonio nautchily dancing, there's truly little from a professional viewpoint or for show biz payee's bankote.

Costuming is Woolworthishly weary except in spots; sets are approximately adequate; staging is stagnant; acting is amateurish, when not inept, inadequate and infantile. In substance, it's turgid, tawdry and in essence non-theatrical. For illustration, Chick Chandler, who has tried everything in the gamut of show biz with small success stands out here.

"Two Years Before the Mast," Richard Henry Dana, Jr.'s classic of America's early Merchant Marine service, emerges as topflight sea entertainment in Paramount's picturization of the book. As directed by John Farrow, film packs a dramatic wallop, and with Alan Ladd, Brian Donlevy, William Bendix and Barry Fitzgerald in star roles feature is assured heavy grosses at box office.

To Howard da Silva go top honors for film's outstanding performance, despite presence of quartet of stars. Actor portrays Captain Thompson, master of the sailing ship, Pilgrim, an officer whose entire life and energies are directed to maintaining discipline and breaking sailing records from California around Horn to Boston.

It is on his ship that most of action unfolds, a hell-ship which must recruit its crews by shanghaiing them. A single exception in the crew is Brian Donlevy, who plays role of Dana, a man who deliberately signed up so that he can get material for a book written to make country conscious of the vicious conditions that exist in the sailing ships of the 1830's.

Against this background, a powerfully dramatic story unwinds. Ladd enacts playboy son of ship's owner, who wakes up to find himself signed to make voyage. Bendix is first mate, who utilizes brutality but who innately is decent sort. Fitzgerald is the cook. In script as written by Seton I. Miller—who also produced—and George Bruce, conflict between the officers and crew is projected with a force which makes spectators alive to evils of sailing days, simultaneously providing a gripping 97 minutes of rugged action.

Ladd delivers strongly, but Donlevy and Bendix are on a par with him. In less footage, Fitzgerald also scores, other standouts including Albert Dekker, as sailor who finally kills captain, Darryl Hickman as cabin boy, Luis Van Rooten as second mate. Esther Fernandez is attractive as ship's passenger, but she obviously was brought in only because there are no other femme roles.

"Mast" is a notable example of photography, high credit going to Ernest Laszlo for craftsmanship job, to Farciot Edouart for process photography, and Gordon and J. Devereaux Jennings for special photographic effects. Farrow's directorial hand is strongly felt throughout picture, and Miller threw every ounce of his production experience into filling picture with appropriate values.

• JUST FOR VARIETY •

THE GRAPEVINE: You can look for one of the Skourases to become U.S. ambassador to Greece in the near future. During the Greek king's exile in England, Spyros Skouras' son acted as his aide-de-camp. And now that the Greek elections have given George II the greenlight for his return, a new American ambassador will probably be named shortly . . . Topflight director has been having a field day. He put a number of his pals on the payroll, shot scenes according to his own mood, knocked off early in the afternoon and watched production costs shoot up as if by jet-propulsion. His producer called him on the carpet and told him to cut costs immediately. Director immediately fired the producer's girl friend as his first economy measure. Next day the p.g.f.—and all the director's buddies—were back on the payroll and no more has been said about the skyrocketing budget . . . Roy Rogers, who's making eight pictures this year for Republic, is hoping he can convince the studio to reduce his schedule to four a year henceforth . . . Bob Hutton's divorce from Natalie Thompson becomes final Friday, September 13. As if there weren't enough omens in that, he's currently playing in Warners' "Love and Learn."

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: That patch of tape on Smiley Burnette's ear is hiding the biggest catch of the season. Curt Massey was teaching Smiley fly-casting. The first thing Smiley snagged was himself, in the ear . . . Fred Othman, United Press man who formerly covered Hollywood, is having his book "Man on the Half Shell" published in January. It's devoted to the dubious theory that reporters have more fun than anyone and based on his experiences in Hollywood, Washington, Europe and North Africa . . . Much talk around Enterprise about Ingrid Bergman's telephone scene in "Arch of Triumph," which is said to rival Luise Rainer's Academy Award-winning phone sequence in "The Great Ziegfeld" years ago. Through trick photography, Miss Bergman's scene has Charles Boyer shown in a corner of the screen while she reacts to his conversation . . . Paulette Goddard and Joan Fontaine will leave the sets of "Unconquered" and "The Emperor Waltz" early today to adjourn to a Paramount dressing room, hooked up for their special appearance on the opening broadcast of the "Hollywood Players" program over CBS . . . Night club press agentry hit a new high with Ciro's announcement of the Charles Trenet opening tomorrow night. Nitery put out a six-and-one-half-page mimeographed biography on the French singer.

CALL SHEET: NIVEN BUSCH, who wrote the screenplay on "Pursued," is drawing an extra check from United States Pictures at Warners. He is acting as technical adviser on costumes of the 1890-1900 period in New Mexico, on which he is an expert . . . BILL HENRY has renovated his garage to provide living quarters for two homeless friends he met in the Navy . . . WILLIAM TRENK landed an important role in "I'll Be Yours," the Deanna Durbin film at Universal . . . CLAUDE BINYON'S young son has given up his yen for a truck-driving career. Paramount producer-writer had A. L. Bezzerides, who was in the trucking business before he became a writer, draw up a list of requirements for the boy. One was, "Remember, you'll spend more time under the truck than on it." And that decided young Mr. Binyon to return to school immediately . . . DANNY KAYE was recalled to the Goldwyn lot for five days of added scenes on "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty." He had gone to Denver to dedicate the General Maurice Rose Memorial hospital . . . BUDDY DE SYLVA returned over the weekend from Cape Cod where he had been resting and painting . . . MARIETTA CANTY is hobbling around the "Dear Ruth" set with her foot in bandages. Had a nightmare and kicked the bottom of the bed, fracturing her little toe . . . CHARLIE DeGRANDCOURT got a present from Buddy Rogers and Ralph Cohn for his job of trailer producing on "Little Iodine."

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: One hitherto unpublicized result of the recent AFRA convention here affects what were formerly known as sound effects men. Convention decided, under prodding, that they will be given new dignity with the title of "sound effects artists" . . . Desi Arnaz flew in over the weekend and takes off today for Omaha where he opens an engagement with his band this week . . . Don Ameche who has invented everything from the Maxim machine-gun to the Bell telephone (on the screen, that is) has a different kind of role in "Gallant Man," Frank Borzage's second production for Republic. He doesn't invent anything except excuses to his wife, played by Catherine McLeod, for his gambling losses . . . This may start a trend. Pittsburgh Press columnist Florence Fisher Parry threw a party for 50 Hollywood flacks over the weekend . . . Burgess Meredith, currently in Universal-International's "Magnificent Doll," heads for Broadway early this fall. He will appear in "Playboy of the Western World" for Theatre, Inc. . . . Seymour Nebenzal shot three endings for "The Chase," showing Robert Cummings and Michele Morgan fleeing by land and sea. One ending had them scramming aboard a ship, another on a train, the third on a bus. So far the bus flight is favored . . . Screen Publicists Guild organ's editors are blushing like schoolboys. They ran an item congratulating Len Mark on becoming a father. Len is a bachelor, and besides it was Maury Melford who became a father.—D.D.T.

OZZIE AND HARRIET BACK ON AIR WITH FAMILY DIDOES

Most discussed show of last season, "Ozzie and Harriet" won't lack for continuing lip service where it counts the most—in the family circle, its own domain of make-believe. In the trade it'll also get its due for quick success and playing a major role in swinging over some of the joke shows to situation humor. One can't help tying in the farcing of the Nelsons with the clientship of the Harrises (Phil and Alice) in a show which 20 years ago may have been called "The Bandleader and the Actress." One had something to do with inspiring the sale of the other.

It's no trick at all to put the finger on the pay load in the O & H format. Simple little incidents that happen in every family with youngsters are made believable by earthy scripting and a refreshing naturalness in the enactment. On the opener Sunday, for instance, the two Nelson kids have come home from summer camp too well disciplined and bereft of those traits that make their parents beam.

UP TO OLD TRICKS

They're just not the same kids but time takes care of that and before the signoff they're up to their old mischief. That's as American as hot dogs and right through the living room.

It's a happy combination of writing and acting that makes millions dial-queer for the Nelsons. There's no straining for laughs, the tale unfolds with easy nonchalance and the family heads are just as natural and unaffected as your next door neighbor. What gives the piece its humor quotient is the old device of making the old man patsy for the kids antics.

WHAT YOU EXPECT

An old device, to be sure, but never more sure-fire than at the hands of the Nelsons, who act just like you'd expect any non-theatrical family to go about their daily chores. One of the kids (Tommy Bernard or Henry Blair) called the turn at script's end by popping off with, "we're doin' what comes natcherly."

International Silver splatters its plugs all over the program, with Ozzie and Harriet opening cold with the come-on, dubbing the locale 1847 Rogers Road and leaving two other fat spots to Vern Smith.

Louella Returns With Less Gush

Louella Parsons, completely recovered from an illness which kept her off the airlanes for nearly three months, took up her stance before an ABC mike Sunday in the wake of the thundering Winchell. Her enforced inactivity was not passed in idleness judging from the general improvement in her diction, delivery and relaxed manner of conducting the interview with Bing Crosby. Not a line was fluffed and the excited inflections toned down. Gone, too, was the gushy treacle that formerly dripped from her gabby sessions with guestars if we can excuse her "Bing, dear" as a slight reversion to type.

On her first out since Harriet (junior) doled out the chit chat, LOP had little of note to report other than a few romantic nubs. The format has changed none and the same old departments hold over. She "spoke her mind" and took to task youthful vandals who ply their mischief in theatres, made her forecast, tagged off with last minute news, but midways kept a fat spot open for her award for September, which is the hook for the guest shot. "Blue Skies" got it and LOP had Bing up to receive it.

It was a confessional for Crosby, who said he was grateful for getting more breaks than anyone in show business, denied he was lazy but was born that way, and told of his plan to record hymns of all religions with proceeds donated to National Federation of Churches. He revealed that his biggest disc seller, "Silent Night," has so far yielded $300,000 for charity. Columnist drew him out on his Philco recorded airshow, his explanation for the waxed broadcasts being that he can better edit the show, get actors when he needs them and that he would make them as nearly perfect as he can.

BERGEN-CHARLIE DOWN OLD GROOVE

Flawed only by expected fluffs of a preem, seasonal return of Bergen-McCarthy mannequin menage attempts no change in tested formula that has marked it among radio's comic best. Airing a mite earlier now, it has little opposition in the 4-4:30 p.m. spot. But with or without competition, it remains the sparkling yet human kind of comedy that may always leave but which just as surely always return to a sure market.

Titillating opener fairly bristled with yucks as dropped from the not-so-wooden lips of Bergen's dolls, and from very live 'tater trap of newcomer Pat Patrick, a late comer of last season who has been smartly held over. Bergen easily demonstrates himself the master showman his years on the boards have made him. As with others of hard knocks school with whom lusher lanes are laden, radio is an apparent cinch. His program is again a certain cinch.

As usual, laughs stemming from a very creditable script come fast and long and loud. As usual, Ray Noble's masterful musicking and fine arrangements are an assist. As usual, show is lightly stippled with productional spots of customary guest—in this case laconic Jimmy Stewart—and a vocalist, the especially listenable, new and fresh Anita Gordon.

CANOVA IS BACK; HAS BIG CITY WAYS, GOOD TIMING

After being exposed to a short half hour of gags, corn and schmaltz, a gnawing temptation persists to keep the hangover bouncing. Such as epiloguing Saturday night's curtain-raiser on the Judy Canova Show with pardonable brittle pun-ditry as there's a punch to Judy's didoes, or the client should be pleased as Punch with Judy, for inspiring such a coined connective as Canovation. Coming out of backwoodsy character into cold assay it still holds up.

Last season one of the Hooper leaders in the fast Saturday night set, despite NBC's early questioning of its network "quality," Judy and her federation of feeders bid fair to hold their hard-won gains and should again nest high in downy comfort. Getaway show had a rollicking pace and the laugh line held all the way.

CITIFIED PIG-TAILS

Skilled workmanship was evident through all the changing facets and a high-test cast backed the rustic cut-up to the hilt-billy. Pig-tailed mimic is becoming more big-citified in her mannerisms and quips and seems to be acquiring some of the tricks of her male contemporaries. Her timing and line-punching are rarely off beat and zesty asides are ad-libbed over the rough spots. Given solid support by such standards as Mel Blanc, who starts his own show tonight, Ruth Perrott, Joe Kearns and Ruby Dandridge, it devolves upon the chief aggressor of the comedy forays to keep on her toes lest a subordinate subordinate her. The Canova lass is singing better than ever and her tonal qualities have an insouciant lilt.

RINES AT CONTROLS

Joe Rines is again at the controls and that assures an unwavering production balance. Gag-peppered script is the combined creative output of Fred Fox, Henry Hoople, Hank Ladd and John Ward. "Bud" Dant's music is integrally blended and announcer Vern Smith must be rated with the top drawer commercial readers.

Painstaking effort goes into every Canova airing. Woodshedding in the script room is serious business and after the signoff following week's routines are tried out on a live audience. Rating-wise, the Canovans should top last season's 15 topper under the new Hooper "diary" system of checking the small towns.

CUSTOMERS PLACE OK ON COUGAT BOWL SHOW

Though two solid hours of the Latin in music may, from program standpoint, appear heavy—even for mission-minded California — Hollywood Bowl impresarios disproved it Saturday night. As changeable as a chameleon, capable of good things and poor things, the Bowl powers again demonstrated their sense of and capabilities for the former. Xavier Cugat's night to howl at Bowl was all that could be expected or desired.

Program combined the classical in Spanish with the earthy of the mother country's hybrid national offspring — musically. While retaining good taste associated with Bowl, maestro Cugat and other overseers managed to gather and present a finely paced, mildly peppered, and always brief and showmanly combination of good orchestra music, sock musical soloists and thoroughly enjoyable performers. Such was show that even seemingly superfluous large choral group never protruded, but helped blend a wholesome and charming whole.

Aside from Cugat's always excellent music, in this instance the Bowl crew augmented by leader's rhythmen in costume, and his vocalists; solid hits were ace trumpeter Rafael Mendez, Antonio and Luisa Triana, dancers, Carlos Ramirez, feature singer, and Jose Monero, Cugat vocalist, and Negro Calvin Jackson and Rafael Monero, pianists.

By JACK HELLMAN

If our hand were called on a choice of the grittiest guy in the business we'd have to come up with Eddie Bracken. For sheer pluck and determination he rates the salvos of those who admire a kid with a lot of fight who doesn't know what it means to quit. The cards were stacked against him and the odds running all the other way when he bearded the Texaco oil barons in their own den. He was told time and again there wasn't a chance to sell him for a fall airshow and agents gave him a fast brush. Most of the agencies had him tabbed as Peck's bad boy and feared a repetition of a past unpleasantness when he "powdered" in mid-season. All agreed he was a great performer but too much of a problem child to handle.

Nonetheless, in the face of such odds, he took things into his own hands. Just at a time when a new show had to be bought quickly and Dick Powell seemed the logical choice. He entered where others feared to tread and made his own pitch, aided and abetted by CBS. His persuasiveness and undoubted promise to mend his ways won the day and contracts were ordered drawn. What's more, we believe the Bracken buy is a smart one predicated on two important elements—that he is over his difficult periods and that the writers will keep his character in bright focus.

Leaving well enough alone is not only an old saw but sound reasoning especially when it concerns a successful show or format. But no standpatter is Bob Hope, who must be tiring of the old routine and is willing to gamble on the consequence affecting his one-two Hooperating these many years. Bob has let it be known that he and his writers are working on a new format unlike the shows he has done in the past with a premise different from other variety shows. Jerry Colonna will be back for the ninth season, Barbara Jo Allen returns as "Vera Vague," Desi Arnaz fronts the music and Wendell Niles continues to deal them off the lip for Pepsodent. Guest singers will be used until Hope decides on a permanent and big names are to be called in from time to time. We don't know what Bob has up his sleeve but we're willing to go along with it on the basis of past performance.

Chain breaks . . . It begins to look like B. Crosby just can't break away from NBC Lost to the network, his Philco discs will be cut by NBC recording division. Which means the chain must make available a studio for the plattering and that's no joke, son. CBS also has a studio problem and must find space for seven more shows than last season . . . Walter Craig and Margaret Gray will be honeymooning out our way in a fortnight . . . Harry Lubcke, telechief for Don Lee, is no half-wayer. When he takes exception to a claim of first in video he backs it up with photographic evidence. Like for instance when W6XYZ put out a story that it will televise for the first time a rodeo in the Coliseum. On our desk is a picture of Don Lee cameras picking up the western piece de resistance and right in the Coliseum, too, back in 1940 . . . If you have an abhorrence of details don't make application for a frequency modulation station. Sam Kerner and his seven partners in Burbank Broadcasters, Inc., had to fill out 538 manuscript pages for mailing to FCC . . . Wendell Niles has a Labrador retriever who flashes his teeth at the commanding call of "Pepsodent" . . . Milton Biow heads east Tuesday but John Hamm stays around for a while. Last word from the agency is that Rudy Vallee definitely tees up his new program on NBC Sept. 10 . . . Dick Powell will be free of radio commitments Sept. 22 after last airing of "Rogues Gallery." Handout from Maggie Ettinger says, "Dick Powell's refusal to return to singing and acting as emcee of a variety show hastened Texaco's decision to sign Eddie Bracken." That ain't the way we heared it . . . Hal Peary is warming up for return of "Gildy" by guesting on "Command Performance," Kraft Music Hall and with Jack Haley, Rudy Vallee and Victor Borge-Benny Goodman.

There'll be more than platters going round 'n' round when the Crosby-Philco discs start spinning on the ABC turntables. The wax will fly and so will the fur in one of the fiercest sub rosa campaigns in network history. It may be denied but the word is getting around that NBC and CBS will "gang up" on the grooved groanings, albeit in dignified and silk-gloved manner. With ABC building up the periods preceding and following the pancake stanzas, the other nets have plans of their own. The NBC Wednesday night string will din into the ears of listeners that t'would be folly to change programs in mid evening. There'll be generated enough ballyhoopla to discourage such waywardness and on each program will be a gentle reminder of what's coming up on the next. If that doesn't work, brother, look out. In a nub, neither NBC nor CBS want Bing to cut a fat Hooper out of the Wednesday night potential because such things give other stars ideas. If you can do it on wax you don't need networks and once a half dozen big names cotton to that pattern of broadcasting the big chains are in trouble. And that's looking ahead no farther than 39 weeks from October.

Hitch hikes . . . Ed Conklin, former United Press war correspondent, has been named manager of CBS-KNX news bureau, replacing Pat O'Reilly, who will turn his hand to writing . . . Art Gilmore and Glenn "Doc" Middleton have a tome coming up on "Radio Announcing" which will be used as a text book in colleges with radio courses . . . Just in case you're interested, "When a Girl Marries" tops the matinee operas with 7.4. Tom Breneman skidded into 10th place at 5.3 . . . Has Bill Robson moved back to NY for good? . . . Ida Lupino will be first guestar in the Don Ameche-Drene series kicking off Sunday . . . Ben Alexander emcees the new Ray Morgan gimmicker, "Heart's Desire," airing from Glenn Billingsley's eatery at 11:30 a.m. starting Monday

ARTIE SHAW SETS DISC PRECEDENT IN SOLO DUBBING

Precedental dubbing of star soloist onto a master already recorded by a band has been successfully tried by Musicraft. Event, involving Artie Shaw and ork, has resulted in such high quality waxing that it is very likely to become set policy with plattery.

It happened quite by accident when Shaw, contracted to record on Aug. 16, begged off due to sore mouth that prevented his playing clarinet with band. When faced with prospect of $2,000 loss due to musicians having to be paid as contracted for, and studio and cutting facilities reserved, Bob Weiss, Musicraft production head, conceived idea of recording band without Shaw and dubbing in leader later.

Thirty-three piece crew cut two sides on scheduled date, with Meltones handling vocals. On Aug. 24 Shaw, assisted by headphones and cues, dubbed in his solo parts while master was replayed.

AFRA NAMES 17 FOR SIX SPOTS IN ELECTION

With national elections under its belt as result of convention here last week, local branch of American Federation of Radio Artists, over weekend selected nominees for local officer posts. Total of 17 nominees were named for six top spots, and 39 others were nominated for 11 board positions.

Nominated were:. Frank Barton and Carlton KaDell (incumbent), president; 1st v-p, True Boardman and Griff Barnett; 2nd v-p, Ken Carpenter (national prexy), Knox Manning and Ona Munson; 3rd v-p, William Gould, Ed Max and Carl Bailey; 4th v-p, John Hiestan, Lurene Tuttle and Ed Marr; treasurer, Stanley Farrar and Earle Ross; recording secretary, Paul McVey and Eric Snowden.

Original intention was to run all v-p candidates on open slate and let them assume positions on vote pluralities. However, Griff Barnett objected and demanded that constitution be adhered to and two or more names be allotted each position. Rather than have whole later vote challenged, other committee members acceded and nominees were given specific slots. In consequence and via concurrance of all others, Barnett has been placed in opposition to True Boardman, where it is expected he is certain of defeat.

Next step in election procedure is to circulate petitions for additional candidates as may be chosen by 15 members, and after that distribution of ballots. Likely that elections will be held late next month or early November.

10 STUDIOS FACE LABOR CHARGES

Ten major film companies are slated to go on trial today before the National Labor Relations Board. Studios are charged with unfair labor practices in the firing of prop men and machinists. Robert R. Rissman of the Washington NLRB office will conduct the hearings.

Rissman disclosed he had been instructed to hear first the complaint—that machinists were fired earlier this year because of their membership in International Association of Machinists, Local 1185. Producers are charged with refusing to bargain with IAM members.

Hearings also will take up case of 27 Warner Bros. prop men who were fired during the 1945 film strike for assertedly refusing to act as strikebreakers by performing work outside their jurisdiction.

RKO AND LEWTON DRAW 25G FINE

Judgment in favor of Samuel R. Golding and Norbert Faulkner for $25,000 was found in Superior Court Friday against RKO and Val Lewton, producer, on charge of plagiarism. Plaintiffs contended that Val Lewton production, "The Ghost Ship," made by RKO in 1943, plagiarized their play, "The Man and His Shadow," which had been submitted to Lewton during six-week period in April and May of 1943, and returned to them. Play previously had been staged at Pasadena Community Playhouse Lab Theatre.

Jury returned unanimous verdict in less than one hour in Judge Ingall Bull's court, and judge complimented panel for "fair and just verdict." Plaintiffs were represented by Harold Fendler, attorney also for Harold Lloyd in his suit against Universal for plagiarism.

JOHNSTON SEES PIX DOING TOP SCHOOL JOB

Visual education is in its infancy but "already walking in seven league boots," Eric Johnston declared yesterday in an ABC network address. Motion picture companies, he said, have provided 10,000 films on 500 subjects to schools in every state in the union.

Biggest test case for visual education is now in progress in Nebraska, Johnston stated. With 500 high schools averaging 100 pupils each, state faced problem of educating its youth with understaffed faculties and launched a full-scale program of education by film.

Films in the classroom will be "as common as blackboard and chalk," Johnston predicted, with even the three "R's" getting a workout on the projectors.

ENTERPRISE TALKS ON WITH UA, COLUMBIA

urday and started tongues wagging.

In the face of all the scheduled meetings, industry observers look to a closing of an Enterprise deal with Columbia, along the same lines of the recently cancelled Universal distribution pact.

Columbia's recent decision to extend its B-picture program for at least another year indicates company has room for outside A-product. In addition, Columbia's distribution organization, it is pointed out, is on the same level as Universal's. Columbia, too, is reported to be in better position to deliver Enterprise's requirements of special sales treatment on its product. In this connection, Einfeld admitted to Daily Variety that "talks with Harry Cohn are underway."

It was also learned that last week's distribution blowup with Universal has cancelled Loew's projected trip to England for meeting with J. Arthur Rank on a reciprocal production and distribution deal. Instead, he and Einfeld will leave together for New York early next week for meetings with company's banking reps on latest Enterprise developments.

Einfeld stated last night that the new releasing deal probably wouldn't be set for a month, as he had no perishable goods that needed to be rushed to market.

20th Signs Annabella To New Contract

Annabella was signed by 20th-Fox over the holiday weekend to a new long term contract. Pact calls for a minimum of one film chore annually for period involved. Initial one under new ticket will be co-starring role opposite Richard Greene in "The Night the World Shook," which Gene Markey will produce for studio.

Stahl Flies In

John Stahl flew in last night after location spotting trip on which he set deal to film exteriors in the Devil's Playground country north of Cedar City, Utah, owned by Carlton Brothers ranch syndicate, for "The Walls of Jericho," the William Bacher production which he will next direct for 20th-Fox.

Polish 'Baldpate'

RKO is rushing script preparations on "Seven Keys to Baldpate" to get Jack Haley starrer before the cameras by November. Haley has commitment with studio which expires by the first of the year.

OK For Sound

Leon Becker, formerly with Goldwyn studio, was signed yesterday by production manager James Vaughn as sound director for Eagle-Lion.

'Women' for Belasco

"Bachelor's Women," new comedy by Robert Sheban, to be produced by E. D. Caram, opens Oct. 5 at Belasco Theatre.

Mittler Off for NY

Leo Mittler left for New York yesterday to coordinate plans for directing two Broadway legits this fall.

Musicians Net 26G at Bowl

Musicians Union Local 47 nets $26,000 on "Music For Wounded" program presented at Hollywood Bowl, Aug. 24. Benefit was sellout, grossing approximate $46,000 from 23,000 payees who overflowed Bowl's 19,173 seats. Funds go to pay musicians playing at veterans hospitals, etc.

Figure approximates that garnered last year, but expenses, due to unusual timing, etc., necessitating extra help and overtime, ran higher. Deductions are, 20 per cent in Federal tax, seven and one-half per cent to Theatre Authority, and $10,000 expenses.

Boris Morros was program-listed as producer but his associate, Al Armer gets full credit for production. Morros was unable to participate due to being tied up in New York.

American Libraries Assemble Film Book

New York, Sept. 2.—American Library Assn., in conjunction with Warner Bros., Library of Congress, Museum of Modern Art, and the Los Angeles Public Library, has assembled a booklet of material on motion pictures which is slated for national and world distribution. H. M. Warner, president of Warner Bros., does the introduction.

Krasna Play Set For Fall on B'way

"William and Mary," play by Norman Krasna, has been slated for Fall Broadway production by Rodgers and Hammerstein, in association with Josh Logan. Leighton Brill, West Coast rep of R-H, will start this week to line up talent, working in conjunction with Krasna.

Disney Pic Bowing

"Make Mine Music," Walt Disney production being released through RKO, opens run at the Orpheum, El Rey and Vogue theatres Sept. 5, replacing current bill of "Black Beauty" and "A Letter to Evie." "Wanderer of the Wastelands" will occupy second slot with "Music."

Two Casts on U.P. Train

"Serenade" cast of 29 and "Fortune Teller" cast of 56 will both leave Los Angeles for New York Sept. 6 on Union Pacific Challenger.

Date Set for Garfield Pic

Warner Bros.' "Nobody Lives Forever," John Garfield - Geraldine Fitzgerald co-starrer, has been given an October 12 national release date.

Conway Set By E-L

Tom Conway was set yesterday for a top role in the Lee Marcus-Joe Fields production, "His Wedding Night" at Eagle-Lion.

Salkow in New Spot

Lester Salkow today checks into new berth at the Edward Sherman agency. Salkow will handle talent in all departments.

Trenet's E-L Chore

Charles Trenet's initial starring chore for Eagle-Lion will be "Of Thee I Dream." Film slated to roll Nov. 1.

DON HARTMAN TO PRODUCE, DIRECT RACE PICTURE

Don Hartman, who previously made his mark first as writer, then as producer, will broaden his activities to take in direction for his next Columbia picture. He and Rudy Mate, who is handling cameras on Hartman's current producer chore, "Down to Earth," will co-direct "Return of October," horse-racing picture which will roll around first of year. Hartman also will produce "October."

Decision of Hartman to include directing in his scope is in line with current trend of other producers to take over direction of some of their pictures. Ben Hecht directed his own production, "Spectre of the Rose," recently at Republic, and both Bill Pine and Bill Thomas, who co-produce for Paramount release, have each handled director stint on several of their films.

'Dear Ruth' Scenes Shot in San Marino

deal generally," Yates said. "There will be better breaks for both distributor and exhibitor, with less chiseling on both sides."

He foresees that the decree will make pictures more generally available and that plans for new theatre construction won't be held up through difficulty in getting films.

Yates is also highly optimistic about the 16m market and stated that Republic is planning to go into the narrow gauge field extensively.

"In the course of a recent survey," he said, "we learned that firms in Chicago have been shipping 16m projectors to South America in 10,000 lots. At the same time the business is developing rapidly in this country."

He pointed out that an increasing number of summer road shows is already touring isolated communities with performances that combine 16m picture with a couple of singers.

Yates expressed belief that "B" picture is virtually through, declaring that none of the film companies has made any profit on B's in the past five years.

GUILD, HERALD IN SALARY BATTLE

Negotiators for the Newspaper Guild and the Herald-Express struggled at a late hour last night to avert a strike at the downtown sheet. Guild demanded a $100 weekly minimum for experienced editorial employes while the management's final offer was $77 a week. Guild membership had voted for a strike call today unless its demands were met.

Los Angeles first run theatres will total 31, with seating capacity of 51,275, late this month when Fox West Coast adds three houses to its string of de luxe operations. Two of the newcomers join forces with the United Artists, Fox Ritz and Guild to give Universal-International an exclusive five-theatre first run outlet. The other will join with Grauman's Chinese, Loew's State and Fox Uptown, swelling the 20th-Fox showcases to total of four.

Also in the operational changes is the Four Star, which has been designated as a prestige theatre aimed at giving single billing and extended runs to films lending themselves to

METRO TESTS AUCTIONING

New York, Sept. 3.—Metro, using Philadelphia for the first major test of auction selling, has notified first run exhibitors there of minimum terms acceptable, including minimum price, and playing time. Philadelphia exchange had offered "Holiday in Mexico" as the first under the test, and notified the Stanley-Warner circuit and the Goldman chain via letters of the film's availability and terms. Bids, due today, asked for a flat guarantee against a percentage. S-W reportedly has mailed bids for three of its downtown first runs, with Metro reserving the right to decide which bid to honor.

U.S. Plans Monopoly Inquiry Of Films, Radio, Newspapers

Washington, Sept. 3.—A sweeping investigation of the growth of monopolies in the newspaper, radio and motion picture fields—taken up in that order—is shaping on Capitol Hill, according to reliable reports here. Extent of mergers and restraints to free competition in pix, radio and the press will be aired publicly in hearings—now slated for late November—before Senator James Murray's small business committee.

Chief emphasis will hit at mergers in newspaper field, though pix and radio will come in for heavy probing as well, it was understood. At present writing committee chiefs are undecided on extent of the film inquiry in view of Justice Department's anti-trust proceeding against the "big five" and

COLUMBIA'S "Alias Mr. Twilight" is reported one of the few pictures ever to be made by a studio which gives an actual blueprint of a crime and still gets official sanction from Johnston office. Film deals with methods and machinations of gentlemen known to the half-world as confidence men, and reproduces in detail some 10 con games designed to separate suckers from their money. Final passing by Breen department is said to have hinged on two things which make such a blueprint not only acceptable but actually laudable at this time. First of these is fact that a native avarice is the primary weakness on which the con man preys—and, under Johnson office ruling, avarice, as one of the criminal weaknesses of homo sapiens, is punishable. Second, and deciding, factor in letting a picture of this nature by at this time is predominance of GI's among victims being fleeced by con men currently. In this one instance, it was felt, detailed recounting of con games could be called an actual protection.

PARAMOUNT is using the $1,000,000 Paul Fagan mansion at Carmel for exteriors on "My Favorite Brunette," Bob Hope-Dorothy Lamour dualer, one of showplaces on Monterey peninsula. Time was when such homes of the wealthy were at a premium for studios, for majority of their owners wanted no part of having films show them in detail. Tide apparently is turning, however, for lately picture companies have had no particular difficulty in getting permission to shoot such mansions, with several Bel Air and Montecito home owners having notified studios that their properties are available any time they are wanted.

POLIO epidemic locally has severely dented theatres with film bills of predominantly juve appeal while houses with pictures aimed at general adult audiences have felt no serious effect. Example is "Notorious" at the Pantages and Hillstreet, which rocked along to a non-holiday opening week record and came back strong on the second stanza. Juve trade bills such as "Time of Their Lives" at the United Artists, Guild and Ritz, and "Black Beauty" at the Orpheum, Vogue and El Rey, have taken it on the chin as a result of advice to parents by health authorities to keep children away from indoor crowds.

SEYMOUR Nebenzal and Al Rogell are besieged with location scouts and calls from studios for copies of the script on "Heaven Only Knows." Oregon sent down a Chamber of Commerce emissary to show Nebenzal and Rogell stills of backgrounds in the state, and the governor of Montana also sent stills to show advantage of shooting in that region. The calls from the studios have resulted from grapevine on the unusual script, with resulting wish from top talent to get gander at the plot with view to getting one of the choice eight roles in the film.

FULLY 90 per cent of Pine-Thomas picture, "Adventure Island," will be made on location at Catalina, so producers aren't worrying about lack of studio space for their Paramount picture. They had intended constructing sets on one of the new stages at Nassour studios, but these won't be ready for their Sept 16 starting. As consequence, part of script has been revamped, to enable outdoor shooting in place of interiors, and what little indoor shooting will be done will be filmed in roofed-in set which they'll erect at the island.

DRESS extras have been enjoying field day on Warners "Deception" set, with 1,175 in this category called thus far for Bette Davis starrer and picture still several weeks to go, with additional calls for dress extras. As matter of fact, there has been no other type of extra called, which sets record for studio this year.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

You can't beat Representative Karl Mundt's analysis of the present situation: "The Russians don't want war, but they don't want peace either." There will be disagreement as to whether it's just as well to close the Yugoslavian case, now that we have Tito's apology, with his payment of appropriate indemnity to the families of the slain men. There is something to be said for that way of ending the matter because no nation actually has a right to fly military planes, armed or unarmed, over the territory of another nation without permission of that nation. But there's a question about whether Yugoslavia, in time of peace, has a right to shoot down our planes, and whether therefore Yugolsavia has done enough by formal regrets and a payment. There also is a definite question about whether we should continue to send UNRRA aid to a nation that will not accord the usual courtesies of friendly peaceful nations. The Yugoslav attitude of self-sufficiency is according to the Soviet pattern of claiming they won the war against Japan, doing the job in six quick days. Actually both nations need our aid—Russia in engineers and technical instructors. We all need each other, if we're going to have peace . . . Maybe the airing of everything that comes up will aid toward ultimate understanding—the airing now of Ukrainian charges against Greece. The whole story of the whole Balkans should come up in that.

Retakes

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

When melodrama ruled the stage
Way back in grandpop's days
The simple life was all the rage
And so were simple plays.

The playwright had an easy chore
Concocting works of art
To make the ready teardrops pour
And touch the human heart.

The hero had a heart of gold,
A shining mark for Cupid.
He was an honest lad and bold,
Although a wee bit stupid.

The heroine had big blue eyes
And yards of golden curls
And never glanced at wolfish guys
Who whistled at the girls.

The villain was a dirty skunk,
A crafty one as well,
But landed in the jug, kerplunk,
Before the curtain fell.

A complex was a thing unknown
And so were inhibitions,
But now dramatic art has blown
The simple old traditions.

The good old fashioned dramatist
Is out of luck today,
For only a psychiatrist
Can write a modern play.

No Dollars, No Pix for Germany H'wood Ultimatum to Gen. Clay

Washington, Sept. 3.—Hollywood's ultimatum against providing prints of pix for exhibition in the U.S. Zone in Germany unless industry gets more raw stock for films or is reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses with good U.S. dollars, has been transmitted to Lt. General Lucius Clay, AMG chief in Germany, through State and War Department channels.

Cable is latest of a series relaying to Clay Hollywood's dissatisfaction with present situation which finds industry getting payment for product shown in Germany only in blocked German marks. Message is said to have spelled out ultimatum of the film capital that it would halt shipment of prints unless compensated in U.S. currency or given other relief.

Council Kills Bowron Veto Limiting Size of Marquees

Marquees large enough to attract theatregoers were assured yesterday when Los Angeles City Council overrode a veto by Mayor Fletcher Bowron and reinstated section of building ordinance governing size of marquees. Ordinance had been subject of a fight by local exhibitors who contemplate either building new houses or remodeling present theatres. Council vote against mayor's veto was 11 to 4.

Council, as a war measure, had deleted portion of building ordinance, effective Jan. 1, 1943, and had limited marquees to 30 inches in height regardless of length. Exhibs, when war was over, applied to Council for reinstatement, which was passed 10 to 2 and then vetoed by Mayor Bowron. Carrying on fight for exhibitors were W. H. (Bud) Lollier, Jack Berman and Jack Brower, as legislative committee of the Southern California Theatre Owners Association.

Sinatra Plans Publishing Firm for His Metro Songs

New York, Sept. 3.—Frank Sinatra intends setting up new publishing firm to control copyrights of songs that will be included in pix he makes for Metro. Outfit will be called Frank Sinatra, Inc., or Sinatra Songs. For present, tunes will be exploited by Barton Music in which Sinatra is associated with Ben Barton and Hank Sanicola. Contract with Metro apparently gives singer control of scores from his films.

Yesterday it was denied at Barton Music that Sinatra was pulling out of firm or forming new company. Sanicola stated there had been a mild feud between him and Sinatra but that it had been patched, and that no new firm or pullout from Barton was anticipated.

TRADESHOWN at 20th-Fox Studios, Westwood, Calif., Sept. 3, 1946. Running time: 90 MINS.

"Three Little Girls in Blue" is a nice bit of eye-and-ear entertainment which tugs occasionally at the heartstrings and doesn't make any irritating demands on the escapists. The film is brightly decked out in color, is on the spectacular side in setting and enlivened with the kind of tunes that are apt to get whistled around after the show. Picture is one that will lend itself easily to exploitation and box office response promises to be hearty.

Chief quarrel of the customers with the story is likely to be that it doesn't give Celeste Holm more opportunity. The gal from Broadway makes her screen debut in this one and loses none of the punch that put her across on the stage. Her single song number, "Always A Lady," is a big moment in the show and her acting sets her as a screen comedienne.

June Haver, Vivian Blaine and Vera-Ellen handle their acting chores in the title roles adequately. Miss Haver and Miss Blaine sell their songs successfully, and Vera-Ellen scores notably in her song and dance routines, single and with Charles Smith.

Of the three men who match the "three little girls" in the romance Smith, whose wooing is on the comedy side, is a convincing suitor and gets across nicely with Vera-Ellen in "You Make Me Feel So Young," most elaborate production number of the piece. George Montgomery and Frank Latimore meet the requirements of the straight leads. Balance of the cast is uniformly good.

Seymour Felix and Babe Pearce can take a bow for the dance and ballet sequences respectively.

Story is of three girls who sell their farm in New Jersey and use the proceeds for a wealthy-husband hunt in Atlantic City. Miss Haver poses as an heiress and her sisters, Miss Blaine and Vera-Ellen, as her secretary and maid.

Producer Mack Gordon has given the picture lavish mounting and generally exhibited good showmanship.

Direction of Bruce Humberstone gets full value out of the actors and the script and successfully synchronizes the drama and the tunes. Ernest Palmer has done a top color job with the camera.

Of the song numbers, "On the Board Walk," "Somewhere in the Night," and "Always a Lady" are distinctive with the first two named having hit possibilities.

EQUITY WAIVES FOREIGN RULE FOR KIEPURA

Rigid ruling of Actor's Equity that keeps alien thesps waiting six months between legit engagements has been waived to permit Jan Kiepura to co-star with his wife, Marta Eggerth, in the Eugene Haskell revival of "The Merry Widow," skedded for tryout in San Diego Sept. 29 and bow at the Los Angeles Philharmonic Oct. 3.

Legit union's hidebound ruling, which is designed to prevent foreign players from taking jobs that citizens could fill, has been dropped in the case of "Widow," according to Equity reps here, because the production is being built around the Kiepuras in the lead roles of Prince Danilo and the gal in the gay weeds. Also, Polish tenor has taken all his naturalization exams and is on the verge of becoming an American citizen.

Kiepura's last job was as lead in the much-litigated "Polonaise," from which he bowed out last May 11 following suit filed by him to restrain Equity from allowing Curt Bois, featured comic in the musical, to receive $2,500 from the management, which Bois had secured in a suit against the producer, Harry Bloomfield, for damages allegedly caused by improper billing.

THE GRAPEVINE: Jacqueline Dalya's descent on the Los Angeles Examiner is the talk of local journalistic circles. Examiner sent a young reporter out to interview the actress on Lawrence Tierney's accident in her apartment, which led to his injury and later to his arrest and subsequent freedom. The reporter, a brash young man, asked a lot of questions Miss Dalya considered insulting. After the interview, she called a producer friend and asked if she had to take such treatment. An old newspaperman himself, he said she didn't. So Miss Dalya took off for the Examiner office, brushed aside a covey of copyboys, strode into the city room, squared off and announced she would take on the entire staff at fisticuffs, one by one. The challenge was declined, and for the first time in years the stentorian voice of Jimmy Ricahrdson, city editor, was stilled completely . . . Metro execs are sorry they let director Cyril Endfield leave the lot. He piloted a few two-reelers for Metro. Recently he directed "Gentleman Joe Palooka" which reviewers have placed in the sleeper class . . . Studio publicity head lessened his feeble claim on good-will around these parts recently. He called in a veteran freelance publicity man, told him it was okay to handle a certain director on the lot—but if he did, said director wouldn't get any publicity through his department. So the freelance lost his best account and chalked up another Bad Samaritan.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: With a loud harumph at Hollywood, Central Citizens Committee has been organized to combat the local divorce problem. Latest statistics show the ratio of divorces to marriage licenses issued in Los Angeles County is 89.7 per cent. Or as a Canadian judge recently commented: "If divorce continues at its present rate there will be no married people left" . . . Joe and Dorothy Pasternak returned from a short stay in Las Vegas . . . Lynne Roberts, having finished her fifth straight film chore for Republic, is heading for a New York vacation. No night clubs, she says, adding "I want to see Radio City, Grant's Tomb, the Statue of Liberty, in fact, all the tourist spots. A nightclub is the same whether it's in New York, Hollywood or Council Bluffs" . . . A high-salaried writer recently attended a dinner given for a studio exec in his private dining room. After a sumptuous repast, the big shot rose and started a speech thanking the lads for making his past year such a success. Suddenly the exec had a dizzy spell and toppled to the floor. Above the babble of voices rose that of the writer inquiring, "Who's next and what will I do?" . . . And here's a refreshing note from the open spaces. When RKO's "They Won't Believe Me" went on location in the north, they had to detail a propman to rouse the cattle off their haunches for a bucolic scene. Cows insisted on lying down. Propman was given a new paycheck designation as "Cattle Awakener."

CALL SHEET: BARTON MacLANE has returned to ranching near San Francisco after finishing his role in Pine-Thomas' "Jungle Flight" . . . BARRY SULLIVAN, unable to hire a butler for his birthday party, was rescued by his friend, John Baxter. Latter, having played butler roles on Broadway, stepped into the breach . . . DONALD WOODS and his 14-year-old son, Conrad, reached the semi-finals as a tennis doubles team in the Coronado tournament . . . FRANCIS LEDERER returns next week after a three-month sojourn in Boston, New York and along the strawhat circuit . . . DAVID NIVEN is meeting the press in New York in connection with "The Perfect Marriage" forthcoming opening . . . ANGNA ENTERS play "Love Possessed Juana" will be tried out by the Houston Civic Theatre . . . JUAN ROLANDO, the Hindu organist at Lyons' Grill, is recording four sides for Cocktail Hour Records this week . . . SELENA ROYLE was given a jade ring by director Rouben Mamoulian on completing her role opposite Walter Huston in "Summer Holiday" at Metro . . . BILL GARGAN and FRANK MORGAN are hunting wild boar on Catalina this week . . . PAUL MANTZ whizzed back from his Bendix Trophy race victory and spent the holiday at Balboa.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Time turned backward on the RKO set of "Katie for Congress." A number of sleds were being used in a snow scene, and suddenly a happy cry came from Joseph Cotten. He found a sled with the name "Rosebud" painted on its surface. If you will remember "Citizen Kane," first picture made by Cotten and Orson Welles, the sled "Rosebud" was a key prop, being Citizen Kane's beloved toy and the word he uttered on his deathbed. So Cotten took the sled to his beach home, where Welles is now his guest, and presented it to him with the proper sentiments . . . Another time-turned-backward note: About one in four of the female species hereabouts is now wearing her hair in bangs, which were very popular twenty years ago (they tell us) . . . It's reported that since three new first-runs have been added to the L.A. crop, some Poverty Row distributors have hired a private detective agency to find a second-run house in the area . . . Paramount had a couple of Navajo braves on its locationing "Desert Town" for publicity gags, such as installing honorary chiefs, etc. Paramount returned the compliment yesterday and made Charley Yellowhair and Joe Moonstone "Honorary Chiefs of the Hollywood Tribe of Yesmen." Much less exclusive but considerably more numerous than the Navajos.

'THE LAST BOMB GIVEN SURPRISE WORLD PREEM

Boston, Sept. 3. — "The Las Bomb," Warners two-reeler photo graphed by Army Air Force comba camera units and showing 21st Arm Bomber Command in its devastatin raid on Japan, was world-preeme here last night at 47th National En campment of Veterans of Foreig Wars. Showing, in Technicolor, fo lowed speech by General Carl Spaatz AAF chief, film being flown here from Hollywood specially as tribute to air commander.

Short presented first public exhibition in color of atom bomb when it was dropped on Nagasaki. Screening came as a surprise to audience of more than 1,000 guests, since it had not been announced, and was highlight of evening in which General Spaatz stressed importance of maintaining strong air force.

General praised film by declaring in his opinion it was best picture of its kind ever filmed, and it was his hope that every American man, woman and child might see it since it proved beyond doubt that this nation's air supremacy must be maintained to insure everlasting peace.

BRITISH ACTRESS BURNS AT USA

London, Sept. 3.—Actress Margaret Lockwood did a burn at Hollywood today after finishing retakes on the film "The Wicked Lady," which U.S. censors demanded because her dresses were cut too low and a few bits of dialogue were too ripe. A sample of the fumigated dialogue, which was cut off the sound track when Queen Mary caught the film, was Miss Lockwood's line, while robbing a stage coach full of passengers, "Just one more." James Mason, her leading man, retorted in the censored dialogue, "I've heard you ask the same thing under different circumstances."

TOMMY DORSEY, SONGPLUGGERS ARE FEUDING

As result of having passes revoked, all town's songpluggers, numbering 150-odd, are feuding with Tommy Dorsey and management of his Casino Gardens ballroom, at Santa Monica. Following couple of alleged "unpleasant incidents" involving Kermit Beerkamp, terpery's manager, and two of plugs, doormen began picking up season passes. Now management has officially notified Music Publishers Contact Employees (union) that the red carpet is up and the iron curtain down.

Pluggers are incensed over what they term unfair treatment in revocation of professional courtesy, and are said to be planning reprisals in form of boycott. Though management accepts responsibility, general impression is that order came from top—from Dorsey personally. And adding injury to insult, Casino rep is said to be contacting other ballroom operators in campaign to spread his action to all spots and force pluggers to pay admissions.

Beef may assume serious proportions if pluggers boycott spot and set up open war camps. They are recognizedly heavy spenders who, particularly at band openings, drop an aggregate $2,000 in coffers of danceries. They always travel in parties and are acknowledged to be loose with expense as well as personal coin. Frequent revisits up receipts since, unlike average payee, they drink and eat. Average one dollar admission is, therefore, negligible, plugs feel.

Freres Dorsey are not generally considered to be "good plugs" due to plugging their own tunes and latching on to virtually established hits. So, plugs feel they have little to lose in retaliating and will have, at least, had satisfaction of making themselves or their absence felt where it hurts—in the pocket.

MECHANICS' BEEF ON STUDIOS HEARD

National Labor Relations Board trial of 10 major studios charged with discrimination against 12 members of the International Association of Machinists, Local 1185, got under way yesterday at the Federal Building. Mortimer Reimer, NLRB trial examiner from Washington, D.C., is hearing the dispute.

Union charges the studios with discrimination against 12 of its members and failure to recognize the local as the bargaining agent for machinists. Reimer denied reps of IATSE and Federal Labor Union, Local 23968, to intervene as friends of the court. Four machinists who testified they were discharged because of alleged union activities were W. E. Zimmerman, Metro; William J. Pickering, RKO; Reginald E. Hill, Universal, and Edward Lorenz, Warner Bros. Trial resumes today and action is expected to cover next ten days.

BROADWAY RUNAROUND

By RADIE HARRIS

Oliver Jensen, entertainment ed of Life, received an invitation in the mail this week to preview "Cloak and Dagger" at the Warner projection room. Under ordinary circumstances, this would just have been a routine notice, but following J. L. Warner's recent nation-wide edict that Life and Time were to be barred from all further studio cooperation, Jensen was a pretty baffled fellow.

Contacting Mort Blumenstock by phone, he asked, "Is this an overture or an oversight?" And it didn't require a slightly embarrassed pause on the other end of the wire to make Jensen aware that under the "cloak" of truce, the "dagger" still remains. Incidentally, it is this same Mr. Jensen, who spent several months on the Warner lot last summer as technical assistant on "Task Force," a picture that was never made, and wound up writing a Life-sized portrait of producer Jerry Wald, which was never printed—a dissipation of "night and day," that wasn't completely squandered!

BULLETIN BOARD: Irving Berlin, still vacationing in Bermuda, has decided not to do a new "Music Box Revue" this season. With his twin hits, "Annie Get Your Gun" and "Blue Skies," he has enough income to help support the U.S. Treasury for quite an interlude. Instead, he'll make a flying trip to London to open a publishing house there, and he'll also spend several weeks traveling around the country under "Blue Skies" as a good will ambassador of Paramount importance.

Messmore Kendall has just finished his biog with the provocative title, "Never Let the Weather Interfere." Farrar and Straus are bringing it out, and those pals who have already had a prevue reading say that it has enough Name Dropping to sell out the first printing with just the Names who want to see themselves mentioned. If Messmore only catalogued the celebs whom he has entertained at his fabulous parties at his fabulous apartment atop the Capitol Theatre Bldg., he'd have enough to fill another book tagged, "Capitol Gain!"

Poor David Niven! Unaware of our American holidays, he returned to NY from his New England vacation over the Labor Day weekend—and found himself homeless. "21" was shuttered for the entire three days!

FAMILY ALBUM: Don't look now, but that pretty red-head studying dramatics with Thais Lawton is Martha Elizabeth Schenck, Nick and Pansy's eldest chick. Yes, Martha has the acting bug, but her wise parents want her to complete her schooling before she breaks into a career, so she's entering Sarah Lawrence College this fall. Although with some influence (!) she might be able to land a job in Hollywood, she has no interest in pictures, but wants to concentrate on the stage and is already making plans to serve an apprenticeship at the Cape Playhouse next summer. She is one of the sweetest, most unspoiled youngsters I know, which she comes by naturally as the daughter of Nick and Pansy, and if her well bred charm can only project over the footlights, I predict her success on her own, minus the prop of the w.k. name she also inherits.

HERE COMES THE GROOM: Since the newspaper releases on Olivia de Havilland's surprise wedding revealed very few facts about her groom and he'll soon be on public exhibit in Hollywood, here are a few vital statistics about Marcus Goodrich: He was the once-upon-a-time romance of two other screen names—Mary Astor and Patsy Ruth Miller. He has been bachelor-quartering at Gladys Hall's East 38th St. apt all year, but is deserting NY along with his freedom to accompany Olivia back to the Coast, where he will put the finishing touches to the sequel of his last novel, "Delilah." He's definitely the intellectual type and is attracted to a girl for her brains rather than her beauty—which flatters a girl like Olivia, who has both.

ITEMS DROPPED BY THE BROADWAYSIDE: Now that Billy Rose is a syndicate columnist, he is being peddled for radio, but judging from his asking price you'd think he was selling his Renoirs and Picassos rather than himself! . . . Immediately following her divorce from Edward Lindsay-Hoggs this week, Geraldine Fitzgerald will leave Lake Tahoe and head east—for another wedding? . . . If "I" looks like a process shot of the Savoy Grill, it's because decorating every table is an arrival from London. Spotted in the luncheon throng: Ann Todd, Phyllis Calvert, Peter Murray Hill, Carol Reed (minus his beautiful wife, Diana Wynyard), Wesley Ruggles and Jock and Mary Lawrence. Major interest centers on Ann Todd, and you can wager there will be an S.R.O. turn-out for the cocktail—or is it tea and crumpets?—party the Selznick home office is tossing in her honor on Thurs. . . . Stella Adler is en route to Mexico City on a secret political mission, but with her blonde beauty she won't be a secret long . . . RKO will have to get along without its favorite character actor for a while. Settlement of his father's estate has called Walter Slezak to Bavaria . . . It's a lucky break for Sabu that he has Arthur Rank to assume his expense account. Not only did he occupy a $50 a day suite at the Sherry-Netherland, but when I dined with him just before he took off for Brazil, I watched him devour two enormous steaks as if he hadn't seen any in six months—and he hadn't!

PURELY PERSONAL: I couldn't be happier over the smash success of "The Killers" at the Winter Garden, not only because of that "swell guy" (Plug!), Mark Hellinger, but also because it proves my contention that you don't need marquee names to draw the customers in.

MEL BLANC GETS AWAY TO SLOW START ON NO. 1

Mel Blanc, radio's most versatile character comic, was launched on his own show for Colgate-Palmolive last night in the dual role of a dopey roustabout and owner of a fixit-shop. It didn't come off with rousing results because of the newness that attaches to a freshly turned product of human hands. Scripters apparently didn't get the feel of the Blanc who is striking off in a new direction to set his own pattern for situation humor.

TIME USED IN SETTING

If as in farces of threaded comedy where the laugh trickles rather than explode, the format is premised, then the low quotient of yucks is plausible. On first show, considerable time is used up to set the scene and characters, and that out of the way, the scripting must carry most of the load. Blanc's mastery of zanies has delighted millions on a half dozen other shows and in film cartoons, so given a line, he will deliver the show.

It's to producer Joe Rines' credit that he saw the virtuosity in Blanc mimicry and is giving him the chance many another has cherished. But comics are queer critics that can be weighted down by the wrong kind of material. Too early to judge whether Blanc will be howling success or just another performer who tried and didn't cut it.

ALWAYS PLEASED

It's unfair, too, to draw a critical appraisal on first show. He has been a success as every character he has worked at and perhaps "The Hardware Merchant of Venice" may yet hit his stride and cut a swath.

As the writing improves so will Blanc. The fixit premise is sound and verdant and allows for a wide latitude of horseplay. But on the getaway too little attention was paid to the main theme. After the fourth or fifth show we should know more about which way Blanc is headed. The first one must be written off as a "feeler."

LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

It generally calls for a fanfare of trumpets and roll of drums when a 50,000-watter gives up a slice of its peak time to a transcribed program. It becomes all the more a red letter event when the key station of NBC in New York, WEAF, makes such a concession to a canned show. But it has come to pass and N'Yawkers of a Tuesday night at 7:30 will be hearing "Chick" MacGregor's "Hollywood Skippy Theatre." It may be a straw in the wind blown up by the Bing Crosby pancaked operas but more than likely it's the quality of the dramatics that go into a Skippy production. Nor is WEAF the only top-watter spinning the discs. WLW in Cincy has cleared the 7:30-8 p.m. niche for the flat 78's and for years KFI and six others have given the MacGregor platters a whirl.

Such a record may throw its weight behind the current controversy over whether or not a disc should be called a disc in conformance with FCC regulations. Only a trained ear could detect the difference between the canned and the live McCoy. And further, it is still to be established whether the listeners give a hang or not. How about a survey, Mr. Hooper? Around Chicago it doesn't make much of a diff in the matter of audience. "Skippy" on WMAQ rolled up a Hooperating of 12.2 against such live competish as Hit Parade and National Barn Dance. It all adds fuel to the fire popping around the question of to wax or not to wax.

Berns has been offered production of the Hildegarde program but won't leave Hollywood. If Carson's protest goes unheeded there's nothing can be done about it as the agency controls the show. Rudy Vallee Show Gets NBC Okay

Rudy Vallee show for Philip Morris has been accepted by NBC and starts airing Tuesday night. Approval was executed yesterday by Lewis Frost, Coast program director, who acted in the absence of Sidney N. Strotz, western division head. Revised format was given a clean bill after previous recorded audition had been rejected. For the getaway program Vallee has booked Hal "Gildersleeve" Peary and Lina Romay. Guests on future programs include Tommy Dorsey and Bert Gordon, Edgar Bergen, Rita Hayworth, Jose Iturbi and Chico Marx.

HUSING HAS SHOT AT $1,600,000 AS DISC JOCKEY

New York, Sept. 3.—Ted Husing becomes a disc jockey for WHN, the Metro-owned indie here. Five-year contract guarantees him $260,000 for that period, and enables him to achieve potential $1,600,000 for the periof if time is grabbed for sponsorship.

Pacting of Husing is seen as a prelude to a "battle of the disc jockeys" in NY, with WHN determined to move in on the top coin intake of rival station WNEW, via Martin Block's "Make Believe Ballroom." Block has just signed new four-year contract with WNEW guaranteeing him $185,000 a year.

Ted, Dorothy Friend Signed For Gab

San Francisco, Sept. 3. — First Coast hotel to go in for radio exploitation since the war, Mark Hopkins over the weekend signed a 26-week contract with Ted and Dorothy Friend for 15-minute airer thrice weekly over KPO. Initial husband-and-wife air show for the Coast will consist of chatter and comment on current events, with emphasis on show biz satellites, visiting firemen and luminaries around town. Opening broadcast goes on over the NBC outlet Sept. 15.

'WYOMING' NEXT ON COLOR LIST FOR REPUBLIC

Republic's second Technicolor picture, to follow Frank Borzage's "I've Always Loved You," will be "Wyoming," Joseph Kane production to co-star William Elliott and Vera Ralston, Al Wilson, production head, announced yesterday. Film is slated to carry budget in excess of $1,000,000 and will start early October.

Company previously had scheduled "In Old Sacramento," Elliott starrer, as its second Technicolor film, but this was reduced to black and white after it was learned the Borzage film would be held up nearly nine months in release due to inability to secure Technicolor prints. With more than $1,700,000 tied up in "I've Always Loved You," it was felt company could not afford to put another high-budgeter on shelf awaiting color prints. Easing up of situation at Technicolor plant, however, led to Herbert J. Yates, company head, yesterday deciding on filming "Wyoming" in this process.

Twelve Trucolor productions currently are slated for Republic's 1946-47 program, these to augment company's two-picture commitment with Technicolor.

MPPA PROBING DISCERY BOOKS

New York, Sept. 3.—Music Publishers Protective Association is probing books of ARA. Harry Fox, g.m. of MPPA, says discery owes $140,000 in royalties to artists and publishers.

Mark Leff, who purchased ARA from Boris Morros, sold out couple of weeks ago. Morros, meanwhile, accepted 25 shares of stock for $6,000 reportedly still owed him by Leff. According to Morton Garbus, attorney and new prexy of ARA, Leff has sold out completely and Morros' interest is purely financial one and does not include any say in management of ARA.

BOOZE-LESS NITERY OPENS TO SERVE GADABOUTS

Sherry & Paul, operators of Radio Row's semi-exclusive Key Club, have reopened once swank chance salon, Clover Club, as a coffee pot with a floor show. Booze-less nitery is unique in that it's an unloading oasis where nocturnal gadabouts inhale stabilizing heft breakfasts in an atmosphere that strangely combines calico table covers — plus cover charge—with ornate candelabra and other hangovers in decor from bygone days.

Ham 'n' eggery makes mistake in initial show of being too toney. Negro chanteuse, Murial Gaines is miscast in such setting. Though competent in her forte of calypso and smart boite chirping, she is lost in such surroundings and as out of place as would be Hildegarde at Ace Cain's. Another fateful error is permitting of lulls, a mistake that'll probably be speedily corrected with shakedown showing this week. The eggs got more attention.

Four Notes, dusky harmonizing trio a la Mills Brothers school, other non-kitchen fare, are more suitable to surroundings and better received. Guitar-accompanied piping and pop and standard repertoire make for unobtrusive entertainment to counterpoint the clanging coffee klatchers.

Other features: No dancing, show staged at room's end, set-ups for those unquaffed who tote their own potables and, except for couvert which will probably be replaced by minimum, prices are equal of average dinner check.

such special treatment. House will be used for J. Arthur Rank product falling into that class, which, in effect, gives Universal-International six local first run outlets since company handles Rank releases in this country.

IRIS ON NEW LIST

New houses for U-I will be the Iris, Hollywood boulevard spot, and the Studio City theatre in Studio City. Former, with seating capacity of 795, was shuttered last night for a complete face-lifting and remodeling job aimed to bring it up to de luxe standards. Studio City, seating 1,000, will also undergo refurbishing and will serve for special premiere of "Canyon Passage" on Sept. 19 before film opens regular run following day in the new unit. This marks first first run theatre for the Valley and is forerunner of a number of others the circuit is considering for that section.

WESTCHESTER GETS ONE

Loyola, brand new theatre now in last stages of construction at Manchester and Sepulveda Blvds., will fly the 20th-Fox showcase flag. House, of most modern equipment possible, seats 1,245 and will open with premiere of "3 Little Girls in Blue" Sept. 26. Picture opens regular run following day in the new unit. Addition of the Loyola swells 20th-Fox first run seats to 7,416 from present 6,171.

Problem of finding proper outlet for U-I product has been mulled for some time by circuit. Recently the addition of the Apollo to the UA group was considered by plan was dropped as house could not be brought up to de luxe class. Film company will have total of 6,233 first run seats in strategic locations, making unit comparable to other companies' showcase groups.

FOWLER STUDIO CONTRACT

As a result of the growing importance of first run operation by Fox West Coast and need of close tie-in with studios using houses, Bruce Fowler will handle studio contacts, premieres, previews, etc., while Stan Meyer will continue in charge of theatre operation for circuit's first run theatre district. Beach Abrams has been named to manage the new Loyola. Doc Crews will continue as Studio City manager, and manager for the Iris has not been set as yet.

New units further emphasize the swing of first run theatre operation away from the downtown Los Angeles sector to rapidly expanding outlying sections. Loyola theatre is in the heart of Westchester sector, near beach towns such as Manhattan, Hermosa, Inglewood, etc. Studio City house will dominate heavily populated Valley until circuit is able to build new de luxers. Switch of the Iris to first run gives Hollywood boulevard total of 10 theatres, all within less than two miles, having first run operation.

In radio, committee's principal interest is reported to lie in fast growing inroads of newspapers, with almost a half of present broadcast facilities in hands of publishers. Control of the most powerful 50 kw transmitters is also expected to come in for scrutiny. Committee, which authored the report "Opportunities for Small Business in FM Broadcasting" last spring, will also dig into movement of standard broadcasters and publishers into FM radio.

'Beaucaire' Heads For NY Par Record

New York, Sept. 4.—Paramount theatre here looked headed for its biggest opening day with the premiere of ''Monsieur Beaucaire,'' plus Charlie Spivak's orchestra and Peggy Lee on stage. Opening day gross of more than $16,000 was anticipated by Bob Weitman, manager. Previous high was $15,000, set by ''Strange Loves of Martha Ivers,'' with Dinah Shore and Gil Lamb on stage. ''Ivers'' closed a six-week engagement last night to a gross that was second only to ''Road to Utopia'' so far this year.

'Johnny O'Clock' Due To Finish Sat.

LE BERTHON NOW CLERIC

Ted Le Berthon, newspaperman and theatrical figure, yesterday entered into the life of a cleric recluse. After some 30 odd years as columnist, the former amusement editor of old Los Angeles Record and friend of the great and little of current popular musical world, entered Order of St. Francis of Assisi, at San Francisco.

Now in his early fifties, Le Berthon has more recently been contributing columnist to Catholic Digest magazine, and to Pittsburgh Courier, leading Negro paper of country. For 10 years he conducted a widely-ranged column on the L.A. Daily News.

ROSE DUE TO TALKPARDEAL

David Rose, former Paramount managing director in Great Britain who resigned to set up his own indie company, is due here tonight or tomorrow from England. He is coming ostensibly to make distribution deal with one of majors, after having several talks with companies in New York.

During his stay he will huddle with Barney Balaban, Paramount prexy, on possibility of making deal with company, to make picture or pictures in England for Paramount's British production program. He is expected to remain several weeks.

'Front Page' Re-plate Fails To Hit Pace of First Edition

New York, Sept. 4.—Re-plate edition of ''Front Page,'' the Ben Hecht-Charles MacArthur play, which ribbed in riddles yellow journalism in 1928, hit Broadway tonight. Play won't sell many ducats this time out, however, as the dialogue treatment and the cast are not up to the previous version.

Comparison is inevitable regarding the inspired performance of Lee Tracy as Hildy Johnson and the late Osgood Perkins as the wild-eyed managing editor. In the current version, Lew Parker manages better as Hildy Johnson than does Arnold Moss as the editor who would wreck his star reporter's romance for the sake of a story.

The rest of the cast in revival ranges from good to adequate, with Cora Witherspoon coming off nicely in the supporting cast. Hunt Stromberg, Jr., and Thomas Spengler are co-producers with playwright MacArthur credited with the direction.

ANNOUNCEMENT that Thurman Arnold will represent the American Theatres Association and Paul Williams the Southern California Theatre Owners Association in a move to intervene in the big five anti-trust suit makes for an odd coincidence. It was during Arnold's term as "trust-busting" attorney general that the original anti-trust action was started against the majors and Williams was the special assistant who launched the suit for the Department of Justice. Williams later asked to be relieved of participation because of developments that he felt were not favorable to the exhibitor. Now he will press for a more equitable deal for exhibs in the proposed consent decree, as will Arnold as legal rep for ATA in the intervention move.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The Russian request for further postponement of the United Nations assembly is not just a delaying tactic. Actually the Soviet does not have a large enough staff of qualified experts to carry on the Conference of Paris and a United Nations assembly at the same time, and they do not want to go into an additional international affair of a public nature without being able to staff it so that they can take full advantage of forum possibilities. At Paris, they have a larger staff than any other nation, and a busier one, too. While the United States, Britain and France operate with a casualness, seldom without previous conferences with each other, the Russian bloc gets together on the smallest detail, have typewritten statements prepared on even the slightest point, and the experts are constantly handing memoranda to the principals. What is true of the Soviet is even more true of her satellites and Russia does not want to go into any international dealing without a team it feels able to compete with that of the capitalist nations . . . The Greek investigation should show that the Greek Communists have helped create the unrest that the Ukraine is calling a threat to peace. Some Greek royalists are not without guilt either in terrorist activities. But a complete and fair investigation should uncover a Red hand.

You turn your dial a certain way
And you come to the criminal hour.

With the blankets wrapped around you
And doze away with a feeling deep
That the felon will not hound you.
Your dreams go wandering wide and far
But you hear the voice of a candy bar.

Prexy Krim, Schwalberg Due Here to Set E-L Release Plan

Release set-up for Eagle-Lion is expected to be worked out next week by Prexy Arthur Krim and A. W. Schwalberg, sales manager, who arrive here from New York Saturday.

Schwalberg was formerly sales representative for International for the product it released through RKO before hooking up with Universal. This has given rise to rumor that Eagle-Lion may tie up in a release arrangement with Universal-International. Studio has not only its own product to market but is committed to handle distribution in this country of certain number of J. Arthur Rank pix, on deal similar to that under which Universal-International will release 12 Rank films during the coming year.

First Eagle-Lion pic, "Born to Speed," just finished, will be released through PRC exchanges. Harry Thomas, PRC prexy, recently announced that his exchanges would handle first 12 Eagle-Lions.

Matter will be thrashed out in conferences of Krim and Schwalberg with Bryan Foy, studio head with organization by Eagle-Lion of its own releasing outlet as possibility.

TRADESHOWN at Warner Bros. Studio, Burbank, Cal., Sept. 3, 1946. Running time: 105 MINS.

"Cloak and Dagger" is formula melodrama that apparently can't miss at the box office. Thrills and suspense are obtained by means that are time tried and proven. But polished production and canny direction have freshened up the hokum. What with fighting and love-making and intrigue there aren't any dull moments in the picture and there is one gouging and throttling match that will get all the customers on the edge of the seat.

Yarn is put out as story of the Office of Strategic Services operatives and makes a play for timeliness by showing Gary Cooper as a scientist sent into behind-the-lines Europe to check on Nazi atomic bomb experiments and rescue from their clutches a woman who is the world's leading authority on nuclear fission.

His encounter with the aged woman scientist (impressively played by Helen Thimig) is briefly handled and Cooper is hustled along through danger and excitement to lengthier and more torrid contacts with Lilli Palmer.

Cooper fits the part of the two-fisted scientist like a glove and Miss Palmer shapes up as a convincing reason for a man to brave the dangers of prowling about enemy country.

The rest of cast puts on a high caliber performance. Robert Alda, Marjorie Hoshelle, J. Edward Bromberg and Dan Seymour earn a hand in supporting roles. Vladimir Sokoloff is effective in character part of Italian scientist. Milton Sperling has given the film top production values and the direction of Fritz Lang is a prime factor in maintaining the thrill and suspense. And Sol Polito uses his camera effectively to enhance the drama.

Enterprise Release Talks on With UA; Paramount Next

Arrival of Barney Balaban today or tomorrow will launch series of huddles between Paramount prexy and David Loew-Charles Einfeld combo on possibility of Enterprise making releasing tie-up with Paramount.

Enterprise toppers yesterday confabbed with Grad Sears, veepee in charge of distribution for United Artists, at which time it is understood UA was willing to concede all points in Enterprise's former distribution deal with Unversal.

Einfeld declared last night that his company won't set any releasing deal for 30 days or more, meanwhile listening to everybody's story. He announced that three pictures are slated to go on schedule, regardless of outcome of any negotiations, "The Other Love" on Oct. 1, John Garfield's film on Nov. 1 and Ginger Rogers' starrer Nov. 15.

Metro, Sinatra to Share Rights on Song Numbers

New York, Sept. 4.—Deal between Metro and Frank Sinatra on songs from his films provides that pair will alternate in acquisition of numbers. Sinatra has rights to tunes from his first picture, "It Happened in Brooklyn," but thereafter Metro will have first say on tunes going to Robbins, Feist or Miller, its music publishing subsidiaries. "Brooklyn" is now in production.

Singer is signed to do 10 pictures yearly but five of those may be done by outside studios on loanout. In view of Metro-Sinatra arrangement, it'll probably mean that pair also will get first crack. His publishing will be through proposed own firm, a separate unit from Barton Music in which he has third interest. Arrangement probably will mean Metro taking its pick of second picture and Sinatra having privilege on third, and so on.

Enterprise To Make 'So Goes My Love'

PREVIEWED at studio, Sept. 3, 1946. Running time: 88 MINS.

"Gallant Journey" is the story of John J. Montgomery, the first man who ever flew a controlled airplane, the father of American aviation. As a biography, it captures the pioneer spirit, but simultaneously fails to emerge as any more than a fair piece of screen entertainment. In careful adherence to details in the life of this man who learned how to build gliders through watching the birds, a plodding and episodic story is presented, lacking in color which might have been expected to accrue from the subject. Names of Glenn Ford and Janet Blair will help sell picture at box office, however, and its exploitable values are another point in its favor.

Film is considerably hampered in its treatment, the flashback opening far too long and when later reverted to slowing down an already draggy narrative. Ford is picked up as a boy in 1879 who dreams of flying, and spends most of his time on the shore studying the movement of bird wings. His friends think he is a bit cracked, but his family stands behind him and so does a young girl (Miss Blair), who is in love with him and believes in him. He finally constructs a rude glider which actually flies, and he is the first ever to rise above the ground in controlled flight.

Action thereafter moves to Santa Clara College, where Montgomery combines the duty of teaching physics with building planes.

William A. Wellman, who co-authored original screenplay with Byron Morgan, and also producer-directed, kept his action too slowly-paced for most part, with exception of earthquake sequence. This, the 1906 California shake, is an exciting few moments and shows Wellman at his best. He endowed film with excellent physical production values, too, and had benefit of beautiful photography, this credited to Burnett Guffey, George B. Meehan and Elmer Dyer. Other technical departments likewise stack up.

Ford plays his role for dramatic strength and does a nice piece of characterization as the dreaming inventor. Janet Blair appears effectively, too, pretty and appealing, and supporting cast is tops. Outstanding here is Jimmy Lloyd, who plays parachutist partner of Ford, who finally is killed. Charles Kemper is another standout as priest, as is Arthur Shields, as college veepee. Willard Robertson likewise scores as understanding father.

'CENTRAL PARK' ADVANCE AT BOWL 140G

On the eve of its opening Saturday night at the Hollywood Bowl, Michael Todd's "Up In Central Park" has rung up record-breaking advance sale of $140,000 in cash plus an additional unestimated sum represented by several thousand mail orders as yet unfilled by the Bowl b.o. staff.

Cast of the show arrived yesterday on an eight car special train from Kansas City, where the show played last week and grossed $51,000 at the Municipal Auditorium.

Sigmund Romberg, composer of the music of "Up In Central Park," "Blossom Time," "The Student Prince," "My Maryland," and other hits, yesterday signed to conduct the orchestra.

Play Review

READY OR NOT

One of the characters in the misguided musical by and about Vet of World War Two that opened at the Wilshire Ebell last night warned at the outset that the critics might make fun of the show's title, "Ready or Not." He was calling his shots inasmuch as it definitely was nowhere near ready. Laughs were few and the plot was confusing.

A West Coast attempt at another "Call Me Mister" misses the boat mostly because of the poorly motivated plot, which concerns the attempt of the wearers of the ruptured Duck to get an education. There are a few fairly bright spots — mainly Nancy Sheldon's chirping of a pretty ballad eclept, "If I Could Just Remember," Clarke Williams' specialty as a Heinie suffering commander, and some of the impressionistic sets by Gobruegge. Latter lost their novelty however after the first three or four, and scene-changing waits were too long. Another tune, "I'm Through With The Moon," as handled by male lead, Allan Cole, sounded good despite mistakes of directors Les Darst and Clarke Williams in permitting a couple of comics to mug in the background throughout.

In all, song titled "What's Going On Around Here?" cued the whole thing.

PAT CASEY SAYS PRODS HAD FREE HAND ON MECHS

Under the July 2 strike settlement, producers were given free rein to hire machinists individually without reference to membership in any union, pending solution of jurisdictional phases of labor dispute.

This was the high point of Pat Casey's testimony yesterday, as labor rep of major film companies spent most of the day on stand in current NLRB trial of 10 major studios charged with asserted unfair labor practices.

Casey flatly declared that charges against the studios are result of jurisdictional strife between Cinetechnicians Local 23968, International Association of Machinists Lodge 1185 and the Teamsters Union. He said all three unions claimed jurisdiction of auto mechanics in studios.

Producers, according to Casey, also had an agreement with CSU prexy Herbert Sorrell that machinists' dispute would remain status quo, pending determination of a petition to NLRB by producers to determine which union was bargaining agent. It was pointed out that producers' petition was turned down by NLRB, which ordered present trial.

It was indicated that prosecution would call Sorrell from San Francisco, where he is attending the painters' convention, to check Casey's testimony on July 2nd understanding of the machinists' dispute.

Group of five additional machinists also testified yesterday, charging they were fired by various studios because of affiliation with IAM. Trial resumes today and Casey probably will be brought back to stand Monday.

BLACKSTONE JOINS CHICAGO HOTELS IN BAND STRIKE

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Effect of the New York musicians strike was further felt in Chicago today when orchestras in the Mayfair and Balinese rooms of the Blackstone hotel joined musicians of the Palmer House and Stevens hotel in a sympathy walkout on orders from James C. Petrillo, AFM president. Blackstone is operated by the Kirkeby Enterprises and the Palmer House and Stevens are of the Hilton chain, principals in the NY strike.

Mel Cooper's orchestra at the Blackstone's Mayfair Room was allowed to play Monday and Tuesday evenings, but were told by Petrillo to walk out this evening. With loss of music, the three hotels face the possibility of a complete closing of their dining rooms until the NY strike is settled.

Officials of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, also headed by Petrillo, said that although orchestras in local hotels affected would not play, the union was ordered by Petrillo not to use pickets.

Spokesman said local hotels signed a contract with AFM Local 208 here Aug. 29 calling for a 25 per cent pay hike.

Down Mexico Way

By LUISA MARIA ALVAREZ

Mexico City, Sept. 4.—Our government will confer medal of the Aztec Eagle on Jack Warner. Louis B. Mayer has already been so honored by Mexico.

"Cilda," Columbia's Rita Hayworth starrer, is now playing at the Chapultepec. Action is supposed to take place in Buenos Aires, but you would never know it from the way actors deliver some lines in Spanish. Why these actors did not speak like Argentinians, when it is so easy to imitate their special accent, is beyond me. Argentinians can be spotted immediately by people of any other Spanish speaking country because of their peculiar way of speaking.

After making about a dozen pictures in rapid succession producer Salkind now intends to make fewer and better films and is carefully choosing stories, directors and stars.

Pablo Gonzalez again postponed his trip to Hollywood, trying to figure way of visiting both the California city and the Spanish capital in minimum of time. Trip to Madrid probably will be for purpose of arranging for release of Salkind productions there and release of Spanish pictures in Mexico.

Meanwhile Russian film dubbed here by Salkind company will be shown soon. Claim is that no Hollywood-dubbed picture can compete.

Bea Boynton of K.W.K.W. adds another newspaper to her list. Column "Bea Boynton Suggests," published in several California dailies, will appear in this city's "Excelsior." Whether on English page or translated hasn't yet been decided.

Opinions on politics, education, movies and what not, by prominent Mexicans will be heard over KWKW waves as soon as Miss Boynton returns to LA with discs.

Delighted with Mexico but jittery about traffic and horn honking, the Pasadena columnist has been sightseeing, collecting material and interviewing.

"I've heard about tourists having trouble down here," Miss Boynton told me, "but from the border to Mexico City I have received nothing but courtesies."

Personally, I don't claim that majority of my countrymen are angelically considerate, but isn't unnecessary inconvenience suffered by some tourists often their own fault? Good manners are excellent visiting cards and a smile goes a long way, in Mexico and any other place, not so the smug superiority complex so obvious in some tourists.

Tyrone Power, Cesar Romero and John R. Jeffries descended on Acapulco, went fishing while the Mexican flag was being painted on Power's plane by his orders, then left the Pacific Port . . . the Mexican Motion Picture Producers Association has organized a Public Relations Board headed by newspaperman Rene Capistran Garza . . . Gregory Stone with 35 piece band on Omega Watches program . . . Carlos Puig enroute to Hollywood . . . Jorge Negrete has signed new contract with RCA Victor . . . Singer Reva Reyes and violinist Nunez de Bourbon now at the Casanova night club . . . Rose Mary Buass and crooner Mario Gil honeymooning somewhere in the country . . . Tito Guizar singing at NY Waldorf Astoria .

FILM PRODUCERS THREATENED OVER KLAN PICTURE

Ku Klux Klanners, or Klan sympathizers are making threats in the motion picture business. Following the announcement of intention to produce "The Clansmen Ride Again," film blast on the organization, Bill Rowland, director-producer and his associates in the proposed picture have been told to lay off or else.

Lou Snitzer and Al Fritsch, associated with Rowland, report telephone calls and other messages in which they have been warned of consequences if they continue with project. Rowland and others, who have been accessible, also have been threatened, including Lawrence Taylor, writer, from Atlanta, Ga. Latter was specifically taken in for his knowledge of subject to be filmed.

Those concerned also have received offers of help from others, particularly those within church groups, etc., though to date no official step has been taken by any religious group to participate. Indie producers are now casting and lining up location sites, and expect to go into production within 30 days.

Frazier, now a freelance writer, was last show biz editor of Life mag, leaving that post because of other writing commitments.

$9,782,000 IN FILM DIVVIES

Department of Commerce revealed today. Total is eight times the amount handed investors during the same month in 1945.

High total for July can be largely explained by a $1,000,000 dividend paid by RKO and a $2,000,000 one by Warners in the same month. Neither company paid dividends between 1944 and 1946, it was pointed out.

CALIFORNIA GIVEN MORE FM SLOTS BY AIR BOARD

Washington, Sept. 4. — Several California cities, overlooked in FCC's tentative allocation of FM broadcasting channels last December, won additional slots for metropolitan FM outlets in second tentative allocation plan released by commish yesterday.

New plan sets aside two additional channels for Fresno, Marysville, Modesto, and one each for Monterey and Salinas. Some of these towns were left out completely when FCC divvied up FM spectrum last year. FCC also announced that Palm Springs and Redding, Cal., would, under new blueprint, each have one less FM channel.

By JACK HELLMAN

The new season is well enough along to give us a faint idea of what's coming up in the weeks ahead so in the immortal words of Ed Gardner, "leave us face it." It's going to be a writers' year, kiddies, and don't let anybody tout you off on that one. We've cocked an ear to the new crop and it goes in our book thusly: the good ones had good writing, the bad ones vice versa. No one has yet figured a way for the chief comic to wring a yuck out of a piece of dry material. If it isn't on paper it isn't going out on the air. Quite true, there are a few master zanies who can mug a studio laugh or sight a giggle by sundry means but are they kidding the folks at home?

Not too many years ago a writing budget of $3,000 would have called up a sanity hearing for the responsible parties. Let a comedy show today try to get by without a stable of from three to seven, with the weekly fees running as high as $1,500 per head. There's one department where it's not a waste of coin. Smart budgeters and packagers are at long last pursuing that line of thought and those that don't will do most of the worrying around option time. If this sounds like a plea for writers, who don't need it, you've missed the point. It's more a plea to plug the leak that will eventually sink the ship.

Milton Biow, the most potent one-man operation in the agency business and a shrewd assayer of programs and talent, has some definite ideas about what it's going to take to restore Rudy Vallee to the eminence he once enjoyed. He's not saying too much just now but there's a lot going on in that busy noggin of his. He is definitely sold on the idea that Vallee has still got what he had when he was kingpin of the crooner-emcees and he's working toward the end of firing up those latent talents. Biow will keep closer tabs on this show than any of his others largely for the reason of sustaining his own judgment. He has made mistakes and so have the others but the ratio is all in his favor.

Chain breaks . . . Writes "Howie" Mayer: "I was surprised to see your reference to the chewing gum story concerning Lulu Belle as a new low in press agentry. If you happen to listen to "Barn Dance" or you have seen the show you will know that Lulu Belle's chewing gum is as essential to the act as Scotty's guitar." It should make a good tire patch after 14 years . . . Whila Wilson may stay back east for the Compton agency . . . Another Willson, Meredith, was mugged last week at CBS microphones, the first time in his 20 years of radio he strayed from NBC. It so happens he'll have his own show for Canada Dry on the Columbia skein . . ABC gets those old sleuthies, Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson, under Kreml sponsorship after Petri wine who pulled off Don Lee . . . Now that the Armour deal is cold, Al Pearce is talking of retirement . . . Ed Gardner will spot Jimmy McHugh's protege, Mary Meade, in the tavern as featured vocalist . . . Abe Burrows gets in today to warm up his typewriter for the Dinah Shore series . . . Carroll Carroll has completed the new Bob Hope book, "So This Is Peace," and shipped the manuscript to Simon & Schuster . . . Schick ejector razor may close for "Fat Man" this week on ABC . . . Harry Batten, prez of N. W. Ayer, laying over a few days en route back to NY from a Hawaiian vacation . . . New Roy Rogers show will be billed as "Alka Seltzer's Saturday Night Roundup." Can't you just see the downtown sheets using that billing in their logs?

Men who served in the armed forces will man the key positions of Harry Butcher's radio station in Santa Barbara, which links up with NBC as a supplemental transmitter Sept. 29. An established policy of on-the-job training for war vets will be carried out down through the entire organization. Butcher, who was naval aide to General Eisenhower and author of the best seller, "My Three Years with Eisenhower," will have as his aide, Fox Case, former CBS exec in Hollywood and Washington, in administering the policy of training the veterans. Most of the key men have had previous radio experience and in their charge will be ex-GI's who will serve their apprenticeship in the station's operation. It's odd that Butcher and Case, who passed most of their radio career with CBS, should become affiliated with the rival network in the operation of their own station.

Hitch hikes . . . Drew Pearson's Sunday broadcasts will be repeated at 7:30 p.m. over KFWB through an arrangement with ABC and Lee Hats. Airing at 3 p.m. on KECA, rebroadcast gives Pearson an evening audience . . . Allan Jones, backed up by Ray Sinatra's orchestra, making a series of transcriptions based on the lives of famous composers . . . Dorothy Dietz, former scripteuse for Dick Mack on the Joan Davis show, now secretarying for George Gruskin at the William Morris office . . . Summer dialing hasn't changed much over the years, say the survey people, yet the comparisons don't stand up. Ten years ago Major Bowes led the August flock with 22.3 while "Mr. D.A.'s" 11.3 tops the current listing. Further, six other shows had a bigger audience then than "D.A." has now. Among the daytimers the toppers 10 years ago were a couple of points ahead of the present pace but none of the Top 10 eight years ago is still in the high brackets . . . NBC's two new studios won't be ready until December or January and requests for space from eastern shows are beginning to pour in. Some of the picture studios are being eyed by the nets to take care of their overflow . . . Friday the 13th holds no terrors for Vic Hunter. Born on that fateful day he'll wed Gloria Blondell Friday Sept. 13 at Del Monte with Bob Hope as best man . . . After 24 years CBS is changing the call letters of its NY station from WABC to WCBS to avoid confusion with a competitive network . . . Earl Gammons of the Washington office and Howard Meighan, director of station administration, have been made veepees by CBS.

'GALLANT JOURNEY' GETS FULL DRESS PREEM IN DIEGO

San Diego, Sept. 4. — "Gallant Journey" was world-preemed here tonight at Spreckles Theatre, with Columbia bringing air junket of 160 from Los Angeles for event sponsored by San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce. It was return to prewar brilliance, with lights, streets decorated with flags and main street roped off for block in vicinity of theatre, this being most ambitious opening ever staged in this city.

1. In non-competitive situations, U-I's feature films will be offered individually, but the exhib may license as many U-I pictures as may be available during season, with the privilege of cancellation to be negotiated with each account.

2. In competitive situations, no picture will be licensed until after it is completed and available for screening at U-I exchanges, with each film to be offered individually and the licensing thereof not to be conditioned upon the licensing of other films.

WASHINGTON HULLABALOO

By FLORENCE S. LOWE

Washington, Sept. 4.—You haven't heard it before, but that recent presentation to the Library of Congress of an original shooting script of "Caesar and Cleopatra," complete with autographed message from George Bernard Shaw, almost failed to happen.

United Artists set up the stunt in this country and then called over to Britain to have a copy of the script properly inscribed and flown across the pond. The English dug up a copy and gave it to G.B.S. for his part of the deal. However, Shaw replied in effect: "Nothing doing. The script is too dirty. Get me a clean one or no soap."

The British hunted around for another copy but somehow could not find a clean one. It never occurred to them apparently to make a fresh one. Instead, they poured out their troubles over trans-Atlantic phone to United Artists in New York. United did some fast looking, uncovered a script and airmailed it the same day.

Shaw thought it looked clean enough, so he messaged and autographed it. Back it came and down it was brought to Washington. However, all of this took time, so the presentation was made more than a week after the scheduled date.

The funniest gimmick after the script presentation came from Acting Librarian of Congress Herman H. Hinkle. You may recall that on the script, Shaw wrote: "You had better present this to the United States Library of Congress to which I owe many obligations."

Some time after he had gotten his second wind, Hinkle remarked naively: "I am agreeably surprised that Shaw feels himself under any obligations to the library. I'm not aware of what we have done for him."

And they are still trying to figure out at the library what G.B.S. means.

The Dutch have come up with a new wrinkle in film. They have developed a new cellophane base for which they claim a number of valuable uses. Chief advantage, of course, is the thinness of cellophane, and its cost.

The Hollanders say it will be fine for sound films for home use. They say it will sharply cut the price of prints and suggest its use for making films for school use. Under the type of coating used, it is asserted that the soundtrack and pictures can be printed simultaneously.

Further, it is pointed out that for sound reproduction alone, a roll of cellophane as thick as a small-sized phonograph record can reproduce music for an hour. Another claimed advantage is that developing and printing can take place in the full light of natrium lamps. Finally, the Dutch say the stuff is so fine-grained that it can be used to reduce the size of documents to a startling degree for permanent filing purposes.

Reports here that Sophie Tucker is shopping to buy a D.C. nitery to set her son, Bert, up in biz. He managed a spot in town for a short time until forced to quit by illness . . . Few weeks back this column reported that the London Daily Express was running a "Fifty Years of Films" exhibition in that city. It may be noteworthy that more than 50,000 persons have already paid admission to see it . . . Incidentally, Lt. Col. David MacDonald, who produced "Desert Victory," first smash hit war documentary, for the British, has just gotten out of uniform and is now back working on his first pic as a new civilian . . . National Association of Broadcasters has accepted a State Department invitation to name a rep to work with the Department on the National Committee for Educational, Scientific and Cultural Cooperation. He is Judge Justin Miller, NAB prexy, and a Los Angeles man formerly on the Federal bench.

Army has now licensed 402 theatres and music halls in the American zone of occupation in Germany. An inter-Allied music lending library is operating successfully in Berlin . . . Six of the Zeiss Ikon plants are now humming with activity in Germany and this firm, which used to make some of the world's outstanding cameras and lenses, is getting ready to allocate a part of its output for export. Some motion picture projectors are being produced . . . Helen Marsh, who has been in pix and on the air, opens a new nitery revue in these parts . . . And Ethel Waters has just started a night club stint here . . . Charles Benter, the D.C. rep for ASCAP, has been nabbed by OPA on charges of selling his own automobiles at well over ceiling prices . . . Wade Skinner, secretary to John J. Payette, Warners zone manager, has just received his copy of a Presidential Unit Citation awarded to the U.S.S. Lexington and her attached air groups. He was in six major engagements as photographic officer of the Lex.

LIND PROMISES COOPERATION IN PRC SALES

Atlantic City, Sept. 4.—Lloyd L. Lind, veepee and assistant general sales manager, was principal speaker at second day of PRC's annual sales meet today, following prexy Harry H. Thomas' introduction of home office execs to 200 assembled delegates. In his address, he told delegates he hopes to establish same close relationship with them during coming year as he has enjoyed with Thomas at home office.

During late afternoon session, Max Roth, veteran film distribution exec, was announced as eastern division sales manager of company by Thomas. He will assume new duties immediately. Others upped to positions of greater responsibility were Beverly Miller, Kansas City; William Sherman, St. Louis; James Hendel, Pittsburgh and Cleveland; Sam Milner, Dallas; Joe Miller, Albany and Buffalo; Abbott Swartz, Minneapolis; Sam Weiss, St. Louis; Mike Lee, Des Moines.

Announcement of 1946-47 season's product will be made at tomorrow's huddle.

HALF BILLION IN FILM TILL FOR HEAVY DRAIN

within the next year or two, financial circles here forecast. Development, however, will be offset by the tremendous boost in working capital registered by the industry over the past five years.

The several factors underlying the anticipated unprecedented cash demands are:

1. Heavy increase in production costs.
2. Increased budget allocations of top product.
3. Expansion into foreign markets.
4. Need to buy out theatre partners as required by recent court decree.
5. Added sales expenses under new auction selling format.

LUSH BO FILLS TILL

Film industry's current solid financial condition, which will more than meet the cash flow, is the result of lush BO returns during the war years.

An equal factor was the industry's conservative operations in the 1940-46 period, which resulted in the unparalleled increase of $310,500,000 in working cash.

Financial experts here point to the remarkable cash and bond increase of the seven majors from a 1940 figure of $68,000,000 to current peak of $170,000,000 as chief protection against the anticipated demands on company coffers.

LOW INTEREST COIN

It was further pointed out that the call for cash may be so great that some companies may have to borrow despite large liquid holdings.

In latter case, companies are not particularly worried because their solid financial condition insures rock-bottom interest rates of from two to three per cent. In past years, interest rates were between 4 and 5½ per cent.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

ALTHOUGH the Sidney Skolsky production for Columbia, "The Jolson Story," will open at the Music Hall in New York City immediately after termination of "Notorious," it was learned yesterday that Harry Cohn originally wanted the film to open at the Winter Garden. The Winter Garden has only 1,312 seats as compared with the Radio City showcase's 5,945. Cohn was willing to sacrifice the tremendous difference in b.o. potential because of sentiment. Al Jolson starred in many shows at the Winter Garden and reference to record is made in the film. In addition, the "Jazz Singer" and "The Singing Fool," Jolson starrers, were both screened at the Winter Garden.

PRESS previews and tradeshows are getting to be a headache for the studios. Theatres don't care to handle them. Use of studio projection rooms brings frequent squawks from reviewers as being too remote from their offices. Indies in many cases are up against it even for such screening facilities. Agitation is being renewed among some of the reviewers for acquisition of some conveniently located theatre by the studios exclusively for preview showings and available to all the companies. So far, though, it's all just a subject for conversation while waiting for the picture to start.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The Byrnes statement at Stuttgart, Germany, today promises to be one of the most important on foreign policy in some time. It can well be because Germany is our greatest problem in European peace; and it is the key if any to peace. The importance of the speech is indicated in his leaving the Conference of Paris to make it, his being accompanied by Connolly, Vandenberg, Ben Cohen, General Clay, and the chief of our European section of the State Department. Its relationship to an economic merger of the British and American zones is shown in that this was announced on the eve of the Stuttgart talk, and after France and Russia had been given ample time to reply to our urging that we finally carry out the economic centralization of Germany promised by the Soviet along with us at Potsdam over a year ago. We also have definite reason to proceed now, on the assumption that Russia plans to make her zone of Germany a part of the Soviet system, since the Soviet has refused to permit inspection to determine whether she's using German war plants to make war goods, and since the current elections are being conducted in a manner to assure Communist governments in all of the Soviet zone. Disappearances, arrests, kidnapings, threats, rations, spying even by youngsters, preventing presentation of lists of opposition candidates in no more than 25 per cent of the districts, requiring that school teachers, civil servants, etc., be members of the Unity (Communist) Party, are all being used. Byrnes apparently believes the time is far past when we can continue to plead; we must begin to act affirmatively, and, where necessary, without those who were our allies.

Strange Journey

(Melodrama)

TWENTIETH-FOX RELEASE. Producer, l Wurtzel. Production manager, Sherman Harris. Director, James Tinling. Assist-t director, Rex Bailey. Screenplay by arles Kenyon and Irving Elman. Orig-l story by Charles Kenyon. Photogra-y, Benjamin Kline. Art director, Robert terson. Set decorations, Edward Boyle. und, Buddy Myers. Film editor, William Claxton.

CAST—Paul Kelly, Osa Massen, Hillary ooke, Lee Patrick, Bruce Lester, Gene utenroth, Fritz Leiber, Kurt Katch.

TRADESHOWN at Los Angeles, Sept. 5, 46. Running time: 67 MINS.

"Strange Journey" is 67 minutes melodrama packed tight with ac-on, thrills and suspense. The story ets a new twist on the desert island eme, starts the thrills early with a ectacular plane crash and works its ay through some hard-boiled plot-ng, tough fighting and a little prim-ive love making to finish in a crash f machine guns. The film is a sure inner in the moderate budget class.

The yarn is worked out with a mall cast headed by Paul Kelly and sa Massen. Kelly scores in his in-erpretation of the role of an ex-rum unner, possessed of a Napoleon omplex and a Caribbean island. Miss Massen gets across as the nice girl f the story, is convincing in the ro-mance sequences, and meets the act-ng requirements of the emotional assages. Hillary Brooke earns a hand n a role that is decidedly unsympathetic throughout most of the picture but that turns heroic at the very end. Gene Stutenroth, Fritz Leiber and Kurt Katch all deserve special mention.

Story is tightly scripted and generally plausible, though final scene could have been made more convincing by a little careful planting earlier in the screenplay.

James Tinling's direction doesn't miss a bet in pointing up the punch situations. Sol Wurtzel has produced with the kind of showmanship that gets top entertainment out of low budget. Camera work of Benjamin Kline is of notable assistance in enhancing dramatic atmosphere.

UNIVERSAL RELEASE. Producer, Howard Benedict. Director, Charles T. Barton. Screenplay by Bertram Millhauser. Based on "The Victoria Docks at 8" by Rufus King. Photography, Charles Van Enger. CAST—Dan Duryea, Ella Raines, William Bendix, Richard Gaines, Barbara Brown, Clarence Kolb, Donald Curtis, Frank Jenks, Samuel S. Hinds, John Miljan, William Trenk, Scotty Beckett, Nita Hunter, Patricia Alphin, Joan Fulton.

PREVIEWED at Universal Studios, Studio City, Sept. 5, 1946. Running time: 74 MINS.

"White Tie and Tails" is a light, merry comedy, put out strictly for entertainment. The boys who struggle to get under forward passes at the bank will learn from it, to their surprise, that you can get laughs even out of a bouncing check sequence. Rest of the audience, who mostly don't worry about checks, will take the laughs as they come. They come fast enough to keep the show lively and give promise of good box office.

Dan Duryea, making his transition in this picture from heavies to smoothie, proves fully equal to the occasion. He is cast as a butler, but a butler with variations—one who had abandoned the struggle for artist's career because butling offered a chance to live comfortably in luxurious surroundings.

Duryea shares acting honors with Ella Raines and William Bendix. Miss Raines' looks and acting are both effective in the femme lead and Bendix gives a characteristic performance in the major role of "menace" in the farce plot.

Frank Jenks also gets a hand for character comedy and balance of the cast earns praise for work in supporting roles.

Story is not too original, but Director Charles Barton, who is an old hand at building chuckles, gets full measure of comedy out of mild farce situations.

Howard Benedict has given the picture showmanlike production. Sets and technical details get a quality touch and camera work of Charles Van Enger accentuates scene and action accurately.

CAST—Stars Evelyn Keyes, Keenan Wynn, Ann Miller, Allyn Joslyn, Tito Guizar. Feâtures Enric Madriguera and his orchestra, Veloz and Yolanda, Felix Bressart, Sid Tomack, Eugene Borden.

PREVIEWED at studio, Sept. 4, 1946. Running time: 91 MINS.

Columbia has a money picture on its hands in "The Thrill of Brazil," a hit musical from the word go. Film is produced lavishly, packed with melodic song and colorful dancing numbers, and offers some of the best fast-comedy of the season, in the more than capable hands of Keenan Wynn, Evelyn Keyes and Allyn Joslyn. Direction by S. Sylvan Simon is paced to the tempo of a rollicking screenplay by Allen Rivkin, Harry Clork and Devery Freeman, and picture reflects high credit to all concerned with its making.

Story unfolds in Rio de Janeiro, where Wynn, producer of a gay revue at Hotel Carioca, tries his derndest to get Evelyn Keyes back as his wife and as his co-producer. Gal has returned to him briefly with a Reno divorce all wrapped up, but needs his signature on a release, so she may wed Joslyn, a very stuffy young exec of a toothpaste firm in Pippinville, Ia. It seems he had signed the release previously sent him with disappearing ink.

Here is the basis and premise for one of the best comedies of the season, Wynn resorting to every trick at his imaginative command to keep his ex-spouse in Rio. Against this background is interwoven catchy songs by Ann Miller and Tito Guizar, dances featuring Miss Miller and large choruses.

As staged by Eugene Loring and Nick Castle, these dances, most carrying South American motif and the outstanding number of Voodoo extraction, merit attention and praise, as novel as any glimpsed on the screen this year. Photographed beautifully by Charles Lawton, they are exotically lighted and provide something different in the way of entertainment. Enric Madriguera and his orchestra furnish the music for both songs and dances, doing a nice job throughout. Veloz and Yolanda appear in a single dance, but are at their best.

Keenan, borrowed from Metro for film, turns in what probably is his best characterization to date, never missing a trick and timing his comedy perfectly. Miss Keyes, obviously groomed by Columbia as successor to Jean Arthur in roles of this type, makes the most of role by making it snappily amusing, her performance paralleling Wynn's.

Ann Miller's singing and dancing are tops, and gives an impressive account of herself as star of the revue. Guizar, in smaller part, engages and Joslyn is responsible for a hilarious portrayal. Sid Tomack is standout, too, as pickpocket taxi driver.

Sidney Biddell handled production reins with finesse, getting the most out of his people. Art direction by Stephen Goosson, Van Nest Polglase and Leslie Thomas, and set decorations by James M. Crowe and Robert Priestley, contrive the atmosphere in which film abounds, with Jean Louis' costumes distinctive. Technical credits without exception are highly placed.

Little Iodine

(Comedy)

UNITED ARTISTS RELEASE OF A COMET PRODUCTION. Producers, Buddy Rogers, Ralph Cohn. Director, Reginald LeBorg. Associate producer, Selmer L. Chalif. Original screenplay, Richard Landau. Based on cartoon strip, "Little Iodine," by Jimmy Hatlo. Photography, Robert Pittack. Art Direction, George Van Marter. Set decorations, William A. Greenwood, Sr. Assistant director, Frank Fox. Editor, Lynn Harrison. Sound, Franklin Hansen, Jr. Musical score, Alexander Steinert.

CAST—Jo Ann Marlowe, Marc Cramer, Eve Whitney, Irene Ryan, Hobart Cavanaugh, Lanny Reese, Leon Belasco, Emroy Parnell, Sarah Selby, Jean Paritquin.

PREVIEWED at Samuel Goldwyn Studios, Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 5, 1946. Running time: 65 MINS.

"Little Iodine" marks Buddy Rogers and Ralph Cohn's bow as indie producers and augurs well for the future of their newly-organized Comet Productions. Comedy, based on Jimmy Hatlo's cartoon character, is nicely filled with laughs accruing from situations earmarked for popular acceptance and should be well received at box-office, despite absence of marquee names. Exploitation potential of the cartoon strip should help materially to sell it.

As title indicates, this is story of Iodine, 10-year-old daughter of Irene Ryan and Hobart Cavanaugh, always is in trouble. First, it's her father, creeping in at 3 o'clock in the morning, becoming entangled in Iodine's "burglar alarm." Then, little dear, thinking her mother is carrying on with a Frenchman whom she overhears spouting in that language to her parent—actually, he is a language record salesman—decides to fight fire with fire by making her mother jealous of the father, believing she can break up the affair. This she does by planting perfumed handkerchiefs and other marks of an off-the-premises devotion on her father's person, which brings on all the later fireworks.

Story is slight but amusing, as worked out in Richard Landau's original screenplay, and furnishes a short hour's entertainment satisfactorily. Jo Ann Marlowe, enacting title role, is good piece of casting and motivates situations properly, with both Miss Ryan and Cavanaugh delivering neatly as her parents. Talents of Marc Cramer are wasted in rather silly role, as are those of Eve Whitney, but they and other players contribute to general fun.

Reginald LeBorg sometimes goes overboard in his directing, but in the main he keeps his characters moving for best comedy effect. Producers, with Selmer L. Chalif functioning as associates, show imagination in their presentation, and in way they have built picture around central cartoon character. Balance of credits are standard.

Gentlemen With Guns

(Western)

PRC RELEASE. Producer, Sigmund Neufeld. Director, Sam Newfield. Original screenplay by Fred Myton. Photography, Jack Greenhalgh. Musical director, Lee Zahler. Sound engineer, Lyle Willey. Film editor, Holbrook N. Todd. Production manager, Bert Sternbach. Assistant director, Stanley Neufeld.

CAST—Buster Crabbe, Al (Fuzzy) St. John, Patricia Knox, Steve Darrell, George Chesebro, Karl Hackett, Budd Buster and Frank Ellis.

REVIEWED at Hitching Post theatre, Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 5, 1946. Running time: 58 MINS.

This western adventure starts out with a comic love motive, based on the Lonely Hearts Club idea, which leads to a lot of gun play, on account of Buster Crabbe rides into action in the nick of time to protect his whiskered pal, Al St. John, and discovers that all is not well with them thar water rights. It seems that Al, known as "Fuzzy," is going to marry Miss Matilda Boggs through a matrimonial agency, sight-unseen, not knowing that Steve Darrell, a dirty crook, has designs on control of the valley which will make a bum out of Fuzzy and all the other honest ranchers in the neighborhood.

Before you know it, there is a knuckle fight which Buster and Fuzzy win from Darrell and his no-good henchman, Frank Ellis. It is a unanimous decision but you know there is dirty work in the offing as the losers skulk away into the offing, with evil designs in their hearts. They are going to get even.

So Darrell convinces the dumb sheriff, Budd Buster, that Fuzzy is a rustler, which you know he ain't, and the sheriff's posse invades Fuzzy's ranch and somebody draws a rod and George Chesebro, one of the miscreants, falls to the ground in mortal agony. So the lousy sheriff pinches Fuzzy on a homicide rap, although you know Fuzzy wouldn't shoot a tarantula if it looked him right in the eye.

Then comes a sequence sort of new in jail breaking. Fuzzy breaks jail, as you knew he would, but along comes his handsome pal, Buster, and tosses him right back into the hoosegow. The idea is that Patricia Knox, an old burlesque gal from Chicago, is trying to marry Fuzzy and get control of the water rights and turn them over to boy friend, Darrell.

The mob of townspeople, stirred up by the no-good gangsters, is about to hand Fuzzy an impromptu necktie party when Buster Crabbe gallops into town to save his pal from lynching. The final reel shows Patricia beating it out of town, back to South Clark Street, Chicago, to resume her burlesquing, while Fuzzy smiles through his whiskers and Buster Crabbe moves on to new adventures.

THE GRAPEVINE: Hottest rumor around town yesterday was that RKO will trim its producer list in the very near future. Orders supposedly have come down to concentrate on higher-budgeted product, and that would eliminate most of the producers in the low budget division . . . Frank Capra, noted for shooting two or more endings to his pictures and then putting it up to preview audiences to decide which should be used, isn't doing it this time. He has shot only one ending for "It's a Wonderful Life." Couldn't tack an unhappy ending on a film with that title, could he? . . . Edward Bromberg, usually viewed in heavy drama, is taking off for Broadway and the lead in a musical comedy this Fall . . . BILL LUNDIGAN is getting nibbles from 20th to play one of the gallants in "Forever Amber."

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Quartet of extras were assigned to spend two whole days playing slot machines on the gambling hell set for "Desert Town" at Paramount, but you know how it is in Hollywood. The slot machines paid off in slugs . . . Irene Rich will be around for awhile. She was persuaded to come out of retirement on her ranch to appear in Republic's "The Angel and the Outlaw"—for "just one more picture." Now she's finished "Calendar Girl" and will start work in "New Orleans" . . . Result: the kittens are going crazy trying to butt mice . . . Will Wright landed another good role in "The Big Haircut" at Paramount. He'd been around Hollywood for 50 films, but didn't get a break until he played the conniving hotel dectective in "The Blue Dahlia" . . . Lot of high-priced writing talent is hanging its collective head at Laguna Beach this week. A Laguna paint shop offered $50 prize for the best name for the place. Gene Fowler, Nunnally Johnson, etc., decided to try their hand and thought up such dillies as "Ye Old Palette" and entered them in the contest. A dark horse won with the stark simplicity of "Johnson's Paint Shop."—D.D.T.

Production manager, Raoul Pagel. Art director, Edward C. Jewell. Set decorator, George Montgomery. Director of makeup, Bud Westmore. Sound engineer, Frank W. Webster. Film editor, Hugh Winn. Assistant director, William L. Nolte.

REVIEWED at Hitching Post theatre, Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 5, 1946. Running time: 57 MINS.

Good old Chief Eagle Feather, played by good old Chief Thundercloud, is getting along fine on his good old reservation with his good old Indian tribe until three no-good so-and-sos muscle in. This picture is a radical departure from the old theme about gold in them thar hills. In this case it is silver, although any silver miner today will tell you that a silver mine is a hole in the ground with a lot of debts at the bottom. What the silver miners want is a ten-cent dime.

That is how it stands when Eddie Dean rides in, in Cinecolor, and hooks up with Chief Thundercloud and Forrest Taylor, a missionary, to foil the miscreants. Reading from left to right, the varmits are Jerry Jerome, a saloonist, Stanly Price, a banker, and Robert McKenzie, a land agent, all of whom are phenagling to get possession of the silver hills which belong by right to the Indians.

When Eddie and his sidekick, Emmett Lynn, ride into town they discover a double murder, and a papoose whom they nickname "Little Brown Jug," although they are all phohibitionists. Your modern cowboy hero can't take a shot of liquor until he gallops out of range of the camera.

After the adoption of the little orphan comes a stage holdup, with the bandits getting away, as usual, and the right guys getting the runaway hosses under control and guiding the coach into town. In the stage is Joan Barton, a beautiful but spoiled rich gal who can sing, and does. Joan is on her way to Europe to become a grand opera singer, but Eddie persuades her to hang around town and learn about the natural Indian melodies. Not only that, Eddie sings "The Love Song of the Waterfall," which, according to aboriginal tradition, makes girl fall in love with boy. Sure enough, it does.

Meanwhile, Chief Thundercloud rounds up his braves and bumps off the renegades, and the miscreants are wiped out and the silver mines are returned to the tribe and Eddie and Joan stick around to warble together and to teach the papooses to croon the old tribal songs, with a hint of a white papoose in the offing.

A NOTE OF APPRECIATION

It goes without saying that I am very grateful to the many critics who wrote the glowing reviews about "Rendezvous With Annie" and my part in the picture.

Behind this enterprise there is a story, which, for me, is heart warming and inspiring. It concerns three of my friends, Richard Sale, Mary Anita Loos and Allan Dwan.

"Rendezvous With Annie" was their own personal reconversion project for Eddie Albert, planned during the war. Mary and Dick conceived the story as a first vehicle for me upon my separation from the Navy. Allan Dwan, who read the script, agreed with them that this role of Jeff, the bewildered G.I., was tailor-made for my talents, such as they are.

"Annie," it turned out, was not my first picture, but my second. Hal Wallis offered me an immediate role in "The Perfect Marriage," which I was able to finish before the Sale-Loos-Dwan reconversion project got under way at Republic.

I am glad for everybody that it turned out so well—especially glad for me.

All I can say now is "Thanks, Mary, Thanks, Dick and Thanks, Allan."

Eddie Albert

P.S. Thanks, too, to the wonderful guys and gals in the company who made everything so easy.

The ways of sponsors, like the heathen Chinee of Bret Harte, are indeed mysterious—and sometimes not exactly kosher. Let's take the case of Tony Martin, who has been notified by his Bourjois sponsor that he and the show are through at the close of the 26-week cycle three weeks hence. Lack of product is given as the reason and that cannot be questioned. But what can be is the Bourjois method of leaving a guy out on a limb when they knew it was cracking.

Few short weeks ago Martin had a firm offer from Texaco for his own package at $13,500. He implored the head of Bourjois, then in Paris, by trans-Atlantic phone for his release but was turned down with assurance, however, that he would be re-optioned for another 26 weeks. So eager was Martin to get his release so he could take the Texaco deal that he offered Bourjois 13 free guest shots in return for the concession. Bourjois held firm and gave him a verbal renewal of another 26-week cycle. Now one week after Texaco turned from Martin to sign up Eddie Bracken the word comes through that he and the show have been canceled and Bourjois is leaving the air. Is it any wonder that Martin, one of the hottest singing bets in radio and certain to be grabbed up pronto, is a little bewildered by it all.

AUTOLITE OPENER SHORT ON SONG, LONG ON GAB

Plaintive whinnyings from the sox-at-half-mast stables will no doubt be forthcoming as a result of Dick Haymes' third season tee-off for Autolite on CBS last night. Crooner was soloed in only three shorties—"Got the Sun in the Morning," "Those Simple Things" and "To Each His Own"—a well-chosen layout but too short.

Another carp is due for the long-winded intro to "Things," in which Haymes played a guy in dutch with his wife (nicely done, incidentally, by Peggy Weber), when she discovers a locked steel box in his closet. They had promised never to keep any secrets from each other, and here's the big lug hiding things on her. Finally get around to opening it, however—and what does it contain? Right. "A cigarette that bears a lipstick's traces," etc. It was probably the longest lead-up to a tune of the century and, while well written by Tom Adair, was too obvious from the start. Sound effects dept.—especially Pinto Solvig as "General," the family pooch—deserves a nod for its work in the skit.

On the credit side also were Helen Forrest, matching Haymes' fine phrasing note for note in her solo, "Who Told You That Lie?", and in their duet in the "Autolite Opera"; the "Opera" itself (a holdover from last year), built around "Moonlight Bay" and a Gay 90's couple in a canoe, bespeaking the neat teamwork by Adair (words) and Gordon Jenkins (music); smart production by Dick Uhl, for Ruthrauff & Ryan, and Norman MacDonald, for CBS, in waiting till Haymes did his first number before spotting the kickoff plug; and excellent backgrounding by the 4 Hits and a Miss, the chorus, and Jenkins' orch.

But Adair shouldn't take such a long way 'round to the song. The bobby-soxers wanna hear Haymes & Forrest.

BURNS AND ALLEN POUR HOT ONE IN FIRST MAXWELL

Spreading one situation through a half hour show and sustaining the farce without milking or reaching is a trick that many have tried and few achieved. Among the successful ones are George Burns and Gracie Allen, who last night poured their first cupa Maxwell House java out of the new package. To give the comedy team full credit for a clean getaway at a rollicking pace is to by-pass the element that made it possible — the writing. So here and now the bravos shall be shared by Paul Henning, Keith Fowler and Willie Burns, who fashioned the humor that helped make the show that took the first seasonal step in sprightly stride.

The groundwork was a familiar one you'll hear on a lot of first shows, that of vacations and such. On this pouring Burns came home from a retreat in the pines with an allergy that produced incessant sneezing. Food was first ruled out as the allergic trouble-maker, then clothing which verged on a strip tease and finally the root of all evil—money. These situation pieces were cleverly threaded into a running narrative with deviation or detour. Peculiarly for this type of show yucks that brought audience applause punctuated the flippancies, thanks to a tolerant censor who blinked at double meanings in a couple of spots.

Mel Blanc, Meredith Willson and Bill Goodwin proved able foils and the music of Willson was lilting and tuneful. Al Kaye kept vigilant watch over the production and other elements made for an almost perfect blend. Best of the commercials was integrated and the others not too overbearing. One of the plugs was actually applauded—on cue. Birdseye, which last season sponsored Dinah Shore, came in for a hitch hike.

BROADWAY RUNAROUND

By RADIE HARRIS

Greetings from Cape Cod, where I now know why the Puritans went in for bundling! Am writing this communique while sitting in front of an open fireplace in the summer (?) home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Aldrich at East Dennis. I motored up here over the Labor Day week-end for two reasons. First, to spend a few relaxing days recuperating from my Hollywood Runaround, and secondly, because this spot on the south shore of Massachussetts has a very special sentimental memory for me. It was here, just seven summers ago, that I played Cupid to the marriage of a Broadway star who had come here for her first appearance in summer stock, and the managing director of the Cape Playhouse, who was meeting her for the first time—the couple who are still my dear friends because their merger has turned out so successfully, both domestically and professionally—Gertrude Lawrence and Richard Aldrich.

I was fortunate enough to have arrived for this visit to see the next to closing production, "The Man in Possession" starring Gene Raymond and his supporting heroine with the unfamiliar tag of Alexandra Dagma. No theatrical manager had ever heard of her, and certainly no one in the Cape Playhouse opening night audience had. The S.R.O. was all for Gene Raymond, making his first stage appearance in 17 years. Gene, competing with a natural nervousness and a torrential rain that sounded like a backdrop for "Sadie Thompson," nevertheless came through with a smooth, engaging performance that proved his desire to return to Broadway as soon as he is free of his Eagle Lion committments, is not misdirected.

It wasn't until the second act that the unknown Miss Dagmar made her entrance. Her black jersey dinner frock that clung to her slim figure like a mermaid's scale drew the first oohs—then, suddenly someone in the audience involuntarily exclaimed, "My God, it's Gertrude Lawrence!" And for the next few minutes the deafening ovation could almost be heard at Yarmouth.

To me the funniest happening in connection with this surprise coup was the line pulled by the wardrobe mistress, Irene Fagan. She confided to Chan-Sweet, the general manager, that she had got wind of the secret that Gertrude Lawrence was to close the season in Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," but Miss Lawrence didn't want anyone to know about it, so she was using the name of Ilka Chase! Ilka, who is here now, playing "Blithe Spirit" has never been told this story. The rest of the cast are not quite sure whether madame will be amused. I'm printing it because I think she will be, and in return for my confidence in her sense of humor, I hope she'll promise never to play "Elvira" again. As a comedienne of the wisecracking, feline genre, she is tops, but as the bewitching, beguiling femme fatale she now insists on casting herself, she is all wrong, and the sooner she gets back to her own forte, we'll all forgive her "past imperfect."

With "Blithe Spirit," the 20th and most successful season of the Cape Playhouse comes to a close, taking with it another shattering record and an eviable one for all other straw hats. Playing to S.R.O. at every performance (with even the standing room sold in advance), the annual intake averaged $9500 a week. Of all the visiting stars, the most popular, both with audiences and the company itself, was Faye Emerson—and again, I derived a great sense of personal satisfaction from this news, since it was at my suggestion that Faye came to Dennis to make her straw hat debut in "Here Today." Now she is repeating her success at Bucks County next week, and Richard Aldrich hopes to find a new play to star her on Broadway this season.

Gregory Peck was another favorite. Greg is no newcomer to the Playhouse. He was here four years ago in, "You Can't Take It With you." But Fred Stone was the star then and Greg, disguised behind a beaver, played the small comedy part of the scatter-brained ballet teacher. David Selznick, Casey Robinson and RKO weren't vieing for his services then. Autograph fans left him alone while they concentrated on Karen Morey, Sylvia Sidney and Lili Damita. This summer he had to fight his way through hordes of them, who drove from miles around just to have a glimpse of him. Perhaps the youngster who will remember him the rest of her life will be a little crippled girl. Confined to a wheel chair, who attends the Friday matinee of every new play. When Greg was told that she couldn't come back with the rest of the kids, he went to her and chatted with her with no eye on the clock. Only the natives remain unimpressed by the annual arrival of these Hollywood celebs. The spinsterish, typical New England owner of one of the eateries greeted Greg at breakfast the first morning by snorting, "Humph, I don't think you're so good looking!" She did condescend, however, to admit that Jeanette MacDonald had mighty nice coloring.

Jeanette, paying her first visit to the Cape, looked mighty pretty to everyone. She and Gene rented a little cottage where Jeanette played the role of housewife literally. She did all her own chores—including the cooking. Well, I can open cans too! Watching Gene in front of the footlights again inspired Jeanette to want to do a play with him, and before they Chiefed out to Hollywood to-day, they had an appointment with a w.k. producer to discuss the possibility of a co-starring vehicle for them. After all, with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, Howard Lindsay and Dorothy Stickney and Moss Hart and Kitty Carlisle, why not Gene Raymond and Jeanette MacDonald? In the meantime, while the script search is on and Gene is held in Hollywood, Jeanette is hoping that Sonya Levien has completed her musical version of "Reunion in Vienna" which will re-unite her with Nelson Eddy and Leo the Lion.

Of course, overshadowing all the stage and screen visitors was the appearance in the audience last week of Admiral Chester Nimitz, who has a summer home nearby at Wellfleet. It was rather a happy coincidence that the play he had come to see was called "The Man in Possession."

TESTIMONY AIDS FILM COMPANIES N LABOR TRIAL

Testimony tending to support the 10 major film companies currently on trial before the NLRB on charges of unfair labor practices, was offered at yesterday's hearing by Roy Brewer, nternational rep of the IATSE, and B. C. DuVal, business agent for Local 44, Affiliated Property Craftsmen.

Testifying he was present, along with Herbert Sorrell, at the July 2nd strike settlement, Brewer said:

"On the machinists' issue, Sorrell said he was willing to let the decision as to who would represent them be made by the NLRB."

A short session of the trial is slated this morning to permit Duval to complete his testimony.

Play Review

Buffalo, Sept. 5 — If newspaper columnists, their conniving, their egocentric posturing and their alleged power over public opinion can be considered worthy of two hours-plus treatment on the stage, "The Magnificent Heel," which opened here last night, may make the grade on Broadway. Constance O'Hara's play has been given the slick direction and excellent casting of a Brock Pemberton production. But it all rings slightly hollow, if not false.

A columnist is the "Heel" in this play but he is hardly magnificent. His legman steals a U.S. diplomat's diary, lifts quotes and uses them to foment anti-Russian feeling in the nation. The diplomat declares war on the columnist and uncovers the plot before anything serious—or very credible—can happen.

Peggy Wood, Bert Lytell, Edith Meiser, Paul Fielding and Frank Merlin troupe through their roles and manage to conceal some flagrant over-writing. Some cutting in the second and third acts would help a lot.

Scoring 'Temptation'

Final scoring on the Merle Oberon starrer, "Temptation," is being completed at UI. Film will be ready for November release.

SCREEN GUILD SIGNS FOR 12 PIX

Screen Guild Productions yesterday signed a deal with Screen Art Pictures Corp., under which the latter company will produce a minimum of 12 pictures for Screen Guild release during the next 2 years.

Screen Art Pictures is a newly formed independent producing unit owned principally by prominent eastern exhibitors and showmen headed by Arthur Lockwood and Lou Gordon of Boston, Mass. Lockwood is president of the new company, Robert L. Lippert of San Francisco is vice-president, Gordon is secretary and Morris Nunes, formerly in the exhibitor field in Boston, and New Haven, is treasurer.

The first picture to go before the cameras under the Screen Arts banner will be Edward Finney's production "Queen of the Amazons," scheduled for camera date next Tuesday.

FWC Managers Booted From Teamsters Union

Organized Fox West Coast theatre managers were ordered out of the Teamsters union yesterday. Order, effective immediately, came as a surprise to managers and left them on their own to continue fight for recognition from the circuit. It is expected managers will now apply for a federal charter from the American Federation of Labor, a move many have favored and the same step taken by the New York theatre managers union.

Notice that managers could no longer be maintained as members of the Teamsters came from Dave Beck in reply to managers' demand for action in their behalf. Managers had tried for months to make contact with Beck, they declare, without success until telegram sent Monday to Teamster leader by Henry Pines, prexy of managers group, brought yesterday's unexpected ouster.

Beck's rebuff is expected to serve to tighten managers' determination for circuit recognition. Board of directors meets this afternoon to decide on steps it will take to continue the fight. It is expected it will act on proposal to apply for an AFL federal charter, possibly tying in with the New York managers union for added strength.

Pines' wire to Beck charged that Ray Leheney, trustee for Theatrical Services, Drivers & Helpers, Local 266, under which managers came, had refused to do anything on behalf of the local, claiming to be "trustee in name only." Wire stated that managers fear reprisals from FWC for organizing activities via discriminations and dismissals. It also asserted that Charles P. Skouras, FWC prexy, has "openly stated that the managers' union is beaten." Pines told Beck that managers would continue to fight, even though alone, if Teamsters withdrew support.

ENTERPRISE FILES BID TO ERECT 250G STAGE

Enterprise has filed application with the Civilian Production Administration for permit to construct a new sound stage. Blueprint calls for the projected $250,000 structure to be fitted with all latest technical developments. Stage currently under construction at the studio is expected to be completed by October 1 and ready shortly after for production chores.

1ST INTERNATIONAL SNEAK SET FOR 'LONDON TOWN'

New York, Sept. 5.—Arthur Rank will put on first international sneak preview ever staged with "London Town," which Wesley Ruggles produced for him. Ruggles arrived from London today to run show and went into immediate huddle with Rank execs here on plans for other sneaks in various parts of the country.

Ruggles stated he believes all big films should be edited for specific markets, when produced in a different country. He expects to stay in New York one week, fly to Hollywood for another week, then return to London for final re-editing of "Town."

Patricia Roc Cast In British Film

London, Sept. 5.—Patricia Roc, who recently returned here after jaunt to Hollywood to appear in Walter Wanger's "Canyon Passage," draws one of top roles in "So Well Remembered," which RKO is filming in England under RKO-J. Arthur Rank affiliation. She joins Martha Scott and John Mills, in star roles.

Rhumba Contest

Tom Breneman's restaurant has booked an added attraction for Sunday nights, starting next Sunday. The dance team of Nadine and Roy Bruce will put on a rhumba contest for the customers to Eddie LeBaron's music, with prizes for the winners.

'Central Park' Troupe Parades Like Minstrels of Long Ago

Brows high or low, the Hollywood Bowl went into typical hall-show bally routine for the comeon to opening of Mike Todd's "Up in Central Park" last night. It's the first time on record that Hollywood was treated to a street pitch for a Bowl event.

Show's entire cast of 300 paraded the boulevard with three bands, torchlight section, bright costumed drum majors and what-have-you, just like the old time rep and minstrel troupes. Being a Hollywood stunt, though, the show company couldn't keep out added attractions. Or mebbe they made a bid for them.

Anyway, the crowd on the Boule Brush-off got to see Leo Carrillo on horseback in full charro costume again and a gander at Sid Grauman, official greeter for the occasion, billed on the parade banners as "Hollywood's No. 1 Showman" greeting the No. 1 showman of Broadway.

Parade also had the edge on the old time street procession in numbers and flamboyance of costume.

The high bicyclists, one of the features of the Todd show, were prominent in the line of march as was a bagpipe band of the Clan McLean, a troupe of tumbling Zouaves. An old time fire engine, drawn by 15 volunteer firemen and ridden by Wilbur Evans and Maureen Cannon, romantic stars of the production, was another feature.

Only motorized equipment in the parade was a truck carrying the float of the International Union of Operating Engineers, displaying a Currier and Ives skating ballet.

State Dept. Film Aide Lauds Johnston Tour of Europe

Washington, Sept. 5.—Eric Johnston's proposed six-week tour of European capitals is one of the best public relations moves the film industry could take at this time, according to George Canty, chief of the State Department's motion picture section of the commercial policy division. He added that the trip is well-timed from the point of U.S. pictures relations abroad. Johnston leaves for Europe about Sept. 23, with his aide, Joyce O'Hara accompanying.

CAROL REED, ACE BRITISH DIRECTOR ENROUTE HERE

New York, Sept. 5.—Carol Reed, top British director, arrived today from London via Clipper with Jimmy McHugh, Jr., London MCA head, enroute to Hollywood on his first stateside visit since 1938. While stopping over here, he will attend Universal luncheon tossed for him tomorrow.

Reed is scheduled to direct Skirball-Manning picture, "Portrait in Black," Joan Crawford starrer, and flies to Coast on Sunday with Jack Skirball for month. He returns in December when "Portrait" goes before cameras.

Bruce Manning, also here, will stay on for huddles with Oscar Hammerstein II on production plans for Hammerstein-Kern musical, "Sunny River," which S-M will produce for Universal-International release.

Par To Launch District Meetings

Portland, Sept. 5.—First of series of West Coast district meetings will be launched here tomorrow by Paramount. Subsequent meets will be held in Seattle, Sept. 9-10; San Francisco, Sept. 12-13; and Los Angeles, Sept. 16-17.

TRENET YOCKS 'EM IN AISLES IN CIRO BOW

Charles Trenet, bouncing Gallic Groaner, is making his Hollywood bow at Ciro's, and it's the right spot for showcasing the guy's intime way with a tune. Sandy blonde six-footer's delivery, embroidered with oo-la-la gestures, hat-crushings and orb-rollings aimed primarily at the femme trade but also plenty acceptable to the tab retrievers, falls somewhere between the exuberance of Maurice Chevalier and Jan Sablon's more restrained song-selling. In for two weeks, there should be enough collectors of his foreign-made discs around—not to mention the film colony's French contingent—to make it a profitable engagement.

Ninety per cent of Trenet's stuff is in his native tongue, most outstanding being "Pres de Toi, Mon Amour," "Boum," and "Fleur Bleue." Some idea of his ability to adlib his way to solid yocks was in evidence at the opener, when he left Don Wood's ork behind in "Je Chante," broke off to bid them cease and desist, and then went it alone. Also interpolated some most acceptable English in "I Don't Know Why" (nee "Je Ne Sais Pas"), and in a new one, "Chanson d'Amour." Latter, like most of his songs, is original, and very listenable.

On the floor a half-hour, he could have stayed longer, and was probably smart to turn down an encore. Too much parlay-vooing is too much in any man's lingo but notably in that of the faker who pretends to be understanding every word and doesn't—and there are a lot of the latter around. Add 'em to the list of those who'll make it a lush date for the ingratiating Parisian.

Film Biz Jewish Fund Over Top

The motion picture industry's drive to raise $1,000,000 as part of the United Jewish Welfare Fund's city-wide $5,000,000 campaign has gone over the top, it was announced today by Walter Wanger, film division chairman.

The division raised $1,078,925, contributed by 4,883 subscribers, thus accounting for more than 20 per cent of the total $5,071,355 raised in the over-all Welfare Fund campaign. The Welfare Fund, under President Joseph M. Schenck, topped all its previous records in exceeding its quota.

An Invitation to

All I.A.T.S.E. Members

The Motion Picture Costumers, Local No. 705, will hold a membership meeting to discuss the present status of our contract negotiations at the

HOLLYWOOD AMERICAN LEGION STADIUM

8 p.m.

Wednesday, Sept. 11th, 1946

We are extending this invitation so that all members of the Alliance, as well as Local & International officials, may have an opportunity to understand our wage demands and contract problems.

An agreement was reached at the Beverly Hills meeting to correct wage inequities, especially in the low paid brackets.

Tremendous increases in the costs of food and clothing indicate that the cost of living has risen more in proportion for low paid employees than for those in higher brackets. Yet increases offered our weekly people are from $10.00 to $40.00 less than raises granted other production crafts.

This has created greater inequities and we have requested further meetings with the producers, even though we have apparently reached a dead-lock.

WE WANT YOU TO UNDERSTAND OUR PROBLEMS. WE ARE ANXIOUS TO UNDERSTAND YOURS AND COOPERATE WITH ANY LOCAL THAT HAS SIMILAR PROBLEMS. WE BELIEVE THAT ALL INEQUITIES MUST BE CORRECTED NOW WHILE PROFITS ARE HIGH. WE BELIEVE THAT THEY CAN BE CORRECTED BY MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING AND COOPERATION.

YOUR I.A.T.S.E. CARD WILL ADMIT YOU.

ONLY I.A.T.S.E. MEMBERS WILL BE ADMITTED.

Fraternally yours,
Executive Board,
Motion Picture Costumers,
Local No. 705.

PRC EMPLOYEES TOLD OF NEW BONUS PLAN

PRC will inaugurate a bonus and employe profit-sharing program January 1, 1947. Lloyd L. Lind, company's veepee and assistant general sales manager, announced the plan yesterday at final session of the PRC annual sales convention in Atlantic City.

Entire plan is designed to augment income of sales department personnel in direct proportion of amount of company business. Beneficiaries of the plan will include branch managers, district managers, salesmen, bookers and exchange managers. Program will be operative 52 weeks in the year and will be tagged PRC's "52 Club."

Set to Set

Lizabeth Scott is beginning to learn what it means to be a star. She wound up her co-star role opposite Humphrey Bogart last night in Columbia's "Dead Reckoning," and starts her portrayal this ayem in Hal Wallis' "Desert Town." She had planned week's rest between two stints, but abandoned this so Paramount picture could maintain its tight schedule.

ing capacity and slow turnover on the long show is likely to mitigate against the British opus. "Beaucaire" racked up the biggest opening day ever experienced by the Paramount, aided by Charlie Spivak's orch, Peggy Lee and others on stage.

"The Killers," which finished its first week at the Winter Garden, went over the most optimistic estimates with $74,000. It continues near that terrific pace on the second week, started yesterday, and is using a nearly 24-hour grind. Morning show goes on at 4:30 a.m. "Claudia and David," with Vivian Blaine and Jerry Colonna on stage at the Roxy, went to $118,000 on the third frame, beating second week. This gives it $362,000 on the first three weeks, an all-time high for the house. "Notorious" started fourth frame today after a colossal $162,000 on the third week at the Music Hall.

PRC TO MAKE 29 FEATURES, 14 OAT EPICS FOR 1947

Atlantic City, Sept. 5.—PRC has mapped a 1946-47 production program of 29 features and 14 westerns, prexy Harry H. Thomas announced today at third day of company's national sales conclave here. Season's slate will be headed by 12 films produced by Eagle-Lion, with each of these to have negative cost of at least $500,000.

At least three, and likely more, of year's product will be filmed in Cinecolor, Thomas stated. Two of these will be "Son of Casanova" and "The Red Stallion."

Westerns will include six Eddie Dean outdoor musicals, and eight action saddlers featuring Al La Rue and Al (Fuzzy) St. John.

Lineup of features will include several series. There will be three "Michael Shayne" mysteries, same number of "Philo Vance" whodunits and two "Gas House Kids" stories. "Her Sister's Secret," Nancy Coleman starrer made more than a year ago before Eagle-Lion took over studio, is ready for release. Balance of product is divided between melodramas and musicals.

the court, the government declares "competitive effect of the practices heretofore found illegal may not now be eliminated by mere injunctive provisions to future methods of doing business." Statement is an implied claim that the auction selling method proposed by the court will not cure alleged Sherman Act violations.

The government, setting up a basis for appeal, bluntly demands court findings that "divorcement of major defendants from their theatre interests is necessary to give legally adequate relief in this suit." In a long list of added findings, the government sets forth detailed statistics in an attempt to prove that, although the Big Five do not have a majority of theatres, they control the most important first run houses and through these dominate the entire exhibition field.

E-L Pic Set Back

Starting date of Eagle-Lion's Cinecolor production, "The Red Stallion," has been set back two weeks to Sept. 23 by Producer Ben Stoloff. Les Selander will direct.

NEW MEXICO RANCH

48,000 acres 85 miles north of Santa Fe, elevation 7900 ft. It is a part of the famous Tierra Amarilla Spanish land grant made in 1832. Only 3 owners since then.

Situated in the beautiful Chama River Valley, near the Colorado border where the grandeur of the rolling hills on the ranch and the snow-capped peaks bordering it, is something that mere words could never capture.

Borders El Vado Dam which has the finest trout fishing, and in addition thereto this country is known as a hunter's paradise where bear, elk, quail, geese, etc., are plentiful. This would be an ideal spot for a dude ranch, lodge, or country club with plenty of room for an airfield.

Timber cruise just made shows over five million board feet of standing timber.

Two oil faults are located on this property and as a result thereof this should afford some romance to the red-blooded speculator.

Property has no buildings thereon as the ranch has been used for grazing only. To be made into a cattle ranch, some soil conservation work should be done.

Through proper utilization of methods now available and judicial spending of a sum of money comparatively small in ratio to the potential value, this ranch will show an over-all potential return to justify the sales price.

An oil operator has wired from New Mexico that he desires a contract for oil drilling lease and will make preliminary core tests costing approx. $50,000.00 but present owner would rather sell or trade now. Property is clear.

This looks like a good speculation at only $8.50 per acre, or $400,000.00, including all mineral and timber rights.

If interested, please call or write for statement.

Screen Extras Veto Producers' Offer

Screen Extras Guild rejected the contract offered by producers last night at a Legion stadium mass meeting. Wage clause of the proposed contract was not at issue, but rejection was based on retroactive pay clause proposed by producers going back to Jan. 1, 1946, while the union wants Jan. 1, 1945, as the retroactive date. Another reason for rejection was cost of living clause.

Margo Jones Here On Bergman Legiter

Margo Jones arrived yesterday from New York for pre-rehearsal confabs with Ingrid Bergman on Playwrights Co. production of Maxwell Anderson's "Joan of Lorraine," in which actress will star on Broadway this fall. Miss Jones will direct star in stage piece, and will be here several weeks. Actress is set to leave for New York on Oct. 4, to start prepping stage show.

'Outlaw' Seal Revoked; Big Court Fight Looms

Production Code seal on "The Outlaw" has been revoked by Joseph I. Breen. Action climaxes months of fighting between Code Administration and Howard Hughes over advertising and publicity material used to exploit picture. Seal yanking is without precedent in the industry.

Revocation notice, sent Hughes Friday via registered letter, orders producer to immediately surrender Certificate of Approval No. 7440, issued May 23, 1941, and gives him seven

PIC BIZ HOLDS ON B'DWAY

New York, Sept. 8. — Despite rumblings of a post-Labor Day slump from several quarters, week-end Broadway business looks headed to nice returns.

Kids' return to school hurt some, but fact that locals now are staying home week-ends more than compensates for tourist decline.

Palace with "Crack-Up," and Criterion with "I'll Always Love You," are doing fairly well, but nowhere near previous openers. Only other opener, "Beaucaire" at the Paramount, looks very big, backed by Charlie Spivak ork and Peggy Lee on the stage.

"Notorious" at Music Hall continues big in fourth week.

CPA NIX ON FWC THEATRE

Washington, Sept. 8. — Civilian Production Administration has turned down request by Fox West Coast Agency for approval to construct a $125,000 theatre project in the Los Angeles area. Circuit had already been turned down by the regional CPA board and case was up for appeal. The LA project was one of the 16 theatre building requests nixed in past week by CPA here.

Todd Takes Chance in Bowl; Chill Hits 'Central Park'

The experiment of staging a Broadway hit legiter in the Hollywood Bowl evoked a difference of opinion among frigid first nighters Saturday there for "Up in Central Park." Take a chance Mike Todd took over the huge stadium and was aware that it was hazardous because of which he conducted a ballyhoo unprecedented for musical comedy but he did not figure on chilly September nights. If the temperature doesn't moderate it's hard to see how it can profitably operate for 22 nights.

It is certain that there are disadvantages in presenting a show designed for the theatre on so vast a platform-like stage. The actors found it difficult to make entrances and exits. They had to handle some of the props them-

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

THERE may still be a grave shortage of housing in the war-boom Los Angeles area, but what housing there is has done away with the old custom of filming "open prairie" scenes on such time-tested favorite locations as San Fernando Valley. Check by RKO location department discloses that new buildings, or their beginnings, are within camera shot of every bit of Los Angeles County out there where, just before the war, it was possible to film "open range" for outdoor pictures. Pian had been to shoot exteriors for studio's "Trail Street" on some Valley location, but after searching vainly for suitable site, due to this building, company had to go to vicinity of Bakersfield for bit of Kansas prairie scenery.

BANDLEADER was recently given hurried and impressive pitch by a film director of picture now in making over telephone. Director said story had progressed to point where vet maestro entered on music scene 20-odd years ago and that production couldn't go on without him. Salary and other considerations were all settled on 'phone and bandsman entered office dates, etc., to hustle to studio to sign contract. When director entered office after leader announced himself he did a triple take. He had unknowingly been talking to a white man and all the while had been thinking in terms of a sepian. No deal.

HAL Wallis is musing likelihood of entering Broadway stage production and in all probability will present "Most Likely to Succeed," unproduced play by Michael Robinson which he purchased some time ago for his Paramount schedule. Plan now is to put play on eastern stage before filming it for screen. Wallis will use Wendell Corey, under contract and now in "Desert Town," for lead, with play to be staged sometime early next year, probably before producer leaves for England to make "For Her to See." If project is satisfactory, Wallis will repeat with other unproduced plays he acquires, prior to their picturization.

ENTERPRISE, which had originally put budget of approximately $1,500,000 on "The Other Love," Erich Remarque story to co-star Barbara Stanwyck and David Niven, added another half million dollars to scheduled budget, studio announced over weekend, when final script was turned in. Picture will have extensive locations, with strong possibility the two stars may plane to Switzerland with a crew for scenes there. Number of sequences were written into finished screnplay which had not previously been planned.

METRO dropped quintet of its femme players during past month. Ilona Massey, after scoring solidly in "Holiday in Mexico," was dropped from contract list, and Pat Kirkwood, brought here from England specially for femme lead opposite Van Johnson in "No Leave, No Love," followed. Frances Rafferty, on roster for nearly five years, also was not re-optioned, same true of Jacqueline White and Pamela Britton. John Carroll two weeks ago voluntarily asked for and received his release.

LIGHT-WEIGHT mike boom, newly designed by the Warner Bros. sound department under supervision of Col. Nathan Levinson, has been put to work on "Love and Learn" for the first time. Boom permits working in small sets and tight places hitherto unable to be reached with the ordinary types. New gimmick is less than half the size of the regular sets, and the blueprints and construction details have been in demand by other film companies and television studios.

Edward Buzzell's option was lifted by Metro for an additional two years. Metro director is preparing "The Song of the Thin Man," William Powell-Myrna Loy starrer scheduled to roll about November 1.

As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

One of the discouraging aspects of trying to work out a European peace is the tendency of the Communists to make use of every possible opportunity to attack the United States in the role of the capitalists, and cheer Russia as the untarnished hero. Take that Communist-government-led demonstration in Moscow, which also took the opportunity to raid the Mikolajczyk newspaper offices, and at which Vice Premier Gromylka said: "The United States is giving the Germans hope they can rise again" and "The Soviets are our greatest friends." The complaint was Byrnes' suggestion that the German areas over which Poland had been given control might not all remain Polish. In saying that, Gromylka disregarded the fact that the Russians and the Communists in the Russian-occupied zone of Germany have been telling the Germans there, as they go to the polls in the current elections: "Be good boys. Vote the Unity (Communist) ticket. And you'll get a revision of the eastern frontiers." The trouble was that we were forthright and open.

"Decoy" stacks up as first-rate tertainment, type which should nd wide response in Monogram's arket. Film starts off on a note of uspense which is maintained hroughout its 76 minutes of action, nd plot carries novel twist to early trigue the interest, after spectator rasps story thread. Jean Gillie, new-omer from England, co-stars with dward Norris, but most memorable erformance is turned in by Sheldon eonard as detective who flits in and ut of narrative.

This is the story built up around a true incident in the past, of the murders leading up to recovery of a box supposedly holding a fortune in stolen bank funds, but which actually contains only a one-dollar bill with a note to effect that this is all that's coming to the doublecrossers who find the expected trove. Neatly contrived plot is woven around this idea, with Miss Gillie the double-crossing gal friend of Robert Armstrong, who hid the box. Armstrong goes to his death in gas chamber with secret of money's location carried with him, but through use of a new drug he is brought back to life, to provide gal with map before he is shot by gal's lover, Norris.

Screenplay as written by Ned Young from Stanley Rubin's original lends credence to motivating idea and Jack Bernhard's direction graphically paints scene for best melodramatic effect. Film is a credit to showmanship of Bernhard and Bernhard-Brandt, who co-produced, pair endowing picture with values which will show at box-office. As photographed by L. W. O'Connell, suspense is heightened, musical score of Edward J. Kay also contributing materially to this buildup.

Miss Gillie displays an interesting presence for her first American picture, and Norris offers his customary smooth portrayal. Leonard is particularly effective as plainclothes man and doctor who brings Armstrong back to life is strongly enacted by Herbert Rudley. Armstrong likewise delivers. Balance of cast are adequate.

FWC Managers Revive Old Labor Organization

Old Associated Theatre Operating Managers has been revived by organized Fox West Coast managers following their ouster from the Teamsters Union. Re-established ATOM will be used to press managers demands for recognition from FWC. Group will petition National Labor Relations Board for certification as bargaining agent for manager membership of approximately 185.

Among contract demands to be made on the circuit are improved salary and working conditions, scaling of theatres according to run and seating capacities to determine pay rates, elimination of many duties not properly executive such as carrying film from sidewalks to projection booths, making repairs and other janitorial functions.

Old ATOM board was installed at meeting last Friday. Heading officer list of organization is Henry Pines, prexy; George Miller, vice prexy; James Moran, secretary, and Louis Vega, treasurer. Mass meeting has been called for 1 a.m. Wednesday morning to discuss renewed organizational plans with members. Pines has been authorized to contact George Dunn of the New York managers union for cooperation on move to obtain a federal charter from American Federation of Labor.

ATOM plans an extensive campaign to acquaint the industry and public with alleged abuses and actions of circuit in assertedly trying to stymie union activities of managers.

'Barnaby-O'Malley' Drama Needs Tightening, Rewriting

Wilmington, Sept. 8.—"Barnaby and Mr. O'Malley," dramatized from the Crockett Johnson comic strip by Jerome Chodorov, needs tightening and rewriting by the author and much more rehearsal in the special effects department before it's ready for Broadway. Opening at the Playhouse here was gummed by difficulties with the intricate lighting effects.

Play concerns campaign of Barnaby's father for Congress, and how Mr. O'Malley, Barnaby's ethereal godfather, at first complicates it, then insures success. First act is slow and talky, and the second stanza also needs trimming.

J. M. Kerrigan is competent as Mr. O'Malley and seven-year-old Thomas Hamilton is okay in the long and difficult role of Barnaby. Iris Mann is excellent in another kid role. Barney Josephson and James Proctor produced, and Charles Friedman directed.

'Legend of Lou' Comes to Slow Boil in Detroit Bow

Detroit, Sept. 8.—"Legend of Lou," written by Stephen Gross and presented by Arthur Grossman, is a hodge-podge of melodrama, farce and low comedy which rarely comes to a boil.

"Lou" is a Nob Hill beldame who runs a gambling syndicate on the sly while openly espousing spectacular charities. Her stuffed-shirt son crusades against gambling houses and her daughter is a retired strip-teaser. Crisis comes when her old Alaskan playmate, Klondike, is paroled from a murder rap and shows up to make an honest woman of her and legitimize her offspring. Light treatment of illegitimacy doesn't come off as comedy.

Jane Darwell and Tom Tully do their best as the pair whose love affair extends from Alaska to San Francisco. Lyle Talbot deserves better than the pompous son role. Elena Verdugo shows plenty of potentialities.

Howard Alumni

It looks like a Joseph E. Howard alumi meeting on the set of 20th-Fox's "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," which is based on the music of the 82-year-old troubador. Prominent in the cast of the musical tinter are the following players who appeared on the same stage with Howard in his professional hey-day: Lew Hearn, John "Skins" Miller, Edward Clark, Harry Seymour, William Frawley, Lewis Russell, Sam Ash, Eddie Borden and George Cleveland. In addition, Lloyd Bacon, who is directing, and George Jessel, who is producing the film, also appeared on the stage with Howard.

CAST—Gail Russell, Claire Trevor, Ann Dvorak, Adolphe Menjou, Billie Burke, Jane Wyatt, Eugene List, Damian O'Flynn, John Whitney, Russell Hicks, Earl Hodgins, Madge Crane, Bill Kennedy, Richard Hageman, Igor Diega.

PREVIEWED at Forum Theatre, Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 6, 1946. Running time: 90 MINS.

"The Bachelor's Daughters" is romantic comedy that combines the bid for laughs with sentimental appeal. The show is one that will catch on with the femme audience particularly. Inclusion in the cast of Eugene List, who won prominence as a concert pianist by playing for the President, Stalin and the other big shots at Potsdam, makes for exploitation possibilities. Other cast names — Adolphe Menjou, Billie Burke, Ann Dvorak, Claire Trevor, Jane Wyatt and Gail Russell—have some box office pull and picture should do good business.

Menjou as the "bachelor" of the title, a crusty, somewhat miserly, but elegantly appointed and fundamentally good-hearted floor walker, gives an excellent performance, as does Billie Burke in the femme character lead.

The four "daughters" — Misses Russell, Trevor, Dvorak and Wyatt—handle their parts convincingly, with the heaviest acting chores being carried by Miss Russell and Miss Trevor. List's piano numbers add definitely to the entertainment and his part fortunately calls for minimum of acting.

The picture tells the story of four department store gals, one of whom seeks a stage career as a singer. The others dream longingly of getting wealthy husbands. Miss Dvorak, in an unsuccessful attempt to get an audition from a theatrical producer (played by Russell Hicks) finds a spacious house to rent next door to his home. The girls decide to pool their resources, move in and pose as a wealthy family. They talk Menjou into joining them as "father" of the family and Miss Burke (store employe just retired on pension) as "mother." Complications continue in a mixture of laughs and tears from there on until Miss Dvorak gets her stage career and Miss Russell and Miss Wyatt their husbands. Miss Trevor, who engages in a little double-crossing, but comes up true blue in the end, misses out, having hooked onto the wealthiest, but least marrying, man of the piece.

Andrew Stone, as producer, director, and writer has given the show smart production. Script and direction are adequately handled. The story moves jerkily in spots and some of the sequences are paced too slowly. Camera work by Theodor Sparkuhl is standard.

METRO CHECKERS TO WORK FROM BRANCH OFFICES

New York, Sept. 8.—Division of Metro's checking department into six regional offices has been completed by William Brenner, head of the department. Checkers, instead of being responsible to the home office as heretofore, will now work directly from offices established in New York, Los Angeles, Kansas City, Cleveland, Omaha, and Boston.

System, Brenner thinks, will be better since division chiefs know the problems in the field and will be better able to assign checkers to the necessary locations. System has been in the works for the past two years. Metro, only major not affiliated with Confidential Reports, Inc., presently has more than 100 checkers on a salaried basis.

THE GRAPEVINE: Get ready to duck, fellers. Muckraking into the amusement industry having been found to be highly profitable—see sales figures on "The Hucksters"— a literary scalpel has been wielded on Hollywood this time, resulting in "The Golden Egg." It's concerned with the rise of a Hollywood dynasty, not always by ethical means, and will be published by Henry Holt Sept. 26. Author is Jimmy Pollak, who headed RKO's trailer department for ten years. He's the son of Joe Pollak who operated National Screen Service until he sold out to Herman Robbins . . . Talk of the town over the weekend was the New Yorker's cover-to-cover story on Hiroshima, giving the first detailed account of the impact of the first atomic bomb . . . You can get anything in an American drug store from a six-course dinner to a tool chest, but usually you have to provide your own entertainment. Not so at Schwab's drug store, come Thursday night. Sidney Skolsky, postmaster and mayor of Sunset and Laurel Canyon, is previewing his own production, "The Jolson Story" amid the sunglasses and ice cream cones. Everything will be cut down to Skolsky size, of course. There will be baby bleachers on the sidewalk outside Schwab's and a baby spotlight to pick out the celebrities . . . Gary Cooper has a job of gift-shopping on his hands. His daughter, Maria, will be nine years old Sept. 15. And his father, Judge Charles M. Cooper, will be nine times nine the same day.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Tradepaper reporter came across Butch Jenkins while the lad was bouncing a ball off one of the soundstage walls on the Metro lot. "Having a good time?" he asked Butch. Latter looked at the reporter disdainfully. "Ask the publicity department," he suggested . . . On the night Dolores Moran eloped with Ben Bogeaus, Warners previewed "The Man I Love," in which the bride appeared. One line of her dialogue was "I can't stand men" . . . Incidentally Bogeaus' flackery is getting a little excited over "The Short Happy Life of Francis Macomber," which he produced with Casey Robinson. Claim is put out that the film, much of which has an African background, will be given "a special pre-screening" for the Professional Hunters and Guides Clubs of Nairobi . . . When Hedda Hopper visited "The Emperor Waltz" set at Paramount the other day, Billy Wilder rushed over to her and cried, "I've got a great scoop for you. Charlie Brackett has just eloped with Lady Mendl!" . . . Red Skelton and Virginia O'Brien were rehearsing a scene in "Merton of the Movies," in which the comic converses with several trained squirrels. During rehearsal one of the squirrels kept tugging at Red's sleeve as if trying to lead him somewhere. "Where do you suppose he wants me to go?" asked Red. "He probably wants to take you home and store you for the winter," Miss O'Brien cracked.

CALL SHEET: HENRY GINSBERG hosted Tony Redding, Paramount's exploitation head in England, at a cocktail party at the studio . . . PETE SMITH had a birthday Sept. 5 and scores of cakes came to him from all corners of the map. Pete finally threw his door open to all the neighborhood kids and invited them to help dispose of the cakes. Now the kids are still clustered around hopefully but the cake has run out, a circumstance which is probably going to cost Mr. Smith some money . . . PAUL GERARD SMITH has turned out a play titled "Bumseye View" . . . JOHN MURRAY, writer on the Red Skelton program, was made an honorary citizen of Boy's Town when he recently visited Father Flanagan's Nebraska refuge . . . REMY HUDSON, Eddie Albert Productions prexy, has bought himself a home in Bel Air . . . TONY MARTIN has turned to Lana Turner, his romance with Rita Hayworth apparently ended, and took her to dinner at The Kings the other night. Few diners recognized her with dark hair and extra poundage . . . CHARLEY FOY is recuperating from recent surgery aboard the yacht of Leroy Hillman and Joan Barclay . . . LYMAN GARBER, theatrical attorney, has shed his Marine captain's uniform and set up Bevhills offices . . . ROBERT RISKIN Wants Ruth Warrick for the role opposite Jimmy Stewart in "Magic Town" . . . JANE POWELL played hostess to Gov. Warren's three children, Bobbie, Dorothy and Nina, Saturday at Metro.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Janet Leigh, who was discovered by Norma Shearer and given the lead opposite Van Johnson in "Romance of Rosy Ridge," is getting an unglamorous break-in to show business. Her first scene had her milking a cow. Then comes a barnyard sequence with more animals in the supporting cast. Director Roy Rowland believes it will be next week before she gets around to Van Johnson . . . Ingratitude dept., brasshat division: After three years of entertaining troops in Europe, Marlene Dietrich received nary a thank-you note from the War Department's Special Services division . . . New twosomes: Marty Holland, the mystery writer (and a girl despite her name) and Robert Clarke, RKO contract player. John Alvin and Adela Mara . . . California will offer competition to the Atlantic City beauty contest. Hundred beauties from American cities and a few foreign countries will compete for the "Miss Cheesecake" title here Oct. 28 and 29. Winner gets a screen test to be produced by a crew including Harold Schuster, director; Peverell Marley, cameraman; Wally Westmore, makeup; Josephone Dillon, dramatic coach, and Tom Kelley, portrait photographer . . . Russell Crouse is quoted in an interview as saying, "I may be prejudiced but I think 'Life with Father' is the best picture I've ever seen!"—D.D.T.

WEEKLY VARIETY

"There is something in this to entertain every one in the family. Altogether a satisfying, delightful light comedy. The production of Joe Pasternak is excellent and the direction is well handled."

SHOWMENS TRADE REVIEW

"The Pasternak touches—the enormously delightful exuberance of its terrific cast and some very sharp, very hep direction are what make it the sensational attraction it will be. Martin is at his best when working directly and personally, and with rare intelligent feeling, with his star and featured player principals. There are not many creators can extract such maximum warmth from individual scenes and moments, and it speaks of a happy harmony between director and cast. When Mr. Martin is able to get down on paper as much quality as he gets down on the sound stage we shall have a great new name in the ranks. As it is, his is still one of the most striking directorial debuts in some years"

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

"The three or four basic elements of screenplay writing of 'No Leave, No Love' have been embroidered with new twists and new intrusions. What evolves is close on to two solid hours of light comedy, music, featherweight drama, romance and general gaiety. Plenty of sock elements in this one should send the customers away happy."

'LIFE OF RILEY' LINES EASY ON LAUGHMETER

First script for the new season's "Life of Riley" on NBC Saturday night came nowhere near any of last season's laugh-wise, possibly because only two writers, Alan Lipscott and Reuben Ship, hacked it out, with Larry Rhine and Jack Brecher skedded to make it a foursome for subsequent airings of the Irving Brecher package. Latter two scribblers had better hurry, however; otherwise the Biow agency will be sending up rockets.

Cast did okay with what they had, especially Bill Bendix. Back from their vacation, the Rileys (Paula Winslow as "Dumplin'," Tommy Cook as "Junior," and Sharon Douglas as "Babs") were busted, and Riley had to turn some coin in a hurry. In a great hail of "berjerks" (see "Duffy's Tavern" for the inspiration), "catapostrophes" (see Jimmy Durante), and "doubtin' tomcats" (see "Easy Aces"), he finally snagged what he thought was a job as assistant manager at the factory, only to wind up polishing the real a.m.'s desk.

"Teel is for a beautiful smile," said the announcer Ken Carpenter, "and 'The Life of Riley' is for laughs," but that latter statement is going to take a lot of proving.

By JACK HELLMAN

You've seen those inter-office memos from some high brass leading off with, "It again becomes necessary to call attention . . ." etc. Well, here's a little memo to the memo writers in the ad agencies: You're piling on the commercials too thick. Yes, we know, you're allowed three minutes for "Sponsor's message" on a half hour show but does that mean you have to use it all up? Have you noticed the ads taken by agencies to advertise themselves? If you have you know that even though a full page was bought they use only about half for type and art to frame it for easy reading.

Admen are pushovers for research and surveys but they never seem to have gotten around to listenership, if that's the counterpart, for this purpose, of readership. Let one of them walk into the average home where the family group is gathered around the receiving set and what happens when the pitchman starts his spiel? They all fall to bits of conversation about what's been on the program so far and pay no attention to some of the silly come-on about why one cigaret will kill you off young and the other will give you pleasure to a ripe old age. What's wrong with "Old Chesty is a good cigarette"? And better still, integrate it into the continuity instead of dragging it in by the heels. (What's this guy doing out of the ad biz?) And while we're on the subject of plug-uglies, the commission men should think twice before breaking into a dramatic piece midway for a hunk of selling. Most people resent it and it's definitely not good radio.

Sure the advertiser is entitled to have his say but we just don't think he's doing it smartly. We've never heard of anyone resenting a page ad in the Satevepost.

Chain breaks . . . Glenhall Taylor produces the Frank Morgan program on its moveover from Ruthrauff & Ryan to Foote, Cone & Belding. His Ayer deal allows him an outside show. An offer has also gone out to Bob Ballin to continue as producer of the Jack Benny show, also switched from R & R to FCB. He's one of the top execs of the R & R Hollywood office but understood Benny has put in a bid for him . . . Ralph Edwards is still interviewing directors for "Truth or Consequences" as replacement for Bill Burch, who went on the R & R production roster . . . Billy Wilgus, who will sit at the controls of the Dinah Shore stanza, was a singer with Ben Bernie's band a dozen years ago . . . Emerson Foote heatedly denies that any commitment, verbal or otherwise, was made by Bourjois to Tony Martin to take effect at the close of the 26-week cycle. No renewal was mentioned, says Foote, who adds that it is unfortunate for Martin that the cancellation came after most of the fall shows had been bought . . . Walter Schwimmer (& Scott) here from Chicago to lay out spot campaign for Modern Screen, which account was recently acquired by his agency . . . CBS may have to rent space at KFWB for three or more shows, the seasonal load to date being 10 more than at this time last year.

Pressing need of fresh comedy and stooge characters is becoming more and more apparent judging from many of the programs that have cut their seasonal teeth. The barrier has been sprung on a half dozen shows that offered little change in cast from last or even previous seasons. That a certain tiredness is beginning to show around the edges cannot be gainsaid and an awareness of the situation is becoming increasingly evident. At least two producers are shopping around for mimics with a fresh approach who would be helpful to the show and welcomed by the listeners. It's not to be inferred that the many who fall into this category are lacking in talent but an occasional change is good for all concerned. They don't change restaurant menus just for the fun of it. So far not one new character has broken out of the new season package and comics with a bent for varsatility now have their big chance to hit pay dirt.

Hitch hikes . . . It is now definite and conclusive that Larry Berns remains at the production helm of the Jack Carson show. Diana Bourbon, who handled the program during Berns' illness, continues as head of the Hollywood office for Ward Wheelock . . . Rudy Vallee will don the professional robes at USC to wise up the studes on the production of variety programs . . . Hedda Hopper's Camay soap session, "This Is Hollywood," tees up on CBS Oct. 5 with "The Seventh Veil," starring Ray Milland with Ann Todd. Follow-upper stars Paul Muni and Anne Baxter in "Angel on My Shoulder." Adolph Deutsch directs the music, Bill Hampton makes the adaptation and Bernard Dudley calls the sponsor's shots . . . Floyd Holm moved here by Compton to assist Murray Bolen on the firm's Hollywood shows . . . Bill Robson back from NY to produce the CBS promotional program . . . Andy Russell must rate big with G. W. Hill. He gets an orchestra backup of 35 men and line charges paid for his insert on the Hit Parade while making a picture . . . Jack Stone, who produced "Rhapsody in Rhythm" as summer stint for Lennen & Mitchell, has left the agency with future plans indefinite.

Joe Cotten joins Cresta Blanca's "Hollywood Players" as eighth member of the stock company of stars . . . Reports of George Washington Hill's serious illnesses have been both confirmed and denied. He left the office last May and is still put in his Canadian retreat . . . Jimmy Saphier has taken on a new client—Jimmy Roosevelt, commentator . . . Will someone who has run the century in 10 seconds or less help a little lady in distress? On Sept. 29 Janet Waldo signs off "Corliss Archer" at 5:30 in a Columbia Square studio and is due at the Vine St. Playhouse at 5:30 for the Eddie Bracken Show . . . George Stellman, former radio head for Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample in Chicago, joined the Hollywood agency of William Kester & Co. . . . Tommy Cook won the audition as replacement for Scotty Beckett on "Life of Riley."

EDWARDS TRUTH SHOW RETURNS ZANY AS EVER

Maddest and gayest of the zany tribe, Ralph Edwards, winner of last season's Variety award for creative showmanship, put his best gags forward last bath night and the aylum was jumpin'. It marked start of the eighth 39'er for "Truth or Consequences" and it may yet out-run "Abie's Irish Rose." Edwards and his able corps of dream men, who invent those sillies that make chumps out of otherwise normal folks, never seem to run dry and just to prove it they have at least a dozen situations for each broadcast where only four or five can be used.

This season's format — on this show who cares, format schtormat —is no different from what it has been since Edwards conceived the idea of making ump-chays work for him (at not even AFRA minimum) just to satisfy their fancy-free somminess. It's a solid American trait and Edwards is making it pay rich dividends.

GRAND RUSH

For instance, when he asks for a show of hands among volunteers in the studio audience you'd think he was asking, "who wants a dozen pairs of noylons or a case of Scotch?" They just know they're going to get the sucker treatment but they want to show off.

"T or C" can never be better than its contestants, so that's where Edwards really has to show discerning judgment in the selection of his stooges. One of the fastest thinkers and talkers in the business (and don't choose him in a memory test) he can't rise above bad casting.

One of the few shows holding over a "war feature," he brought on a paralyzed vet for the dramatic enactment of the battle that cost him use of his legs. He played the part of himself without knowing it for the only sombre note of the evening's tour de farce. Hit Parade's Joan Edwards also played herself in trying to buy one of her own recordings from a sleepy tourist who knew her not from Eve.

WILCOX HAZED

Trick word to be formed from the letters in "roast mules" baffled the volunteers and if you can figure it out and get on Saturday's show you'll have $200 more in your kick than you have now. Harlow Wilcox was hazed into the Order of Wacks by being slipped a phony commercial that didn't make sense and which he fumbled through on the eastern broadcast. Rarely does he fluff a line and that puts him in true character for this season of insanities, the plant by Murray Bolen being strictly the McCoy.

SNOOKS OPENER HAS PLUGS BUT SHY ON SCRIPT

Baby Snooks will never make her grades on this one. Burdened by a weak script that curtailed her talents to almost a childish giggle and groping under a peak load of commercial come-on, it proved too much for even such a seasoned trouper as Fanny Brice to successfully combat. After the first 10 minutes one was set to wondering whether a trespass was being committed on some child's playroom. That this is adult fare is questionable if the first show is to be the season pattern.

Complications, the basic premise of any farcing by Snooks and Hanley Stafford, were for the most part forced and failed to generate enthusiasm even among the studio sitters, which makes the home reception all the more dubious. Not even Snooks can project a grimacing slight laugh. The theme, topical enough, had to do with the first days of school but the substance was too brittle to keep the by-play spirited. It puts too much of a strain on the credulity of listeners, even in make-believe, to imagine a child of Snooks' tender years writing a book with such phrasing as "hot, burning kisses on her throat." Why have her write a book at all?

Nor was the opening show without its other faults. The routining was bad, the timing off, due, no doubt, to loss of spread and the plugs broke in too often. Snooks was given a Jello jingle to sing at the signoff, then into a hitch for La France bluing, and without a station break direct into a spiel for Sanka on the "Thin Man," which followed. Twice Harlow Wilcox broke into the continuity with hefty commercials and if the client didn't use up more than his allotted 10 per cent—or so it seemed — then our chronometer is haywire. (Early show for the east was caught).

It was an unhappy getaway for the "Happy Higginses" and it's going to need a lot of work to make it jell like the Jello it espouses. Those in charge must make the decision: can Snooks and Daddy carry the show all by themselves? It was far from proven on the first exposure.

Mayor Opens Third Term

"Mayor of the Town" started h third term for Noxzema in pret good form on CBS Saturday nigh with the thesping shining throug one of those standard start-of-seaso scripts that insist on getting thei characters back from their vacation Sole verbiage-tossers—Lionel Barrymore as the mayor, Agnes Moorehea as "Marilly" and Conrad Binyon a "Butch"—got the old sedan over th bumps from Lake Mishawaukee t Springdale in fine shape, however, and that goes especially for Miss Moorehead, who knows more about the art of understatement than a dozen other ether emoters. Barrymore was in his usual top form, too, but the best comedy lines were handed Miss Moorehead and she made the most of 'em.

Script by Charles Tazewell (Leonard St. Clair will alternate with him, incidentally) sustained its comedy format pretty well for the 25 minutes, having to do with the horrors of night driving with a femme at the wheel. Best lines came when Miss Moorehead, the mayor and Binyon drew up their wills after she mistook a 12-inch curb for the edge of a precipice.

If it was true, by the way, that Miss M. was driving without a road map, it was also obvious that she was driving without a car, because there were no rattles, and likewise no rain effects, despite their moans that it was pouring, outside of one lonely thunderclap. Or maybe somebody thought Barrymore's wheezings would suffice.

IR'S NEW PSYCHIC RAMA JUST MYSTERY

The "Spellbound" trend in film lots had to have a counterpart in adio sooner or later, and "Danger-us Dr. Danfield," which bowed on BC for the Knox Co.'s Cystex and endaco pills yesterday afternoon, s the airer that points the way.

Dr. Dan Danfield, as played in he "LaMonte Crampton Manner," y Marshall Dunne, is the guy who lears up murder mysteries in a hur-y because of his deep knowledge of the working of the human mind. His first assignment from scripter Richard Winkinson devolved at finding out how Heist guy Muggs Malerno, owner of the Marble Fawn nitery, got bumped off.

The welfare of the U.S. Senate was at stake, inasmuch as a senator's daughter was involved and blackmail was in the air, but Danfield straightens things out and saves the country by using a little psychology to trap the murderer, another gangster who stood to benefit tremendously by Muggs' demise.

Action and direction were adequate to the script, which was no world beater, with Dunne, and Jo Anne Johnson as his girl Friday, "Rusty Fairfax," standouts in the thesping department.

Psychiatric twist or not, however, it's just another mystery show, judging from the initial effort.
